Britt, who said he was an unemployed bookkeeper and accountant and once drove dirt track auto races, was spotted by state police detective H. Eugene Cox six miles north of Solsberry.

Cox radioed ahead and Britt was inercepted by trooper James O. Smith on Ind. 43 six miles south of Solsberry.

Loot Recovered

Although armed, Britt offered no resisance. Beside him on the seat was a black zipper bag containing $3,959.73—the entire loot—authorities said. They said he also admitted stealing the car.

Ironically, he bank's directors voted earlier this week to install a new hold-up alarm system.

Last Feb. 25, the bank was robbed of $4,000 and the case still is unsolved. "The two hold-ups are very similar," one officer said.

Britt also was being questioned in connection with the July 1 hold-up of the Henryville branch of the New Washington State Bank which netted bandits about $13,000.

However, authorities said Britt denied any other bank hold-up. He said he picked on the Paragon bank believing it was a "soft touch."

Heat Ends All-Stars' 'Daily-Double' Drill

CHICAGO (UP)— Beginning today the College All-Stars will hold only one workout daily until they meet the champion Cleveland Browns, August 12.

Curly Lambeau, who is coaching the collegians, said he plans one workout each day because "there just won't be any football team left by next Friday unless we ease up." The All-Stars had been working out twice daily. Thursday's drill was cancelled because of the heat.

No License

BRISTO, R.I. (UP)—Volunteer fireman Samuel A. Mott, 68, lost his long-time job as driver of the Bristol community fire truck when city officials found he didn't have a driver's license.

Unusual Musical Act Here Old Settlers Week

GREGORY and CHERIE can challenge any musical act for versatility. In rapid succession and with a showmanly touch this duo plays beautiful tunes on a vacuum sweeper, auto pump, a saw, a rubber glove, a theremin, fiddle and bagpipes.

The entire act is set in a frame of comedy and clicks heavily with the audience. The musical duo will be in Columbia City during the Old Settlers and Legion Festival August 11 through the 13.

Most All Of Indiana's Major Cities Will Have Superhighway At Doorstep In 20 Years

By KEITH L. MARTIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Most all of Indiana's major cities will have a superhighway at their doorstep within the next 20 years, the director of the State Toll Road Commission predicts.

Albert J. Wedeking showed the United Press a heretofore secret map for use with this series of articles on his role as coordinator of the multi-million-dollar toll road program.

By 1975, Wedeking said, Indiana will need a system of "high-powered" roads to carry the multiplying number of motor vehicles between such cities as Gary, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Evansville, Vincennes, Louisville and Cincinnati.

They conceivably will be privately-financed toll roads, unless the state raises tax dollars to build them.

Six Roads Planned

Wedeking's "high-powered" highway speculation includes, of course, the 280 million dollar east-west toll road now being built across the northern part of Indiana and the 260 million dollar north-south turnpike planned from Lake County to a point east of Indianapolis.

In addition, Wedeking anticipates superhighways between:

Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, and thence to Detroit.

Indianapolis and Louisville.

Evansville and Terre Haute.

Cincinnati and Terre Haute, and thence to St. Louis.

The latter previously was envisioned as dipping southward from Cincinnati and crossing into Illinois near Vincennes. As now projected, it would arc northward just south of Indianapolis.

This 20-year turnpike plan also would include a horseshoe-shaped toll road running southward around both sides of Indianapolis from a junction of the Lake County-Indianapolis and Fort Wayne-Indianapolis roads north of the capital city.

Each section of the "horseshoe" would intersect the Cincinnati-Terre Haute arc, thereby connecting all the proposed "high-powered" roads.

Wedeking said by utilizing a combination of turnpikes, motorists then could drive 328 toll road miles between Evansville in southwestern Indiana and Angola in northeastern Indiana as compared to 321 miles on conventional highways.

Hammond - Evansville mileage would be 315 toll and 273 conventional, with the turnpike eliminating a host of western Indiana curves.

This sort of "high-powered" planning and Wedeking's $25,000-a-year salary have subjected him to frequent quips. One newspaper columnist tagged him "Jackpot," partially because of his salary and the plush patronage jobs he can pass around.

Wedeking, who is just 5½ inches over 6 feet and "weighs too much" (160), takes it in stride. A harbinger of jokes, he likes to tell how his five-year-old grandson greeted him recently in South America.

Not with "Hi, Grandpa." But with "Hello, Jackpot."

the Geneva conference of his readiness to broaden his own unprecedented offer to exchange military blueprints and aerial photo facilities with the Soviet Union. He made the statement at his news conference a short time after Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin called the Presidents proposal not as realistic as the Soviet one.

Mr. Eisenhower said he had told Bulganin, during private chats at Geneva, that the United States would be willing to add Russia's May 10, 1955, inspection system proposal to his own plan. ¼ ¼

The Russian plan would set up an international control agency to check against dangerous concentration of troops and supplies at big ports railway junctions, roads and airports.

"Let's Take Them Both"

"Speaking informally at Geneva, I said if they trusted that kind of an inspection system it was all right with us—we would adopt both," the President said, "and I proposed, let's take them both."

The President's words prompted some optimism that the Russians still might agree to wed the two proposals despite Bulganin's statement that the "effectiveness' of the President's proposal on blueprints and photos "would not be great."

"I don't understand that the Premier (Bulganin) has closed the door, and I merely say we are ready to accept and examine any kind of system that looks fair to us and to both sides," Mr. Eisenhower said.

Experts on disarmament gave this picture of how the president came to propose combining the two inspection systems:

At the Geneva conference, Mr. Eisenhower said arms control should be considered by seeking "dependable ways to supervise and inspect military establishments so that there can be no frightful surprises, whether by sudden attack or by secret violation of agreed restrictions." He followed this up by his proposal for swapping military blueprints and exchanging aerial photo faciliities

Plan Not tA Complete One

The President told the Russian leaders privately, that the United States was seriously interested in reaching an understanding in the inspection - disarmament field with the Soviet Union. He told the Russians that he had assigned Harold E. Stassen, his disarmament adviser, full time to the hunt for new proposals that would work to the mutual benefit of all

Mr. Eisenhower emphasized to the Russians that his plan was not a complete one but only a first step. He said he would so regard the Russian plan. Once the two natitons had combined their plans then they could add to them as the need arose. As the inspection pyramid grew, control of arms would become closer.

Officials said the President, Stassen and others working on disarmament could not accept the Russian proposal alone. They pointed out anew that it had failed in Korea where the Communists are violating arms control agreements because of the slow-moving ground inspection machinery. But add the airplane to it, they said, and progress would be made.

Happier Future For Persons With Facial Blemishes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UP) — A happier future and improved mental well-being for persons with severe facial blemishes was predicted today by Dr. Joseph J. Eller, New York City dermatologist.

Eller demonstrated an improved method of removal of acne scars and other skin defects by high first International Congress of Plastic Surgery meeting here.

Eller said "complete removal of facial disfigurrements resulting from acne, smallpox, accidents or ttattoo marks can now be assured."

He said that for the different blemishes different types of rotary abrasives are used, "including heatless stones, steel burrs, steel wire brushes, and diamond and ruby fraises (tools) powered by high speed rotary motors."

Iron Age Says Steel Industry Has Problem

A Runaway Scrap Market

NEW YORK (UP)—Iron Age said today the already-harried steel industry is faced with another knotty problem — "a runaway scrap market."

Scrap prices have rocketed to near - record levels, the metalworking weekly said, giving the industry and Washington "a bad case of jitters."

On top of this the industry is juggling two other hot potatoes: disgruntled customers and the necessity to take facilities out of production for much - needed repairs.

"The crisis in scrap" — as the trade journal described it — had top buyers and sellers of scrap and administration officials huddling in Washington this week to wrestle with the problem.

"It will be a tough nut to crack" the magainze predicted.

Iron Age said discussions will center around controls of some kind to further restrict scrap exports — a move designed to ease the domestic supply problem.

"And it will cause a big rhubarb between buyers and sellers," the magazine said. "It will also involve our allies and their need for scrap.

"Everybody involved will have to read softly. Because of scrap is controlled, why not control other steel.

Meanwhile, Iron Age said, there are more dissatisfied steel consumers now than there were during the tight market of 1953.

"Everyone has the feeling he's being shortchanged. Some customers are facing the prospect of slowing their production lines if they don't get relief in a hurry.

"And the outlook for some of them is not too encouraging."

The trade journal said the maintenance problem has mushroomed into something approaching major proportions.

"Blast furnaces, open hearths and rolling mills are showing the effect of long months of wear and tear," it revealed. "The mortality on open hearths is reflected in the failure of mills to meet production schedules."

Output this week is scheduled at 4 per cent of capacity, up two points from last week.

Iron Age noted demand continues to exceed capacity at most mills. Backlogs are growing and delivery promises are weeks behind schedule.

"A carry - over from fourth quarter into 1956 is a certainty," it predicted.

Bulganin Says He Has Not Slammed Door

On President Eisenhower's Proposal

By KENNETH BRODNEY
United Press Staff correspondent

MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin told the Russian parliament (Supreme Soviet) today that he has not slammed the door on President Eisenhower's proposal for mutual military inspections in the interest of peace.

He told the final session of the two-day parliamentary session that Russia is prepared to examine the American chief executive's plan, even though, as Bulganin said Thursday, he feels it could have "no great, real effectiveness."

In his opening speech to the parliament Thursday Bulganin said Mr. Eisenhower's plan for a mutual exchange of military and arms secrets and mutual aerial reconnissance was unworkble.

Today the soviet premier charged that certain newspapers, presumably Western, had "erroneously" drawn the conclusion that this meant the Soviet Union would flatly to even consider the American proposal.

He elaborated today in a final speech to the Supreme Soviet in the Kremlin, after the top Russian legislative body had voted unanimous approval of the acttions of the Soviet delegation at the Big Four summit conference at Geneva.

Bulganin said that "contrary to the erroneous reports" of Soviet rejection of the Eisenhower plan, the Soviet Union would examine the President's proposals "with all appropriate seriousness.'

Then, in a precedent-shattering move outside the Supreme Soviet, Bulganin invited all heads of diplomatic missions in Moscow to his summer villa at Semenovka, in Moscows suburbs, next Sunday, for a day in the country.

The invitation was the first of its kind ever issued to diplomats here by a Soviet government head.

Bulganin said a lunch, which undoubtedly would be lavish, will be served, followed by swimming, boating and fishing.

Not only the ambassadors and ministers but their wives and children were invited.

You Can Blame Your Ancestors For Your Gall Stones

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Medical science has had its first clear proof that people can blame their ancestors for stones in their gall bladders.

Who or what to blame for those stones has been an unanswered question. Science used to think people who got stones weren't living right, but that plainly wasn't so.

Even the best livers got stones. But could stones — or, rather, a tendency to form stones in the gall bladder — be inherited? It didn't seem likely, yet it was possible.

And so the question rested, scientifically, until Dr. John H. Kenard, senior staff surgeon of the Elliot Hospital in Manchester, N.H., came upon identical twin girls, 17 years old.

Keep in mind that identical twins are nature's own laboratory for demonstrating what is and can be inherited and what can't be inherited. They originate from only one fertilized egg; therefore, their inheritances are identical, which can't be said of any other two persons.

Both Get Stones

Twin girl "A" required Dr. Kennard's surgical attentions for gall bladder stones four months after she became a mother for the first time.

Twin girl "B" had her first baby three months after her sister had hers. Three months afte rdelivery, twin "B" had the very distressing gall stones symptoms and Dr. Kennard operated on her, too.

The doctor was impressed, of course. The question of the inheritability of the tendency to form gall stones has been kicked around for a long time. So he inquired into the twin's ancestry.

He didn't have to look far. Their mother had lost her gall bladder to surgery, after two years of symptoms. It all added up to a neat demonstration which Kennard presented in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Coincidence Not Ruled Out

Coincidence achieves remarkable effects, and so coincidence couldn't be ruled out, thus permitting the argument of why some people get gall stones and some don't, to continue.

Kennard looked through the "literature" on the subject. He found there was "no agreement" on the cause of "this common disease." Several scientists had suggested that some families were predisposed and gall bladder stones had been reported in family groups "on several occasions."

He found only one previous case of gall bladder stones in each of a set of identical twins — a set which was female and 19 years old. But the presence of stones was proven, surgically, in only one. They were presumed to be present in the other twin on the basis of X-rays.

Screen Actors Guild And AFL Go On Strike

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The Screen Actors Guild, AFL, went on strike against producers of television shows at 12:01 a.m. today in a walkout that might affect some of TV's biggest shows.

A three-year contract between the Guild and producers expired July 25.

A spokesman for the Alliance of Television Film Producers and the Association of Motion Picture Producers said further negotiations aimed at settling the dispute probably would not come until "some time next week." He said both sides expected to resume talks, but no date had been set.

Key issue in the walkout is the Guild's demand that actors be paid for second runs of films in which they appear. At present, performers receive payments for the first and third through sixth runs. Shortly before the walkout, TV film producing companies of two top stars, Jane Wyman and Loretta Young, became the third and fourth producers to agree to the AG demand for payment for second runs. The productions are "The Loretta Young Show" and the "Jane Wyman Fireside Theater."

The SAG, which originally demanded full payment of the actors' minimum in the second run, agreed to 75 per cent payment in the four early settlements in the dispute.

If the strike should be long, producers would have the choice of presenting their shows "live" or using re-runs of old shows.

Deaths Of Carmen Miranda, Suzan Ball Fulfill Old Fearful Superstition

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The deaths of bombastic Carmen Miranda and beautiful Suzan Ball within 12 hours fulfilled today the fearful show business superstition that tragedy always strikes in threes.

Friday's swift double deaths, Miss Miranda's by a heart attack and Miss Ball's from lung cancer, made a total of three along with Sunday's death of actor Robert Francis in a plane crash.

Miss Miranda, 41, Portugal-born Brazilian bombshell famed for her sizzling Latin American dancing and singing rhythms and elaborate costumes, died early Friday in her Beverly Hills mansion a few hours after filming a television show with comedian Jimmy Durante. The suddenness of her death staggered Hollywood.

Miss Ball, 21, who lost a leg to cancer and had been fighting death for 18 months, succumbed to the dread disease in a private home Friday afternoon only a week after leaving the nearby City of Hope Hospital. Prior to her death, doctors described her chances of winning her struggle to live as "slim." Her lingering illness and valiant fight against the disease had all of Hollywood battling for her.

Stricken At TV Show

Francis, 25, who achieved stardom for his role as Ensign Willie Keith in the film version of "The Caine Mutiny," was killed with two other persons in the flaming crash of a light private plane at nearby Burbank.

Miss Miranda apparently first was stricken during the filming of the Durante TV show late Thursday night. At one point, she dropped to one knee short of breath. Durante gagged through the break as the cameras rolled, saying "That's okay, Carmy, I'll take that line."

After her death, Durante sadly explained, "I thought she had slipped . . . but she goes ahead with her lines. This is a terrible thing."

The singer-dancer, on the trail back to big-time stardom, returned home from the TV show and danced and sang in her home for a small party of friends.

Capt. J. M. Graham Receives Medal

Capt. John M. Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Graham of route one, Larwill, has been awarded the Korean Chung Mu Medal for meritorious service during the Korean conflict in the battle of "Old Baldy."

The medal was accompanied by a citation signed by Sohn Won-IYL, Korean Minister of National Defense. It read in part:

"..his tactfulness and co-operative spirit contributed to a strengthening of the bonds of harmony and mutual resepct between the armed forces of South Korea and the United States. His outstanding performance of duty materially aided the Republic of Korea in its fight against Communist aggression. By his actions, Capt. John M. Graham brought credit upon himself, the Republic of Korea and the United States Air Force."

Capt. Graham is section commander of Pilot Section I (B-25's) at the Jane Connally Air Force Base, Texas, appointed to that post June 1, of this year.

He first entered service as an aviation machinist in 1942, and later that year he took glider training and was graduated as a staff sergeant. He later entered pilot training and was graduated from the Altus, Oklahoma, Twin Engine School in February, 1944.

After Crew Training he was assigned to the 459th Bomb Group in Italy for combat purposes. On his sixth mission he was shot down over Toulor, France. Three months later he was returned to the United States and his remaining war months were spent as a gunnery mission pilot at Harlingen Air Force Base.

In 1946 Graham was assigned to Lackland Air Force Base as assistant supervisor of training, serving there until his separation from the Air Force in August of 1947. He was recalled to the service at the outbreak of Korean hostilities as Tactical Air Inspector for the 10th Air Force, serving as a mosquito pilot, front line observor and air liaison officer.

His next duty was in this country as Wing Planning and Training officer, at Foster Air Force Base, Texas. In June of 1954, he was assigned to the Jane Connally Air Force Base where he has remained since.

Hurricane Bears Upon Leeward, Virgin Islands

Connie Might Threaten South Atlantic Seaboard

MIAMI (UP)— A giant hurricane bore upon the leeward and Virgin Islands today with 125-mile-per-hour winds that might threaten the South Atlantic seaboard.

The Miami Weather Bureau has cautioned southeastern coastal points as far north as Cape Hatteras, N.C., to watch for possible hurricane warnings and advised against making extended trips in sea craft without radios.

Weather forecasters said the hurricane, code-named "Connie" apparently would gain further intensity and might ultimately endanger some part of the U.S. mainland nearly 1,500 miles away.

Air Force and Navy Hurricane Hunter planes from Florida bases scouted the "dangerous" tempest during the morning.

Moving West-Northwest

The Weather Bureau at San Juan, P.R., in an advisory at midnight EDT, estimated the hurricane was located (18.8 north, 60.2 west) about 420 miles to the east, moving west-northwest at 12 to 14 miles per hour.

"Winds should reach full hurricane force in the northern leewards early this morning and in the Virgin Islands this afternoon," the advisory said. "All interests are urged to take precautiosn."

Fire Destroys Barn On Lowell Yohe Farm

Loss To Equipment, Building Estimated At $18,000, Animals Saved

Fire which broke out about 8:30 a.m. today completely destroyed the barn on the Lowell Yohe Farm, located about 1½ miles south of South Whitley on State Road 5.

The fire of undetermined cause started in stacks of chopped straw at the east end of the barn. It quickly spread through the remainder of the building which housed additional straw and hay.

Also destroyed by the blaze was a number of pieces of farm equipment housed in the barn. Loss of the barn and equipment would probably exceed $18,000, Yohe estimated.

No farm animals were damaged or killed in the fire, although four calves were inside when the fire broke out. The animals were quickly herded outside to a nearby lot before the fire had spread throughout the building. Another calf in a building to the front side of the barn was also removed when the fire started.

A milking parlor and milk storage house connected to the barn was also extensively damaged when the fire spread to it. Firemen of the Cleveland and Four Townships department who went to the scene, were able to control th efire in the milk house to prevent it from overtaking the building. Blazing embers also were blown by wind near the Yohe's residence and several other farm buildings, but firemen were able to prevent them from

Harley Pettit Hurt Slightly When Struck Crossing Street

Harley Pettit, 18, 606 East Ellsworth street, suffered abrasions of the head and face and bruises of the left knee and right arm when he was struck by a car while crossing Main street just south of the Van Buren street intersection at about 3:55 p.m. Friday.

Pettit, who is home on leave from the navy, was crossing the west side of the street to close his car windows when a southbound automobile hit him. The car was driven by Robert Smith, R. 2, who stopped the vehicle a short distance away.

It had started to rain shortly before the accident. Pettit was in Meyers and Stickler Drug Store visiting with his mother, Mrs. Gran M. Knight, before he started across the street. Mrs. Knight is employed at the store.

According to Harry Frumm of the city police, Pettit was first thrown against a parked car before landing on his right side on the pavement.

Pettit was taken to Memorial hospital in a Hollingsworth ambulance.

Walter To Ask Attorney General To Cite Group

As Subversive; Says 'Rosenberg' Committee A 'Front'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee said today he will ask the attorney general to list the national "Rosenberg" committee as subversive.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) said testimony by 21 witnesses at a four-day subcommittee hearing proved the Communists "exploited" the trial and execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the atomic spies.

He contended throughout the hearings that the National Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case was set up by Communists as a "front" to raise propaganda charges in an attempt to discredit the United States and raise funds for their own use.

He told newsmen he will ask Atty Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., to add the group to his list of subversive organizations.

Four former FBI undercover agents were among the parade of witnesses before the subcommitte.

They contended that Communists were "very active" in fund-raising and propaganda drives on behalf of the Rosenbergs in Boston, Chicago, Detroit, and eastern Pennsylvania. The operations, they said, seemed to follow a fixed pattern of the national commitee.

All but one of the other 17 witnesses— all identified as having had a hand in the campaign— refused on the ground of possible self-incrimination to say if they were Communists. The lone exception was Mrs. Mildren Rothenberg of Cleveland. She wasn't asked.

With three other exceptions, Mrs. Rothenberg and the rest also balked on the same grounds at saying if they had taken part in the Rosenberg campaign.

Novelist David Alman, and his wife, Emily, who now live on a farm near Englishtown, N.J., readily admitted they once were the national committee's executive secretary and treasurer. But they ducked the Communist question, too, and refused to talk about any of their associates.

Model Plane Meet At Indianapolis Scheduled August 14

Model Plane enthusiasts from most of the 48 states are expected to gather at Stout Field, Indianapolis, Sunday, August 14, to participate in the Ninth Annual Midwestern States Model Airplane at championship. Competition will get underway at 9 a.m.

More than $3,500 in prizes will attract junior, senior, and open entries in 24 free flight, control line, and radio control events.

More than 500 contestants, representing 22 states, took part in the 1954 meet at Stout Field. This year's entry list "should top all previous totals," according to Roland C. Rhein, director.

As added attractions, the 1955 meet will also feature a spectacular air show. Last year, 60,000 spectators watched jet speed dashes over the field, and formation flying by four P-51 Mustangs of the Indiana Air National Guard.

Contestants are urged to register early for the meet. Entries should b esubmitted by August 10 to A. L. Schrader, Promotion Department, The Star, 307 N. Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis.

Mr. Smitley, father of the child, is engaged in farming.

Friends Rally To The Support Of Midshipman

Refused Commission Because Mother Once Was Communist

NEW YORK (UP) —Congressmen and classmates rallied today to the support of a brilliant young midshipman who was refused a naval reserve commission because his mother once was a "kaffee-klatsch" Communist.

Then the promising young graduate, second highest student in a class of 67, clenched his fists and bit his lip as the rest of the cadets gleefully followed the tradition of tossing their caps in their air.

Learns Graduation Eve

Landy found out on the eve of his graduation that he would not be given a commission because a security check had disclosed that his mother, Mrs. Deborah Landy, of Bradley Beach, N.J., once attended some Communist meetings and subscribed to the "Daily Worker."

Reaction to the cadet's plight was immediate and far reaching. Landy's classmates circulated a petition protesting the decision to deny him a commission and characterizing him as a "fine classmate and a loyal American."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), asked the Navy for a full report on the case. Smith's office informed Landy Friday night that Albert Pratt, assistant secretary of the Navy, had assured the senator that the Navy would "be glad" to reconsider Landy's application for a commission.

"Full Report" Demanded

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY), demanded a "full report" on the Navy action which he termed "illogical, unjust and unjustifiable."

Mrs. Landy, a widow, said she "never intended to bring about a revolution" and "never found Communism to be a conspiracy. Out here in this rural area it was more of a kaffee-klatsch." She said she dropped her Communist activities at the insistence of Eugene and her two other sons.

Landy, who said he has "signed four or five loyalty oaths," sails tonight as an able bodied seaman aboard an oil tanker, the Texas Sun, on a 30-day trip to Texas. He said he needs the pay to enter Yale Law School this fall on a scholarship to study admiralty law.

Charles Cochran To Begin Pastorate At Tunker In September

Charles Cochran will begin his pastorate at the Sugar Creek Church of the Brethren at Tunker, September first. He will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Richard Knarr, who has served as pastor of the church since December 1948.

Mr. Knarr will work part time with District Pulpit Supply of the Church of the Brethren. Mr. Cochran is 29 years old and was graduated from high school at Anderson in 1946 and has served two years in the United States Navy.

He attended Anderson college, Bethany Biblical Training School in Chicago and is planning to enroll for the second year in Manchester college. Mr. Cochran is married.

State Payroll Expands During Craig's Term

About One-Third; Payrolls Compared

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana's state payroll has expanded about one-third during Governor Craig's administration.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, state employes were paid $48,895,406.24. That compares to a payroll of $30,561,142.52 during the 1951-52 fiscal year, the last full year under former Gov. Henry Schricker.

The figures are not truly comparable, however, because about 2,000 highway maintenance personnel were not carried on the statewide payroll account until last Jan. 1.

Making allowances for that, the figures from the State Budget Department and the auditor's staff indicate the payroll increased about 11 million dollars since mid-1952.

Institution Rolls Up

Most of the increase can be attributed to the hiring of more personnel, principally in state mental institutions, and to cost-of-living pay boosts granted by the General Assembly.

There now are 16,861 persons on the state payroll as compared to 14,301 under Governor Schricker. The number of institutional employes has increased steadily—from 4,351 in mid-1952 to 5,513 in mid-1953, 6,567 in mid-1954 and 7,058 in mid-1955.

But the number of departmental employes is lower than it was under Schricker. The yearly total has fluctuated and sets no trend. There were 9,950 departmental workers in mid-1952, 9,352 in mid-1953, 10,393 in mid-1954 and 9,803 currently.

The increase in institutional staff members was one of Craig's campaign pledges, for he campaigned about inadequate hospital staffs and promised to expand the mental health program.

Most Get $70 More

Cost-of-living allowances granted by legislators have added $70 per month to most employes' paychecks since the start of the 1951-52 fiscal year, which coupled with expanded institutional staffs accounts for most of the payroll increase.

Craig has approved an increase in many administrative salaries in the belief Indiana must pay better salaries to attract capable persons and compete with other businesses for them.

In the governor's office, Craig has doubled the number of secretaries there were under Schricker and has increased their salaries and has an administrative assistant and executive secretary who together draw more than three times the salary of one man who did the same work for Schricker.

Mrs. Leo Maley, Jr., Badly Injured Late Friday Afternoon

Mrs. Leo C. Maley, Jr., 24, Union township, was severely injured at 4:30 Friday afternoon when she accidently was caught in a power mower on a farm tractor. Mrs. Maley was rushed to Whitley County Hospital and later transferred in the J. A. DeMoney ambulance to the Lutheran hospital, where a specialist met the ambulance.

Mrs. Maley's right leg was badly cut at the ankle. Tendons were severed an dthe bone badly injured. Her foot was placed in a cast. Mrs. Maley had been working the garden and Mr. Maley was mowing weeds when she later took a cold drink to her husband.

Not seeing his wife, Mr. Maley turned the tractor and the mower accidentally caught Mrs. Maley. She was resting as comfortably as possible Saturday morning.

Mrs. Maley is the former Mary Ann Jacobs of Chicago, and the mother of two ohildren.

Chorus To Practice

The Whitley County Home Demonstration chorus will practice Monday afternoon at 1:30 at the REMC Home.

Second Child Born To The Richard Parkers

Their second child, a son, was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Parker, of 412 Wallace avenue. Named William Lee, the baby weighed 6 pounds 10¼ ounces at birth at the Whitley County hospital.

The mother was Frances Deeter before her marriage. The couple also have a daughter.

Bells And Sirens Break Stillness Of Hiroshima

Hatoyama Hopes Atomic Energy Will Be Used For Man's Welfare

HIROSHIMA, Japan (UP) — Sirens and church bells broke the stillness of Hiroshima at 8:15 a.m. today, ten years to the minute since the city vanished in one blinding, terrible explosion.

The world's first city to feel the horrifying power of the atomic bomb observed the anniversary today with prayers and an appeal by Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama to scientists to make atomic power work for the welfare of mankind.

Ten thousand Japanese, joined by a sprinkling of foreigners from both sides of the Iron Curtain, pleaded earnestly for "no more Hiroshimas" at annual memorial rites held by the city in front of the white memorial cenotaph at the blast center.

"Ten years have already passed since that tragic atom bomb was dropped on this land," Hatoyama told the group. "We fixed as Japan's national objective, the construction of a cultural nation based on democracy with the aim of a permanent world peace, and have advanced step by step toward that goal . . .

"It is said the study of atomic energy in the world today has advanced several stages. We look forward to the day when it will not be a tool to destroy mankind and civilization but employed for the welfare of mankind."

The half hour ceremony ended when 500 "peace doves" were released over the white cenotaph to flutter into the sky.

The bomb which wiped out Hiroshima in a flash killed 91,233 persons, inflicted serious injuries to 9,428 and injured another 27,997.

Hiroshima, with a population of 306,545, had been virtually erased from the globe. Her people then were too stunned to hate the B29 bombers that had brought mass death from a blue sky.

Suggests U.S., Peiping Discuss Joint Pledge

To Refrain From Using Force

TOKYO (UP) — Communist China today rejected any thought of a cease fire with the Nationalists but suggested the United States and Peiping governments get together and discuss a joint pledge to refrain from using force.

The broadcast was in answer to a press conference statement Tuesday by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that the path toward broad negotiations would be opened if the Peiping regime would renounce the use of military force.

Red China's position was set forth in an editorial in the official newspaper Peiping People's Daily broadcast by Peiping Radio. It again suggested a SinoAmerican conference for "easing and eliminating tension in the Formosa area and said since the United States and Communist China are not at war "there is no questtion of a cease fire between China and the United States."

"Furthermore, China has already indicated that the central government is willing to negotiate with responsibile local authorities of Taiwan (apparently not referring to the Chiang Kai-Shek government) on concrete steps for the liberation of Taiwan," Peiping said.

"Therefore, this question cannot be a topic of discussion at the SinoAmerican talks . . .'

Not Much Damage Caused By Fire At Henrichsen Home

Although city firemen were summoned to the R. W. Henrichsen home, 306 South Line street, at about 3:50 p.m. Friday, scarcely any damage was done.

Henrichsen told firemen that he saw a great deal of smoke in the basement. The smoke was attributed to a short caused by defective wiring in a washing machine.

Dazed Survivors Of Hiroshima A-Bombing Search For Their Relatives August 6, 1945

TOKYO (UP) —The dazed survivors of the Hiroshima A-bombing who picked their way through splintered houses looking for relatives on Aug. 6, 1945, did not know what had killed nearly half the city's population.

From one B2, the Enola Gay, came a single blast so strong it obliterated four square miles of houses and buildings in a split second.

Some Japanese believed that "Mr. B," as they had come to call the feared B2s, had sprayed the city with gasoline and then ignited it.

Others suggested the plane spewed out fine magnesium powder, which ignited instantaneously when it hit electric power lines.

Weeks later, word filtered through the strict Allied occupation censorship that Hiroshima and, three days later, Nagasaki had been struck with the energy of split atoms.

Original Bomb Child

The Japanese named it "Genshi Bakudan"—"Original Child Bomb" because its force came from the original matter of all the earth—but few protested against its use.

"We would have used the atom bomb if we had it," a Japanese newsman said.

"I went to Hiroshima two weeks after the bomb. There was no resentment. They were glad the war was over."

People pinned under wreckage in the path of fires shouted "banzai" to the emperor before they were burned to death.

Young school girls sang the Japanese national anthem before they perished.

But no "banzais" were shouted last September 23rd when Japanese fisherman Aikichi Kuboyama died after exposure to radioactive dust from a U.S. hydrogen weapon test on Bikini.

CLINTON, N.Y. —(UP) — An $18,000 scholarship fund has been established at Hamilton College for undergraduates preparing for medical careers. The fund was set up with a gift from the Lillia Babbit Hyde Foundation of New York City, and the scholarship will be offered in recognition of the special needs of undergraduate medical students for financial aid.

153 And 44 Are Your Want Ad Numbers

Wake-Up Service Man Doesn't Need His Own Service – Wife Shakes Him

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(UP) —The late Robert Benchley once described the Pullman porter who wakes up the passengers as a man who finds humanity at its worst. Benjamin Watts says he is inclined to agree and Watts ought to know. Every day he telephones hundreds of customers of his wake-up service.

The service was born in 1942 when Watts, a retired contractor, learned that clock insides were being diverted to war material and there was an alarm clock shortage. When the war ended, clocks again became plentiful, but the wake-up service still is booming.

After 13 years of sleeping five hours a night (the service operates from 3 a.m. to 10 p.m.) and waking he doesn't know how many thousands of persons, Watts still finds his work interesting.

He has all sorts of professions represented on his call-up list—railroad men, milkmen, paper carriers, businessmen on convention, doctors and people taking pills. He runs across some funny cases.

One man, Watts recalls, asked him to call members of his club and urge them to vote for him for president. Watts wouldn't do that, but he does take orders to remind people to attend a club meeting or make a luncheon reservation.

He has learned to recognize the parctical jokers and seldom is taken in by them. One giveaway—they always ask for an extremely early call. One man he remembers in particular paid in advance for a month of early morning calls. It took only one curt phone conversation to conclude that the callee was a jokester's victim, Watts said.

Many of Watts' customers are alarm clock owners who like to be on the safe side. And for some reason, he said, phones will wake some people who snooze through a ringing clock.

He has quite a listing for people who want a second call, usually about 15 minutes later, just to make sure. They get a double charge. Service is $1.25 monthly or a dime a call.

Most of his customers are pleasant, Watts said, although he hears a lot of bitter remarks about stumbling over something groping to the phone. Some sleepers do become abusive toward Watts or his operator. Persistent grouchiness gets them dropped from the service.

The business' biggest problem is the new customer. Watts said it sometimes takes several minutes to remind a new client that he asked for the call.

Calls require from a few seconds to two or three minutes. Long time customers—some of them have been awakened by Watts since the service was begun—respond quickest.

Watts lost one customer whose dog finally became trained to bark at five a.m.

His rush period is between 5 a.m. and 7 a.m. Watts said he usually awakens automatically at 3 a.m., but if he oversleeps his wife shakes him. He doesn't know how she manages to wake up.

Sweet Corn Is Best Buy Now

LAFAYETTE — Sweet corn supplies are plentiful in the midwest, according to Joe Vandemark, produce marketing specialist at Purdue University. Heavier supplies have lowered retail prices, and Vandemark advises Hoosier homemakers to take advantage of the best buy on the produce market this week.

Reasons for the current price slump, Vandemark explained, were caused by an early maturing of the local crop of corn at a time when a large quantity of shipped in corn was on the market or on the way, a prolonged spell of hot weather causing different plantings to mature close together, and a reluctance on the part of many homemakers for heating up kitchens by cooking corn.

Vandemark suggests that the kernels of high quality roasting ears should be bright, plump, full of milky juice, and light to medium yellow in color. If the roasting ears are in husks, the husks should be dark green in color, fresh looking, and tightly wound about the tip of the ear. Regardless, with or without husks, the corn must be displayed in a cold case, or on ice, to maintain sweetness and high quality flavor.

Night Is Time To Decide On A House

CHICAGO —(UP)— "Before you buy that dream house, go back and look at every room and closet after dark."

That was the advise issued by the American Home Lighting Institute which said that lighting is the most neglected feature in the average home building and home furnishing plan.

A recent survey showed that only $32.14 worth of light fixtures is in the average home though a minimum of $200 is required, the institute said. It offered this six-point check list for prospective home buyers:

1. Make sure there is at least one ceiling fixture in every room, closet and hall.
2. Look for valance or cornice lighting installations over the drapery window.
3. Make certain living and dining room walls are fully lighted.
4. Check kitchen lighting to make sure there is an overhead fixture as well as specific lights for the sink and other work areas.
5. Make sure that there is a ceiling fixture plus lights on both sides of the mirror in the bathroom.
6. Check that all stairway, entrances and garage doors are lighted as a protection against dangerous accidents and robberies.

Americans Increase Eating Of Proteins

ITHACA, N. Y.—(UP)—Americans are eating more and more proteins, Prof. Frank A. Pearson, Cornell agricultural economist, reports.

Increased consumption of protein foods is "the most striking change in the dietary habits of Americans north of the Rio Grande, including Canada," Pearson says.

In the 1920's and 30's proteins made up little more than one-third of the total pounds of food consumed, Pearson says. By the 1950's this increased to about 40 per cent.

He says that in 1950-53, the per capita consumption of total proteins was 620 pounds.

This change in eating habits means change in the housewife's buying habits. It has been at the expense of fruits, cereals, bakery products, potatoes and other vegetables, Pearson notes.

Leading the protein expansion is the poultry industry. Peasson says white meat and egg usage have increased about 60 and 35 per cent respectively since before World War Two. Fresh whole milk consumption ranked third, and was followed closely by red meats —both increasing about 10 per cent.

Pearson says this dietary shift has developed not only into "vigerous competition" between proteins and carbohydrates but also what "mith be called a civil war" among the protein food groups themselves.

Poultry, he says, has been outstanding in the protein race for the last 15 years, while red meats have lost position.

DAREDEVIL—Under protective cover of firemen's spray, an unidentified truck driver enters the cab of a loaded gasoline tandem truck to drive it away from its burning companion. The spectacular fire, which consumed 7210 gallons of gasoline, occurred when the second gasoline carrier of the tandem rig overturned after a tire blowout. The accident came just after the truck had turned onto a bridge over Cleveland's South Side Willow Freeway. The morning rush-hour traffic wound up in a mammoth jam. The trucks' two drivers escaped without injury.

Don't Be Surprised If You See Scene From Gay Nineties

HUNTINGTON (UP) — Don't be surprised if you happen along a country road hereabouts sometime and see a farming scene from the Gay Nineties.

Huntington County is considered quite progressive agriculturally. But at least one farmer prefers the steam engine of the early 1900s to modern gasoline engines for operating farm machinery.

Eiffel Plasterer is among the growing group of hobbyists who tinker with steam-powered farm machinery. Plasterer goes a step farther than most. He uses steam power for farm work.

Thresh 14 Acres

Only last week, Plasterer and 12 other farmers held and old-fashioned threshing party. Using a 1918 Case steam engine, he fired up with coal until the black smoke and soot filled the air. Then the ancient rig threshed about 14 acres of wheat.

"Steam power is better and cheaper for certain tasks," Plasterer said, "especially heavy pulling."

He has used a steam engine to boil sorghum and steam the ground before setting out strawberry plants. He has provided standby steam power to a telephone exchange and a big dairy.

Plasterer has all kinds of steam machinery—tractors of 1907 to 1927 vintage, an 1896 corn planter and others.

"I have a 1919 eleven-ton Huber tractor, a small 1917 Avery, a 1912 Altman-Taylor clover hauler, a 1916 and a 1926 thresher and old plows and tools," he said.

Plasterer uses some of his old steam machinery for work, some for show and some for both.

Friend Also Fan

Two of the items of which Plasterer, a former science teacher, is proudest are a 1907 and a 1927 Kitten, steam tractors made in Ferdinand.

"They are the forerunners of the modern gasoline-powered tractors," Plasterer said.

Rolland Maxwell, on whose farm the threshing party was held, also is a steam-engine fan. His collection includes an 1868 corn planter, nine tractors and a 6-horsepower engine made around 1880.

Plasterer said their interest is not unique, although it may not be common in Indiana.

"The old steam-engine hobby is growing all over the country," he said.

But so far as he knows, he is the only one putting the old machinery to practical use.

Mrs. Leets Arrives From California Today

Mrs. Raymond Leets, the former Bernice Winters of Whitley county, arrived here today from her home in Arcadia, Calif., for a visit with relatives and friends here.

She will be the house guest at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Ollie Coutler, 104 North Whitley street. Mrs. Leets resided for many years with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McClain near Collins.

Mrs. Trumbull Reviews Book "Miracle In The Hills" Before Club

"Miracle in the Hills" was reviewed Friday afternoon by Mrs. Willis Trumbull before members of the Etna-Troy Home Demonstration club at the home of Mrs. Frank Marrs. Twenty-two members of the club were present to enjoy the book report.

Mrs. Robert Geiger played the accompaniment for the group singing of "Keep Your Heart Right," led by Mrs. Byron Miller. Mrs. Ralph Bennett read 11 chapters from the 42nd chapter of Isaiah and a short reading titled "Don't Get Discouraged" and as a closing to the devotional period, all repeated the Home Demonstration prayer.

The finance committee made a report and announced that all who have not paid their pledge to the building fund are asked to do so.

Mrs. Marrs was assisted by her co-hostess in serving cookies and punch.

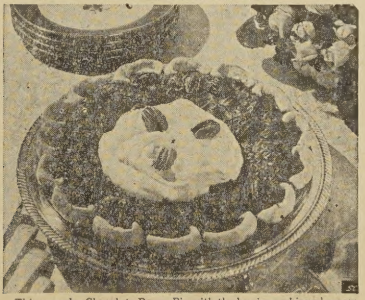
The Pinnacle In Pies



This crunchy Chocolate Pecan Pie with the luscious whipped cream pouff is just made for parties. Its drawing power is terrific. Yet — it's just that old-time favorite . . . Pecan Pie . . . lifted to new glory by the rich, wonderful flavor of unsweetened premium chocolate. Simple to make — yet every guest who tastes it will vote the hostess a Chocolate Oscar. (Did I hear someone say . . . never under estimate the power of chocolate?)

Chocolate Pecan Pie

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
3 tablespoons butter
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup coarsely chopped pecan meats
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell
1/2 cup cream, whipped

Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Combine sugar and syrup in saucepan. Bring to a boil over high heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil 2 minutes. Add chocolate mixture. Pour slowly over eggs, stirring constantly. Add vanilla and nuts, stirring to mix well. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 45 to 50 minutes, or until filling is puffed completely across top. Cool. Top with whipped cream.

Tips On How To Travel With Baby

NEW YORK—(UP) —The baby of the family is a good traveler, provided his parents are careful planners.

Some tips on how to travel with the infant set come from the nutritional department of a baby-foods manufacturer. The service suggests that both mother and baby get plenty of rest before starting a trip. Both will be less fretful.

Don't travel if a child has even a slight cold. And don't try to take a very small baby on a trip—too many interruptions in his sleeping and feeding routine.

Select food favorites of the child. With new places, sounds and people a baby should not be expected to learn to like new foods.

Watch his feeding schedule. The child may take less food at one feeding but need more frequent feedings.

Call ahead when you can to determine what foods and facilities are available on trains and planes. Some airlines have such a complete stock of baby foods you may not need to take more than the infant's formula.

Most hotels and motels are equipped with cribs, but it is a good idea to request such equipment in advance.

Garments should be simple and few. Travel will be easier if you take disposable bibs and diapers, and perhaps the plastic, sterile bottles which can be thrown away.

Include a few of the child's favorite toys to help make him feel at home.

And ask your physician about any change necessary in a child's formula for a trip. Maybe he will suggest the child be returned temporarily to evaporated milk, even though at home he is taking fresh milk. If so, better start the new milk a few days before leaving home.

Hamburgers Better With Kind Treatment

CHICAGO —(UP)— Dad would give Mother some real compitition at the family barbecue if he'd observe a few simple be-kind-to hamburger rules, an expert says.

Sidney Smith, general manager of the Peter Pan snack shop chain which sold more than 5,000,000 hamburgers last year, said men should "be gentler" with the ground meat.

His cooking rules:

1. Never grind the meat more than twice. Try meat ground only once for extra-tender, juicier patties.

2. Pat the meat gently into shape. "Mauling and kneading... breaks up the meat's delicate cell structure and squeezes out taste-giving juices."

3. "Never, never press down with a spatula during cooking. It doesn't shorten cooking time apprecily and only squeezes out the juices."

4. Turn only once to prevent juice escape, and use a wide spatula.

5. "Remember that hamburger meat can be sensitive as a prima ballerina. Mistreat it and you're in for an unsatisfactory performance. Be kind to hamburgers and they'll win you praise as a first-class cook."

Salad Dressing Started Woman In Home Business

CHARLESTON, W. Va. —(UP)— Floe Stover a 54-year-old homemaker didn't like the kind of salad dressing she bought in the stores so she set out to make her own. Her recipe now is the basis of a $6,000-a-year business.

Miss Stover, who lives at nearby Elkview and keeps house for her three brothers, says the small enterprise was started accidentally. The Stovers often had neighbors in for dinner. Miss Stover would serve her salad dressing.

"Often people would comment about the dressing and I'd give them some to take with them," she said. "Well, first thing I knew, a lot of people were calling me up wanting to buy it. Then a store near here asked me to mix them up a batch. That's how it began."

She then decided to expand her sales, and took a batch of samples into Charleston. One store, then another decided to stock the dressing and she was kept busy filling orders which were delivered by taxi.

A $10 Start

Her business soon grew too large for the kitchen and was transferred to the cellar. Next she bought a large mixing machine and a bottler. She now spends two to three days a week preparing and bottling her salad dressing.

"I'm just so busy, I don't know what to do," she said. "I have all my housework and cooking to do and I just don't have much time for anything anymore."

Miss Stover now sells her dressing to two Charleston chains, some independent stores and four large wholesale houses in southern West Virginia.

Miss Stover doesn't know exactly why or how her dressing differs from other dressings except that "it just has an unusual taste all its own."

She also bakes fruit cakes for sale at Christmas time.

"I bake birthday cakes for the kids in the neighborhood too," she said. "But of course I don't charge them anything."

She smiles whne she thinks back to her early days in the dressing business.

"I started with $10," she said.

Paint Fiber Rugs For That New Look

When a summer fiber rug becomes faded or drab, you can make it look new again—so don't throw it away, suggest Purdue University home economists.

Give that fiber rug a coat of awning piant—it is waterproof and dries with a dull surface. Since this type of paint penetrates the fiber, the finished product does not have a shiny "painted look." You may use other paints, such as a special fiber rug paint or a good grade flat alkyd paint. This paint has an oil base and may need thinning with turpentine so as to penetrate and coat the fibers.

Before you start to paint, place several layers of newspapers under the rug to protect the floor. Use a stiff brush and be sure that the paint gets in between the rug fibers. Paint about a foot of space at a time and then go on to the next area.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

Though the temperatures are high and the sultry summer sun is beating down upon the roof tops, smart needleworkers are thinking about Christmas. Early, you say? Not at all. Those who have long gift lists find that it is wiser to start their Christmas gift-making now, than to be rushed in November and December.

GIFT-MAKING

There are many advantages to making your own gifts. The economic factor is, of course, an important one. If you use your needlework talents for gift-making, your budget will be able to withstand the many expenses that arise during the holiday season. More and better gifts will be yours to give, especially if you start early. Handmade presents, when they are products of your nimble fingers, are greatly appreciated because they express your personal sentiments. And you will find, because of their individuality, your handmade gifts will rarely be duplicated by another. So get yourself in the holiday spirit with your crochet hook, knitting or sewing needles and, by Christmas, all you'll need do is to tie the big, colorful ribbon bows atop the packages.

A CHILD'S GIFT

Children love to receive gifts, and you'll enjoy making and giving this particular one. It's a floppy-legged, baby monkey—a funny little fellow who will give a tot many hours of enjoyment. Crocheted of white, double thick cotton with face, ears and palms of rose, this domesticated pet makes an adorable crib toy for any youngster. Stuff the monkey with soft materials for perfect cuddling. The detailed instructions for making BABY MONKEY may be obtained from the Needlework Department of this paper. Simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your copy of Leaflet No. S-613.

MARITAL MIX-UP—Mrs. Alford (Schmidt) Fine, shown here with her son Danny, 2, finds that family chores must go on even though she portrays one of the principal roles in a modern day "Enoch Arden" case. Although legally married to Airman 2/C Daniel Schmidt, one of the airmen to be released by the Chinese Reds, she married Alford Fine, believing her first husband had been killed when his plane crashed in Korea. She and her second husband, a logger, are living at Soda Springs, Calif. The boy is the son of Schmidt, who has never seen him.

Yohe had completed milking his herd of cows and a truck had picked up the milk in the milk house about an hour before the fire started. There was no milk in the storage house at the time of the fire.

Equipment lost in the burned barn included a straw chopper and blower, a hay mower, a drill, corn planters, and a farm wagon, and other smaller and miscellaneous items.

The fire was first discovered by a passing motorist on Road 5 who said that he saw smoke pouring from the building. The motorist, who said that he was northbound driving to Chicago, drove up the the Yohe residence to tell Mrs. Yohe about the fire. She was home at the time but her husband was in South Whitley on business at the Farmer's Elevator Company.

Yohe said that the barn and most of the destroyed equipment were insured.

The fire was the second destructive one within two days in the neighborhood south of South Whitley. A workshop on the farm of Robert Kennedy, who lives about five miles south of the Yohes was destroyed by a fire Friday afernoon.

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I. —(UP)— The grand old Southern name of Robert E. Lee is getting quite a play in Rhode Island politics. Two Robert E. Lees, one a Republican, the other a Democrat, are candidates for delegate to a state constitutional convention.

Serve Yourself In Summer

NEW YORK —(UP)— Sandwiches are a main stay of cool summertime meals. When it's too hot to cook, let the family and guests make their own sandwiches from a tray of fixings. For salad, include a platter of chilled, canned peach halves which have been filled with a zippy mixture of cottage cheese and horseradish.

Picnic On Rosy Ham Loaf

"PICNICS in the great outdoors are perfect, even if you forget such necessities as the salt or a can opener." That's not an old Chinese proverb: but a truth every family learns by experience.

Do remember for your outings this summer to feature juicy, Rosy Ham Loaf. Baked ahead, it's a beauty for jumbo sandwiches, hot or cold. Whether you plan to cook out or not, you're all set for a feast.

Cut ham loaf into generous thick slices; pop them into hot buttered buns. (Re-toast ham loaf over campfire if you like.) Pass the ketchup, mustard, pickles and lettuce. You'll want pork and beans too; potato chips; doughnuts and fruit. Then everybody join the fun of eating.

Freeze Baked Loaf

One point that especially endears this ham loaf to cooks is its "freezability." Because it keeps well in frozen state, you can bake two at a time; then freeze one to eat later.

With Rosy Ham Loaf ready for a quick meal, your future will be mighty rosy. It's a lip-smacking mixture of ground ham and veal; with tomato soup for the liquid.

Rosy Tomato Ham Loaf

(Double Recipe for Two Loaves)

1 pound ground veal
1 pound ground smoked ham
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Mix all ingredients. Shape into one or two loaves. Bake at 350° F for 1 hour.

NOTE: To freeze meat loaf, remove from pan and cool quickly (on ice). Wrap in moisture-vapor resistant paper. Seal package and label. Freeze at once.

SOUP SCOOPS

Picnic Honors Summer and Dad: Dad's Day and the First Day of Summer come all in one week; two good reasons to celebrate. Plan a picnic in honor of both; outdoors or in, according to the weather. You can cook up a whopper of a main dish in one big kettle over the campfire. Open cans of spaghetti (in tomato sauce) and of chili con carne. Pour in equal amounts of each, can for can. Add some green peas or corn also . . . for a super whopper dish. Let mixture simmer INDEPENDENCE, Kan. — (UP) — After a jury deliberated four [illegible] reported it could not agree on a verdict, Jefferson Davis [illegible] helped out. The 61-year-old [illegible] pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one to three years in prison for felonious possession of burglary tools.

Hurricane

Red and black hurricane flags were hoisted over both groups of islands from Barbuda, St. Eustatius and Saba northward and northwest storm warnings were raised southward to Montserret and Puerto Rico.

The Miami Weather Bureau issued the precautionary mainland alert after Connie was found grown to full hurricane force Friday.

Little Likelihood Of Danger

Chief forecaster Gordon Dunn said there was litle likelihood of danger for the next two days but coastal residents might be caught unprepared during long weekend trips.

The special alert was "aimed principally at Florida and adjacent waters" to caution against venturing to sea without having means of receiving later reports on the hurricane, Dunn said.

He said all coastal interests as far north as Cape Hatteras should take notice.

Connie, although the third major tropical storm of the year, is the first to be officially clocked at full hurricane strength of 75 miles per hour.

Lesson for August 7, 1955

SOMETHING can be learned from history, even when it is the history of obscure men. Perhaps we can even learn more from the history of obscure, little-known, forgotten men, because we are mostly of that sort ourselves, than we can from the biographies of the rich and great. We are invited in this week's lesson to consider a little community of displaced persons more than 2,000 years ago.

Dr. Foreman

Most of those displaced persons were citizens of Jerusalem, or had been. That city had been laid flat by Nebuchadnezzar's army. That the little nation of Judah had brought the war on itself, that the prophets, and especially Jeremiah, had predicted exactly what happened,—all this did not soften the blow. Those people were exiles, but with a special bitterness. It is one thing to be driven from home hoping to go back some day; it is another thing to have no home to go back to. If those displaced persons could have been taken back to Palestine, to the exact spot where Jerusalem stood, all they would have found was rubble. They would have perished of starvation . . . They knew this all too well. Yet in their memories Jerusalem still lived, a dream-city unchanged by time. They wept when they saw it in their mind's eye; but tears did not wash away the picture they loved. Did it do them any good, this remembering and remembering a city that was no more, a city they would never see again? Yes, it did. For even if that city were less fair than their homesick minds portrayed it, the good which they remembered would remain as an ideal. The community they would build in exile would be as near like the best they remembered as they could make it. A remembered glory that comes no more may become an ideal for today's world. Loyalty to memory may be something better than laying posies on well-tended graves; it may be the channel through which the best of yesterday flows into today and tomorrow.

Loyal to Life's Must's

These exiled Jews often dreamed of going back. That was before Jerusalem fell, and before Jeremiah wrote them a famous letter. (Jer. 29.) You will never see your native land again, he told them. The captivity will end, but not in your lifetime. Meanwhile be good citizens where you are. Build houses, plant gardens live with your growing families. Seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile . . . That may have been hard advice to take; but they took it. Dreams of the past can be slow poison if all they produce is tears. Dreams can make men crazy, they can keep people from looking at life's realities. Dream-wishes can keep men from doing what is possible under the circumstances. Jeremiah did not wish these people to forget Jerusalem. He wanted them to recognize the Must's of the situation where they were. There is such a thing as loyalty to the inevitable. "Shake hands with the Inevitable" is a good rule, for the really inevitable is the hand of Providence.

Loyal to God

The story of the young men who chose death rather than be disloyal to God by worshiping Nebuchadnezzar's golden image, reaches one of its high points in what the young men said to the king. God will deliver us, they said; He is able to deliver us and we believe He will; but if not—if there is no God, or if He is not able to save us, or if He does not choose to save us, if He forsakes us altogether, we will not be disloyal to Him. The story is a kind of parable about all the loyal servants of the true God in great pagan Babylonia during those exile years. Many Jews must have been tempted to take over the religion of their conquerors, just as after the second World War there was a rush toward Christianity in Japan. Certainly there in Babylon there were many voices whispering or calling aloud, Bow down! Conform, be like everybody else, when you are in Babylon do as the Babylonians do. Don't be peculiar, don't be stubborn, leave your invisible God and come worship the golden god to whom the nation prays! But the young men made the right choice, hard then, hard always: They would be loyal to the true God, even if his deliverance was delayed.

Yogi Berra Hits 200th Home Run, Two On, To Pick Slumping Yankees Up Out Of Dumps

The squat little man, hot and tired and looking like a droopy kewpie doll, peeled off his Yankee uniform and said, "I think I can hit more home runs than any other catcher in history."

Yogi Berra had just hit his 200th homer with two men on base to pick the slumping Yankees up out of the dumps and put them back within two points of first place wtih a 3-0 triumph over the tough Tigers. Not many of Berra's homers had been more vital than this one for it gave the whole team a lift after two disastrous defeats against Cleveland.

"I think I could hit 300 homers," Berra said. "Why not? Ihave five more years to play and I think I can do it. I think I can hit more than any other catcher."

He needs only 37 more for his career to top the all-time leader, Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, who has 236. He should pass ex-Yankee Bill Dickey with 202 any day. But his main competition probably will be with Roy Campanella of the Dodgers, who hit his 200th only last Sunday and now has 201.

Larson Cops Second Win

Berra supplied Don Larsen with all the help he needed for an eight-hitter and his second victory since his recall from Denver.

The White Sox dropped their third straight game, 2-1, to Baltimore in 11 innings. Cleveland missed a chance to go into first place and went into a second place tie with the Yankees instead when Sal Maglie was racked for five runs in two innings in his American League debut and Washington won 7-5.

Kansas City, using an old Red Sox gamer, Vic Raschi, topped Boston 5-2.

In the National League, the Dodgers stayed 15½ games on top even though they lost a slugging spree to the Cubs, 10-8, because second place Milwaukee blew an 8-5 decision to Pittsburgh. The Giants defeated Cincinnati, 12-9 and the Phils set back the Cardinals, 7-4.

With the bases loaded and one out, Willie Miranda hit a comback grounder to Millard Howell but the White Sox pitcher fumbled it and the winning run came home.

After Washington manhandled Maglie, young Dean Stone pitched four-hit shutout ball until the ninth when Cleveland erupted for five runs and threatened to tie it up. The rally came to a dramatic halt when Larry Doby singled home the fifth run but was out trying to reach second.

Zernial And Raschi Team Up

Gus Zernial drove in three runs Boston for the first time in a K.C. with two homers and Raschi beat uniform although he did it 17 times as a Yankee.

Duke Snider smashed his 37th and 38th homers and Ernie Banks got his 37th in a battle of big hits at Chicago in which PeeWee Reese and Gil Hodges of Brooklyn and Eddie Miksis and Dee Fondy of Chicago also homered.

The Pirates assaulted lefty Warren Spahn in a five-run first inning and converted outfielder Dick Hall pitched four hit ball for seven innings until he tired in Pittsburgh's triumph.

Wayne Terwilliger of the Giants was beaned by Johnny Lkippstein and when Don Liddle also was hit by a pitch, Manager Leo Durocher protested so strongly to Umpire Hal Dixon he was ejected from the game. The Giants made 17 hits including four by Dusty Rhodes.

Del Ennis and Bobby Morgan hit homers to pace Philadelphia's 11-hit maltreatment of five Cardinal pitchers.

Beware Of Bears Park Visitors Told

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Davy Crockett killed a b'ar when he was only three. You can bet he didn't try to feed or pet one.

This stems from the annual warning issued by the National Park Service to park visitors: Don't feed the bears!

The park service said 45 persons were scratched or mauled by bears last year in Yellowstone National Park alone.

John E. Doerr, chief naturalist of the service, said bears "don't distinguish between a box camera and a candy bar."

After being pampered with tidbits by visitors bears become beggars and some turn into "bad actors," Doerr said. Then they will lunge for a camera, purse or any object when a visitor gets too close.

Doerr said Yellowstone rangers had to kill 11 bears—six blacks and five grizzlies—last year because they became "bad actors" after too much people-pampering.

Of the 45 people injured last year, 11 persons were bitten while feeding bears, six were near persons who were feeding bears, and most of the others just got too close to the bears. Some of them wanted to pose for pictures near bears while others wanted a close-up snapshot.

One woman was hospitalized for bites and scratches of an arm ond shoulder inflicted while sitting in a car near others who were feeding bears.

In addition to Yellowstone, the service said the feeding and teasing of bears by visitors is a major problem at such parks as Yosemite, Sequoia, Grand Teton, Glacier, Mount Rainier, Crater Lake, and Great Smoky Mountains.

Man Protests U. S. Plans To Launch Satellite

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP) — James T. Mangan, who has a deed to all of outer space, has protested to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson the government's plans for launching a man-made satellite.

"He should have consulted me first," said Mangan, self-styled founder of Celestia, otherwise known as the Nation of Celestial Space.

"Anybody who launches a satellite without my permission is trespassing."

Mangan, a public relations man, said he wrote Wilson last week and enclosed a copy of the Celestia charter.

"Your announced plan for putting a man-made satellite into space suggests that you will be trespassing illegally in territory of the Nation of Celestial Space," Mangan wrote.

Knows The History

"As a manufacturer, Mr. Wilson, you would not build a factory on ground you did not own or had not leased.

"As a believer in the system of individual enterprise you might concede it possible that legal rights to all space have been taken. If you cannot imagine such a possibility you might at least be thorough enough to have someone make an accurate investigation.

"There is a seven-year history of the legality of space ownership and your State Department as well as the United Nations knows what this history is.

"I am sure that after you have checked into this matter you will recognize the rights of the Nation of Celestial Space and acknowledge that 'The use of its space without permission is . . . publicly forbidden to any artificial thing, project or activity not commanded entirely by natural design or need.' "

Mangan said that last quote was from the Celestia charter.

Would Remain Neutral

He first filed claim to outer space Jan. 4, 1949, but the Cook County (Chicago) recorder's office refused to accept the document.

Mangan's lawyers took the matter up with the state's attorney, who in a 2,000-word opinion held that the recorder should issue Mangan a deed. This was done Jan. 18, 1949, and Celestia came into official being.

Mangan said that as an American citizen he "naturally' would favor the United States over Russia in the race to launch a satellite.

But he said that if both Russia and the United States asked him for permission simultaneously he would have to remain neutral.

"After all,' he said, "Celestia was founded with the primary aim of maintaining peace.'

So far, Mangan hasn't sold any of his space property. Walter H. McKeown, a real estate man in suburban Evergreen Park, took an option to buy 10,000 worlds at $1 per world a year ago, but let the option lapse in June.

Australian On Way To $3420 Pay-Off In American Money

CHICAGO (UP)— Peter Thomson, a 25-year old Australian, was on the road toward a $3,420 payoff in American money today with a hot putter that gave him a two stroke bulge on the field midway through Tam O'Shanter's $25,000 "All American" Golf Tournament.

Thomson slashed out a seven under par 65 in the second round Friday, going over par on only two holes and missing a chance at the course record of 63 on the 17th hole, to post a 36 hole total of 136.

That compared to 138 for PGA champion Doug Ford, Yonkers, N.Y., and Al Mengert, a 26-year old assistant club pro from Mamaroneck N.Y., who had a share of the lead wrapped up, each with a pair of 69's, until Thomson came home late in the day.

Thomson three putted the seventh hole for a bogie five. But by that time he had dropped putts og 20 feet, eight feet and 15 feet.

On the back nine he was on the green in two and canned his second putt for a birdie on the 10th. On the 14th he sank a 10 footer for another bird and on the 15th his eagle putt stopped only 18 inches away as he got anotther birdie.

Then came his trouble. His tee shot on the 17th hooked in trees and his recvery ended in a trap. He exploded 10 feet from the pin, but his putt missed by inches. Had he broken the course record, set by Lloyd Mangrum in 1948, he would have received $10,000 cash for the feat.

The course played easier on the second round. On the first day 43 of the field of 149 matched par of 72 or bettered it, while Friday of 135 players, 59 fired 72 or less. The field for the final 36 holes was cut to 30, all who shot 147 and under in the first two rounds.

Eliminated by this break were such stars as Pete Cooper at 148, and Chandler Harper, Johnny Palmer, and National Open champion Jack Flek at 149.

Four players were tied at 139, three strokes off the pace: Mike Fetchick, Lake Mahopac, N.Y.; Gardner Dickinson Jr., Panama City, Fla.; Wally Ulrich Rochester, Minn., and Fred Hawkins Chicago.

Ulrich, who shared the first day lead with Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., and Ted Kroll Utica N.Y. with 68's remained in contention with a 71 while the other two fell behind with 75 each.

Patty Berg veteran woman pro from Chicago, knocked out a five under par 71 for a total of 146 and a seven stroke edge on three competitors, Betty Jameson, Mary Lena Faulk, and Louise Suggs in the chase for the $1,000 top purse for women pros.

Wiffi Smith 18, St. Clair, Mich, shot a 78, but held the lead among the women amateurs with a 152 total, five strokes ahead of Ruth Jessen, Seattle, Wash., while Doug Sanders Cedarttown Ga. shot a 70 to remain in front in the men's amateur with 139 compared to143 for Phillip Scrutton of England.

Farm Animals Need That Personal Touch

KALAMAZOO, Mich. —(UP) — A livestock authority warned the City Farmers Club that lack of "love, care and attention" would result in "neurotic, inefficient, irritable and frightened" farm animals.

Dr. W. N. McMillen of Decatur, Ill., director of livestock nutrition research for a feed company, said pigs, turkeys, cattle and chickens need more than antibiotics, vitamins and prepared feeds.

He said animals can tell whether they are liked and accused many farmers of substituting automatic waterers and self-feeders for the art of herdsmanship.

ROUTED

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. —(UP) —Mrs. Stanley Kant told police a man entered her kitchen and ordered her to "stick 'em up.". She said she picked up a dishpan in which she was washing dishes, hit him over the head and chased him into an alley.

Gridiron Prospects May Get Applications

Columbia City Joint High School's prospective gridmen may obtain football application blanks at Phillip's Sporting Goods Store August 8-15.

The announcement was made today by head football coach Leonard Barnum.

Craig Announces Skid-Proof Coating For Slick Roads

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governor Craig has announced development of a skid-proof coating for slick state highways and ordered expanded use of it.

He said a State Highway Department experiment with the material on three sections of roadway indicated it will decrease auto collisions and the resultant injuries, fatalities and property damage.

Highway officials said the "deslicking" material comes from only one source, Kentucky rock Asphalt. This material was banned as too expensive by the 1955 Legislature for construction work in Indiana.

In skirting the ban, highway officials contended the material will be used in maintenance not construction.

The skid proof asphalt is applied about an eighth of an inch thick. It costs about $1,400 per mile to apply.

In the experiment, it was used on U.S. 50 northeast of Shoals, Ind. 2 northeast of Valparaiso and Ind. 32 west of Westfield. After nore than two years, it still is in "good shape," Craig said.

"The use of the rock asphalt appears to have virtually eliminated accidents developing from skids on these roads," the governor said.

A survey of accident records on the three roads for more than a year before and after the material was applied showed accidents dropped fdom 153 to 64 while property loss declined from $94,930 to $31,960.

Craig said there were four highway deaths due to skidding on wet roads in the re-deslicking period and none afterward. Accidents due to skidding on a wet surface dropped from a 66 to two.

Craig ordered the material placed on "sensitive" slick roads throughout the state. He said it can be applied on any hard surface—concrete or blacktop.

Federal aid cannot be obtained for the project since it is considered maintenance and not construction.

Qualifications For A School Board

ANN ARBOR, Mich. —(UP)— A Harvard sociologist says the ideal school board member is a person who can act quickly and inexpensively.

Neal Gross, head of the Harvard school of executive studies, told a University of Michigan conference that school board members should have the following qualifications:

1. A heart of gold, a mind of steel and a nervous system of elastic.
2. A built-in telephone holder over his left shoulder and a built-in tear-absorbent on his right.
3. An uncanny ability to make astute and penetrating policy decisions.
4. Be able to explain to parents that a straight line for the school bus is not necessarily from door to door.
5. Be able to buy aspirin at a 50 per cent discount.
6. Know how to increase teacher salaries and build new school buildings while lowering the tax rate.
7. Be a King Solomon who can negotiate between the horse-and-buggy and space-ship types of education without splitting the personality of the child.

Spotted garments should not be pressed until the stains are removed. The heat of the iron frequently makes the stains permanent.

Women Cause Helicopter Steward Trouble By Coyness About Their Weight

NEW YORK—(UP)— The nation's first helicopter steward says women are just as sensitive about their weight as their age.

They will go to all lengths to keep their poundage secret, although when flying by commercial helicopter, their exact weight is required for their ticket and the aircraft's manifest.

"We don't make them get on scales before they get aboard," said Nils Johnson, the first steward with New York Airways, a helicopter service carrying passengers between New York airports. "But when it's obvious they're fibbing, we guess. I can hit within five pounds on most women."

Johnson explained that helicopters must be accurate to the pound in counting weight of passengers and cargo because their load maximum is so much less than that of ordinary aircraft.

A 'copter at most can carry seven passengers. Total load must not exceed 1,100 to 1,400 pounds, depending on flying conditions.

Johnson finally has figured how to deal diplocatically with the women.

Each passenger's weight goes on a three-carbon form," he explained. "For women passengers, I press the pencil just hard enough to mark two copies, but not the third. The passenger gets the bottom copy..the rest are for our records."

Johnson pioneered the steward service for helicopter passengers. It's certainly not as elaborate as that on the big transports. No meals served, no cocktail hour.

"Well," said Johnson, "passengers can bring a box lunch if they want. And we always land near a bar."

Actually, he explained, the helicopter flights are too brief for such extras. It's only 19 minutes, for example, from LaGuardia to Newark's airport.

When Johnson started with New York Airways, he made the flights with the passengers. That was two years ago. Now, he said, the stewards just check passengers, their luggage and cargo onto the 'copters, and see that the travelers are properly seated. Other stewards met the aircraft at its destination.

Eeating is a problem. The whole idea, Johnson said, is to see that passengers, luggage and pilot are balanced properly in relation to the center of the ship.

He remembered having a little trouble with actress Terry Moore on one flight. He told her where to sit. She wanted a seat elsewhere. Johnson said it ended with the curvaceous Miss Moore plunking herself down so angrily in the assigned seat that the back collapsed, leaving her in a far from graceful position.

The line used to equip its helicopters with headsets so that the pilot and passengers could talk—'copters being noisier than the big airliners.

"We had to eliminate the headsets," he said. "Women complained they messed their hair.

"All our problems seem to be with women," said the steward, wearily.

Look Twice Before You Fix That Flat Tire

PORTLAND, Me. —(UP)— Bob Llewellyn pulled up alongside Waldo Pray on a downtown street and asked "Whatcha doing?"

"What do you think?" replied Pray. "Changing a flat tire."

"It certainly doesn't look flat to me," Llewellyn said.

Pray stepped back in annoyance. Then he did a double-take.

In returning to the scene after borrowing a jack, he had jacked up the wrong car, an identical one parked in front of his own.

The radiator division of one automobile manufacturer uses 320 tons of copper and 125 tons of solder each month.

Take That Trip Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

CHICAGO —(UP) —The National Safety Council reports that the safest time to take an atuomobile trip is on a Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday.

"Accident Facts," the council's statistical yearbook, shows that nearly two out of every five fatal motor vehicle accidents occur on Saturdays and Sundays.

The fewest occur on the first three weekdays, the figures show.

Reports from 27 states show these fatal accident percentages: Saturday, 21; Sunday, 18; Friday, 15; Thursday, 13; Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, 11 each.

Mrs. Schoenaur Dies Early Saturday In Huntington Hospital

Was A Former Resident Of Whitley County

Mrs. Dan Schoenaur, Jackson township, Huntington county; the former Nellie Redman of Jefferson township, died early Saturday morning in the Huntington Hospital.

Death was due to a complication of diseases. She had been a hospital patient for a number of weeks. She was the daughter of the late Dan and Amelia Redman. The husband survives also four children, Elwood Schoenaur, Huntington, Mrs. Raymond Howenstine of near Markle; Mrs. Emmett Anderson, near Peru, and Dwayne Schoneaur at home.

Sherman Redman of East Market street is a brother. Other survivors are a sister; Mrs. Leon Alexander, Washington township and a brother, Ralph Redman of near Roanoke, also eight grandchildren.

Mrs. Schoneaur was a member of the Pleasant View chapel in Huntington county. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Bar Association Pays Tribute To Noble County Attorney In Resolution

The Resolutions Committee of the Whitley County Bar Association passed a resolution Thursday in circuit court honoring Martin H. Spangler, 76-year-old Albion attorney, who died Wednesday morning.

The resolution read in part: "That we will remember him for his perservence and sincerety in working for his clients; his integrity, his splendid character, and above all his warmth and friendliness".

The commitee asked that copies of the resolution be forwarded to Mr. Spangler's family and in the records of the clerks of the Noble and Whitley County circuit courts.

The resolution was signed by members of the committee: William M. Bloom, John W. Whiteleather, and Ralph F. Gates.

"Oh, the weakness of a defeated nation!" the conservative economic newspaper Nihon Keizai said the next day. "We did nothing wrong."

Radio stations cancelled their regular programs and broadcast memorials to the world's first H-bomb victim.

"Ashes Of Death"

Politicians of the left and right demanded compensation from the United States. More petitions were circulated. Editorials asked an end to the use of the Pacific Ocean as a nuclear weapons laboratory.

The term, "ashes of death," was wrote a song, "Never Again The added to the Japanese language.

A factory worker, Ishiji Asada, A-bomb," and it was sung at Kuboyama's funeral and in Hiroshima.

Near the recorded names of the men, women and children who died in Hiroshima is a stone marker. On it are inscribed these words:

"Requiescat in pace."

"The error shall never be made again."

Babe Zaharias In Hospital; Treated Again For Cancer

GALVESTON Tex. (UP)— Babe Didrikson Zaharias, who was operated on two years ago for rectal cancer, was being treated again today for the same condittion, her husband disclosed.

Doctors studying x-rays of the Babe for treatment of a dislocatetd spinal disc discovered the cancer Thursday, George Zaharias, her wrestler-husband disclosed late Friday.

The doctors told Babe, world-famous woman athlete, that she has cancer, Zaharias said. She took the news like a champion and, after a moment's pause, said, "Well that's the rough of the greens."

Mrs. Zaharias whose most recent exploits as an athlete have been as a professional golfer, is being given sedatives to ease the pain.

In her early climb to fame, she was known as an all-around athlete and was an Olympic track star. surgeon at John Sely Hospital Dr S. R. Snodgrass, resident where she is hospitalized, operated on her last July 1. At the time, newsmen were told it was for a displaced spinal disc.

In addition to her regular doctor, Mrs. Zaharias is under the care of Rr. Hamilton Ford, noted neurologist. The misplaced disc is pressing on a spinal nerve. It is that Ford is contending with.

EDINBURG, Tex. — (UP) — Edinburg Fire Chief Elbert Sanders claims to have made the longest fire run in the world. Sanders was driving to a firemen's convention in Carthage, Tex.—more than 500 miles from Edinburg—when he noticed a night-time blaze at a filling station. Sanders woke up the owner and helped him put out the fire.

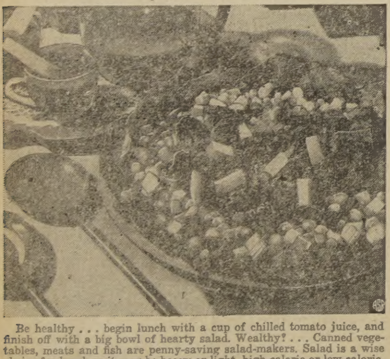
Salad Healthy, Wealthy And Wise



Be healthy . . . begin lunch with a cup of chilled tomato juice, and finish off with a big bowl of hearty salad. Wealthy? . . . Canned vegetables, meats and fish are penny-saving salad-makers. Salad is a wise choice for lunch as it may be heavy or light, high-calorie or low-calorie, just to suit your needs.

Vegetable Tossed Salad

1 can (16 oz.) mixed vegetables	¼ lb. sharp Cheddar cheese
	1 small onion
French dressing	Mixed salad greens

Mix drained vegetables with French dressing and store in the refrigerator an hour or more. Combine cheese, cut into cubes or strips, chopped onion and crisp greens with the vegetables. Toss lightly together. Four servings.

Other Vegetable Combinations: Try one of these combinations instead of the mixed vegetables.

(1) Canned asparagus, sliced radishes and cubed tomatoes
(2) Sliced celery, canned mushrooms and cubed beets

Other Hearties: Try one of these instead of the cheese.

(1) Chunks of salmon, tuna, or sardines
(2) Bite-size pieces of canned tongue, luncheon meat or chicken

OLD SETTLERS DAY APPROACHING

Editors Note: The OSD rhyme was written in 1937 by the late Hugo Logan, father of Boyd Logan and Mrs. Rheua Logan Osborne.

Mr. Logan was born in Kinsman, Ohio in 1862 and came to Whitley County in 1897. He had served as president of the Old Settlers Association in 1912.

Mrs. Osborne remarked that her father "always enjoyed the friendliness of OSD and went early and stayed late."

This is the month of August, Old Settlers' day will soon be here
To retell the old, old stories that we hear from year to year;
They will tell of their past experience with mud and sleet and rain
When their means of transportation was on horse, foot or train;
They will tell you how the young folks have no hardships now to meet
Because all are moving swiftly up and down the well paved street.
They will tell that while in childhood they were forced to go to school
And how the teachers guided then by the strictest kind of rule,
Of how they walked the muddy highway and through the dewy grass
That they might be on time and never miss a class.
They will tell you how expensive the school vans are today
That manhood can't be moulded in this most modern way—
They should be taught to labor, to walk through sleet and snow
Then when they arrive at manhood they would know where to go.
The fact that they are riding and not wearing out their shoes
Is a thing that will surely spoil them and narrow up their views;
You will hear this conversation as it goes from friend to friend,
"If they had to do as I did they would have money now to lend."
Yet midst all this clash and clatter which the young must listen to
The question then arises: What are we going to do?
Are we going to reduce all schedules and slow up the speeding train,
Are we going to change the laws and forbid the flying plane,
Are we going to stop all progress and return to the long long past?
Just to please our dear old settlers, who are passing sure and fast?
The younger generation have notions of their own.
They may not have a penny, or even own a home,
They are surely going somewhere—the end is not in sight,
They know that they are going up, but not where they'll light.
And when they become old settlers and look back to the present Now,
They will wonder why they were so slow in learning Why and How.

NOW THEY CAN SMILE—Some two months ago Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kiba of Akron, Ohio, wore hopeful smiles as they held a picture of their son and read the news of the release of four American airmen by the Chinese Reds. Unfortunately their son wasn't among the four, but now they can smile, for Airman 1/c Steve Kiba, Jr., will be coming home soon. He is one of the 11 American airmen who will be freed by the Chinese Reds. Kiba has not been home in nearly five years.

LAKE SWIMMER—Shirley Campbell, 19-year-old Toronto, Canada, secretary, receives some last-minute instructions from her coach, Max Hurley, just before she plunged into the waters of Lake Ontario at Youngstown, N. Y. Miss Campbell is seeking to break the record for the Youngstown to Toronto crossing—21 hours and 3 minutes—set in 1954 by Marilyn Bell, who recently added the English Channel to her list of conquests.

REAL SPACE MEN—Two Air Force officers are preparing to set some jumping records. In doing so, Lt. Henry P. Nielson, left, and Capt. Edward G. Sperry may go to greater heights than man has yet ascended—possibly 90,000 feet. They'll make six flights in a balloon over New Mexico. At the peak of each flight one of the two will cut loose for a free fall, keeping his parachute closed until near the earth's surface. The other will ride the gondola down to 20,000 feet, then jump. Results of their endeavor are expected to aid designers of an ejection seat for high-flying jets.

Holiday-Bound American GIs Die In Wreck

Truck Plunges Over Bridge And Bursts Into Flames

SEOUL (UP) — Ten holiday bound American soldiers died today when an Army truck plunged over a bridge, burst into flames and rolled over, pinning many of the GIs beneath its massive weight.

Eight others were injured seriously.

The men were en route to an airfield in a U.S. 24th Division truck for a flight to Papan and a holiday of rest and recreation leave.

Eight of the soldiers were killed outright. Another died en route to the 121st Army Evacuation Hospital and the other died after reaching the huge medical center.

The Army said some of the other injured men were in such serious condition from injuries suffered when the truck crashed and burst into flames that they, too, may die.

Many of the victims were pinned beneath the flaming truck.

The GIs were on their way to a few days of pleasure in Japanese cities and resorts away from the dreary monotony of soldiering in Korea.

The army said the group of happy soldiers were en route to Kimpo to board a military plane for leaves in Japan. The accident happened on a narrow bridge over which traffic is regulatetd to move in one direction.

The spokesman said Army investigators were studying the cause of the accident.

Names of the victims were withheld.

Balance Sheet Of Week's News

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Corresiondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

The Good

1. The Chinese Communists freed 11 United States Air Force men whom they had held—and convicted as "spies"—in violation of the Korean armistice. The Reds announced their action immediately before the start of negotiations in Geneva for the release of American civilians held in China. In the Geneva conference the United States was represented by its ambassador to Czechoslovakia. The Peiping government was represented by its ambassador to Poland. The Geneva talks were complicated because the Reds wanted a third country to check up on Chinese students now in the United States. The the authority of the Red government over Chinese abroad—might be taken as implying diplomattic recognition.

2. Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin said in an address to the Russian Parliament that the Big Four "summit" meeting in Geneva was histotric. "It marked a turning point in the relations between the Soviet Union and the West," Bulganin said. He spoke slightingly of President Eisenhower's plan for the United States and Russia to exchange military blueprints. But this had been expected. On the whole, the speech seemed conciliatory.

3. The French Parliament finally approved an agreement to give the North African protectorate of Tunisia home rule. France will keep control of foreign and defense policies. But Tunisians are to control interior administration. Approval of the measure was a big step in the attempt to end North African terrorism.

The Bad

1. Russia asked West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to fix a date at the end of this month or the beginning of September for his visit to Moscow. Prospect of the visit was not pleasant. There was no doubt that the Kremlin would try to get Adenauer away from his present close cooperation with the Western Allies. In Paris, the French cabinet approved a plan for Premier Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay to visit Moscow. It may be taken for granted that the Russians will try to weaken Frances cooperation in the Westt.

2. Fiery old President Syngman Rhee of South Korea threatened to take "certain action' if the Communists did not give up the slice of territory they hold on his side of the 38th parallel dividing line between South and North even if the United States failed to support him.

3. The situation in Portuguese Goa, on the west coast of the Indian peninsula, came nearer to an explosion. Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru demands that Portugal give up the tiny colony. Two Indians were killed and three wounded by Portuguese police fire when they tried to cross the border into Goa in a demonstration. Real trouble was threatened Aug. 15, when it was planned thtat 100,000 Indians should stage a "peaceful' invasion of Goa.

Tall Persons Have Their Problems

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. —(UP) —Tall persons have one big strike against them.

Miss Mathilde Messner, director of physical therapy at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, said the tall person has greater difficulty with posture and relaxation than the man or woman of average height.

"Consider the tall executive leaning over a desk too low for him," Miss Messner said. "In no time at all he will develop a humped back, the muscles in his neck and shoulders will form into tight knots and the pain in the small of his back will reduce his efficiency."

While there is no remedy for being tall, she advised that swivel chairs always should be adjusted for comfort. She counseled against crossing the legs while seated, gripping the sides of the chair with the hands and sitting with the head jutting forward.

"Poor body mechanics is responsible for much bursitis, neuritis and other ills arising from faulty circulation," Miss Messner asserted.

Australia Favored To Clinch Berth In Davis Cup Finals

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (UP)— Australia, winner of the first two singles matches over Japan, was favored to clinch a berth in the Davis Cup interzone finals today with a triumph in the doubles.

However, Aussie Captain Harry Hopman admitted he was far from satisfied with the showing in singles Friday, adding "Rex Hartwig showed a serious lack of concentration.'

Hartwig had to go five sets to beat Kosei Kamo, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3. 5-7, 6-3, but it was good tennis all the way while Ken Rosewall and Attsushi Miyagi both played poorly in Rosewall's 6-4, 6-4, 6-1 victory.

Hartwig and Lew Hoad will play doubles today against Kamo and gi, he,. EDT on the grass center court at Nassau County Club.

Harwig replaced Hoad as a single starter against Canada last week and now against Japan. But Hopman indicated he would think about using Hoad again against Italy in the interzone finals if Australia advances past Japan as expected.

Joy Of Homecoming Dulled By News His Wife Is Remarried

TOKYO (UP)— Airman Daniel Schmidt failed today to reach by telephone the wife who remarried while he was a prisoner of the Chinese Communists.

Schmidt was wearing a gold wedding band when he came out of Red China but his finger was bare when he reached Tokyo, the joy of his homecoming dulled by the news that his wife, Una, had married another man in the belief he was dead.

The Redding, Calif., Enoch Arden planned to try again during the day to telephone his wife at Soda Springs, Calif. to discuss their tangled marital affairs.

But Mrs. Schmidt had vanished from Soda Springs in a trailer home with second husband Alford Fine to escape a mob of reporters and photographers.

The Air Force had shielded Schmidt from the news but he learned of his difficulties when he picked up a Manila newspaper at Clark Air Force Base in Manila Friday.

An Air Force officer who accompanied Schmidt and the 10 other newly released fliers to Tokyo said Schmidt was "obviously upset, but he wasn't hysterical" after learning of the situation

"He is still all for the girl and doesn't wantt to give her up," tthe spokesman said, and he is anxious to see his young son for the first time.

The 11 released fliers, now happily filled with steaks and their first ice cream in almost three years, were remaining in Tokyo for a threeday medical examination.

They were being isolated from the public until they meet the press in their first news conference Sunday afternoon at Tachikawa Air Base.

WASH-AND-WEAR TREND

Cutting down on housewives' work has long been one of the biggest sources of profit for American business sources of profit for American business and with the growing use of automatic home laundries, about theonlywashday work that is never done with just the setting of a dial is the ironing of clothes, Chemical Week, McGraw-Hill publication, points out.

Now wash-and-wear popularity of synthetic fabrics is sending cotton cloth makers on a search for better finishing resins; already here are nearly 50 brands of cottons having variations of the "need-little - or-no-ironing" theme competing with synthetics on store racks and counters.

MORE WILD TURKEYS

LANSING, Mich. — (UP) — Conservationists were cheered recently with the discovery of a nest containing 12 wild turkey eggs in Allegan State Forest. The conservation department released 200 of the birds in the southwestern Michigan wilds last year in hopes they would establish themselves there permanently.

Teen-Age Boys Seek 'Odd Jobs' In Area Through Chamber

The summer school vacation period is drawing to a close, which means the chances of having "odd jobs" completed around your business or home, are also lessening.

However, there is still at least one chance of obtaining the help needed.

Several teen-age boys seeking odd jobs in the area have applied at the Columbia City Chamber of Commerce office at the City Hall. The youths have been registered at the office by name, age, parents' names and type of work desired.

Such work may include mowing lawns, washing windows or automobiles, weeding gardens, sweeping of buildings, "and any other of the jobs which you may have let go by" a representative of the Chamber said.

Persons desiring to obtain the services of any of the boys may do so by contacting the Chamber office.

Peterson Removes Coat; Minor Revolt

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (UP)—Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson touched off a minor revolt Tuesday when he removed his coat in deference to the 90-degree heat in a swank hotel dining room.

As horrified waiters debated whether to tell Peterson he was violatinig an iron-clad hotel rule, another guest followed the former Nebraska governor's example. The head waitier moved in quickly on the second man and told him to put his coat back on or leave.

But the waiters retreated in confusion when other guests protested loudly that the head waiter's action was undemocratic.

Peterson and his fellow coatless diners were allowed to finish their meals in comfortable peace.

Loses Toe In Fan

JASPER, Ind. (UP) —Linus Kluemper, 36, became a heat wave casulaty when he lost the big toe of his right foot.

Kluemper had an electric fan trained on his bed, but he made the mistake of falling asleep with his foot dangling over the side. The vibration of the fan caused it to move slowly across the floor and clip off the toe.

Rail Passengers Can Really Ride High

CHICAGO —(UP)— Passengers on "Hi-Level" railroad cars presently in service on at least one line operating out of Chicago ride higher than does their luggage.

The Santa Fe railroad has announced it will equip an entire train between Chicago and Los Angeles with the cars by mid-1956. The road has been testing the equipment for some time.

Passengers ride in seats on the upper decks of the cars, eight feet above track level, and with spacious windows.

Luggage is placed on shelves on the lower levels and unloaded at stations through a separate opening in the side of each car, leaving upper level exits clear for passengers.

The cars are two feet higher than conventional equipment. Vestibules are eliminated and passengers are able to step directly into the cars—through doors in the sides of the coaches—from platform level, mounting to the upper level by stairways inside the coaches.

In dining cars, passengers will eat on upper decks and kitchen work will be confined to lower levels.

Incomplete Stock

EAST HAMPTON, Conn. —(UP — Druggist Louis Wrubel admitted that his store—like most drug stores—carries everything from soup to nuts. But he had to admit defeat when a customer asked for a half-dozen Indian arrowheads.

Stiff Petticoats Need Special Care

Does that stiff petticoat have a wilted look after cleaning? This question is often asked Purdue home economists.

Since those lovely rows of flounces are rather expensive, give some thought to the care you will give them after purchasing. Many of these fabrics become limp in the cleaning process but may be returned to crispness by a stiffening agent. Some of the colors may not be fast to washing and may become color streaked after laundering.

Nylons may be difficult to stiffen in any way. Resin-treated cottons, such as crease-resistant or embossed, are also difficult to starch successfully. Cotton crinoline is generally one of the most practical fabrics because it can be starched stiffly with regular starch. Laminated crinoline must be drycleaned, as washing dissolves the laminating material.

Plastic starches—on the market at the present time—may be used with some degree of success. However, this may not be the complete solution because some fabrics may not pick up enough of the stiffening agent to be considered practical.

It has been suggested that the amount of plastic starch used should be less than the amount recommended on the container by the manufacturer. If the petticoat is not stiff enough after one application, repeat the process.

Hand laundering gives best results in most cases. Do not wring. Fasten to hanger or line and allow to drip dry. If the fabric is nylon, press with dry iron (nylon setting) while slightly damp or use steam iron set for synthetics. If the petticoat is made of cotton fabric, strach stiffly, allow to dry, dampen and iron. Always follow the fabric grain whether ironing or pressing.

Soup On The Rocks Is A New Cooler

Newest fad to be taken up by an over-heated population these days is a drink called Soup on the Rocks. This beef bouillon and ice cube beverage, helped along possibly by the well-known American trait of trying anything once, seems to be winning quite a bit of popularity.

If you're beefing about the heat, chill a few cans of beef bouillon (not consomme) in the refrigerator. Pour over ice cubes in any glass. Pre-cooling the bouillon cuts down dilution of ice and helps retain the flavor.

Calorie-counters can quaff this new drink, too, without feeling quilty. When a nine-ounce glass, containing two ice cubes is filled with beef bouillon, the total number of calories is less than 30. Athletes and weary mower-pushers find Soup on the Rocks also helps restore salt lost through excessive activity.

For those who would gild the lily, a dash of worchestershire, or lemon juice, and possibly a cucumber or mint garnish is not amiss.

Soup on the Rocks (in spite of its tongue-in-cheek title) has caught on with such dignified and esteemed New York restaurants as Sardi's, Leone's and Louis and Armand's.

Arnaud's Restaurant in New Orleans, which won the 1955 award for the best restaurant in the South, has offered Soup on the Rocks southern hospitality by putting its name on the menu.

U.S. Airmen May Take Charges Of Red Chinese Torture Before U.N.

By RUTHERFORD M. POATS
United Press Staff Correspondent

TACHIKAWA AIR BASE, Japan (UP) —Charges that 11 American airmen were tortured and beaten by the Communist Chinese probably will go before the United Nations, informed sources said today.

The world body will attempt to determine to what extent the alleged brutal treatment was used to wring confessions from the airmen, the sources said.

The charges may affect Red China's hopes of joining the United Nations, the sources added.

The airmen, freed by the Reds last week after more than two years in prison, told of their torture, beatings and solitary confinement at a press conference Sunday.

(In Geneva, members of the Red Chinese delegation meeting with U.S. representatives denied the charges and said they were "sheer fabrication.")

Want Hometown Reunions

The men are to leave Tachikawa Air Base Wednesday for Travis Air Force Base, Calif., an Air Force spokesman said. The men have asked that their families not be brought to the west coast. They prefer to go home individually for reunions.

The airmen went through more rigorous physical examinations today to determine if their health suffered during their forced stay in Red China.

One of the men, Daniel C. Schmidt, of Redding, Calif., finally talked by telephone with his 21-year-old wife who remarried in the belief he was killed in Korea. The modern-day "Enoch Arden" refused to disclose details of the conversation about their tangled marital affairs.

Col. John Knox Arnold, leader of the airmen whose B29 was shot down over North Korea in January, 1953, repudiated all statements and "confessions" wrung from the men by Communist physical and mental persuasion.

He fought back tears as he told how the Reds treated him and his crew. His thin face twisted with emotion and his voice breaking occasionally, the Silver Springs, Md. flier admitted he gave the Communists military information under torture.

One "Confession" Exception

All the fliers except Maj. William H. Baumer, Lewisburg, Pa., said they made "confessions" of illegally invading Communist Chi-

Soviet Offers RegretToNorway For Deaths

Of 10 Norwegians Among 25 Persons Killed In Crash

MOSCOW (UP) — The Soviet Union offered "profound regret" and compensation today to Norway for the deaths of 10 Norwegian women among 25 persons killed in the flaming crash of a Soviet airliner.

The Soviet news agency Tass, for the first time in recent history, reported the news of the crash on a flight from Stalingrad to Moscow justt like western news agencies.

The Ilyushin 14 airliner "caught fire in the air 12 kilometers (7 miles) from Voronezh and exploded on crashing" Saturday, the Tass report said.

Moscow Radio, which rarely broadcasts such domestitc news, carried the dispatch to the world.

Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin summoned Norwegian Charge d'Affaires Per Borgen from Sunday's picnic at the summer residence of Premier Georgi Bulganin to inform him of the crash.

Zorin handed Borgan an official government note expressing "profound regret' at the accident and promisiing to compensate families of the women who were visiting Russia as a touring delegattion.

Zorin added his own personal sympathies to the official note.

The government appointed a very high official, Deputy Premier M.V. Khrunichev himself to head an on-the-spot investigatiton of the crash.

Zorin told Borgen the cause was "undetermined."

Local Plant Of Blue Bell Inc. Has Picnic At Warsaw Saturday

The local plant of Blue Bell Inc., with the Warsaw and Nappanee plants held a joint picnic at Center Lake at Warsaw Satudray. Thee all-day affair was attended by 360 people, all employes of the three plants, members of their families and guests.

In the morning the Warsaw girls' soft ball team defeated Columbia City office and shipping room team. In the second game Nappanee defeated Columbia City sewing room and in the play-off game Nappanee defeated Warsaw.

Lawrence Wolfe served as master of ceremonies for the afternoon affairs.

After the dinner served at noon a style show of Blue Bell garments was presented by Lora Schneider, Joan Jagger, Gloria Rubb, Melody and Valeni Ditton, Tommy Mattix, John Travelbee, Jr. and Larry Fryback.

An amatuer talent contest was judged by Mrs. Robert Crosby, Rev. Young the new pastor at the Evangelical United Brethren Church, and Max Gandy, local school principal. First price was won by Ericka Schwarz, Columbia City; second by Margaret Ann Bowser of North Webster and third by Roger Richey. Roy E. Duncan, plant manager, congratulated all who had participated in the contest.

Attendance prizes were won by Eleanor Armold, Dorothy Johnson and Beverly Huggins of the Nappanee plant, Oneida Johnson, Dorothy Jordan and Clara Floor of the Warsaw plant and Nola Mullendore, Ruth Bohling and Patricia Gates of the Columbia City plant.

Guests from Columbia City were Mayor Tom Hood, Rev. and Mrs. Crosby and son John, Judge Lowell Pefley, Rev. and Mrs. Young and Mr. and Mrs. Max Gandy, daughter Donna and son John.

Mrs. Ogereta Snyder was presented a purse by the committee who had assisted in working out plans for the picnic, composed of Mrs. Lucille Scott, Lawrence Wolfe, John Moyer, Jim Forst, Cliff Blanchard, Jim Ellis of Warsaw and Phil Frick of Nappanee.

Roland Briggs Will Admitted To Probate

The will of Roland Earl Briggs, who died July 6, was admitted to probate in Whitley County circuit court Friday.

Mabel A. Briggs, of R 7, widow of the deceased man, was named executrix of the will and the court ruled that the estate did not require administration.

Other beneficiaries of the will are James S. Briggs, city, and Robert E. Briggs, Albuquerque, N. M., sons of the decedent.

Overcome With Heat

Mrs. Oscar Weidler, near Ormas, was overcome by the heat while attending services for Garrie Skinner in the Christian Chapel Cemetery Friday morning. She received first aid, then Smith and Sons ambulance was called and Mrs. Weidler was taken to Luckey Hospital at Wolf Lake where was admitted as a medical patient.

U. S., Red China Deadlocked On Civilian Issue

Talks Enter Second Week

By KENNETH MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — The United States and Red China became deadlocked today in their negotiations for release of 41 American civilians and China's demands for return of Chinese students, now in the United States.

Despite their failure to find an acceptable formula, they agreed to continue the talks, which have entered their second week.

A U.S. spokesman said, after today's meeting that the Chinese and American ambassadors have become stuck on the first item of their agenda—the return of civilians.

He said they agreed, however, to continue their study of that problem at their next session, on Wednesday.

Both sides have agreed to maintain secrecy on the details of their talks.

They issued a noncommittal joint statement after the meeting which said only that they have considered nothing but the question of returning civilians in the four sessions held thus far.

The only positive results of the meetings—the release of 11 imprisoned U.S. airmen by Red China—was announced by the Chinese an hour before the first meeting was held.

The United States has refused in the subsequent meetings to yield on the principle of voluntary repatriation of nationals, a principle established in the long negotiations for release of Korean War prisoners.

Conference sources said the United States retained unpleasant memories of Communist attempts in Korea to cajole Chinese prisoners in United Nations hands to return to Red China.

There will be no repetition of this on United States soil, the sources said.

Edward Meyers Is Appointed To State Jaycee Committee

Edward J. Meyers, Columbia City attorney, has been appointed to the state Get-Out-The Vote committee of the Indiana Junior Chamber of Commerce, according to announcement of the executive committee of that body received here by Robert Fahl, secretary of the Columbia City Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Meyers is the president of the Columbia City Junior Chamber of Commerce, and is presently the prosecuting attorney of Whitley county.

Chandler Has Growing Lead In Primary

Well Ahead In Kentucky's Democratic Gubernatorial Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)— Former Baseball Commissioner A.B (Happy) Chandler was running well ahead and with a growing lead today in Kentucky's Democratic gubernatorial primary and his backers claimed victory in a resounding political comeback:

With 2,100 of 4,165 precincts tabulated as counting resumed today after a halt since Saturday midnight, Chandler had rolled up 155,662 votes to 141,715 for administration candidate Bert T. Combs.

Chandler Campaign Manager Joseph J. Leary claimed victory at noon Sunday and said the former governor and senator would win by 25,000 to 30,000 votes. The Louisville CourierJournal, which opposed Chandler, conceded his victory in its early editions.

Combs supporters had not quite given up hope believing that late returns from slowcounting districts of eastern Kentucky where Combs is strong would cut into the Chandler lead.

It was a personal triumph for Chandler, as he upset a state Democratic organization headed by U.S. Sen. Earle C. Clements (D Ky) and Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby that has been in power for eight years.

In addition, Chandler was opposed by Sen. Alben W. Barkley, who in a last minute campaign speech Thursday night all but read Chandler out of the Democratic Party, accusing him of bolting the party on numerous occasions.

Chandler will be opposed in the general election by Edwin R. Denney of Lexington, former U.S. district attorney who held a five to one lead over James L. Clay in the Republican gubernatorial primary.

Luther Shoemaker Gives OSD Picture To The Relic Room

Luther Shoemaker, Road 30 West, is giving a picture of the first Old Settlers Day to the Whitley County Relic Room which will be open Thursday.

Mr. Shoemaker was present at the first celebration held in September 1904 at Loon Lake. He attended with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Shoemaker. Samuel is listed in the Whitley County History as the first white child born in Columbia township, October 18, 1838 to Asa Shoemaker who settled on Big Spring Creek in 1837.

The picture shows a big WELCOME fastened high between two trees in the background. Long picnic tables, one in an L shape are set up in a clearing. They are covered with white tablecloths.

Small groups of people are visiting near the tables and a much larger group is back in the shade of the grove. A horse drawn single seated buggy with top appears in the foreground.

Even though it is September the men are in dark clothing and have hats on. The ladies are in light dresses or light blouses with dark skirts that are fitted at the waist and flare like a large bell at the hemline which sweeps the ground. All wear hats.

A group of farm buildings shows through an opening in the trees in the background.

Mr. Shoemaker remembered playing croquet at the picnic.

Rollins Fined, Given Suspended Sentence On Alcohol Conviction

Charles Rollins, 21, received a fine of $20 and costs and a six-months suspended sentence to the Indiana State Farm last week when he was convicted of a charge of furnishing alcoholic beverage to a minor.

The sentence was suspended on the condition that Rollins refrain from entering places where alcoholic beverages are sold and that he carry out the rules and regulations set up for him by the Whitley County Probation officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Souder of Warren are the parents of twin sons born Sunday morning at the Huntington Hospital. One weighs six pounds 11 ounces and the other six pounds and 14 ounces.

The twins have been given the names Jeffrey Dean and Gregory Gene. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Souder of near Larwill are the paternal grandparents. Mrs. Souder is the former Mary Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Lincoln of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Souder have a small daughter, Ronda Sue.

Thundershowers Break Back Of Heat Wave Today

Accompanying Storms Kill At Least 12

By UNITED PRESS

Thundershowers broke the back of a scorching heat wave in the East today. But the price was Accompanying storms killed at high. least 12 persons, terrorized coastal dwellers and cut power lines.

In Albuquerque, N.M., meanwhile, heavy rains sent roaring flash floods into residential lowlands and chased 25 persons from their homes. The residents were still digging out from under a million-dollar flood which struck when similar rains fell last week.

The cool air spread southeastward into New England, the Middle Atlantic states and fringes of the Deep South.

Temperatures dropped from 10 to 20 degrees from the northern plains to as far south as the Carolinas and the northern portions of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

But in the Southeast, leery coastal residents kept a close watch on hurricane "Connie," which was moving west-northwest past the British West Indies.

The cool air brought the first decent "sleeping" weather Sunday night to the Midwest and East in weeks.

Thunderstorms killed at least three persons at Newark, N.J., and lightning killed a 23-year-old golfer at Mamaroneck, N.Y.

At Wolfeboro, N.H., County Judge William E. Fuller, 57, Fall River, Mass., was killed when struck by a bolt of lightning as he camped in a tent.

Lightning also struck a bookstore on the University of Maine campus at Orono, causing a $75,000 fire, including destruction to $65,000 worth of textbooks stocked for the fall semester.

In New York City, lightning hit the cornice of a 10-story building and showered bricks and mortar into the street. No one was hurt.

Free Movie Thursday To Be "Return To Treasure Island"

The free movie for the youngsters of the county on Old Settlers morning promises to be a good one this year.

Jack Hancock, local manager of the Columbia Theatre, has secured "Return to Treasure Island," starring Tab Hunter and Don Addams. There will also be an array of cartoons and comics.

The movie commences at 10 a.m. Thursday and is free to any youngster in the county under 16 years of age.

President Says AtomCanBecome Man's Servant

Sends Message To Geneva Conference

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower told scientists throughout the world today that "the atom stands ready to become man's obedient, tireless servant, if man will only allow it."

Mr. Eisenhower's statement, issued by the White House, was to be delivered to the United Nations conference on the peaceful uses of atomic energy at Geneva by Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Chief Executive told the scientists: "You can best unfold to the people of the world the bright promise of the benign atom."

He said the atom wears no nationality and recognizes no frontiers. "It is neither moral nor immoral. Only man's choice can make it good or evil."

Mr. Eisenhower reaffirmed this nation's "determination to help find ways by which the miraculous inventiveness of man shall not be dedicated to his death, but consecrated to his life."

He said this pledge, which he first gave on Dec. 8, 1953 to the U.N. General Assembly, "has become the law of our land, written into our statutes by the American Congress in the new Atomic Energy Act of 1954."

"We appeal not alone to governments to join with us in this cooperative endeavor," Mr. Eisenhower said. "We are hopeful also that business and professional groups throughout the world will become interested and will provide incentives in finding new ways vancement of the nuclear arts has that this science can be used."

Mr. Eisenhower said the ad- been the work of men of many nations. He said no other scientific gathering of such scope and importance as the Geneva meeting has ever taken place.

"At hand is a rich opportunity to restore old lines of free scientific communication which have been disrupted for so many years," he said.

Mr. Eisenhower assured the scientists that in "your capable hands, I am confident it (the atom) can be made to perform greatly for the betterment of human living."

The conference is being attended by 70 nations. It will run through Aug. 20. Besides the U.S. delegation, headed by Strauss, 183 U.S. scientists, engineers and nuclear experts are attending.

Dale Johnsons Buy The Keiser Property

Mr. and Mrs. Dale N. Johnson, 321 North Walnut street, have purchased the Levi Keiser residence at 329 North Main street. They plan to move about September 1.

Mr. Johnson is assistant manager for the Alsco door and window company, Fort Wayne. A son, Max, is employed at the newspaper shop, and a daughter, Beverly, at the Columbia Theatre. Jimmie, Mary and Stevie are at home.

The Keiser family had owned the house since 1919. The three daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Levi Keiser are: Miss Marjorie Keiser; Mrs. William Veasey, Churubusco and Mrs. Everett Fleck, Anderson.

U. S. Will Not Relax Shipping Controls Now

Despite New Air Of World Friendliness

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States has no plans now to relax its controls against shipping strategic materials to the Soviet bloc despite the new air of world friendliness, American officials said today.

But they said controls might be eased later if broad new agreements are worked out with the Soviet Union on other problems at next October's Big Four foreign ministers meeting. Top U.S. officials are looking to that conference as the acid test of whether Russia really wants a period of harmony in the world.

The recent summit meeting at Geneva directed the United States, British, French and Soviet foreign ministers to meet in October to consider key world problems. No date has been set for the meeting, but the Western powers are thinking about proposing a start about the third week in October.

One of the problems to be considered by the diplomats is how to "bring about a progressive elimination of barriers which interfere with free communications and peaceful trade between peoples."

American officials interpret "peaceful trade" to mean trade in items which would not increase a nation's war-making potential. Until there is a greater spirit of mutual trust on both sides of the Iron Curtain, the United States feels it and other Western allies have gone as far as they can in easing restrictions on strategic trade.

Concession Space Is Nearly Full; "Little Joe" Miller Is Back

DeWitt Phillips and Byron Beaber state that the concession space for Old Settlers Day and the American Legion Festival is practically all taken up.

That old annual honorary "Old Settler" "Little Joe" Miller will be back again on the midway.

Predicts Energy Of H-Bomb To Be Harnessed

Within 20 Years; U.S. Ready To Sell Atomic Fuel

By WILLIAM C. SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondentt

GENEVA (UP)—The first international congress on peaceful uses of atomic energy opened today with a dramatic prediction that man will harness the hydrogen bomb within 20 years and make available the limitless power of the sun itself.

And the United States announced that it is ready now to sell atomic fuel for use in peaceful research.

In Moscow, the Russians said they will start delivery of nuclear equipment to other Communist countries this year.

The two announcements underscored the vast strides already made in harnessing the atom and the limitless possibilities that lie ahead.

Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission told newsmen here that the United States is ready to sell or lease enriched uranium—the stuff that runs atomic power plants—for research purposes.

The Atomic Energy Commission said a price has been set of $28 a pound for heavy water and $40 a kilogram for normal uranium

Giant Hurricane Spewing Winds Of 135 MPH Churns Ocean About 500 Mile Off Seaboard

MIAMI (UP)—A giant hurricane spewing winds of 35 miles an hour churned the ocean about 500 miles off the Atlantic seaboard today.

Weather Bureau officials, noting that Hurricane "Connie" has been gradually swinging toward the north for the past several days, said it was too early to predict where or whether the dangerous storm would hit the U.S. mainland.

The Marine Corps took the hurricane seriously, however. Its planes were ordered to fly from the Cherry Point Marine Air Station in eastern North Carolina to safer spots inland.

A noon advisory issued by the Miami Weather Bureau placed the hurricane about 500 miles off West Palm Beach, Fla. By that hour a further swing to the north had been noted and the direction was north-northwest or north.

Hurricane winds swirled outward 100 miles to the north and east of the storm center and 50 miles to the southwest. Gales were noted 350 miles to the north and east and 150 miles to the north and east

A Navy hurricane hunter plane measured Connie's placid central eye on a radar screen and estimated it was 40 miles across. The Weather Bureau said indications were that the hurricane had reached its maximum intensity.

Small craft warniings were ordered up as far north as Block Island, R.I., and south to Cape Hatteras, N.C. Small craft was cautioned to stay in port as far south as Jacksonville, Fla., because of high seas.

The years first real hurricane wheeled past the Bahamas. Sa far there was no reported damage as it has been over open water all

GOING ON A VACATION BEFORE SCHOOL?... TAKE IT EASY

Don't try to eat up your vacation ..or it may eat you up instead. Relax and drift with things. You'll have a lot more fun. Could be you'll even live longer.

Remember 27 holes of golf the very first day out isn't sport; it's sheer punishment.

If you're motoring, quit for the day when you start to feel the least bit tired. Skipping that extra hundred miles is no matter of life and death. But driving it when you are tired could easily be.

Play is doing the easy way what you don't have to do the hard way. You work plenty hard most of the year. Who pays you to exhaust yourself on your own time?

Take it easy. Play it easy. Play it safe.

Rayburn, Hall Review Work Of Congress

WASHINGTON (UP) — Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) and Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall believe Congress would have accomplished more this year if there had been fewer members of each other's party around.

Rayburn praised the record of the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress. But, he said, "if Democratic leadership . . . had experienced less Republican hindrance, I think we could have done a better job with the President's program."

Hall said if Republicans had controlled Congress, it would have approved highway, health and school construction bills. He labeled the past legislature the "road-block" Congress for its failure to enact a national highway program.

Rayburn, in a statement reviewing the work of Congress, said that after rejection of President Eisenhower's version of a highway program, House Republicans "didn't even vote to get a highway bill to conference with the Senate." He called on Mr. Eisenhower to do some "roadwork" among GOP members before the next session.

In his statement, Hall accused the Democrats of playing a "partisan game" on highway legislation. "The voters will hold them responsible," he said.

Rayburn challenged claims by Hall and Mr. Eisenhower that Democrats failed to cooperate on some important issues. He said Congress approved 60 of Mr. Eisenhower's legislative proposals—"a good job under the circumstances."

Hall said Democrats supported the President on domestic and national defense issues but generally backed him "only when it suited their purpose." Hall listed 25 administration measures approved during the first session and 19 which were not enacted.

Rayburn said most of Mr. Eisenhower's program "was adopted from the previous Democratic administrations, and that, perhaps, explains the Republican rank and file opposition."

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson also issued a statement summarizing the congressional accomplishments. He said the session united the country "behind a policy to protect our freedom and preserve peace."

But Johnson singled out five pieces of "unfinished business," which he said must be considered next year.

He listed the administration-backed upper Colorado River project; highway legislation; Social Security legislation; the farm price support bill to restore rigid supports on basic crops, and school construction legislation.

Notice To Taxpayers Of Additional Appropriation

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of Washington Township, Whitley County, Indiana, that the proper legal officers of said municipality, at their regular meeting place, at 8:00 P.M. on August 30, 1955, will consider the following additional appropriations which said officers consider necessary to meet the emergency existing at this time:

Township Fund:

Share in Joint High School to December 31, 1955	4,600.00
Special School Fund:
Share in Joint High School to December 31, 1955	2,550.00

Taxpayers appearing at such meeting shall have a right to be heard thereof. The additional appropriation as finally made will be automatically referred to the State Board of Tax Commissioners, which Board will hold a further hearing within fifteen days at the office of the County Auditor of Whitley County, Indiana, or at such other place as may be determined. At such hearing interested taxpayers may be heard. Those interested may inquire of the County Auditor the time and place of the meeting.

Hawaiian Girl Faces Arraignment On Stowaway Charge

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — A 16-year-old Hawaiian beauty described as a "nice litttle girl" by the capttain of the Canadian destroyer she stowed away on, goes to court today feeling she'd "like to do it over again."

Perty Joyceln Pilapil, of Hila, Hawaii, will be arraigned before a U. S .commissioner on stowaway charges.

She was taken into custody Sunday by FBI agents who met the destroyer Athabaskan at the Long Beach breakwater.

"I had a wonderful trip and a wonderful time," she said. "I'd like to do it over again."

Lt. Cmdr. Charles H. Davidson, skipper of the ship, said Joycelyn was "rather a nice little girl." However,, he added "we all thought she was a bloody nuisance."

Joycelyn, a former beauty contest entrant, stowed away on the destroyer eight days ago at an open house party in Peral Harbor. She hid in a spare parts bin and ate emergency rations she found there.

The girl was not discovered until the destroyer was 24 hours att sea, Davidson said. She was assigned to a room vacated by the navigating officer and placed under the care of a ship's chaplain.

Richardson said Joycelyn cheerfully pitched in to work in the pantry, washin gdishes and helping to prepare the officers' food. She was confined to her room from dusk to dawn.

"They treated me like a boy and called me 'Butchie'," she said. "I left home because of my family troubles but I don't want to say anything that will hurt my parents."

Asked about a lipstick-scrawled note she left her mother which referred to "iBll" and a "baby" the girl said she wouldn't discuss "Bill.'

"I wrote the note because I felt my parents would let me go if they thought I was going to have a child," she said. "But I am not going to have a child."

Bulganin Hopes To Visit U.S.

MOSCOW (UP)—Premier Nikolai Bulganin by-passed protocol Sunday and expressed hope of sometime visiting the United States.

He made the statement in reply to questions at a gala 5½ hour party at his summer estate for the Moscow diplomatic corps—the first such frolic ever given in the 37-year history of Communist Russia.

His expression of hope was considered surprising and significant since Soviet leaders have usually parried such questions with the protocol reply that visits depended first of all on invitations.

Bulganin entertained about 250 foreign diplomats, their wives and children at his dacha, or summer house, 60 miles south of Moscow. The precedent-shattering party was held on the 280-acre estate which was once the property of Count Orlov, a favorite lover of Catherine the Great.

Top party and government leaders and foreign newsmen were present for the party at which Russia's leaders folk danced, boat raced, and gamboled in the countryside.

The question of a visit to the United States arose during a conversation about his visit to Britain next spring. Bulganin was asked if he had any plans for a visit to Washington or had received an invitation.

"I have no plans or invitation," Bulganin said, "but I hope that sometime it will be brought about."

The gay party was marked by such scenes as Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rowing Argentine Ambassador Leopoldo Bravo and the wife of the Indonesian Ambassador Subandrio in a rowboat around one of the many lakes.

Administration Of Crabill Estate Approved

A petition for administration of the estate of William E. Crabill, who died July 29, 1955, was approved in Whitley county circuit court Friday. The petition was filed by Ila M. Kichler, attorney for the estate.

Albert A. Crabill and Mary V. Bemis, brother and sister of the deceased man, both of Churubusco, relinquished their rights to administer the estate and Kichler was appointed as their personal representative.

The court set the administrator's bond at $15,000.

Everyone Dives Into The Argument

NEW YORK (UP) — Everyone dived into the argument Joseph Talbott, 46, and his wife, Contina, 30, had on a waterfront pier Sunday.

First Mrs. Talbott pushed her husband into the Hudson River, police said.

He climbed out and she dived in.

He dived in after her.

A policeman dived in after both of them.

The policeman's partner dived in after all three of them.

The policemen took the Talbotts to Bellevue Hospital for observation.

Backstairs At The White House

By RICHARD E. MOONEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Backstairs at the White House:

When it's warm in the nation's capital, it's hot in the White House rose garden. And when Washington itself is hot, the rose garden is a "bake oven." Those are the words President Eisenhower used to describe the garden on one recent sizzling morning when he was greeting a refugee relief group amid the roses.

The rose garden has long been a favored presidential greeting place for visiting delegations. It is just a few steps from the Chief Executive's office. It is well arranged, because the President can stand on the porch steps at one end and be seen by the entire group he is greeting. And it is a landmark—well known to the publci and to a number of delegations which pay official calls there year after year.

There are two drawbacks, however—the heat, and its size. The garden is not large enough to accommodate large groups of 200 or 300 or more. And big group or little, the glistening white walls of the house, which enclose three sides of the garden, reflect every degree of heat the sun shines down.

White House aides spotted the size drawback some time ago, and the big groups were shifted to a nearby spot on the White House lawn, directly behind the President's office. There is a slope there, where the President can stand and still be seen by all. And it's not quite so hot, but you would never call it cool.

Now they have beat the heat. The President is on the move, farther out onto the lawn where are dozens of big, shady trees. The first move was made about ten days ago, when Mr. Eisenhower presided over the inauguration of a new "atoms for peace" stamp.

The ceremony was mapped out on a big chart which gives the name and location of every tree and bush on the grounds. The President was assigned to stand beneath a Norway maple, not far from the house, facing the Washington monument. The guests — cabinet officers, diplomats and other VIPs—were to sit on chairs in front of him, some in the sun and some in shade. When the time came, protocol went, and everyone crowded as much into the shade as he could, but it still wasn't perfect.

Last week, the ceremony planners came up with yet another improvement, and it looks like this one is here to stay. The occasion was the visit of the "Bull Elephants Club"—a herd of male congressional aides — and their female associates. There were more than 400 of them.

This time, the President proceeded a little farther down the driveway, to a spot in the shade of a purple beech, where the lawn rises to form a perfect natural ampitheater. White House carpenters improvised a platform for Mr. Eisenhower to stand on, and the scene was set. Everyone had a good view of the man they came to see (and to pledge their support for in 1956) and everyone had shade, with some to spare.

President Works On Legislation Passed By Congress

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—President Eisenhower worked at home to catch up with Congress today. He will follow the legislators on vacation next week.

Mr. Eisenhower hopes to finish his work on legislation passed in the adjournment rush before he leaves for a work-and-play vacation in Colorado next Sunday or Monday.

He came here to his farm home Friday to spend the better part of a week. He will return to Washington before leaving for Colorado.

The President attended church services Sunday with Maj. Walter Tkach, assistant White House physician. Mrs. Eisenhower remained at the farm.

The Chief Executive was greeted by several hundred tourists as he emerged from the century-old church where Abraham Lincoln attended services before he delivered his historic Gettysburg Address.

Summer profitts are way ahead of last year because of the record sale of beat-the-heat items, the bank said.

Storm-Tossed High Tension Wire Kills Three People

NEWARK, N. J. (UP)—An expectant mother, her 10-month-old nephew, and a man who sought to aid them were electrocuted Sunday night by a storm-tossed high tension wire.

Police said Mrs. Fanny Reed, 35, Newark, with other members of a swimming party, sought shelter in a panel truck during a storm Sunday night.

A 4,000-volt wire, snapped by the storm fell on the truck and Mrs. Reed's sister, Mrs. Doris Patterson, 32, her son William, 10, and his friend, Terry Williams, 12, all of Newark, jumped panic-stricken from the truck.

When Mrs. Reed jumped out the rear with the child in her arms her foot struck the bumper and both were electrocuted. John Gomez, 24, a Korean War veteran rushed to their aid and was killed when he touched the bodies, police said.

Mrs. Patterson said a doctor told her sister to expect twins. The dead woman's husband is a Marine sergeant stationed in Virginia.

There Are Recurrent Rumors About Making Of Hollywood Films

By DORE SCHARY
Written for the United Press

HOLLYWOOD (UP) —There are two recurrent rumors about Hollywood films in connection with the international market that I should like to consider.

One of them is the criticism that we give a distorted picture of America.

Sophisticated European audiences are quite able to be discriminating, and if they see a lush technicolor musical comedy in which the leading lady has a bathtub 20 feet wide, they take for granted that these bathtubs do not exist in all American homes.

They can see a picture in which mayhem and murder are committed on a public street, without assuming that this is a casual, daily happening on all streets in America.

We Americans can look at an Italian picture like "Bicycle Thief" and accept it as a searching piece of work, without coming to the conclusion that all Italians steal bicycles. Yhy do we not assume that Italian audiences are capable of the same reasoning with which we are blessed?

The truth is that in surveys made by the Statet Department our films have consistently proven to be a wonderful ambassador for the American way of life.

Recently we have begun to be criticized for certain pictures which are sent overseas because they depict some seamy sides of America. We have made surveys oversea and we find these pictures actually reflect vrey well upon us because audiences seeing them realize that if America can produce pictures of self-criticism, we are living in a healthy political atmosphere.

The charge is Russians could use these pictures for propaganda by changing a few words.

The answer is that if the Russians got hold of any American film they could change a word here and there and turn it intto active propaganda. They could take another picture and say it is a common daily truth.

No one picture can be protected against the professional liar.

Family Plan

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — Clerks at the hermitage hotel opened up two big family rooms and rolled in portable beds to prove their claim that there is no charge for children under 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mayfield of St. Louis registered witht their eight children— all under 12.

Senator Johnson Resting At His Home

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, who suffered a heart attack July 2, rested at his home today.

He was discharged from the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital Sunday.

A neighbor, Dr. O.E. Reed, said the 47-year-old Texan looked better than before he went to the hospital.

Johnson's physicians have said his return to the Senate Democratic leadership in January will depend on the extent of his recovery.

He plans to fly to Atlanta Ga., and to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., for medical checkups in December, just before the second sessio nof the 84th Congress gets underway.

Homebody

CHICAGO (UP)— Mrs. Eileen Stura, 31, was granted a divorce when she told the judge her husband was just a homebody.

Mrs. Stura said she hadn't been seen outside of her home with her husband in four years of marriage, and he deserted her when she suggested that he take her out to dinner.

Etna Couple Observe Their 60th Wedding Anniversary; Receive More Than 100 Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Kiester received more than 100 guests Sunday afternoon at their home in Etna in honor of their 60th wedding anniversary. Forty members of the family attended the dinner at noon.

Three dozen gladiolus brought by their son, Jackson Kiester from Lansing, Ill., garden flowers, the gift of friends, and a huge bouquet of roses and chrysanthemums from Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vanderby of Highland decorated the Kiester home.

A large anniversary cake, the gift of Mrs. Marie Kiester McVey, widow of the late Homer Kiester, adorned the table laid for the cafeteria dinner. The cake was topped with the words "Congratulations, on your 60th wedding anniversary to Mother and Dad-Marie."

The couple was showered with boxes of candy, fruit, a Lazy Susan, linens and various other lovely gifts.

The couple left their farm they had owned near Etna for 40 years and purchased a home in Etna near the church in which they have been active for many years.

Residents of Etna-Troy township for many years they at one time lived at the County Farm Home where Mr. Kiester served as superintendent for a number of years. He was also in charge of the Farm Bureau in this city at one time.

Among the guests were Rev. and Mrs. Kreig of Etna. Rev. Kreig is the couple's pastor and the new minister of the Etna church. Included among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Malone and son of Colorado, guests at the Carl Kaufman home in Jefferson township. Mr. Malone is known among his friends here as "Pat." Guests besides Jackson Kiester, son and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Kiester and members of his family from Illinois, were those from Goshen, Fort Wayne, Columbia City, Larwill, Syracuse, and Etan-Troy community.

It was 10 years ago the well-known couple received many of their friends at their farm on their Golden Wedding Day.

Children Of Burton Whites Guests At The Parental Home

Miss Helen White has arrived from New Albany for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton White, 214 South Line street. A teacher for a number of years at New Albany, Miss White is now a technican in the School of Dentistry in the University of Louisville, and she also has classes in histology in the University.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil White of Tuscola, Ill., a son and daughter-in-law of the Whites, is now at the home of Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. Clark Paxton near Pierceton and will be here this week for Old Settlers Day.

In charge of advertising for a number of years for the local newspapers, Mr. White is now editor and owner of the Tuscola Journal at Tuscola, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan White, another son and daughter-in-law of the Whites, arrived Saturday night for a visit and to attend the Smith reunion held Sunday at the White home. Their daughter, Valerie, accompanied her aunt to this city, for a longer visit with her grandparents.

David Lee Clapp And Shirley Marie Lahr United In Church Rites Sunday Afternoon

David Lee Clapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clapp of South Whitley, and Miss Shirley Marie Lahr, daughter of William Lahr of Huntington county, were united in marriage, Sunday afternoon, in St. Peter's Evangelical Reformed church in Huntington.

The Rev. Paul Rasche received the marriage vows at 2 o'clock, the double ring ceremony being used. Terrence Clapp served his brother as best man. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Orville Ruppel, as matron of honor and Miss Julia Clapp, the bridegroom's sister, served as bridesmaid. John, Michael, Patrick and Stanley Snyder, all cousins of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

Barbara and David Eckert, the small niece and nephew of the bride, served as flower girl and ring bearer. A program of bridal music was presented before the ceremony by Mrs. Byron Bollinger, organist, and George McGlennen, vocalist, both of South Whitley.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, appeared in a gown of imported Swiss embroidery over crystal white taffeta. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of white glemellias and nylon net. Her two attendants were in blue gowns and carried bouquets of pink glemellias and the little flower girl, who was in blue, carried a miniature bouquet of pink glemellias.

Two hundred guests attended the marriage rites and were later received in the parish hall. Servers at the reception were Miss Kay Lahr, Miss Carol Miller, Miss Barbara Bender, Mrs. John Snyder and Mrs. Marietta Jones.

The couple is spending a week at Lake James and this fall will be at home in North Manchester where the bridegroom is a student in Manchester college.

Blight May Damage Tomatoes Or Potatoes In Late Summer

Late blight may cause severe damage to Hoosier tomato and potato fields according to R. W. Samson, Purdue University vegetable disease specialist.

Heavy fertilization, close plainting, good insect control and some overhead irrigation have provided conditions for blight attack among heavy vined plants in lowlying muckland potato fields in northern Indiana, in spite of high July temperatures.

Late blight may have developed in some of these muckland potato fields in the past month. Very small amounts of the disease were brought in on seed potatoes from northern areas where blight was severe last fall.

Blight is less likely in Indiana tomato fields this season because the disease was absent this spring in Gulf Coast states where tomato plants were grown and shipped to Indiana. In past seasons, such imported plants have been a source of the disease.

Muckland potatoes which have been sprayed every week since June should not be attacked if the sprays are continued until the vines start to die. Growers who have heavy-foliage fields, but who have not sprayed at least once a week, should now start to spray at least every week. One or two immediate 4-day sprays would be wise in some fields. A rainy week could result in very rapid development of late blight in midseason or late blight in mid-season or late muckland potato fields.

Maneb and zineb are preferred fungicides for late blight control on either potatoes or tomatoes. The chemicals should be applied at three pounds an acre per application in 40 to 160 gallons of water at from 75 to 300 pounds pressure.

Navy Plane Crashes

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—A Navy plane from Washington, D.C., crashed in Lake Winnibigoshish on the Leech Lake Indian Reservation in northern Minnesota today, the Naval Air Station here said this noon.

Complete details were not immediately available. It was not known how many persons were aboard or if there were any deaths or injuries.

Over-Anxiety Major Threat To Vacationists

DETROIT —(UP)— The biggest threat motorists getting ready for the annual vacations face is their own over-anxiety, according to automotive safety engineers.

The experts said motorists are lured into taking unnecessary chances, driving faster than usual, and trying to keep a time-table they've set for themselves.

Brakes, lights, windshield, horn, wheel alignment and signal lights should be checked particularly close before a trip.

But safety experts said "rushing" and "over-anxiety" will spoil the best planning in having a car in condition.

They also warn against night driving since two out of every three fatal accidents happen between dusk and dawn.

Policemen Doff Ties

PATTERSON, N. J. (UP)— The record-breaking heat wave shattered precedent here.

Police Chief James Walker gave permission to the city's policemen to doff their ties for the remainder of August, for the first time in the force's history.

Conference

metal and $25 per gram for enriched uranium.

The prediction that the vastly greater power of the hydrogen bomb will one day be harnessed was made by Dr. Homi J. Bhabha distinguished Indian physicist who is president of the conference.

In a message to the opening session of the Congress, President Eisenhower reaffirmed the United States' determination to find ways by which 'the miraculous inventiveness of man shall not be dedicated to his death but consecrated to his life.'

Bhabha's prediction of the future of hydrogen bomb power meant that the atoms-for-peace congress, bringing the first cracks in the iron curtain of atomic secrecy, was outdated before it really began.

Today's meeting, which brought together 1,260 scientists from 72 nations, was another international triumph for President Eisenhower who brought new hope to the world in December, 1953 by suggesting before the United Nations that the world pool its atomic information for peaceful uses.

Mr. Eisenhower, in a message read by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, said that science wears no nationality and recognizes no frontiers and that "only man's choice can make it good or evil." It was a reminder that atomic energy holds a golden future for the world if it is used for peace.

Tribute Paid President

United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold who opened the U.N.-sponsored conference, and Swiss President Max Petitpierre paid tribute to the initiative of the American president. Hammarskjold told the 1,260 scientists, 800 government and industry observers and nearly 600 newsmen:

"Do not fail to recall on this occasion that is was to the initiative taken by the President of the United States. . .that we owe the origins of this conference.

"The conference. . .might well mark the beginning of the phase during which man will have left his bewilderment, his fear behind and will begin to feel the elation of one of the greatest conquests made by his mind," Hammarskjold said.

Another message came from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin whose scientists here talked and chatted with the Americans, British and French and discussed secrets for which they would have been jailed or shot had they mentioned them a few months ago.

The scientists listened attentively to the words of welcome, but it [illegible] address by the Indian [illegible] that filled the corridors of the old League of Nations head- [illegible] conversation, speculation and discussion of the new world he envisaged.

Fuel Supply Dwindling

Bhabha said the earth would run out of all its ordinary fuel like coal and oil "in under a century" and that even the supply of uranium and other elements for atomic energy were not without a limit.

But the hydrogen bomb, once tamed will truly furnish mankind with energy forever, he said.

Bhabha spoke on the work of ment of peace—a top priority proj- turning the H-bomb into an instruect known to be in progress in the strictest secrecy in laboratories of the United States and Russia. His words opened the H-bomb to discussion officially.

Scientists were agreed that this is the biggest and certainly one of the most important conferences ever held. The full story will be unfolded during the next 12 days when the scientists make available more than 200 tons of scientific papers—50 million words.

The United States, with 183 top calibre scientists here, will deliver 180, or 40 per cent of the papers. The U.S. also has an elaborate exhibit showing the progress of uranium from ore to reactor, seven films in four languages, and several thousand books.

The Associated Electrical Industries of Britain announced it would sell reactors for about $210,000. Bendix of America promptly said it would sell reactors for $200,000 and it looked as if this might be the first atomic price war.

Driving New Roads A Vacation Hazard

A good part of the added hazard of vacation driving comes from the millions of people who are driving unfamiliar roads, says Indiana Traffic Safety Foundation.

Think, for instance, how many persons will, this year, do their first mountain driving and how many will drive an expressway for the first time.

There are different techniques for the various kinds of driving just as there are differences between flat country walking and mountain climbing yet many persons assume that they know all about it and refuse to solicit or eccept advice.

It is well to know what the hazards are so that you can avoid them. Above all, when in new and strange surroundings use extra care.

The captain who has commanded a shop on hundreds of ocean crossings still picks up a pilot to guide him into the harbor and proceeds at reduced speed. Do you think you are more expert in maneuvering your vehicle? It is much better to take advice than to take chances, so on unfamiliar roads, Slow Down and Live.

na and in some cases espionage.

Baumer said he was not forced to sign, apparently because of his physical condition. He was wounded in the foot when the B29 was shot down and later frostbite added complications and the foot was amputated.

Capt. Elmer F. Llewllyn, of Missoula, Mont., navigator of the plane, vehemently insisted they were well south of the Yalu River on a leaflet dropping mission over North Korea when they were shot down.

The other airmen were:

Capt. John W. Buck, Armathwaite, Tenn.; Capt. Eugene J. Vaadi, Clayton, N. Y.; 1st Lt. Wallace L. Brown, Montgomery, Ala.; T-Sgt. Howard W. Brown, St. Paul, Minn.; Airman 1-c Steve E. Retired Man Busier Than Ever Before

BUFFALO, N.Y. —(UP)— Retirement proved too boring for a former teletypewriter operator, so now he is handling six jobs in suburban Amherst, where he lives.

When Charles S. Woodin, 69, first retired two years ago, he occupied himself with chores around the house. This quiet life did not satisfy him after 25 years as a teletypewriter man and Morse telegrapher. He talked to the town supervisor and ended up with the following jobs:

Secretary to the police chief clerk of the town court, clerk of the Williamsville village court, secretary to two judges, registrar for the local draft board and property clerk for the police department.

Red Sox Hope To Smoke Out White Sox From First Place By Using Yanks As Kindling

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

The fired-up Red Sox had it all figured out today how they can smoke out the White Sox from first place in the American League by using the Yankees as convenient kindling wood within the next few days.

Mike Higgins' Red Sox were the only first division club in the league to gain ground Sunday, climbing to within 1½ games of the top by defeating the Athletics, 16-12, with the aid of Ted Williams' 1,999th base hit of his colorful career.

The Red Sox launch a three-game series in New York Tuesday night and Higgins has Yankee-killer Willard Nixon all set to shoot at the buckling Bronx Bombers. Williams also will be shooting for his 2,000th hit and by the time the dust clears following the series, Boston may have succeeded in loosening Chicago's death - like hold on first place.

Coming from behind Sunday, the White Sox grimly held on to the lead by battling the last - place Orioles to a 2-2 tie before rain called the game in the 13th inning. The rain also washed out a scheduled second game.

Yankees, Detroit Split

The Yankees missed a chance to take over first place and fell three percentage points behind by splitting a doubleheader with the Tigers. Detroit won the opener, 4-2, but dropped the nightcap, 3-2, when Mickey Mantle hit his second home rof the game and 26th of the season in the 10th inning off Babe Birrer.

Cleveland also missed an opportunity to move into first place by losing to Washington for the third straight time, 9-3. The second game of a scheduled twin-bill was postponed by rain.

The Red Sox blasted out 19 hits off four Kansas City pitchers, sewing up the victory with a six-run burst in the eighth inning. Norm Zauchin poled his 22nd homer while Williams' 1,999th hit was a sixth inning single that drove in two runs. Ex-GI Dick Brodowski picked up the win in relief.

Rain interrupted the White Sox-Oriole contest as Chicag had the potential winning run on second base in the 13th inning. Jim Busby beat out a bunt with one out and was sacrificed to second but before Bob Kennedy could come up, the downpour started and ended the contest. George Kell homered in the first inning and singled home the tying run after Nellie Fox tripled in the eighth. Dave Pope of Baltimore hit a two-run homer off starter Connie Johnson.

The Tigers beat their old nemesis, Tommy Byrne, as Bubbs Phillips slammed a two-run homer in the first game, but Mantle's pair of homers brought Bob Turley his 12th victory in the nightcap. Steve Gromek was the winner in the opener.

Early Wynn felt the wrath of the Senators as they clubbed him for nine of their 12 hits and seven of their nine runs. Clint Courtney led Washington with a triple and a pair of singles. Johnny Schmitz went the route for his sixth victory, yielding 10 hits.

Milwaukee Wins Two

Milwaukee broke a four - game losing streak by sweeping a double-header from Pittsburgh, 6-3 and 4-2. The Braves clinched the opener early when they knocked out Vern Law with a four-run burst in the first inning and Hank Aaron hit his 23rd homer with one on for two more runs in the eighth. Bob Buhl limited the Pirates to seven hits for his eighth victory in the second game.

The Cubs beat the Dodgers, 4-3, but even with the defeat and the two victories by the second-place Braves, Brooklyn still led the National League by 14½ games. Warren Hacker ended the game dramatically by striking out Don Zimmer with the bases full and two out in the ninth after relieving Hal Jeffcoat with a count of two balls and no strikes on Zimmer. Bob Rush was the winner.

Robin Roberts of the Phillies registered his 18th victory although he needed Jack Meyer's relief in a 9-6 decision over the Cards. Ed Waitkus hit a three-run homer for Philadelphia.

A three-run homer by relief pitcher Hershell Freeman powered the Redlegs to an 8-5 victory in the first game of a doubleheader but a barrage of four home runs, two by Gail Harris and one each by Hank Thompson and Bill Taylor, gave the Giants a 6-5 triumph in the nightcap. Wally Post and Willie also homered in the first game.

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A bargain purchase of 11 "empty cylinder" in 1901 to protect pedestrians from horses outside the First City Troop Armory backfired Friday.

Firemen were rushed to the scene when a truck hit one of the cylinders and loosed ammonia fumes. A second cylinder also was found to contain fumes

'World Series' Starts For All-Star Players Of Local Leagues

All-star players from two of Columbia City's summer baseball league will start "World Series" play this week.

The Little-league All-stars from Whitley county and Columbia City will tangle Tuesday with the Little-league All-stars of Warsaw, while the Pony Leaguers have their first game at Warsaw tonight.

This game will be played at Warsaw at 6:30 p.m., and the local players will meet at DeVol Field at 5:30 p.m.

Members of the team from the American League, consisting of Columbia City boys, include Dick Egolf and Tommy King, Tigers; Tommy Beard and Kent Jackson, Indians; Ronnie Eberhard and Ray Steele, Yankees, and Joe Pittenger and Frank Fahl, Red Sox.

Boys from the county which compose the National League team are Kent Sherman and Kent Schrader, Dodgers; Willie Tuggle and Jimmy Sims, Giants; Don Wright and Lynn Workman, Cardinals, and Mickey Mishler and John Anar, Cubs.

August 13 and 16 are the next game dates for the Little-leaguers, with both games being slated for DeVol Field.

Pony League All-stars who will travel to Warsaw tonight are David Hindbaugh, John Myers, Rex Killian, Bob Egolf, and Mickey Quinn, Thomsons; Tommy Clapp, Chester Sims, David Richards, and Howard McGlennon, South Whitley; Jay Lundy, Ronnie Estes and Jim Wright, Braves; John Crampton, John Lillich and Tony Bushman, Lakers, and two unnamed players from Pierceton.

The Pony Leaguers will play here at 8 p.m. Wednesday and again at Warsaw at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

According to Roy Kilby, summer athletics program director, all members of winning teams will receive ribbons.

Bill Dunn Is National Junior Golf Champion

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP)—Booming tee shots and accurate irons made Bill Dunn, a strapping 17-year-old Duncan, Okla., youngster, the National Junior Golf champion.

Dunn bound for Oklahoma A & M this fall, went 3-up in 10 with a par 4. After dividing the next four holes, Seanor cut the margin to 2-down when Dunn three-putted 15.

Dunn clinched it on 16 when Seanor hit a tree, a bunker and finally overshot the green.

Steady shooting won for the two finalists in the morning semi-finals Dunn ousted Dick Foote, Santa Ana, Calif., 3 and 1, and Seanor eliminate Phil Rodgers San Diego, Calif. 2 and 1.

Seanor's 17 holes were one under par. Dunn led Foote 2-up at the end of 16 when a penalty ended tthe match. Both hit the green but the hole was awarded to Dunn when Foote picked up his ball before putting.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (UP)—Nashua is beginning to get more play in the Calinete future book for his match race with Kentucky Derby winner Swaps at Chicago's Washington Park, Aug. 31. Swaps remains a heavy 1-2 choice while Nashua is being quoted at 3-2.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—Manager Harry Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals stepped into the team's regular lineup Sunday in a vain effort to end the Cards' losing ways.

Walker, playing left field, had one hit in five at-batts as the Cards went down to their ninth loss in the lastt 10 games, 9-6, to the Phil-seventh inning.

CINCINNATI (UP)—The streak of consecutive games played comlies. His hit was a double that sparked a four-run rally in the piled by shorttstop Roy McMillan of the Cincinnati Redlegs has been snapped at 584 because of a sprained thumb.

McMillan, sidelined by the injury, kept the streak intact by appearing in the first game of Sundays doubleheader with the Giants as a pinchhitter, but failed to appear in the second game.

McMillan began the streak in the final 11 games of the 1951 season. The National League record for consecutive games played is 822, set by Gus Suhr of Pittsburgh from 1931 through 1937.

Corn And Oats Futures Profit From Heat Wave

CHICAGO (UP)—Corn and oats futures profited from the heat wave last week, with heavy buying on the Board of Trade to cover possible damage to the crops.

Rye futures showed small gains, while wheat and oats slipped.

Compared with Friday a week ago, wheat ruled 2½ to 3⅜ cents a bushel lower; corn 1⅛ to 2½ higher; oats ¾ to 1⅝ lower; rye ⅛ to ½ higher; soybeans 2 to 3 higher; lard 8 points a hundred pounds lower to 15 higher.

Cash grains were generally lower, with losses from 1 to 2¾ cents.

The decline in wheat futures was attributed to slow foreign demand and inactivity in domestic flour mills, along with prospects for a large harvest.

Soybeans stood up in a selling wave that hit the markets Friday when it was announced that Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson plans to go to Europe this fall to try to sell some of the U.S. farm surpluses. Soybean futures were supported to a large extent by export buying to cover sales to Japan and Israel.

Traders are awaiting publication of the government's Aug. 1 general crop report, due next Wednesday, to find out how much damage the hot, dry weather has done to crops. Scattered showers are forecast for the grain belt this week end, but the government weekly crop report said this week that heavy rains are needed to alleviate damage done by the recent drought.

The Agriculture Department announced Friday that after Aug. 15 it will offer government-owned soybean stocks for export sale only.

The agency also said it will drop current minimum prices on soybean sales for export and put its stocks up for bidding. The government previously has been selling surplus soybeans from the 1954 crop at the market price but not for less than the 1954 price-support rate.

Under the new plan, the minimum price through Aug. 15 will be the loan rate for No. 2 soybeans at the point of production, plus 4 cents a bushel. Officials said this won't affect its soybean selling prices but will make it easier for the government and buyers to determine what minimum prices are for a specific deal.

It was estimated the government currently owns about 11 million bushels of 1954 crop soybeans. The beans left after Aug. 15 will be offered for sale on a bid basis for export only, with offers due in the Chicago office of the Commodity Credit Corp. by Aug. 16. The department said it will announce acceptance or rejection of bids by Aug. 18.

Indiana Makes Available Fourth Home For Craig

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Indiana has made a fourth home available for Governor Craig's use.

The newest is a two-story home on Lake Wawasee near Warsaw. It was spruced up with new furniture for use by the governor or anyone he wants to hand the key to.

In addition, Craig has use of the mansion in Indianapolis, a cabin in Brown County State Park, and a cottage at Dunes State Park.

The lake home has been State Conservation Department property for some time. Walter Koher, superintendent of a state fish hatchery, had been living there.

He was moved to a rented cottage costing Indiana $75 per month until the department gets new quarters for Koher about Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, the state bought $1,500 worth of new furniture for the Wawasee home. Craig hasn't used the lake home yet, but conservation officials hope he will use it soon and try some fishing.

Woman Loses 40 Pounds In Effort To Rewin Husband

By TERESA REESE
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP) — Mrs. Lillian Korzen announced with the pride of a dedicated dieter today that she has fulfilled an "edict' from a Chicago judge to lose 40 pounds in an effort to rewin her husband.

Mrs. Korzen's husband sued her for divorce last May, primarily, he said, because she was "just too fat." She, in turn sued for separate maintenance.

Superior Judge Cornelius Harrington put the matter off utnil Sept. 27th. He suggested to Mrs. Korzen during a talk in his chambers that she slim down from her 190 pounds to 150 by that time.

This he said, would be more in keeping with her five-feet-one-inch hieght.

The judge's idea was that her husband, Michael, would be so pleased, that the two would effect a reconciliation. The Korzens have two children, Dolores, 11, and Michael Jr. 10.

Harrington decided that if no reconciliation came about, the suits would proceed.

Now thatt Mrs. Korzen had lost the required poundage almost two months ahead of schedule, she was retitcent about discussing a reconciliation.

"I lived up to my bargain," she said, glancing down at her short, attracttively plump figure, "but I just don't know how I feel about going back to him."

Mrs. Korzen a merry blue-eyed woman with a new short wavy haircut, was more eager to discuss her diet. Besides ridding her of 40 unwanted pounds, she said, it has "changed my whole opinion of myself and my oultook on life."

She said that after her dilemma became public she received a letter from a Stockton, Caif, woman who manufactured diet foods.

"This woman, Tillie Lewis, told me just what I could eat and what I couldn't," said Mrs. Korzen, and I havn't had on eof my old headahces since I started on the diet. I hate to sound like one of these 'before and after' advertisements, but I'm 43 and I feel like I'm 23."

"Now that I've got the hang of it, I'm not going to stop dieting until I' mdown to 120 pounds. I wonder what my husband would say about that."

Woman Innocent Of Premeditated Murder Of Husband

SENDAI, Japan (UP) — Mrs. Romola Abidin who shot and killed her officer husband was informed unofficially today she will collect his government insurance, his back pay and a special "gratuitty" from the Army.

The 26-year-old mother of three whose stateside home is Bayside, N.Y., was found innocent Sunday of premedittated murder in the Cherry Blossom Lane shooting of her warrantt officer husband, Robert, 28, a helicopter pilot.

Army sources said she was expected to receive a $10,000 insurance policy, a special "gratutity' of about $2000 awarded to dependents of soldiers who die "in line of duty,' and his back pay.

In addition she is entitled to social security benefits and a Veteran's Administration pension. Army sources said the pensions probably would total about $250 monthly.

Attorneys for Mrs. Abidin said they did not know whether she would receive tthe enttire $10,000 insurance that Abidin's mother, possibility thatt Abidin's mother, Mrs. James Abidin of 175-56 Underhill Ave., Flushing, N.Y., was beneficiary to half tne amount.

Although Abidin was killed at home and did not technically die in line of duty, an Army legal source said it was Army poilcy to interpret the gratuity mattter "as broadly as possible."

A U.S. Army general court martial freed Mrs. Abidin after hearing that he forced her into sexual indecencies and threatened to kill their three children.

AFL Demands An Investigation Into 'Piracy'

CHICAGO (UP)—An AFL report today demanded a congressional investigation into what it called "piracy" of industrial plants from established locations to low-paying areas.

Most of the alleged "piracy" is taking place in the unorganized South, the report charged.

The report was submitted Sunday to the executive council by the AFL research department was certain to be approved.

The council is meeting here this week to discuss its forthcoming merger with the CIO.

The report charged that industrial plants have been lured to low-paying areas by offers of financial subsidies, free buildings and advertising of low-wage rate.s

Anti-union restrictions set up by "pirating" communities have provided an additional lure, it charged.

O'Connor Wins Larry Crockett Sprint Car Race

SALEM, Ind. (UP)—Pat O'Connor, North Vernon, Ind., won the 30-lap Larry Crockett Memorial sprint car race Sunday after tangling with Andy Lidnen on the first turn.

O'Connor took the lead and held it to the end after his car struck Linden's in the rear, causing Linden to ram a ramp and land in in the infield. Linden, Los Angeles racer shooting for his fourth consecutive AAA sprint car victory, was not hurt but the was out of the race.

Trailing O'Connor were Don Freeland, Los Angeles; Mike Magill, Haddenfield, N.J.; Jimmy Daywalt, Indianapolis and Duane Carter Indianapolis.

Bob Sweikert, 1955 winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race, qualified but developed engine trouble and failed to start.

The race was in memory of Crockett, Columbus, Ind., driver who was killed March 20 in a race at Langhorne, Pa. O'Connor was Crockett's best friend.

Stocks Suffer Widest Break Since Mid-March

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks this week suffered their widest break since the week ended March 11.

The decline amounted to 9.45 points in the industrial average which closed the week at 456.40. The loss, however, amounted to a mere 2 per cent.

In dollars, the decline knocked values of all listed issues down by three billion dollars.

Railroad issues closed the week at 155.00 in their average, a loss of 3.19 points. Utilities were off a mere 36 cents at 66.23.

Sales for the week fell to a daily average of 2,108,590 shares from 2,232,981 shares a week ago. The Friday session with sales of only 1,690,000 shares was the smallest since May 24. The weekly total of 10,542,954 shares was the smallest since May 27.

Interest Rate Boosted

Friday produced a recovery. So did Tuesday and Wednesday. All were small. The big declines came on Monday when industrials lost 5.60 points, and on Thursday when they were down 6.80 points.

The actual news of industry failed to provide a clue to the market break. The real reason was the market itself which had been pushed up and up with little or no resting period. Traders were advised to be cautious. They were.

Later on in the week more reasons came into the news. The prime interest rate was boosted. Banks also hiked rates on bankers' acceptances, and all but one federal reserve center boosted its rediscount rate. Money was tightening all around and this was bad psychologically for the market, the trading element said.

Two big companies — Standard Oil Co. (NJ), and Chrysler Corp. provided disappointments. Each had record first half earnings and each clung to its usual dividend instead of boosting the payment or declaring an extra as market operators had anticipated.

GM Boosts Dividend

General Motors Corp. did better. It boosted its dividend by 50 per cent to $1.50 a share for the third quarter. GM had fabulous earnings in the first half. The stock rose to a new high but later met profit-taking and closed the week on a loss of 1½ points. Chrysler fell 3⅛ points on the week.

Another reason for market lethargy and profit-taking was the failure of railroad issues to participate with vigor in the rise. That group closed down on the week with Union Pacific off 4½ points and Santa Fe off 3 points.

Utilities, considered an investment group, were sustained by selective buying in a few issues.

A total of 872 issues, a majority of the 1,418 traded, declined. A mere 387 were able to record gains.

Aircraft issues did better than other groups. They had several good sessions. Boeing closed the week with a rise of 2⅛ points.

Steels turned down. Bethlehem, selling ex-dividend, was off 4⅝ points. Du Pont, the big loser in the chemicals, was off 7 points on the week. Standard Oil (NJ) fell 5 points. Reynolds Metals declined 8½ in its department.

Dairy Animals To Be Shown At State Fair Have Rich Heritage

INDIANAPOLIS, — The dairy cow and the products we get from "the foster mother of the human race" were unknown in America 344 years ago.

When Christopher Columbus came to America there were no cows. Actually, according to official records, the first dairy cows in the United States were brought over to the Jamestown Colony in 1611. But it was not until 1624, when cows arrived at the Plymouth Colony, that the diary industry got its start.

Historians tell us the Pilgrims made the mistake of not bringing cows to the "new land" and the lack of milk had a bearing on the high death rate, particularly of children.

As the U.S. developed and the frontier moved westward, a familiar sight was a cow accompaning the covered wagons on their journey to new horizions.

Today we have more than 23 million dairy cows to furnish us milk, ice cream, butter and other dairy products.

The dairy cattle we recognize today as our major breeds came from England and the European countries about 1815 to 1869. And today pure bred cattle are imported to this country to improve existing blood lines in an effort to increase production.

Over the years dairymen have bred their cattle to produce more milk and to conform to a standard considered best for dairy farming.

At the Indiana State Fair the best in the dairy world will be on exhibit, according to Hal L. Royce, Austin, Director of the Cattle Department. Champions will compete with champions for cash prizes and coveted ribbons and baners. This year the Fair Board is offering $20,495 in premiums to open class or adult exhibitors and $2,995 to 4-H exhibitors in the dairy classes.

The 1955 Hoosier Agricultural exposition will be held August 31 through September 9 with entry closing dates for open class and 4-H classes, August 10 and 15, respectively.

Memorial Rites Held For Garrie Skinner

Funeral services for Garrie Skinner were held Friday morning at the Christian Chapel Church at Merriam with the Rev. Volie Pyler, pastor of the Ormas Bapist Church, officiating. The Rev. Franklin Orr sang three hymns as the musical portion of the service. His accompaniment, the prelude and postlude to the service, was played by Mrs. Gladys Orr.

Members of the Friendly Neighbors Club attended the rites and served as the flower bearers. Those who served as the pallbearers were Harry Howard, Roy Wheeler, Gail Hippensteel, David Weigold, Raye Mosier, and Richard Hardwick. Committal services and burial followed the church rites in the Christian Chapel Cemetery.

MRS. WILBUR PELL

Mrs. Wilbur F. Pell Jr., Shelbyville, has been named chairman of the Indiana Association for Mental Health's annual Program Conference September 11-13 at Indianapolis.

More than 200 presidents, chairmen and other officers of county mental health chapters and committees will gather at the Lincoln Hotel for the three-day conference.

Frank Maidenberg, Marion, president of the state association announced that the executive committee had chosen Mrs. Pell to direct the program. She is president of the Shelby County chapter.

The annual program conference is designed to bring county mental health leaders up to date as to the success of the eight-point program of the Indiana Association, as it is administered in the counties. The eight-point program includes remembering forgotten patients, keeping the mentally ill out of jail, rehabilitation, Christmas program, education, research, legislative program and hospital volunteers.

Mrs. Jose Figueres Acts Like Parent, Impresses Nichols

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mrs. Jose Figueres impressed me because she acts like a parent—which, it turned out, she is.

I rapped at the gate of the Costa Rican Embassy. A maid said Mrs. F. would be down in a minute. Mrs. Figueres happens to be the American wife of the president of Costa Rica. She was in the country to show off her new baby to her folks in New York.

"I have a baby," she said. "He is 7 months old. He weighs over 22 pounds and he's a doll."

I expected the blue-eyed blond beauty, who was born in Westchester County, N.Y., to act like an ordinary parent. Whip out a picture, maybe. She didn't.

"Just a minute," she said.

And up the steps she went and down she came, cuddling Jose Jr.

She Studied Engineering

A doll he was too.

"He cries in Spanish," said Mrs. Figueres, the former Karen Olsen. "Want to hear him?"

Junior didn't feel like crying but a small pinch on the diaper by his mommy stirred him into action. The cry came out something like "oooo-eee-aaa—ah."

"See?" said the mother, "That's Spanish. Isnt it wonderful?'

It sure was. Jose Jr. was carried back to the embassy crib reserved for visiting juniors and Mrs. F. and I had a little talk.

It seems that she met her famous husband somewhat by accident. While she was studying architectural engineering at Columbia University in New York her mother had a maid whose husband was a mental patient. The maid wanted a lift to the hospital to see her man.

Karen asked if she might not drive the maid. She did and it gave her an idea. Something gave her an idea. Something could be done for such people. So she organized a crew of musicians and took them out to entertain the folks at this mental hospital.

Progress in Costa Rica

"It was sort of a 'musical smorgasbord,'" Mrs. Figueres said. "And then I took some other groups out. It turned me to the study of the social sciences. And that is how I met Jose, who at the time was lecturing at Columbia."

Time moved along and love came in. And Jose went back to Costa Rica and eventually Karen Olsen became his wife, instead of staying and making blueprints for houses.

The president in Costa Rica can serve only one term, and Jose's lasts until 1958. After that Mrs. Figueres would like to take him to Denmark. Her parents once lived there and she thinks her husband would like to study the life of the Danish people.

"There are no paupers in Denmark," she said. "We are striving for that kind of a life in Costa Rica. We are making progress, but perhaps if we could spend a little time in Denmark, we could return to Costa Rica and do a lot more good than we have been doing. There is much work to be done."

Both the needs of the animals and the wishes of hunters are considered in establishing the squirrel season. If the season is opened before the litters born in early summer are weaned, and suckling mothers are killed, the young will starve to death. Mid-August, therefore, is the best time for squirrel hunting to start.

Some Speculation That Cominform Might Be Junked

WASHINGTON (UP)—American diplomats arn't throwing their Homburgs into the air over top-level predictions that Moscow will abolish the Cominform.

The prediction could be right. It came from Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru just after he returned home recently from a junket to Moscow.

And President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, while they havn't gone as far as Nehru, have speculated that the Cominform might be junked as a post-Geneva concession to the West.

Cominform is short for Communist Information Bureau. It was founded in Warsaw in September, 1947. Members were the Communist parties of Russia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, France and Italy. The Yugoslav Reds were booted out in 1948. Cominform headquarters is in Bucharest.

The organization was set up as a center for Red leaders to coordinate their policies, swap information and develop a united leadership for the world's Communist movement.

Sheets Receives Fine, Suspended Sentence On Alcohol Conviction

Robert Paul "Sawdust" Sheets, 30, of R 5, was assessed a fine of $20 and costs and was given a suspended sentence of six months on the Indiana State Farm last week in circuit court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of furnishing alcoholic beverage to a minor.

The sentence was suspended conditioned upon his good behavior and that Sheets obey the rules and regulations of the Whitley County probation officer and that he appear in court when ordered to do so.

Sheets was charged in an affidaivt signed by Sheriff Galen Adair with furnishing alcoholic beverage to the two boys whe recently confessed to stealing mrechandise from the Marathon Service Station, 401 West Van Buren street, July 8.

Honor Graduate Confident He Can Win Commission

MARCUS HOOK, Pa, UP) — Eugene W. Landy, 21, Merchant Marine honor graduate, said today he was confident he would win the reserve commission denied him because of his mother's Communist ties.

Landy sailed Sunday aboard the S. S. Westetrn Sun, as an able-body seaman. He signed on the Sun Oil Company's luxury supertanker to earn $400 he needs for schooling.

The handsome midshipman from the U.S. Merchantt Marine graduated second in a class of 96 Academy at Kingsport, N.Y., Friday, but he was told beforehand he would not get his commission.

Landy said the reason given him was that his mother once was a Communist. Mrs. Deborah Landy admittetd belonging to a "Kaffee Klatsch" cell o fthe party in the mid-1940's because it was "fashionable" and she was lonely. She said she gave it up in 1947 or 1948.

Before he sailed on the 30-day cruise to Beaumont, Tex., Landy said he was sure he would win his commission once Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas has reviewed all the facts in the case.

Thomas said he would personally make a "full and impartial" investigation of the matter.

Watermelons Have A Hard Time In Accident

MT. STERLING, Ky. —(UP)— When a truck driver, Orville Harris, 34, Huntington W. Va. went to sleep while driving he work up to find 300 broken watermelons and a banged-up truck.

Harris suffered a broken leg as the truck went over a 10-foot embankment and hit a large tree. To top it off, someone stole the 100 good melons in the load while he was being treated at the hospital.

Hurricane

Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Reconnaissance aircraft flying in relays kept a 24-hour watch on the vast disturbance covering a circular area of hundreds of square miles around a calm "eye" in the center.

Lt. J-G. J. F. Carney, an aerologist of Lawrence, Mass., said he flew into all the big 1954 hurricanes and Connie is as "bad as any storm that developed last year, including Hazel and Carol."

Carney, who helped plot the hurricane's course aboard a Navy plane from Jacksonville, Fla., said Connie was well-defined, presenting "a perfect doughnut" on his radar screen. He said its "eye" had tightened from a 50-mile diameter to one of about 38 miles.

Lt. Cmdr. K. J. MacKey of Albany, N. Y., captain of the plane, said the tempest was a solid sheet of storm from the edge of the eye to its outer reaches.

The four-day old hurricane, first discovered at sea far east of the Leeward and Virgin islands in the West Indies, traveled steadily west-northwestward until it wheeled toward the northwest early Sunday.

Co-Publisher Of North Manchester Newspaper Dies

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind. Elwood B. Dunlavy, co-publisher and business manager of the North Manchester News-Journal, died of cancer in his home at midnight Saturday. He was 57.

Dunlavy was a graduate of DePauw University and worked on the Chicago Tribune and Indianapolis News. He became News-Journal owner in 1936.

Spinster Discloses Where Pancho Villa Buried Gold Coins

EL CENTRO, Calif. (UP) — An aged Mexican spinster has disclosed details of where Pancho Villa supposedly buried 1½ million dollars worth of gold coins in Texas.

Delores Vasquez, 76, of nearby Brawley, who said she had credentials showing she was a nurse in Villa's army with the rank of colonel, first spoke of the buried gold Friday while thinking she was on her deathbed. She said the money was buried in saddlebags.

In a deposition taken by the district attorney's office at her bedside, Miss Vasquez willed the buried treasure to the disabled war veterans organization.

Miss Vasquez said one cache is in "the oldest cemetery in Corpus Christi" and a "friend of Villa's who is caretaker of the cemetery" knows the exact spot.

Another cache is in the churchyard of the "first church outside the city limits as you enter Santa Antonio from Mexico."

Twenty-five mule loads of gold she added, are buried on a big ranch near Cinenia, Tex., and there are other hidden hoards in Robertown and Roma, Tex.

She said Villa stole the American money from "rich people" during raids into Texas with his bandit legions between 1913 and 1916. Villa was ambushed and slain by some of his own countrymen in 1923.

Miss Vasquez said she was "very popular with Pancho Villa," adding, "once a general kissed me and Pancho had him shot."

Asked why she didn't get the gold for herself, she explained:

"I wouldn't dare dig it up so long as any of Villas men are alive. I would rather be living and poor than rich and dead."

A local veterans administration officfal said the money, if it exists, probably would be turned over to the U.S. Treasury "since most of it was obtained from U.S. citizens in the first place."

Wyoming Town Has Some Free Lots

BYRON, Wyo.—(UP)— Want a free lot on which to build a house? You can have one—provided you move to this little northwestern Wyoming ttown near the Montana border.

To encourage settlement in Byron (pop. 400), the township has offered to give a 75-by-100-foot lot free to anyone who will build a house on it. The only charge is a $1 fee to satisfy legal requirementts in recording the deed.

The ttown made the offer, according to Mayor S. W. Cozzens, especially to entice oil workers in a nearby field to settle here.

"We had a little surplus in the treasury," Cozzens said, "so we decided tthat giving away lots would be the best way to encourage growth."

The town paid $125 each for the lots and has 20 available.

Don't Ever Make A Wager With A Woman

TOLEDO, O. —UP)— Edward Gillmore, chief engineer at St. Lukes Hospital, has decided it does not pay to try to outsmart six women at one time.

The engineer heard the women talking in the hospital about dieting and decided to challenge their good intentions. A wager was arranged under which the person losing the least weight would be the loser.

Six weeks later, Gillmore, accompanied by Mrs. Gillmore, paid off. He footed the bill for a big dinner for the six women.

Ontario Prepares For Boy Scout Jamboree

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. —(UP)— Officials of the Eighth World Scout Jamboree have selected the site where some 10,000 Boy Scouts from all over the world will gather, August 18, for ten days.

The site, situated on the edge of this historic town 12 miles north of the world-famous twin cataracts of Niagara Falls, covers approximately one square mile of rolling parkland, overlooked by restored Fort George with the stockade, moats and cannon forming a scenic background for all Jamboree activities.

A special feature will be a commemorative garden honoring Scouthood at historic Fort George. The mammoth floral display will have as its focus a large replica of the first class badge of the World Brotherhood of Scouts, done in special plants and to exact scale by Niagara Parks Commission gardeners and horticulturists.

Moderns Spelling No Worse Than Usual

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — (UP)— Professors of English at Pennsylvania State University have come to the defense of young students who are criticized by their elders for faulty spelling and grammar.

Grandpa and grandma weren't much better in their day, the professors pointed out. A report issued by the head of the school's English department in 1889 deplored lapses in grammar, as follows:

"By far the greater number of students have nothing more than a meager knowledge of any language, not excepting English.

"...Our young men begin their college course lame where it is above all things desirable that they should be strong..'

A few years later another department head showed concern about the same problem, writing:

"The question of all others that is at present most troubling the department is how to deal with the marked lack of preparation in English shown by nearly all who enter the college."

Tides, Pounding Surf Kicked Up By Connie Slaps Against Coast

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UP)—The first high tides and pounding surf kicked up by a giant hurricane 500 miles off the Florida east coast slapped against the Atlantic Seaboard today.

Hurricane Connie, a roaring fury of 135-mile-an-hour winds, was located about 450 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla., by a noon EDT advisory issued by the Miami Weather Bureau. It was headed north-northwest on a course that paralleled Florida-Georgia coastline.

Red and black hurricane flags were ordered hoisted all along the North Carolina and Virginia coasts.

The U.S. Weather Bureau warned that winds would reach hurricane force of at least 75 miles an hour on the Carolina and Virginia coasts by tonight or Wednesday morning.

Mindful of the killing impact of last year's hurricanes that ravaged the Atlantic coastline, residents already were beginning to take Connie seriously although she was at least a day away.

High tides pounded the shores around popular Atlantic Beach, N.C., near here. At lonely Cape Hatteras to the north ocean tides covered the road between there and nearby Buxton.

The Miami Weather Bureau said Connie was 350 miles south-southeast of Cape Hatteras at noon.

"Highest winds are estimated by reconnaissance aircraft at 135 miles an hour over a small area near the center and hurricane winds extend 120 miles north and east and 50 miles to the southwest of center," the Weather Bureau said.

An Air Force plane from Bermuda was scouting the giant blow which had an eye 40 miles across. It was expected to land from its turbulent and dangerous mission later this afternoon.

Free Fireworks To Be Held This Friday Night

Starting At 9 p.m., Parking Areas Given

The community fireworks scheduled for the Fourth of July will be this Friday night at 9 o'clock.

Due to the rain which continued for one week following the Fourth and inasmuch as many of the set pieces became too wet to shoot, the fireworks were postponed to during Old Settlers and the American Legion Festival.

The final championship game in the Little League will be played starting at 7:30 Friday night.

Robert Erdmann, general chairman of the fireworks display, has stated that the fireworks will start promptly at 9 p.m. and that the game must be completed at that time or postponed.

Parking areas will be at the city lot, the triangular lot west of the athletic field, the Eyanson lot, the Legion parking lot, the Weatherhead lot, and the Happy Valley Skating Rink lot. The only entrance to the Eyanson lot is through the alley running parallel to Market street.

The athletic field will be used for parking of cars containing shut-ins who are unable to walk, Adrian Scott, parking chairman, stated.

All local persons who can are urged to walk to the DeVol Field and to cross U.S. 30 uptown at one of the stoplights.

Skipper Of Hurricane Squadron Tells His Reaction To Flight Into The Eye Of Connie

Editors Note: CMdr. E. L. Foster, 39, of Chattanooga, Tenn. is the skipper of VW4, the hurricane squadron at the Jacksonville Fla., Naval Air Station, which has been doing most of the reconnaissance of Hurricane Connie. Foster, after 15½ years in the Navy in which he flew more than 4,000 hours, made his first 10½ hour flight into the eye of a hurricane Monday aboard a Navy Neptune patrol bomber with a crew of 10. In the following dispatch he compares the adventure with World War II combat in the South Pacific.

By Cmdr. E.L. FOSTER, USN
Written For The United Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP) — Does this compare with combat? You can say that, brother.

The only difference between a combat mission and going into one of these babies is that in a hurricane your enemy never gives up its efforts to destroy you.

All you can see in the front or to the sides is a solid sheet of rain and gray darkness. And if you have time to look down—we were flying as low as 300 feet—you see that Atlantic Ocean reaching up for you, and it seems about to swallow you up.

I don't think anyone with me spent much time being scared. But, I kept thinking of what I'd do in an emergency, like if one of my engines conked out. And I didn't have too much time to think about that.

My hands were full, just trying to hold on to the controls until my co-pilot could spell me. It was as rough and uncomfrtable as anything I've ever flown through.

When I had a chance to look down, it would look like the wind was picking up that whole damned ocean and trying to send it up to us.

Has A Veteran Crew

Right here, though, I'd like to emphasize that I've got pretty much a veteran crew. Those boys know what they're doing.

My co-pilot, Lt. (J.G.) Rocky-Farrel, of Kansas City, Mo., is typical of the young fellows we get from the training command.

He is perfectlyccapable of taking the crew out alone and doing the job right now. He has been in the

He is in room 326 at the hospital.

GOP's Campaign Promises To Negroes Fulfilled

Republican Official Makes Claim

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Republican official claims that the GOP's 14 campaign promises to Negroes in 1952 have been fulfilled.

Val J. Washington, director of minorities for the Republican National Committee, made the claim in a report Monday night. He said President Eisenhower will "move on from here to attain greater hower's recent appointment of rights and freedoms for us all."

Washington said that Mr. Eisen-Frederic Morrow, a Negro, to the White House administrative staff capped fulfillment of the 14 campaign promises to Negroes.

The President, in a letter to Washington, replied it was "heartening and gratifying" to be told that all 14 points presented to Negro voters in the 1952 campaign had been carried out.

Mr. Eisenhower said the GOP always has insisted there can be "only one class of citizenship" and "has been effective in its practice of this conviction."

"Thereby it has proved itself, in our day, a vigorous and productive champion of the ideals and purposes of Lincoln," he said.

Washington claimed complete fulfillment of 14 pledges listed in a GOP campaign booklet in 1952 entitled "The Republican Party and the Negro."

Several covered a broader field than civil rights, such as ending the Korean War, cutting down foreign spending, and reduction of taxes.

On civil rights matters, Washington asserted the administration has ended segregation in the District of Columbia, killed "Jim Crow" in federal agencies, given Negroes federal jobs of "real importance," and strengthened the civil rights section of the Justice Department.

Earl, Wayne Nierman Win In Tractor Contest

Repeated As Winners In Driving Contest

Earl and Wayne Nierman repeated their respective performances of one year ago by placing first and second when the county 4-H tractor driving contest was held Friday morning at the local 4-H Center. The Nierman brothers, sons of Joshua Nierman of Union township, copped senior division honors, Earl winning first and Wayne second, just as they did in the 1954 contest.

The junior division winner was Bill Pettigrew, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pettigrew, Union township, and Lynn Waterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Waterson, Washington township, placed second.

Twenty-four county boys participated in the tractor driving contest, which is a phase of the 4-H Tractor Maintenance Club directed by Gerald Holzhauer.

The first two place winners of the senior division will compete in the district contest at Bluffton on August 19 at 1:30 p.m.

Last year Earl placed sixth and Wayne ninth in the district contest. The district winners are eligible to compete in the state contest at the State Fair.

Tractors and wagons were provided for the local contest by implement dealers in the county. They were More Farm Store, Whitley Farm Equipment Company, Anderson-Shroyer Tractor Sales, Trier Implement Company, Bockelman Implement Company, Farmers Store, and the Whitley County Farm Bureau Co-op.

The senior division winners both drove Cockshut 30 tractors, the second place junior division winner drove a John Deere 60 tractor, junior division winner drove an International Farmall 300, and the

Gallagher 'Threw Two Fellow GIs To Their Deaths'

Says Witness In His Testimony

NEW YORK (UP)—A witness testified today that he saw Sgt. James C. Gallagher mistreat two fellow American prisoners of war in Korea and throw them to their deaths in the sub-zero cold.

Sgt. Donell Adams, 27, of Cottonwood, Ala., testifying at Gallagher's court martial on charges of murder and collaborating with the Communists, said the 23-year-old Brooklyn soldier dumped the two dying men through a barracks door "like a bartender bouncing a drunk."

The two victims were identified as Cpl. John William Jones of Detroit and Cpl. Donald Thomas Bater of Waukon, Iowa. The incidents allegedly occurred in prisoner of war camp No. 5 in Pyoktong, North Korea, in February, 1951.

As Adams offered his dramatic testimony in the sixth day of the court martial, Jones' mother, Mrs. Loretta Jones, and his sister, Mrs. Zenith Tucker, sat in the courtroom staring intently at the witness, their lips set in grim lines.

Describes Death Scene

At one point in his testimony, Adams left the witness stand and stooped to the courtoom floor in a demonstration how Gawlagher allegedly picked his sick and groaning victims from the barracks floor and carried them to the door.

A second witness, Sgt. Edward

Seven Americans Injured; Koreans Make Attack

U. S. Army Moves Its Crack Troops To Five Compounds

By ROBERT BROWN
United Press Staff Correspondent

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Hundreds of screaming Koreans attacked the U.S. Army compound on Wolmi-Do Island in waves early today in an attempt to kidnap Communist members of a neutral nations inspection team.

The Koreans demonstrating for the fifth straight day, surged across an 800-yard-long causeway and tore up the U.S. Army guard connecting the island with Inchon shack before they were beaten back.

The two-pronged Korean attack began shortly after midnight. Five American soldiers and two officers were injured as the ROKs hurled stones, bottles and other debris. They were repulsed when the Army, used tear gas and fired carbines over their heads.

Seventeen Americans Injured

National police reported nine Koreans were injured in the fifth day of demonstration that brought to 17 the number of Americans injured in the riots.

Korean press reports said the campaign to storm the island would be reinforced this afternoon by 1,500 railway workers and that 3,000 war veterans would join the demonstrators there Wednesday.

Thorncreek Firemen Re-schedule Auction August 19 At Station

The Thorncreek township Fire Department decided at its meeting Monday night to hold its public auction August 19 at the Fire Station at Tri-Lakes. It will start at 6 p.m.

The auction, planned to raise funds for procurement of fire-fighting equipment for the department, was originally scheduled for July 24. It was postponed when an insufficient crowd appeared at the Thorncreek school.

The department has received a number of items contributed for sale at the auction.

Members at the meeting also discussed plans for the concessions stand at the Old Settler's Day festivities this week in Columbia City.

Roger Fisher At Camp Crosley; Sent By Knights Templar

Roger Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Fisher of Maple street, returned Sunday from Camp Crosley near Leesburg where he was in camp from July 31 to August 7.

Roger was sponsored by the Knights Templar. He was one of 204 boys who attended the camp. The boys lived in cabins. Roger's projects were basic rowing, advanced rowing, swimming and handicraft.

Roger is carrier for the Post and Commercial Mail.

80 Year Olds Who Register To Receive Recognition

Dave Spence, president of this year's Old Settlers Association, says it is planned to reserve an area in the front rows for those registering here Old Settlers Day who are 80 years or over. In this manner, they may watch the proceedings Old Settlers afternoon.

It is hoped to have benches with backs for the honored guests to sit.

When they register Thursday morning at the courthouse, all those 80 years or over will receive a rosette in addition to the Old Settler ribbon.

Mrs. Frank Raber is chairman in charge of this phase of the program.

The Gerald Wolfes Parents Of Second Son

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wolfe, Fort Wayne, became the parents of a second son, Glenn Eugene, born at 5:50 a.m. Tuesday at St. Joseph's Hospital, Fort Wayne. He weighed 7½ pounds.

The mother is the former Nonda Golliver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Golliver, Fort Wayne. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wolfe, 205 Collinwood.

The three alternates also invited for the trip are Gary Morgan, Richard Vanderford, and Mark Auer.

The 4-H'ers were selected for the award on the basis of their past achievements.

Housewives May Use It To Fry Breakfast Eggs

Congress Also Hears Of Russia's Progress In Developing Atom

By WILLIAM C. SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) An American atom scientist told the Atoms-for Peace Congress here today that U.S. atomic power plants will be producing power cheaply enough by 1975 that an American housewife will be able to use it to fry the breakfast eggs.

Present experimental use of atomic power to generate electricity, he said, indicates that nuclear plants will be producing electricity as cheaply in 15 to 20 years as coal, oil or water power.

"The outlook for a large scale nuclear power in the United States is very promising," James A. Lane, of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee told the international meeting of nuclear scientists.

The congress also heard a detailed and glowing account by the Soviet Union of Russia's progress in developing atomic power plants. But Russia hinted that development of peaceful atomic power was being slowed by the production of atomic bombs.

The report on the Soviet's first atomic electricity plant warned that use of the latest high-powered atom fuels is "restricted . . . by

David Krill Escapes Injury In Collision Near Fort Wayne

David Krill, 43, of R 4, escaped injury at 8:09 p.m. Monday when a car he was driving was struck from the rear on U.S. highway 30 one-fourth of a mile west of the junction with State highway 324 near Fort Wayne.

The driver of the other car, Ronald Buehrer, 26, Fort Wayne, was not injured. A passenger in the Buehrer car, Lydia Laufer, 25, also of Fort Wayne, suffered a cut no the kneecap and head bruises in the collision. According to Allen County Deputy Sheriff Faud Bonahoom and Trooper Gene Ellis of the Indiana State Police, Krill had stopped his car on the pavement to make a left turn when the collision occurred.

Agriculture Stabilization And Conservation Board Names Community Committeemen

The 1956 County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation election board consisting of B. V. Widney, county agent; Preston Gregory, chairman Whitley County Farm Bureau; Wayne Jenkins, chairman Whitley County Farmers Union; and Jerome K. Bash, supervisor for Farmers Home Administration, met recently and selected three members in each township to serve on the community election board. The duties of the Community Election Board is to nominate ten eligible farmers as candidates for community committeemen and delegates to the county convention for the calendar year 1956. The three candidates receiving the highest votes in their respective townships will be declared the elected community committee and the one receiving the ost votes will be delegate to the county convention. These facts were explained by Carl Auer, manager of the local Agriculture Stabilization and conservation office.

The duties of the community committee will be to check on wheat and corn acreage and any other conservation practices which may be assigned to our county.

The chairmen selected in each township by this board are as follows: Cleveland - Adolph Auer, R 2, South Whitley; Columbia - Hugh Henry R 4, Columbia City; Etna-Troy - Ralph Bennett, R 1, Larwill; Jefferson - G. E. Schinbeckler, R 5, Columbia City; Richland - Willis Miller, R 2, South Whitley; Smith - Luey Wade, R 1, Churubusco; Thorncreek - Thomas Boggs, R 3, Columbia City; Union - Carl Leiniger, R 7, Columbia City; Washington - Earl J. Brommer, R 2, Columbia City.

This election is to be conducted by mail and ballots will be sent to all eligible voters on Monday, August 15, 1955, and are to be returned to the ASC Office not later than Saturday, August 20, Mr. Auer states.

Any eligible farmer not receiving a ballot through the mail may call at the ASC Office, and he will be given a ballot.

The following names selected by the community election boards in each township are as follows: Cleveland - Joe A. Bowers, Floyd Bolinger, John Schipper, Frederick Meyers, Earl Emerson, Henry Holman, Walter Brown, Carl Bolinger, Kenneth Logan, Paul Kelsey.

Columbia township - Clyde Sievers, Glenn Snapp, Clarence Eberhard, Clarence Fahl, Lewis Reimer, Wilson Hoffman, Irvin Sievers.

Pink Petunias

This is the week to see what Old Settlers Day and the Legion Roundup will do to the pink petunias along the four walks leading up to the courthouse.

When the idea was first suggested everyone seemed to think the petunias would be beautiful and showy but the skeptics said "What will happen to the petunias when OSD comes?"

The local community beautification committee of the chamber of commerce believe that most people will step over the petunias and even if some are accidently broken off they will start blooming again before frost.

How do you like the petunias, not only at the courthouse, but showing up throughout the community?

Spring Creek Farms Herefords Cop Honors At Goshen Show

Spring Creek Farms placed the only Whitley county entries in the gold medal beef club show at Goshen Monday. Herefords from Spring Creek Farms were shown in seven different classes and won six first places.

The winnings included: first summer yearling bull, which was also the champion bull; first senior bull calf, which was the reserve champion bull; first senior heifer calf, which was the champion Hereford female; the champion Hereford get-of-sire. Also included in the winnings were those of three steers shown by Larry L. Schuman. His steers placed first second, and third; one was the champion steer, and also won a third in the get-of-sire class.

United States Weather Bureau Today Mans Vastly Improved Hurricane Warning System

By NEIL MAC NEIL
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Weather Bureau manned a vastly improved hurricane warning system today to alert East Coast points which may be endangered by Hurricane Connie.

"We have marshalled all our resources," a bureau spokesman said. "We are ready for anything."

Ever since last year's hurricane sisters — Carol, Edna and Hazel—ravaged the Atlantic coast with a record-breaking 800 million dollar damage, the Weather Bureau has given top priority to finding better ways of tracking hurricanes and alerting communities in their paths.

One of the most valuable additions to the bureau's alert system is a big radar station at Cape Hatteras, N.C. Every known hurricane that has struck the northeast coast has swept within 200 miles of the Cape. The radar screen can reach out 250 miles into the Atlantic to trace the storms.

The radar station went into operation last week.

Cape Hatteras Key Point

Norman Hagen, one of the Weather Bureau's hurricane experts, said Cape Hatteras is the key point in tracking hurricanes heading north. Upon reaching Hatteras, hurricanes normally "speed up and curve" toward their ultimate destination, he said.

Another important improvement in the warning system is the addition of 11 major Eastern cities to the Weather Bureau's hurricane teletype circuit. These cities—Portland, Maine; Hartford, Conn.; New Haven, Conn.; Providence, R.I.; Atlantic City, N.J.; Wilmington, Conn.; Richmond, Va.; Raleigh, Del.; Albany, N.Y.; Bridgeport, N.C.; and Wilmington, N.C.—now receive all hurricane information instantaneously. There is no delay, as existed last year, in relaying the information from such cities as Miami, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

The Air Force and Navy also are providing improved hurricane service this year. They will fly more hurricane reconnaissance flights than ever and carry extra equipment to give better details of the storms.

Emergency Basis Operation

The bureau itself has added extra emergency equipment to insure rapid transmission of hurricane reports. The radar station at Cape Hatteras, for example, has a special radio hookup with Washington headquarters in case its ground transmission lines are knocked out. The bureau also has a telephone hookup that permits immediate contact with field offices along the coast.

With the hurricane season started, the Weather Bureau is operating on an emergency basis. Staffs of bureaus along the coast have been increased, other weathermen are standing by to be dispatched to "assault" areas, and many staff members are working 12-hour shifts.

Special warning centers have been set up in major Eastern cities to help newspapers and radio and television stations publicize hurricane warnings.

'Nothing Doing' Congress Just Got Tired of It All

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Among other things, this first session of the 84th Congress, now adjourned, might also be called the one which decided to let things alone.

This appraisal is not based on anybody's list of what the President asked for, or what congressional leaders of either party wanted to give him. The characterization is based entirely on the spirit of the session.

In the customary interchange of compliments on what a great Congress this really was, it must not be forgotten that the honorable congressmen just got tired of hanging around Washington.

THE IDEA OF LETTING THINGS ride is perfectly understandable. Prosperity for nearly everyone was never greater. Business is booming. Stock market is wonderful. Predictions for the rest of the year and maybe next year—never higher.

With the international tension supposedly eased and no domestic crisis at hand, there was no urge to try making things better. Let well enough alone. There hasn't been a Congress in years with less desire to reform the government.

There was some feeling that there had been too much of that anyway, in the new deal days. Maybe the people were tired of too much government.

Ex-President Herbert Hoover's Commission on Government Organization turned out a two-foot shelf of reports on things that needed fixing and how billions could be saved. Nearly 200 bills were introduced in Congress to carry out Hoover commission recommendations. Not one of them was acted on.

MEYER KESTNBAUM'S Commission on Intergovernmental Relations brought out another block-busting report to change the Federal-State government setup. It sank without a trace.

It looked for a time as though some progress would be made in getting the government out of competition with private industry, but Congress effectively blocked that.

On an exactly opposite tack, however, Congress refused to put the government into any new business like the Upper Colorado or Hell's Canyon projects. It authorized instead some 107 dinky little five and 10 million dollar river and harbor projects to satisfy local pressure groups.

Nothing was done to give the country more and better highways—which are really needed.

There was a terrible struggle over whether to kill or continue public housing. The last minute compromise to authorize 45,000 new units for one year satisfies nobody.

A BIG PROGRAM to revise the antitrust laws—long advocated by Republicans—was barely touched on in two spots.

Amendment of the Natural Gas Act proved to be too controversial for either side to do anything about.

The Trade Agreements Act was renewed after a struggle, but approval of the Organization for Trade Cooperation to make it work was completely bypassed.

The farm price support program was not changed and the cotton and sugar blocs couldn't even muster enough strength for more government aid and subsidy.

Action on the long-standing aid to education, health insurance and Taft-Hartley labor law revision was put off.

The draft act was extended but the President's plan to build up military reserves was greatly watered down.

One positive thing Congress did do was raise its own pay and that of almost every other government employe. That was one they decided not to delay till next year.

Mysterious Elixir Appears To Produce King-Sized Trout

TORONTO (UP) — A mysterious elixir appears to be producing king-sized trout in a small, isolated lake in northern Ontario, wildlife authorities said today.

They said fingerling trout planted in Foote Lake near Chapleau in 1952 seem to have grown to what is regarded as gargantuan size for the fish. Six fish weighing eight pounds and over have been caught in the lake 100 miles northeast of Sault Ste. Marie.

There may even be one lurking in the depths of the lake to beat the record speckled trout of 14-¼ pounds caught several years ago by Dr. W. J. Cook. His catch became world-famous for its size.

Whatever there is in Foote Lake that makes trout grow so large so rapidly, wildlife experts of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department intend to find out. They want to discover what is provided in the natural feeding in the lake that they could supply in government fish hatcheries.

What is confounding the experts is that Foote Lake is a small body of water and big speckled trout have always come from "big waters," such as giant Lake Nipigon.

Speckled trout raised in hatcheries usually grow to the legal seven-inch limit in one year. Large numbers of them have been planted in the Chapleau game preserve, and in lakes between Algonquin Park and the Toronto-Ottawa highway in eastern Ontario. They now are growing to "boating size" of two pounds and up.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UP)—Agreement on the basic points of an international plan to stabilize coffee prices and markets was announced Monday by Brazil and Colombia.

Brazil is the worlds biggest coffee producer; Colombia ranks second.

MEXICO CITY UP) — Diego Rivera, 73, noted Mexican artist, disclosed Monday that he is being treated for cancer.

Rivera, whose militant leftist politics have provoked almost as much controversy as his murals, said he is under treatment by American and Mexican physicians and expects to enter a hospital within 10 to 15 days.

"Yes, I have cancer," Rivera said in an interview. "Cancer is always serious and I'll probably die of it. But that's nothing to be in a bad humor about."

He answered "of course,' when asked if he would continue painting.

TOKYO (UP)—Crewmen extinguished a fire which flared in the hold of the coal-carrying 7,210-ton American freighter sea leader in the Pacific Ocean off Hokkaido Island, coast guard officials reported today.

The Sea Leader was en route to the South Korean port of Inchon. It will put in at a northern Japanese port for a survey of damages, the coast guard said.

PARIS (UP) — French nurse Genevieve de Galard - Terraube, the "Angel of Dien Bien Phu,' was reported today to have inmother.

Miss De Galard-Terraube won her three-year contrac eepires plans to leave the air force when this fall to take care of her ailing ministering to the wounded and sick in the besieged Indochinese fortress city. She was the last woman taken out before the fortress fell to the Communists.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (UP) — John Olesky, Williamson Daily News city editor, is naming heat waves after men.

The heat waves which have hit Williamson so far have been named "Alvin,' "Bob," and "Charley," by Olesky.

"Women's names were used for hurricanes," Olesky said. "Calling heat waves after men should seem like true justice to most women. After all, who gets the hottest during a traffic jam."

KEOKUK, Iowa (UP)—A Keokuk street wasn't exactly paved with gold Monday, but it was covered with jewels.

A car smashed through a jewelry store display window and thousands of dollars worth of sparklers were strewn over the street.

The Byrd party took off from Logan Pass, elevation 6,600 feet, and hopes to make camp tonight at Granite Lodge, 15 miles along the high windy crest of the Continental Divide most of it far above timberline.

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Film Producer David A. Sebastian planned to leave here for Rio De Janeiro either today or Wednesday with the body of his wife, South American singer and dancer Carmen Miranda.

Last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were held for the Brazilian bombshell Monday at requiem Mass attended by more than 300 film colony personalities.

Miss Miranda died last Friday of a heart attack.

KANSAS CITY, MO (UP)—The Motor Car Dealers Association of Greater Kansas City planned today to offer a reward for a killer for the second time in two years.

The group said it would announce today the reward for the slayer of Mrs. Wilma Allen, wife of William R. Allen, Jr. a prominent Kansas City automobile dealer.

Two years ago the organization paid a $500 reward when the kidnap-murderers of Bobby Greenlease were found. The 6-year-old boy's father also is a well known Kansas City automobile dealer.

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Clarence Craddock, serving a 20-year-term in Alcatraz, has received permission to sue the federal government for hindering his "future career as a dancing star on television."

Craddock, 27, who was arrested in Washington, D.C., for housebreaking claimed he was seriously injured in a bus collision May 10 1951 near Terre Haute, Ind., while he was being transported to Alcatraz.

Craddock said that as a result of the accident one of his legs was shortened. He charged the bus driver with "reckless driving" and asked $200,000 damages.

Cocker Spaniel Receives Prize

CHICAGO (UP)—Taffy, a little cocker spaniel who saved her 3-year-old master from drowning in the icy waters of an Idaho lake, today received a $1,000 bond prize as America's most heroic dog of 1955.

Taffy was rewarded by a dog food company (Ken-L-Ration) for refusing to let the life of his master, Stevie Wilson of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, slip away in the waters of Fernan Lake last April.

Stevie and Taffy had wandered to the edge of the lake and the little boy slipped into four feet of ice-cold water.

Taffy, reacting instantly, raced to Stevie's father, Perry. But the father didn't understand and Taffy ran back, springing into the water and trying to save the drowning boy.

Once again, Taffy dashed back to the father. Wilson, seeing the dog's wet coat, raced to the lake and saw his son's coat floating on the water. The father sprang in and recovered the unconscious boy in time.

Love In The Graveyard

SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—Cyrus James Baker, 43, sued for divorce today on grounds his wife Dorothy Evelyn, 36, made love among the tombstones with Eric Layfield, a cemetery caretaker.

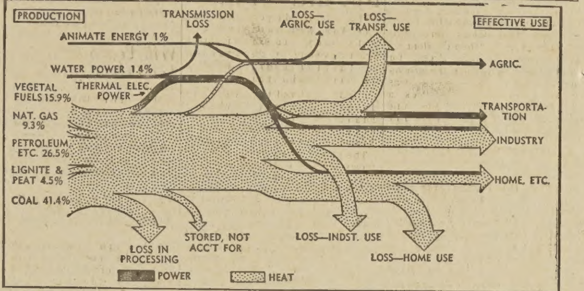
Baker asked for $2,800 damages in addition to a divorce decree.

The court reserved its decision.

Buckets Not Always Filled With Soap Suds

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—Two "window washers" who didn't always fill their buckets with soapy water were ordered held in $25,000 bail Monday.

Police said James Ashford, 43, and Thomas S. Davis, 28, both of Boston, would approach homes of prospective customers carrying buckets. If someone answered the door they'd offer to wash windows but if no one was at home they would ransack the house and fill their buckets with loot, police said.



WORLD'S USE OF ELECTRICITY—The methods employed at present for generating electricity and the eventual use of the power is dramatically illustrated by the above chart. This was part of the presentation of scientific facts and figures at the Geneva Conference on the peaceful uses of atomic energy. Chart was based on 1952 power data.

CRAZY, MIXED-UP BIRD—"Hey, you in the fur coat. Can't you do something about this heat?" That's what "Baby," the robin who came to dinner and has stayed ever since, seems to be saying to its playmate, Tom. They both live in the home of Mrs. Marion Gibson in Cincinnati. The robin is discouragingly tame and all efforts to give it the bum's rush have been scorned. By this time it prefers hamburger to worms. It bosses the cat around. To top it off, it's afraid of other birds.

A WAVE FROM THE PRINCESS—Little Princess Anne, flanked by her brother, Prince Charles, and her grandmother, Queen Mother Elizabeth, waves to the crowd gathered in the courtyard of Clarence House, London, the residence of the Queen Mother. The crowd assembled in honor of the 55th birthday of the Queen Mother.

WEATHER—Everybody's talking about it and two experts on the subject have lost their shirts to Old Sol. Checking the machines at the United States Weather Bureau in Chicago and hoping for a cool report are meteorological experts Cal Lively, left, and Charles Hansen. Chicago, like the rest of the Midwest, has been sweltering in above 90 degree temperatures.

Two Couples Make 1,800 Mile Trip Through Pennsylvania

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schalk and Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard Heinfeld have returned from an 1800 mile trip which took them to the Gettysburg Battlefields and other points in Pennsylvania.

The local people were in sight of President Eisenhower's farm located 1½ miles from the Museum at Gettysburg. They traveled on to Harrisburg, Pa., and then to Louisburg where they made the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Eisley, the parents of the Schalks' son-in-law, Harold Eisley, who resides in Fort Wayne.

At Watertown, N.Y. the Schalks visited their son, George, stationed at Camp Drum, who has been made "Soldier of the Month" at Camp Drum. The two couples traveled on to Niagara Falls and on the Canadian side visited the City of the Seven Locks.

Coming home through Erie, Pa., the Schalks stopped to call Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Turner, the great-grandparents of their small grandson, Louis Spencer Eisley, in Fort Wayne. The party arrived home early Sunday.

Will Leave Friday For Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Marie Harris of this city expects to leave Friday for Phoenix, Arizona, to spend the next couple of months.

During her stay in Arizona, Mrs. Harris will visit her son, Carl Harris, former local resident.

Will Be In Michigan Remainder Of Summer

Mrs. Ralph Hyndman and children, Jack and Jill, of this city, have left for Northern Michigan, where they will spend the remainder of the summer. They will be located at Big Manistee Lake across from the Straits during the hay fever season.

Mrs. Hyndman will again conduct youth and Bible school during her stay in Michigan. Enroute Mrs. Hyndman and children will stop at the Owossa Bible college campus where annual church meetings are held, and then drive on to Cheboygan to spend a week with Rev. and Mrs. William Lyons and Mrs. Hilla.

They will also visit Mr. and Mrs. Harrison former local people who moved from here to East Jordan, Mich.

Brave Pilot Of Exploded Rocket Wins Praise

For Saving Own Life And Lives Of Seven Others

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UP)—A research pilot in the world's fastest rocket plane was credited today with averting a possible disaster when his high-powered plane exploded in the belly of its "mother ship."

The rocket pilot Joseph A. Walker, 34, saved himself and the bomber's seven crewmen from possible death Monday when the rocket plane exploded seconds before its scheduled release nearly six miles over this desert flight test center. All the fliers were civilians conducting flight tests for the National Advisory Commission for Aeronautics.

The one million dollar X1A, which holds the world's speed record of 1,650 miles per hour as well as the world's altitude mark of 90,000 feet, had to be jettisoned for fear a second explosion might destroy the bomber. The rocket plane crashed on the desert as "probable a total loss," but the bomber landed safely.

Walker, in the rocket ship when it exploded, exercised "great coolness' in cutting off switches to prevent any further explosions. He also emptied some of the highly-explosive rocket fuel before escaping into the bombers bombbay.

Walker also came close to death when he disconnected his oxygen supply to escape the rocket plane. He fell unconscious from lack of oxygen and was pulled up to safety by the bomber's crew. Death can occur in a few minutes without oxygen at high altitude.

Pieces torn from the small craft by the blast struck a following F86 jet "chaser" plane, flown by Major Arthur Murray, who set the altitude record in the X1A. Murray said pieces struck his plane "like shrapnel" and cracked its windshield.

After the explosion, Murry flew close to the rocket plane and warned the bomber that all of the small ship's fuel had not been completely emptied. It was then that the rocket plane was jettisoned.

Major Charles Yeager set the world speed record in the X1A in November of 1953.

Colorful Cards Publicizing 4-H Fair Go Up Today

The publicity committee for the annual Whitley County 4-H Fair met Monday evening in the county agent's office, and advertising material was distributed to be put on display throughout the county beginning today.

Colorful display cards illustrating the swine, beef, dairy, and girls' baking projects will be seen on counters of stores in the community anouncing the dates of August 25-26-27. Attractive black and green automobile bumper stickers were also distributed to the committee members by the publicity chairman, Robert Fahl.

Twenty-seven persons attended the meeting, and township chairmen were appointed and assigned given areas for their groups to cover. The township chairmen are: Mrs. Carl Bridegam, Thorncreek; Mrs. Leo H. Bixler and Mrs. Raymond Wappes, Smith; Mrs. Joseph Snider, Jefferson; Harold Wherry and Joshua Nierman, Union; Walter Schuman and Howard Reed, Richland; Herbert Heine and Kenneth Nix, Washington; Mrs. Clarence Eberhard, Columbia; Marcellus Badskey, Cleveland; and Mrs. Thomas Western, Etna-Troy.

Red China Calls For 24-Hour Delay Of Meeting

U. S. Agrees To Meeting Thursday

GENEVA (UP) — Red China called today for a 24-hour delay of the next meeting with the United States on the deadlocked issue of repatriation of 41 American civilians now detained behind the Bamboo Curtain.

The United States agreed to set the meeting over until Thursday.

It had been announced, following Monday's unproductive session, that the talks between U.S. Ambassador to Czecho-Slovakia U. Alexis Johnson, and China's ambassador to Poland, Wang Ping-nan, would be held Wednesday.

American sources said Wang claimed that communications difficulties with Peiping necessitated the delay.

Conference sources said Johnson still is awaiting a satisfactory reply to the detention of 41 American civilians in Red China. Of that number, 25 are in jail and the remainder either are under house arrest or have been denied exit visas.

The United States has taken the position that other Far Eastern issues cannot be discussed until the issue of repatriation of civilians is disposed of.

Complicated

GENEVA (UP)—A guide showing a stranger around the American nuclear reactor at the Atoms for Peace exposition told his visitor he'd better not try to work the controls because "it's very complicated."

"I did a little work in fission myself," said Dr. Otto Hahn of Germany, who won the Nobel Prize for splitting the nucleus of the uranium atom.

7 Building Permits Issued In Month By Commissioner

Seven building permits have been issued during the last month, according to Commissioner Richard Holden. The seven brings the number of permits issued in the two and one-half months of the zoning ordinance's operation to 27.

Three of the permits were for construction of new homes. Gerald E. Meyer, R 2, was granted a permit to build a new home in Westgate Addition at Lowell and Westgate streets. Cecil Huntley, Sr., R 4, received a permit for a new home in Fairview Addition at North Walnut and Park streets. The third new-home permit went to Herbert L. Johnston, R 4, for construction on a lot recently purchased in First Collinwood Addition on North street.

Marshall W. Ressler, 501 Vine street, and Roscoe Brumbaugh, 505 North Washington street, by Daniel F. Reed, builder, were issued permits for construction of private garages. Ressler's garage is to be 20 by 24 feet and Brumbaugh's will be 18 by 22 feet. Cleveland Stewart, 114 Hanna street, plans to replace a foundation under his storage barn and garage and to repair the siding. Carl E. Anderson, 404 South Walnut street, will build a carport, 11 by 21 feet, at his home.

South Carolina were put on "critical" alert for the next 12 to 24 hours.

Air National Guard units of West Virginia, North Carolina and Kentucky interrupted summer training at Savannah, Ga., and planes were flown inland Monday. But they returned today when danger to that section appeared to have passed.

Observers on hurricane hunter planes tracking Connie 24 hours a day reported the hurricane, now full grown after moving five days over water, packed winds of 135 miles per hour near the center.

"Hurricane winds (75 miles per hour or above) extend out 120 miles to the north and east and 50 miles to the southwest, and gails extend out 350 miles to the north and east and 150 miles to the southwest," the report said.

One engine of a B52 reconnaissance plane with 12 men aboard conked out in the calm "eye" of the hurricane Monday and some crew members kissed the ground after they flew back through the tempest unharmed with a broken fuel line.

Capt. George Newkirk of Lindsay, Calif., commander of the Air Force plane, said he feathered the idle propeller of one of his two starboard engines, trimmed the plane and "hauled out of there fast."

In loving memory of my dear and precious Mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Magley, who departed from this life August 9th, 1950.

Her Mother love, the love she gladly gave
With such a quiet tenderness and grace,
The love that blessed her family and friends
And made the world a better, happier place,
Is still unchanged, for memories
do not die,
And so, through countless memories held dear,
Her love lives on throughout time's endless days,
And though unseen, unheard, is ever near.

SUPERIOR BEAUTY—Here's one advantage you can spot as far as you can see! Pontiac's smart combination of Twin-Streaked hood and Vogue Two-Toning is generally acknowledged to be the major style advance of the year.

SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE—The Strato-Streak V-8, too, sets this car apart from any other. It is the industry's most modern engine—filled with "firsts" that pay off in 200-horsepower* action and the greatest thrift in Pontiac history.

SUPERIOR SIZE—There's 124 or 122 inches of road-leveling wheelbase under Pontiac's spacious Body by Fisher. And that means a solid sense of security not surpassed by any car.

SUPERIOR HANDLING EASE—There's extra security, too, in the lightning response of Pontiac's brakes, steering and acceleration. Even parking is a pleasure with action like this.

SUPERIOR COMFORT—What's your idea on this score? Big, soft seats? Ample shoulder and leg room? A cushioned ride? Regal luxury? That's Pontiac comfort and it won't be topped by anything on the road.

Yet a Pontiac fits any new-car budget! Find out how little it takes to join the swing to Pontiac.

Maybe This Is A Boom Year, But Don't Try To Sell Idea To Leaguers Who Lost Jobs

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Maybe this is a boom year but don't try to sell that idea to a host of aching, arm-weary and foot-sore major leaguers who suddenly found themselves without jobs.

They knew the day they stepped into big league flannels for the first time that eventually they would hear the two words most dreaded by all players—unconditionally released—but that didn't ease the blow any when it came.

So far this year, 23 players—16 from the American League and 7 from the National — have been dropped. Some found employment in the minors, others took non-playing jobs in baseball, and still others left the game for good. But as far as the "big top" was concerned it was the end of the trail.

They became free agents with permission to make deals for themselves with any team willing to gamble on a few more victories in overtired pitching arms, a scattered base hit here and there from one time sluggers.

But for the troubled 23 the deal-making privilege didn't work. The record books have [illegible] their achievements and with the new bumper crop of rookies they soon will be all but forgotten.

Some, perhaps, were once brilliant enough to be bona fide candidates for the Hall of Game. Others were All-Stars, World Series heroes, and veterans who shone for a time then faded like old score cards.

Put them altogether at their peak and, except for a few positions, they would comprise a mythical All-Star team to gladden the heart of any manager.

Most of the passing paraders were pitchers and at least two—Superchief Allie Reynolds of the Yankees and Prince Hal Newhouser, who hurled so superbly for the Fame, Ewell Blackwell, briefly meteoric for Cincinnati, before journeying on to the Yankees and Athletics, also might have been a candidate had not arm trouble shortened his career.

The other hurling heroes had their moments, too. Johnny Sain helped the Yankees win three pennants before moving on to Kansas City. There were relief ace Alpha Brazle of the Cardinals and finally the White Sox; spot pitching veteran Connie Marrero of Washington; Howie Fox of Cincy and Baltimore; Sid Hudson of the Red Sox; durable Larry Janse, and lefty Dave Koslo of the Giants, who finally wound up at Milwaukee, and Preacher Roe of the Dodgers with that sneaky spit ball.

One Catcher Let Go

There was only one catcher, Mickey Grasso, and he was a good workman in the pads even though he never set the world on fire at bat. The Giants released him after drafting him last fall out of the Cleveland organization.

Phil Cavaretta, who wound up his many years in Chicago with the White Sox after true stardom at first base with the Cubs, is another Hall of Fame candidate. Other All-Stars among the infielders include Johnny Pesky of Boston and Baltimore; fancy fielding Billy Cox of Brooklyn; Vern Stephens, a true slugger who finally quit with the White Sox; and Pete Suder, a dependable batter for the Athletics since away back in 1941.

Two othershad to quit prematurely, Davey Williams of the Giants because of his aching back, and Cass Michaels of the White Sox because of a bean ball that fractured his skull. Examinations Monday indicated there is an outside chance that Williams may be able to come back next season.

There were four outfielders, none great, but all veterans who stuck it out for a decade or more. The Phils let Johnny Wysostek 90, Milwaukee dropped George Metkovich, the White Sox cut loose Willard Marshall, and Baltimore said goodbye to Wally Westlake.

Five Top Foreign Stars, Three Seeded Americans Play Today

NEWPORT, R.I. (UP) — Five top foreign stars and three seeded American players began competition today in the wind-up of the opening rounds of the rain-delayed 74th Invitation tournament at Newport Casino.

A drenching rain Sunday night soaked the courts and postponed all but 13 of the scheduled 32 opening matches Monday.

No upsets were scored in any of the matches which boosted the up-and-coming record of third-seeded Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., who handily dumped Jerry Dalrymple of New Orleans, 6-3, 6-0.

Gil Shea of Los Angeles whom Giammalva beat in the Eastern Grass [illegible]urts' championships at South [illegible]ng N.J., over the weekend, did no play Monday though he was second-seeded among the Americans.

Top-seeded Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge La., defeated William Cullen of Fairfield, Conn., 6-3, 6-4.

Stengel Figures 'We Can Beat 'Em If We Play Ball'

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

A dejected Casey Stengel hinted today that this is the weakest Yankee club he has ever managed but he insisted it's still strong enough to beat all the other contenders.

"I've never seen such poor hitting in all the time I've been here' Stengel said. "The team average is around .250 and the pitching aint nothing to rave about, either. But bad as everything is, I still figure we can beat 'em all—if we start to play ball."

Stengel's remarks came as the Yankees, only three percentage points behind the first place White Sox, were about to launch a crucial three-game series with the fourth-place Red Sox, who are only 1½ games off the pace themselves.

Marty Marion's pace - setting White Sox, looking for their first victory in the last five games, also swing back into action tonight against the Athletics after enjoying the same day of rest all American League clubs did Monday.

Herb Score Faces Detroit

The defending champion Indians, who are only a half-game out of first place and still have a big stake in the pennant race themselves, will be trying to snap a three-game losing streak when they send their rookie southpaw fireballer, Herb Score, against fourth-place Detroit tonight.

Stengel's statement, concerning his floundering Yankees' pennant chances, put him in the same boat with Marion, Indian Manager Al Lopez and Red Sox Skipper Mike Higgins, all of whom have picked their own clubs to win, also.

"I said wed win before the season started," Marion declared Monday, "and I see no reason to change my prediction now. We had our troubles the past week but I think we'll get straightened out now."

Lopez said he was particularly optimistic now that his Indians were off the road and back home at friendly Municipal Stadium again while Higgins insisted that the Red Sox chances "are as good as anyone's."

Contenders Lead With Southpaws

In any case, the league's top three contenders—The White Sox, Yankees and Indians—will lead with their leftys tonight when they all send southpaws to the mound in a common quest for first place.

Billy Pierce (7-8) is Marions choice to face Bobby Shantz of Kansas City; Whitey Ford (12-5) is Stengel's nominee to go against Yankee nemesis Willard Nixon 11-5) of Boston, and Score (10-9) carries Lopez' hopes against Ned Garver (10-10) of Detroit.

Washington is at Baltimore for a twi-night twin-bill in the only other American League action.

Only one game was played in the majors Monday with the Cubs beating the Dodgers, 1-0, on Gene Baker's eighth inning homer. Don Newcombe, who has won 18 games suffered his second defeat of the season and oddly, it was Chicago which also handed him his only other setback last June 12 at Brooklyn.

Sam (Toothpick) Jones held the league-leaders to four hits in registering his 10th victory but even though they lost, the Dodgers continued 14 full games ahead of the field. The loss for Newcombe was the first of his career at Wrigley Field after eight victories there.

Split TV Victory Brings Akins Offer Of Big Outdoor Bout

NEW YORK (UP)—Virgil Akins' split TV victory over Cuban Isaac Logart brought him an offer today for a big outdoor fight at Newark, N.J., on Sept. 26 or Oct. 3.

Akins of St. Louis, fifth-ranking welterweight contender, would meet Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., number four, at Ruppert Stadium Newark, according to promoter-matchmaker Tex Sullivan's proposal.

Sullivan and his London Sporting Club staged the excellent Akins-Logart television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. Akins won a split decision because of his stronger finish. Virgil weighed 1[illegible] pounds; Logart, 144¾.

Monday night's decision was so unpopular among some of the 1,300 fans that they booed several minutes and threw paper cups and cigar butts into the ring.

Eddie Mafuz, Logart's manager, said he would go to the state Athletic Commission today and protest the verdict, which he termed "very unfair."

The two judges favored Akins on rounds. Frank Forbes voted 5-4-1, and Joe Agnello 6-4. But Referee Ray Miller had Logart ahead, 5-4-1. The United Press favored Akins, 5-4-1.

Red Tape

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Red tape today prevented custodians from cleaning "shrapnel" from the walls of a storeroom in the hall of records where a 12-pound can of ham exploded.

The mess cannot be mopped up until an order is issued by Superior Court because the ham was evidence in an old felony case.

Joseph Matts, The Ice Carver, Makes Punch Bowls

By CARL EIFERT
United Press Staff Correspondent

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Joseph Matts is an ice carver. He works with ice all day. But don't be too quick to envy him. Joe's "studio" isn't air conditioned.

Matts, who lives in nearby Verona, makes frozen punch bowls and sculptures ice for centerpieces. This ice man carveth.

When he's freezing bowls he gets no break with the weather. The temperature of the room depends on the temperature outside. When he chisels out something he works in the storage room, where the temperature is about 26 degrees. But there's not much demand for ice carvings in hot weather, for some reason.

Matts carves animals — mostly cows — and flowers, buildings and just about anything you'd want. He works for the ice division of Oscar Mayer, which turns out about 2,000 punch bowls a year.

Some Fancy Ones

Most of them have fresh flowers imbedded in the ice for decoration. Others are fancier. Some Christmas punch bowls have a string of tree lights frozen right in them. The bulbs light up, showing off holly and poinsettias.

One bowl included cycloramas of a golf course in three dimensions for a country club. Another featured miniature pyramids, camels, palm trees and real sand for a "Night on the Nile" party.

George Heath, Matts' boss, said it's not too uncommon for a successful fisherman to throw a party and have his prize trout or bass frozen in a punch bowl.

A company official once took his poker club to the race track and to a party afterwards. Matts threw playing cards, chips and dice in the party punch bowl and topped it off with a $2 bill.

Two Days to Freeze

It takes two days to freeze a punch bowl. A metal form is suspended in brine kept at about 14 degrees. Pure water is circulated by pumping in dry air so that it freezes crystal clear.

As the water freezes from the outside in, the flowers or other objects are anchored with a piece of metal. When the objects become set, the weight is removed and the ice keeps forming. The "bowl" part of the finished product is lined with pre-shaped plastic.

The bowls are priced upward from $15.00 and have been shipped to most parts of the country in just a cardboard box, although dry ice is added now and then. The bowls last 8 to 10 hours on the table at a reception or party.

Wild Ride

CHICAGO (UP)—Raymond Miller, 30, was sentenced to 90 days in jail for running 10 red lights, improper passing, negligent driving, speeding and reckless driving.

Miller, a truck driver, accumulated all 14 charges in one wild ride on a motorcycle.

What's New In Washington

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — What's new in Washington:

The hot humid days in Washington recently have provided government workers with what could be called a "daily double." The G-workers don't get cut loose unless the thermometer hits a cetain mark; but the catch is the humidity has to hit another figure. The standard for go home is 95 hot, 55 humid. The odds against that combination are almost prohibitive. It runs down the line—heat first, humidity second. Like 96-52; 97-49, down to 100-38. A lot of government offices have thermometers, but how does a government worker tell a humidity when he sees one?

Perhaps the telephone operators in the Capitol were the most enthusiastic in their farewells to the adjourned Congress.

The more than 70 girls work the year around, but when the senators and representatives are out of town they at least have time for a coffee break. During a session, 57,000 calls a day are the average, according to chief operator Miss Nena Thomas. The girls work around the clock whether Congress is sitting or fishing.

Lady Congress Woman Edith Green, the Democrat from Oregon has invented a fictitious clown she likes to call Cong. Blpfsk of Lower Slobovia. She quotes the phony law-giver, thusly: "Best way to handle the Salk vaccine problem is to give each home a monkey and a do-it-yourself-kit."

During the adjournment party on the House floor, a lady in a red dress reared up in the visitors' gallery and shouted that she was from Kentucky and why couldn't she join the cavorting? The congressmen paid no attention. Newsmen rushed around to the gallery entrance, to learn the lady's name but the guards wouldn't let them in. Reporters have no visitors' passes.

The American Federation of Labor would like us to know that a single worker has been guaranteed an annual wage. This fellow, according to national headquarters here, works for Local 466 as a projectionist for the Motion Picture Operators. His job is in an outdoor drive-in theatre in Astoria, Ore. He is, according to an agreement, to get $90 a week for the best weeks of the year and $85 a week for the balance of the year. He is to work six days a week for seven months and three days a week the rest of the time.

Rep. T. James Tumulty, a Democrat from New Jersey, is noted as the wag of the first session of the 84th Congress. When the whoop-la was on during the adjournment party, Tumulty was doing no whoop-la-ing. He was busy entertaining some visiting German legislators in the House restaurant. The gentleman from New Jersey was stopped for once. The Germans made a lot of noise in German. They understood no English. Tumulty nodded politely. He doesn't speak any German.

Nation's Governors Tag State Finances And Road Construction, Safety As Top Problems

CHICAGO (UP) — The nation's governors today tagged money and roads as two of their most pressing problems.

On the eve of the 47th annual governors' conference, a United Press survey showed that state finances and highway construction and safety ranked high on the list of state government headaches.

What to do about prison riots, water shortages, school segregation, a uranium boom and juvenile delinquency also plagued the chief executives.

Governors began arriving during the week end for the conference, which Illinois will host for the first time. It opens today with a meeting of the executive committee, but the first business session isn't on tap until Wednesday.

Most governors polled by the U.P. in advance of the conference named finances as a major problem—and most of them tied up that subject with activities of the federal government.

Shivers Tells Views

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas said that when the federal government takes over revenue sources, it "cripples" state and local governments.

"First, the federal government takes over fields of taxation so the state and local governments can not raise sufficient revenue," he said. "Then, it takes over functions under the guise that state and local governments won't do the job."

"The state should and could take care of highways, schools and many other functions, if we could get the proper separation of powers and fields of taxation," Shivers said.

Utah's J. Bracken Lee said the state's problem is how to provide needed services without higher more revenue sources to the states

Safety a Problem

New Mexico Gov. John F. Simms Jr. said a "prime" topic at the conference will be exploring ways of keeping the federal government from "invading areas of state soverignty" and from "cutting into traditional tax areas" of the states.

These subjects are due to be thrashed out at a round table on intergovernmental relations Friday. Another round table Wednesday will take up highways and highway safety—a topic listed by many governors in the U.P. surve.

Gov. Fred Hall of Kansas pointed to the failure of Congress to enact President Eisenhowers multi-billion-dollar roadbuilding program as a "real blow to the efforts of the states to achieve cooperation with the federal government on a mutual responsibility."

He said "competition" between governments must give way to "cooperation," particularly "so long as the federal government continues to preempt the major sources of revenue."

The President's road plan was unveiled before the 1954 governors' conference, and its defeat is bound to be discussed at length during this years session.

Seek Prison Code

But the conditions of the state treasuries and highways were by no means the only irksome problems the governors were bringing here.

Edwin C. Johnson, 71-year-old governor of Colorado, said he wants the governors to agree to a uniform code of refusing to negotiate with felons who riot at state prisons.

Johnson said the July 16 riot in Wyoming which resulted in two guards losing their jobs made him "shudder." When there is "appeasement" of convicts by one state, he said, it puts a "great strain" on prison officials of others.

Good Fishing

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Some fisherman apparently made sure that the angling in the west fork of the Trinity River will be good for a long time.

He blasted a hole in a dam at a government hatchery pond and sent 26,000 large mouth bass into the small stream.

The Dairy Cow, A Hard Worker, Deserves Comfort

LAFAYETTE, — The dairy cow, the hardest working animal on the farm, is also the most comfort craving. And, according to G. A. Williams, Purdue extension dairyman, no animal is more deserving of a comfortable environment.

Twenty-four hours each day, seven days each week, the cow is at work converting roughages and concentrates into nature's most nearly perfect food–milk. Unfortunately, this service is often performed under conditions which are far from comfortable.

It has been estimated through research that 10 tons of blood must flow through the udder of a cow in order for her to produce 50 pounds of milk each day. Since this is not an uncommon level of production on many dairy farms, the heart of such a cow is subjected to heavy strain.

Large amounts of feed are required to meet the needs for these high-producing cows. In the mastication and digestion of feed, heat is generated. When temperatures are low heat is utilized to maintain body temperatures but in the summer when atmospheric temperatures approach 90 degrees the cows must dispose of the surplus or she is uncomfortable.

Williams suggested the following points in order to keep cows comfortable and avoid the summer production slump:

Provide plenty of feed; a cow may consume 150 to 200 pounds of grass daily if it is available.

If more than one pasture is available, use the one with the greatest carrying power for day time grazing. Cows perfer to get their supply of grass during the morning before the sun is too hot.

Fields used for day time grazing should be provided with shade, either natural or portable.

Provide plenty of fresh cool water which is easily accessible, especially during the day.

Use a fly repellent; cows cannot fight flies and keep cool at the same time.

Cantor Explains His Opposition To Pay-As-You-See TV

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A popular song some years ago had a phrase —"No, no, they can't take that away from me."

And that is exactly the way I feel about free television as opposed to pay-as-you-see-TV. There are so few things in life that are free, and the air, thank God, is one. I don't feel that anyone has the right to say you cannot see a certain show if you cannot pay $2 for the privilege.

What about the theaters, you say? We—you and I—do not own the theaters. But we do own the air, and that's the difference. I personally could pay $2 to see a top Broadway show or a big fight on TV, but I wouldn't, because I know there are many, many people in this country who can't afford the $2. I feel that pay-TV is discriminatory.

What about the big prize fights and football games which are not now shown in our homes? It seems to me that were the TV rights to these events made available to a sponsor, one of the bigger corporations would be happy to pick up the tab merely for good will.

I am thinking now of the magnificient show that co - starred Ethel Merman and Mary Martin some months ago. That sponsor was so unobtrusive in selling his product that I wanted to go out and buy one out of sheer gratitude for his giving me such fine entertainment. That is as it should be.

When we make the initial expenditure for a TV set, I feel that all the entertainment it brings us should be included, without our having to pay anything extra. When we buy a car, we are free to drive to the beach or the mountains. It works the same way, I believe, with television.

Let us consider radio. Oh yes, I know some people feel it's dead, but actually it's the liveliest corpse that ever happened! There was never any question about paying for radio entertainment. And radio is still very healthy. Statistics show that there are still more radio sets sold than TV receivers.

While I am doing a weekly TV show, I am also doing a radio frank to tell you that I'm going show five times weekly. And I am t obe in radio until the last radio is sold!

But back to TV. I refuse to get excited about the problem of pay-TV. It isn't controversial, as far as I'm concerned, for I feel there never will be pay-television. As the Gershwins said, "They can't take that away from me." And I do mean free air.

Police Issue Pickup Order For Ohio Youth

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Police issued a pickup order today for a 19-year-old youth whose parents were killed in a vicious double-murder.

The battered, blood-soaked bodies of Gomer Thomas, 45, and his wife, Betty, 39, were found Monday in the bedroom of their frame home. Charles Miller, 18, Mrs. Thomas' son by another marriage, and Mrs. Clarebelle Fast, a sister of Mrs. Thomas, forced their way into the home after earlier attempts to contact the couple had failed.

Near the bodies were two hammers, and two butcher knives, all stained with blood.

A pickup order was issued immediately for Robert Jacob Miller, Mrs. Thomas' other son by her previous marriage. Homicide Chief Sgt. C.D. Lewis said the son is believed to be driving his mother's car which they said he frequently took without permission.

Lewis said there seemed to be no apparent motive for the slayings but officers were checking on the possiblity of robbery. He said there were no signs of a struggle in any of the five rooms, including the bedroom where the bodies were found.

the fact that these materials can be used for military purposes."

Russia, handing out 61 pages of technical data including photographs, mathematical charges and blueprints, also reported it is rushing plans for a number of improved atomic-powered generating plants.

It was the biggest batch of atomic details ever handed out by Russia in the hurried history of nuclear development.

Reactor of Little Interest

Western scientists reported surprise at an up-to-the-minute system for turning heat inside the uranium "furnace" into steam for the 5,000 kilowatt turbine generation.

Otherwise it was a relatively small reactor with little of interest. A British physicist said attacking the modern heat transfer system to the old-style reactor was "like putting a super-charger on a Model T."

The United States followed up the Soviet disclosure with a report on development of a 3,500 kilowatt experimental atom-powered electric generator.

Dr. Walter Henry Zinn of the Argonne National Laboratory, Chicago, described it as a new type in which steam is generated right inside the uranium pile while a tamed-down A-bomb reaction delivers controlled heat.

Radioactivity Unusually Low

Zinn said radioactivity of the steam was unusually low. This is a critical matter because radioactive steam would contaminate the generator it drives.

The Russian reactor forces water at high pressure into the pile. Because of the pressure steam is unable to form and the water goes a number of degrees above 212 degrees, the boiling point.

The super - heated water is pumped out of the reactor to a heat exchanger where a separate supply of water is turned into steam. The water in the two systems never mixes.

HIROSHIMA (UP)— Japan appealed today to the international Atoms-for-Peace Congress at Geneva for help in outlawing atomic and hydrogen bombs.

The appeal came in the closing session of a three-day "world conference to ban atomic and hydrogen bombs" held to mark the destruction of this city by an atom bomb on Aug. 6, 1945.

A declaration adopted by the conference emphasized that atomic energy must be used for the happiness and prosperity of mankind. It appealed to all peoples, regardless of their political and religious beliefs and social systems, to help build up the anti-atomic bomb campaign.

The declaration, adopted at the conference's last session attended by 2,000 persons, also opposed the bringing in of U.S. atomic rocket launchers, stockpiling of atomic weapons and expansion of U.S. bases in Japan.

MILK HOUSE - Firemen of the Cleveland township fire department successfully stopped the blaze from over-taking the milking parlor (left) and milk cooler (right) after the fire had completely destroyed the Lowell Yohe barn which was connected to the milk house. The damage to the latter was confined to the pump on the milking machine and the interior of the milking parlors.

Funeral Services Wednesday For Mrs. Lee Souder

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Greenisen Funeral Home at Bryan, O., for Mrs. Lee Souder, 54, whose death occurred Saturday at her home. She had been in failing health for three years. Burial will be made in Fountain Grove cemetery at Bryan.

Survivors are the husband; a son, William Goleman, Charleston, Ill., and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Basin, Kendallville; a sister, Mrs. Helen Yost, Cherokee, Iowa and a brother, Herbert Watts, Long Beach, Calif. Four grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive.

Mrs. Souder had resided at Bryan for the past 18 years. Mr. Souder is a former Whitley county resident and a brother of Arnold Souder and Mrs. Firmer Foster of this city.

Son Of Jack Cramer Dies; Body Brought To Washington

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cramer, 129 North Elm street, have been notified of the death of their grandson, Stephen Lee, born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cramer at Kodiak, Alaska, July 27. The child died Friday and the body was brought to Everet, Washington for committal services.

The father is in the Navy and is stationed at Kodiak. Besides the parents and the grandparents residing here are the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Peterson residing at Everett, Washington.

Stork Special

PETOSKEY, Mich. —(UP) — Clyde Hall, a telephone company employe, used an even quicker method than the telephone to notify his neighbors when his wife gave birth to their second child. He alerted the neighbors ahead of time that he would fly a pink or blue flag on a flagpole in front of his home to signal arrival of the baby. He hoisted a pink flag.

Gallagher

T. Smith, 24, Fresno, Calif. now stationed in Toule France corroborated most of the testimony given by Adams. He said Gallagher grabbed the ailing prisoners and tossed them from the room "like a sack of spuds."

Asked when he saw the two men again, Smith said it was the next day when he saw them being carried on a stretcher to the camp's "death house."

Adams testified, under questioning by Asst. Trial Counsel Lt. Erwin B. Drucker, that he was in a room next to the one in which Gallagher, Adams and Baxter were quartered. The partition between the two rooms had been torn down, Adams said, and he had an unobstructed view of the beds where the two victims lay, suffering from dysentery and exposure and unable to move. He himself was in a similar condition, Adams testified.

"Prior to Jones' death did you hear anything from him and the men in that area?" Drucker asked.

"Just moaning and groaning," the witness replied.

"Will you tell the court the circumstances surrounding Jones' death?" Drucker asked.

Returns for Baxter

"I saw Gallagher come in the door," Adams said. "He came over and said something in harsh and angry tones. He slapped Jones several times. Then he picked him up and quickly carried him out the door."

"How fast did he take him out the door?"

"Like a bartender bouncing a drunk."

"What happened then?"

"Gallagher came back and picked up the second man (Baxter) whose name I did not know and slapped him and carried him out. Then he came back and started to clean up the room."

"Did you hear any sounds from the two men?" Drucker asked.

"They were whining and groaning like a baby," Adams said.

"Did you say anything?"

"No. I was afraid."

"Why?"

"He had already thrown two men out and I was afraid he might take me next."

"Why were you afraid of that."

"The weather outside was below freezing," Adams said. "There was ice on the ground and I didn't want to freeze to death."

United States Can Strike Blow For World Peace

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL
United Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—A top expert in foreign trade said today the United States can strike a blow for world peace by helping Russia improve agricultural production.

"It is usually hungry people and have-not nations that start wars," said Gottfried Neuburger, an official of a firm that sponsors international trade fairs and expositions.

"If people are satisfied," he said in an inetrview, "they won't go to war."

The 48-year-old executive of International Trade Shows recently urged the Soviet Union to permit a U.S. trade exposition specializing in agriculture to be held in Moscow next summer.

That plan is said to be under "serious consideration" by Russian authorities.

"Such an agricultural exposition could trigger a movement which converted into the implements of would see the instruments of war agriculture," he said.

The exposition, if approved, would pave the way for the first major display of American products behind the Iron Curtain.

Neuburger's plan calls for top American companies in the fields of farm implements and machinery, irrigation, soil conservation and other facets of the over-all agricultural picture setting up major displays in Moscow.

"The exposition would include areas where the companies could demonstrate methods of improving crop yields or irrigating the soil," he added.

"The exposition would be a tremendous opportunity for American industry to open up a whole new export market behind the Iron Curtain."

Neuburger estimated there's a multi-million dollar market for American farm equipment of all kinds behind the Iron Curtain.

The German-born business man, who came to this country in 1927, noted that at present the Russians are intensely interested in American agricultural machinery and techniques, as evidenced by the Soviet delegation touring farm areas in the Midwest.

Also, he added, the Russians are seeking to send a group of their agricultural machinery experts to the United States to study American equipment and production methods.

Wolmi-Do, ordered particular attention to boatloads of 200 tough, anti-Communist ex-war prisoners circling the island.

The U.S. Army denied rumors it had evacuated the truce members —charged by the Koreans with being Communist spies — but sent crack 7th Division frontline combat troops to its besieged compounds.

Wolmi-Do was the fifth U.S. post to be attacked in five days of anti-Communist demonstrations that quickly turned into rioting against American troops. The government-inspired attacks were part of a drive to oust the Communist commission members by Saturday.

Fresh Trouble Expected

Elsewhere thousands of Koreans laid siege to other U.S. Army compounds housing neutral truce teams at Taegu, Kunsan and Kangnung. Fresh trouble was expected there and at Pusan where six GIs were injured in an attack Monday.

The Republic of Korea has given the Communists until Saturday to get out of the country. Swiss and Swedish members of the commission are not affected.

The Republic of Korea has charged the Czech and Polish members of the U.N. supervisory commission have been working as Communist spies gathering information for the Reds.

The chief delegates to the four nation commission scheduled a meeting at Panmunjom Wednesday to discuss South Korean demands the commission leave the country.

Korean newspapers have reported that the Swedes and Swiss were willing to withdraw and were awaiting instructions from their governments.

outfit for about two years and has between 1,600 and 1,700 flying hours.

I'd like to stress the requirement that every man on one of these crews must operate as a component of a team. Under the circumstances in which we operate, every man aboard has a specific assignment. Unless he is doing the job, the flight cannot be a success.

I'd say the most important men on board were the two navigators, Ens. Jim Morris, and Lt. (J.G.) Dick Wing. If they dont know where we are, our value to the hurricane advisory service is lost.

In the actual flight, most of all, we just got physically tired fighting the controls, trying to keep the wings level and maintain our air speed at about 165 knots (185 m.p.h.).

There is nothing worse than that bumping around. It is a force over which you have no control.

Elements Are Mortal Enemies

All of the elements in a storm like Connie are our mortal enemies — the hurricane force winds, the torrential rains, the terrific heat, everything. And unlike combat flight during the war, these enemies never give up.

The only way we can get away from them is to leave the storm. And we have to stay until we are able to give weather central what they ask for.

About the only relief we had came when we went into the calm eye of the hurricane and then turned the plane's jets and shot up to 10,000 feet to take pictures.

Up there, it was fairly clear and very calm. We could fly around in a 20-mile diameter without feeling a gust, and we were high enough to cool off for a while. Up there we took our pictures.

Gray Fined $20.99 Monday On 2 Charges Of Intoxication

Everett Gray, 18, was fined a total of $20.99 and costs Monday morning in Whitley County circuit court on two separate charges of intoxication.

Gray pleaded guilty to two counts of one charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverage and also with public intoxication. Judge Lowell Pefley fined Gray $10.99 and costs on his conviction of the first count, but continued the hearing on the other count indefinitely.

The judge assessed Gray a fine of $10 when he pleaded guilty to the second charge of a minor possessing alcoholic beverage.

Gray was also given a suspended sentence of six months at the Indiana State Farm and had his drivers' license suspended for one year for the conviction.

The sentence was suspended upon the condition that Gray remain off the streets after 10 o'clock at nights, refrain from drinking alcoholic beverages, and from associating with persons who drink alcoholic beverages, and that he comply with the rules and regulations set up for him by the Whitley County probation officer, and report into court when ordered to do so by the probation officer, the prosecuting attorney, or the judge of the circuit court.

California Scientist Warns Of Runaway Nuclear Reactor Danger

By WILLIAM SEXTON

United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — The California scientist who unlocked the secret of the hydrogen bomb warned the world today of a new danger — the dread "runaway' nuclear reactor that could be as dangerous as the atomb bomb itself.

The warning was delivered in a paper from Edward Teller of the University of California, known as the "Father of the hydrogen Bomb" and was echoed in papers by British and Soviet scientists at the Atoms - For - Peace conference here.

But J. D. Dietrich, a scientist from the U.S, Argonne National Laboratories, described how runaway reactor accidents were deliberately staged. He said the experiments seemed to prove that the small reactors, of water-cooled type, have "a high degree of inherent safety."

Teller, working with Rogers McCullough of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Mark Wills of the University of California, drafted one of the most dramatic papers of the conference. It was read today by McCullough.

Split Second Disaster

He warned that runaway nuclear furnaces may force the evacuation of entire cities, poison entire watersheds and turn stretches of land into forbidden areas for years. It could be a split second disaster but an industrial disaster unknown before to the world.

The scientists said nuclear fission must be made as safe as gas or electricity for the era of atomic power is near at hand. They told of an unceasing search for devices

Jack Gates House In New Addition Nearing Completion

The new gray limestone ranch style house of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gates and daughter, Laura Sue, in West Park addition is nearing completion. The recessed entrance faces south on the new circular drive through the north section of the addition west of the Whitley County, Hospital.

The entrance has a red tile floor. From the entrance hall to the west is a door opening into the dinette and kitchen. The U shape kitchen cabinets will be made of mahogany. One section will form a divider from the dining area.

At the north of the hall is the entrance to the large living room with picture window overlooking a ravine to the north. The living room has a limestone fireplace, matching the house exterior it has a red tile raised hearth and built in heating unit. A covered terrace opens off the living room to the northwest. The attached garage at the west side of the house forms a backwall for the terrace. A cement drive will be built from the street.

A stairway between the garage and kitchen goes to the basement under the entire house. A gas furnace is located in the basement.

The main hall opens to the three bedrooms and bath at the east. The bath has medium blue fixtures and a built in shower.

The two bedrooms at the east have corner windows and closets with sliding doors. The third bedroom faces the north.

The doors are to be of mahogany in natural finish. All floors except the kitchen and bath will be carpeted.

Possible Fight Over Segregation In Forces Looms

As Result Of President's Criticism Of Reserve Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—A possible new fight over segregation in the nation's defense forces loomed today as a result of President Eisenhower's criticism of the new compulsory military reserve bill.

Mr. Eisenhower signed the measure into law Tuesday, but he sharply criticized the bill's failure to bring the National Guard under the compulsory reserve program.

Criticizing Congress for failure to include National Guard features in the bill, the President said he has serious doubts the guard can "fully attain" its planned size and readiness without amendments to the law.

He said he is instructing Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and the Joint Chiefs of Staff to review National Guard programs and standards "to determine whether they meet the imperative requirements of our first line defenses."

This requested proviso was left out of both House and Senate bills to avoid stalling the measure after adoption of an anti - segregation clause involving theNational clause involving the National Guard had temporarily stymied the bill in the House.

Mr. Eisenhower repeatedly criticized moves in Congress to tack on an anti-segregation amendment, labelling this "extraneous" to the purpose of the bill.

Democrats At Governors' Conference Put Pressure On Stevenson To Reveal His Plans

CHICAGO (UP) — Democratic governors attending the 47th annual governors' conference trekked back and forth between Adlai E. Stevensons suburban home today and many put pressure on him to reveal whether he will run again for the presidency.

In the forefront of the governors who sat down with Stevenson was Averell Harriman of New York Stevenson's close personal friend and the man most widely named as his possible opponent at the Democratic National Convention next summer.

Harriman went to Stevenson's Libertyville, Ill., farm home on Tuesday night for dinner and a "good long talk."

The two Democrats declined to say whether they talked about the presidency. But Harriman repeated his support for Stevenson in 1956 and said discussion of whether he will run himself is "too iffy" to talk about.

Main Work Overshadowed

The political sideshow all but overshadowed the main work of the governors' conference which got down to business today with a discussion of highway safety, road building, and Congress' failure to pass President Eisenhower's highway construction program.

A highlight of the session was Gov. Arthur B. Langlies report on how his home state of Washington "declared war" on highway slaughter and saved an estimated 200 lives by rigid law enforcement.

But Stevenson and his political plans were constantly in the background, even though the former Illinois governor had no official connection with the conference.

Stevenson, the Democrats' presidential candidate in 1952, issued a standing invitation to the 26 Democratic governors attending the conference to drop in at their

Carl Price, Former Local Printer, Here For Old Settlers Day

Carl Price, a printer at one time on the old Commercial-Mail is spending a number of days in this city and is accompanied by Mrs. Price, the former Mary Orner of North Line street, and their 12-year-old granddaughter, Jerry Price.

The Prices have their house trailer with them and are located at the Lefever Trailer camp at the west edge of the city. When they leave here they will go to Canton, O., and then on to Washington D.C.

Mr. Price who was employed for a number of years in the government printing office in Washington, is now retired. They are visiting with the relatives of Mrs. Price here.

Peabody Library Displays OSD Cards, Badges

Invites Visitors To Examine Display

Peabody Free Library has on display this week a collection of post cards, badges, programs and newspaper publicity relating to Old Settlers' Day back as far as 1912. Many persons will be interested in viewing this display, and the library invites visitors to revive happy memories while enjoying a cool place to rest during the remainder of the week. Hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. except Thursday, when it will close at noon, and Saturday, when it is open until 8 p.m.

Of chief interest in the collection are the cards of invitation, which each year have been drawn by a local artist of whom Columbia City is proud, Attorney Rob McNagny. Each card has characteristic Hosier flavor; many depict scenes suggestive of historic events, family life, farm activities, and typical rural pasttimes. All are humorous. To examine the detail in each card and to peruse them in chronological order is indeed a pleasure.

Some cards are missing from the collection, and the library would be grateful if any of its patrons can supply these.

The Frank and Sons Greenhouse is starting construction on a new office and display room which is located to the south and west adjoining the present office.

The new one story 40 x 50 addition will have a brick exterior and buff tile interior.

The driveway and parking space has been enlarged and covers part of the garden area.

The new addition will be ready about September 15.

A member of the firm stated that they planned to have an openhouse in "mum" season this fall.

Widney Reviews Purdue's Local Wheat Summary

Knox Variety Has Attracted Attention

Results of the wheat variety demonstration in this area received from Purdue Agronomists have been appraised by County Agent B. V. Widney.

The new Knox variety has come in for the most attention and generally has lived up to its high yielding reputation. It is early, short-strawed, red (orange leaf) rust resistant, high yielding and testing and can be widely planted this year by farmers desiring those qualities. Early combining is necessary as Knox straw is more likely to weaken than that of Vigo or Seneca. The early maturity also leads to less danger of stem rust damage. Like all wheat certified in Indiana, it is strictly soft with the highest test weight at maturity of any Indiana grown variety. Like other wheats, each rain pulls down test weight and quality.

To avoid the build up of loose smut or black head, certified seed with less than one per cent, or still better, registered seed should be planted. County Agent Widney has supplies of seed directories listing approximately 300 such sources in the state.

Compared to Pawnee, a hard Kansas variety grown to some extent in parts of Indiana, Knox has been consistently higher yielding and equal or higher in test weight during the past three years of comparisons.

Vigo Widely Grown

Vigo, the most widely grown variety in the state, is a good variety in many respects and especially in winter hardiness but is gradually giving way to newer varieties with slightly more yielding ability. Like Knox, it is resistant to red rust. It stands well, produces more straw than Knox,

Leslie Pence Will Teach At South Whitley This Year

Mr. and Mrs. C. Laver Pence, North Elm street, and their son Leslie have returned from Morehead, Ky., where Mr. and Mrs. Pence attended graduation exercises of Morehead college, where their son received his B.A. degree last Thursday evening.

They also attended the reception held after the exercises for the graduates on the spacious lawn of the president of the college. Leslie was graduated in 1952 from Columbia City high school and entered Morehead college in the fall with a scholarship in band. He is a music major in both band and vocal music.

He was active in college activities. He was a member of Crescendo club and the Wesley club and was a member of the college quartette which received the honorary commission of "The Kentucky Colonel." Leslie has had his field experience in Montgomery county high school and at the "Brentwood," the college school in Morehead.

He also has been active in the Morehead Players, and has received the award as actor for his part as Oespidus in the play Oespidus Rex. He will teach music in the school at South Whitley this year.

The William Brinsleys Parents Of Daughter In Munich, Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cole, 405 North Line street, have announced the birth of a daughter July 25 to T—Sgt. and Mrs. William Brinsley. The father is stationed with the United States Air Force in Munich, Germany. The mother is the former Pat Cole.

The daughter was named Debra Darlene and weighed 5 pounds 11 ounces. The Brinsley's also have a son, Terry.

The paternal grandparent is Mrs. Marshall Sevits, 401 North Chauncey street. The great-grandparents are Mrs. John Nolt, city, and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Smith, R 2.

Mrs. Mary Weber To Attend OSD

"Mrs. Mary Weber, 99, will attend the Old Settlers Day celebration Thursday from 11 to 12, if the weather permits," Dave Spence, president reports.

The committee is providing a rocking chair and umbrella for Mrs. Weber.

She lives at the South Whitley Rest Home. Her picture, drawn by artist Rob McNagny, appears on the Old Settlers Day cards his year.

Dulles Nudges Red China To Free Civilians

Action On Torture Charges By 11 Airmen Not Decided Upon

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today diplomatically nudged Red China to free U.S. civilians still held behind the Bamboo Curtain.

Dulles also told a news conference it has not yet been decided what action to take on torture charges made against Red China by 11 recently freed U.S. airmen.

The secretary said it is unfortunate that Red China, during negotiations at Geneva, had not made it possible for the American civilians to come home quickly. He pointed out that Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai had said the number of Americans in Red China is quite small and their future should be settled quickly.

Unhappily, Dulles said, that statement has not been realized.

As for the torture charges made by the 11 Air Force men who are en route home after 2½ years in Red jails, Dulles recalled that the British, after the Korean War, had published a white paper dealing with prisoner treatment.

The secretary said that this was a very sober and disturbing document and the United States may do something comparable to that. But he said it would be better to decide what to do after the airmen return.

On the Geneva negotiations, Dulles indicated that Red China's main counter proposals for re-

Moyer Resigns As Coesse Coach For Harlan Position

Herman Moyer, basketball coach at Coesse high school for the past seven years, submitted his resignation Tuesday, it has been announced by Harry T. Yoder, county superintendent of schools.

Moyer, who was also a teacher of social science and physical education, is accepting a position as coach at Harlan high school. His team at Coesse last year had an over-all record of 9-9 and finished second to Jefferson Center in the county tournament.

Yoder also announced that Mrs. Martha Fruit, former teacher in Wabash County, has been employed to teach the fifth and sixth grades next year at Columbia township. Miss Opal Poland, former teacher at North Manchester, will teach English and Latin at Jefferson high school next year replacing Miss Lois Walter.

This leaves, besides the Coesse social science and coach's job, only the position of junior high school coach and social studies teacher at Larwill to be filled in county schools.

Professional Man To Serve As M.C. During Old Settlers

This year Dave Maloclm has setainer will serve as master of ceremonies, "Whitey" Roberts from Washington, D.C.

In past years Milt Lorber served for years and years as the able master of ceremonies and for the past two years, Colby Armstrong did the job.

This year Dave Malcolm had secured Roberts, who is notorious for his humorous dissertatio 1 national topics.

Roberts should keep things rolling this year, including the audience.

Koreans Again Storm U. S. Army Compound Today

Were Repulsed By Tear Gas Bombs

By ROBERT BROWN

United Press Staff Correspondent

INCHON, Korea (UP) — Three hundred South Korean War veterans stormed a U.S.army compound on Wolmi Island today but were repulsed by tear gas bombs before they could capture Communist members of the neutral nations truce supervision team.

Heavily armed American military police, under orders to "start shooting" if necessary, also poured streams of water from fire hoses on the Koreans whose six days of government - inspired riots brought American-Korean relations to a crisis.

The American guards were equipped with gas masks and wore combat helmets as they stood firm against the angry ex-South Korean soldiers who surged across an 800-foot-long causeway leading to the island compound and tried to force their way into the billets of the Communist truce inspectors.

No Americans or Koreans were reported injured in the clash, the second in two days at the island. Seven Americans and 10 Koreans were injured in Tuesday's predawn clashes.

Today's rioting was touched off by truckloads of Korean reinforcements who poured into the area by truck from Seoul. Until they arrived the Koreans had milled around outside the compound shouting threats by loudspeaker.

Other Koreans circled the island by junks and the M.P.s stood by to repel a waterborne landing.

The U.S. army was bending over backwards to remain calm in the face of stone and bottle-throwing Koreans who have stormed five American compounds throughout Krea and injured at least 18 soldiers.

But a high American official said the Army was getting "fed up" and Washington dispatches made it clear the G.I.s would do their best to protect the Communist Polish and Czech members of the delegation—who are also unpopular with the Americans.

The crisis was so serious that Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, U.S. Far East commander, flew to Korea from Tokyo for a showdown with Republic of Korea President Syngman Rhee. With him was Gen. I.D. White, Eighth Army commander, and ROK Defense Minister Sohn Won Il.

Warsaw Girl Rushed To Fort Wayne Hospital Tuesday Evening

Sharon Prescott, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Prescott, who reside near Warsaw, was rushed from the Memorial Hospital to the St. Joseph Hospital in Fort Wayne Tuesday evening.

She was suffering from an unusual cardiac condition and was immediately placed in an iron lung upon arrival at the hospital.

Under the supervision of two doctors, accompanying her in the Hollingsworth ambulance, she was given oxygen and artificial respiration en-route to Fort Wayne. Local police officers and the Allen County Sheriff's department provided the emergency escort.

Citizens Plan Action On Sewer Improvements

Council Advised On Circulation Of Petitions In Neighborhoods

A number of complaints from neighborhoods for sewer improvements were presented to the City Council at its meeting Tuesday night by Robert Gates, city attorney.

Petitions for the sewer improvement were prepared by Gates at the request of residents of the neighborhoods concerned.

One such petition was in favor of a master storm sewer line to be constructed in the northwest section of the city. The general area affected would be that bounded by Oak, Park, Harrison and Elm streets. The master waterway, similar to the one recommended for the area by Charles Miser, Garrett, is a survey made last year, is a plan to alleviate the congestion of water, such as occurred recently during the heavy rains.

Ten copies of the petition have been placed in the hands of interested residents for circulation in the neighborhood.

Another petition was prepared at the request of Robert Gause in favor of improving the sewer system on South Ohio street. Gause

No Busman's Holiday For Retired Postmen; They Garden, Farm And Golf In Spare Time

(Editor's note: this is the third and final in a series of articles concerning post offices and postmen in Whitley County.)

When bus drivers go on vacation they supposedly take a ride on a bus.

But the "busman's holiday" routine is a fallacy—at least as far as retired postmen in Whitley county are concerned. After interviewing three retired postmen, Alva Noble, Ervin Sell, and Charles Johnson, it's been found that these men really don't sort or deliver mail in their spare time now.

Mr. Noble, for example, raises gladiolus as a hobby. He has about 1,000 flowers, which he shows in area flower exhibits. He calls raising flowers his hobby and the vegetable raising he does is termed work. When asked about sports, he smilingly said that hoeing and spading were about the extent of his athletic interests.

Started in 1918

Mr. Noble started delivering mail in 1918 and retired in 1950. He said that for the first 10 years he had to drive a horse every spring, since the thaws ruined the roads. Roads (and automobiles) improved, though, and by 1928 he was able to drive his route the year around.

The route, which was mostly in Thorncreek township, took about 8 hours each day when he first started delivering mail. That route covered 28 miles. His 60-mile route, after improved roads, took about 4 hours each day.

Mr. Noble said he enjoyed his job as a rural mail carrier, and especially liked the opportunity to observe the change in seasons.

"There were some nice people on my route," he said, recalling an incident concerning two young boys who had just been presented with a baby sister.

"They asked their dad where the baby came from, and he told them that the mail man had

Spins Around In Giant Circle Of 125 MPH Winds

Coastal Residents Flee Inland; Roads Jammed With Vehicles

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (UP)—Hurricane Connie ground to a near halt 225 miles at sea today and spun around in a giant circle of 125-mile-an-hour winds.

The slowdown gave coastal residents time to flee inland and the roads were jammed with vehicles.

It was still uncertain just where the mighty storm, somewhat diminished in power but still a killer, would smack against the U.S. mainland.

"Connie is just spinning around now but our present forecast is that she will head toward Carolina when she begins moving again," Miami chief forecaster Gordon Dunn said. "We are just waiting it out now."

Dunn said Connie's antics approximate almost exactly those of her 1954 sister, Carol. Carol came to rest in almost the same area fo rtwo or three days last August, then took off on a north-northeast course, brushed by Cape Hatteras and hit New England Aug. 31 with

Fiance Of Local Girl Injured In 3-Car Accident On Road 9

Stan Loos, of Fort Wayne and Rome City, suffered injuries to the back and collar bone when a car which he was driving was involved in a three-car accident at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday on State Road 9 north of Merriam.

Loos, fiance of Miss Carol Hancock, 106 East Jefferson street, was admitted to Whitley County Hospital Tuesday night but was transferred Wednesday morning to the Lutheran Hospital, Fort Wayne by a Smith ambulance.

Loos was driving his Jeep south on the State Road towing a Model A Ford car occupied by Eugene Avery, 21, Fort Wayne, when the accident occurred. According to Trooper Claude Lane of the Indiana State Police, the old car came unhitched from the Jeep and was thrown into the path of a northbound car. The latter vehicle was driven by Dale Schultz, 27, of R 1, Albion. Neither of the other two drivers was injured.

Collection Of 39 OSD Badges To Be On Display

A collection of 39 Old Settlers Day badges assembled by the late Mrs. J. Forrest Brenneman will be displayed Thursday at the registration table.

The collection starts with a pink ribbon printed in black for the "Second Annual Reunion Old Settlers, Whitley County, August 17, 1905. Perhaps there were no badges for the first meeting in 1904.

Years missing from making a complete collection of the badges are ribbons dated '04, '08 to '10, '16, '21, '33, '35 and the war years '41 to '44. Old Settlers Day was not held in '42, '43 or '44.

The year '26 has a pink and a light green ribbon both with the dates. Other years had only one color. Twelve of the ribbons are blue or purple and eight are white, six pink, five red and other colors used are yellow, brown, green or silver.

Back Ribbon Surplus

Surplus ribbons for collectors for the years '20, '23 to '27, and '45 to '54 may be obtained at the registration table in the courthouse Thursday morning.

Mrs. Eisenhower Is Resting; She Is Tired, Not Ill

By RICHARD E. MOONEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower has been resting in bed at the Eisenhower farm since the weekend, but a presidential aide says she is "not ill . . . merely tired."

President Eisenhower disclosed Tuesday that Mrs. Eisenhower's doctor sent her to bed to rest for three days after an active weekend. But the President added that "she is all right."

The President made the remark to a group of Maryland cattle breeders, apparently to explain why Mrs. Eisenhower was not on hand with him to greet them. The group gave the Eisenhowers a registered Holstein heifer.

Later an aide said flatly: "Mrs. Eisenhower is not ill. She is merely tired from a very active weekend. She had some guests. The doctor told her to get a little rest. You know it has been very hot up here."

Mrs. Eisenhower's health became the subject of political controversy last spring when Democrats questioned whether her physical condition would keep the President from running for reelection. Republicans struck back angrily at the Democrats for bringing up the subject. Later Mr. Eisenhower told a news conference his wife is basically in good health.

Mr. Eisenhower plans to fly back to Washington Thursday morning, but Mrs. Eisenhower will stay at the farm.

After Friday's cabinet meeting, the President will return to the farm for a day or two before leaving for an extended work-and-play vacation in Denver, Colo., probably on Sunday.

It is epected Mrs. Eisenhower will wait to go to Denver until after her husband has returned east to address the American Bar Association in Philadelphia on Aug. 24.

Talking with the breeders about the Gettysburg area, the President said, "The only thing I have against it this summer is the drought." As for Mrs. Eisenhower, he said, "she likes it here; she doesn't want to go to Denver."

a punch that killed 66 and caused $500,000,000. damage.

A huge area from South Carolina to New England was alerted for the oncoming storm. Evacuation was started on an orderly basis.

The Noisy Waves

At Wilmington, N.C., the Weather Bureau reported offshore winds had reached steady 45-50 mile per hour velocity at 12:20 p.m. EDT.

House-to-house checks were made by North Carolina state troopers at several beaches.

Patrol Lt. W.S. Hunt said no attempt was made to give evacuation warnings by using amplifier equipment because "the waves are making so much noise you couldn't hear a loudspeaker."

Towering waves crashed over the sea wall at Atlantic Beach prior to the high tide at noon, but there had been no property damage reported.

Waves just off Wrightsville Beach were estimated at about seven feet high at 11 a.m.

Gale force winds ran ahead of the storm's center like sentinels whipping up the sea into mighty waves. The gales extended 120 miles north and east and 50 miles southwest of the hurricane's center, according to a 6 a.m. advisory of the weather bureau.

Damaging Tides Due

The weather bureau said most of the danger came from the seas which mounted in fury as each hour passed.

Tides as far north as Long Island, N.Y. were already as much as a foot above normal.

"When the hurricane moves closer these will rise to tremendous heights," a weatherman said.

"They will have the force and the fury to batter and break up a shoreside house, smash the cement off a highway, or knock a tree over."

Coastline residents fled in droves before the oncoming winds. Military planes evacuated East Coast airdromes. Ships ran before the wind to safe habors.

One airplane, a Navy anti-submarine craft, crashed Tuesday at Norfolk when it fled from the storm and its two occupants were killed. They were the first casualties of Connie and the 1955 hurricane season.

Strongman Of Pakistan Politics Is Premier-Designate

KARACHI, Pakistan (UP) — Chaudri Mohamad Ali, 50-year-old strongman of Pakistan politics who helped forge the nation's ties with the United States, was named premier-designate today..

Governor General Iskander Mirza asked Chaudri Mohamad Ali to try and form a government and end the political crisis touched off Sunday when Prime Minister Mohammed Ali resigned after losing the leadership of the dominant Moslem League party.

Mohamad Ali, long-time finance minister, was regarded as the man-policy-making of ex-Premier Mohammed Ali. He has survived the downfall of two cabinets and emerged as perhaps the strongest man in the Pakistan government.

Although powerful politically, he has preferred to work in the background and his appointment came as a surprise to political observers. Th eman considered most likely to get the post was Mussein Shaheed Suhrawardy, leader of the Awami (people's) League.

He announced immediately he was forming a three-party coalition—the Moslem League with 35 of the 80 seats in the Constituent Assembly, The United Front with 25 and the People's League with 13.

The decision to name Chaudri Mohamad Ali followed a series of back room negotiations among the political parties affected.

He was regarded as the first choice to succeed Premier Mohammed Ali when the Moslem League selected him as its new leader.

But the Moslem League suddenly developed fears that a premier from West Pakistan would upset its political balance in rival East Pakistan.

It appeared then that Suhrawardy of East Pakistan would be named premier to head off a Moslem party crisis, and to keep peace between East and West Pakistan.

The shift came Tuesday night when the United Front party, most powerful in East Pakistan offered an unconditional coalition with the Moslem League and said it would accept a candidate from West Pakistan. That cleared the way again for Chaudri Mohamad Ali to take over.

Marvy Mayor Has Hankering To Step Into Politics

NEW YORK UP) — A young lady named (so help me) Marvalene Mayor has a heavy hanker to step into politics, and, more than any politician on the horizon today, she has the assets to stand the electorate on its head.

The male electorate, that is.

The assets include: Bust, 35; waist, 25; hips, 36; languid blue eyes miles and miles and miles of legs a voice as soft and silvery as Alben W. Barkley's, and a seaside tan that emerges from her strapless white swim suit rippling like a field of ripe wheat.

Miss Mayor is representing Indiana in a beauty contest here.

She is only 19 but already a veteran of the political wars. Her speeches helped elect her mother to the Indiana Legislature as representative from Lake County (their home is in East Chicago, Ind.).

With one campaign behind her, she aims to study politics, keep making campaign speeches, get old enough to run for office, and run. It should be some race. Her ultimate goal is to get elected to Congress.

Miss Mayor (she calls herself Marvy because, she says, Marvalene sounds like a hair tonic) is one of 18 finalists in a United Artists contest to find the finest figure of a girl in the United States and Canada. They were picked from 63,000 entrants in in contests held in 2,300 motion picture theaters.

The winner, to be selected Friday, will get a $10,000 television and modeling contract.

Now, it's customary for beauty contestants to display some talent besides being inspiring to look at—do things like sing, or recite, or play the piano.

When Marvy got here, the people in charge looked her over when she go into her bathing suit. They grunted approval. She struck several poses. They nodded. But they wanted more.

"Perform!" they commanded.

"Fellow Democrats!" yelled Miss Mayor, waving her arms like the late Wendell Willkie. "My record speaks for itself! My interests lie with the working people. I understand their problems. If elected, I will work to do the most for the most people . . ."

Between campaign speeches for her mother last year, Miss Mayor worked as a model. Her stepfather, a state representative, died a year ago and her mother, Mildred L. Churilla, a precinct committeewoman, ran for his post and got it.

Marvy seems a cinch to be a top - flight campaigner in the future, even if she gets laryngitis and can't utter a word. That strapless white bathing suti could be worth more votes than a million words.

Dulles said the United States hopes to get some clarification at Wednesday's meeting on Red China's proposal to have a third party investigate Chinese students in this country. Red China contends they are being held against their will.

On another China phase, he remarked somewhat crisply that he is in agreement with Chou En-lai's statement that Chou opposes a "two chin" policy. This would set up Red China and Nationalist China as separate states for U.N. membership and diplomatic recognition. Dulles said the United States recognizes only one China — Nationalist China.

Seneca and Butler are Ohio's contribution to soft wheat improvement. The smooth red chaffed Seneca is much more popular than the bearded Butler. Both stand well, and are good "combine" varieties. Chief weaknesses of Seneca are susceptibility to rusts, scab, and lack of winter hardiness. It overcomes this lack of hardiness by stooling ability second only to that of Knox. Loose smut is slowly building up in these varieties too. Scab resistance of Butler is not the equal of these soft wheats.

Ex-Wife Speaks Out

Gov. John F. Sims of New Mexico said "I told him rather plainly" to make a statement. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut also talked to Stevenson after telling newsmen that the party's titular leader should get off the fence.

Dennis J. Roberts of Rhode Island returned from Libertyville saying he felt convinced that Stevenson would run. New Jersey's Robert B. Meyner was yet to make the trip, but he said he thought Stevenson should speak out.

Meanwhile, Stevenson's divorced wife commeted tartly that her husband is a "Hamlet" who "can't make up his mind" about the presidency.

Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson, who won a divorce while her husband was governor, told newsmen "He loves to be dramatic, you know."

She called Stevenson "in decisive" and said "that's why I don't think he'd make a good president — he says he's determined to do one thing one day and another thing the next.'

Rules Of Egg Act Are Reviewed

LAFAYETTE, —Retailers and farmers have swamped the office of the Indiana State Egg Board with letters seeking information regarding the status of farmers under the Indiana Egg Act of 1941, E. R. Menefee, executive secretary of the state egg board at Purdue University, has reported.

"Under the exemption section of the law, farmers can sell eggs from their farms at home without violating the law," according to Menefee.

"The same is true when eggs are sold to wholesalers or grocery store operators," he added. However, if the farmer offers eggs to retail grocers as "fresh", a grade A permit is required and eggs must meet the minimum standards set by the state egg board. State egg board stamps must also be attached to the cases.

If farmers peddle eggs from door to door, the law requires the farmer to register with the state board as a retailer of eggs. All eggs must be edible at the time of delivery when retailed by the farmer If such eggs are offered as "fresh" they also must be sold under a grade A permit.

"All eggs are subject to state egg inspection," Menefee concluded. Questions on the egg law should be forwarded to Menefee at Purdue University.

President Signs Bill Giving Land To North Dakota

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has signed a bill giving North Dakota the land where Chief Sitting Bull originally was buried.

The five acre tract lies in the Standing Rock Indian Reservation. The famous Indian warrior was buried there Dec. 15, 1890. A party of South Dakotans claimed that they moved his bones in 1953 to Mowbridge, S.D.

Experiment Shows That Cod Liver Oil Has Healing Effect

NEW YORK (UP)—An experiment in the relation of poor nutrition to tuberculosis has unexpectedly produced evidence of a hidden and unknown ingredient in cod liver oil which has a healing effect within the human body.

Dr. Horace R. Getz, of a TB sanitarium at Altadena, Calif., took a group of new patients who because of low concentrations of vitamins A and C in their blood seemed to have been in a poor nutritional state when they contracted the disease.

Rather than using the new "miracle" anti - tuberculosis drugs, Dr. Getz started out by treating them in the traditional way — bed rest. All were given a nourishing basic diet. About one third were given synthetic vitamin A in tablet form. A second sub - group was given cod liver oil because it contains vitamin A. The third group was given vitamins in their food.

Getz wanted to see how the bodies of each group fought the TB bug in comparison with the other two groups.

Cod Liver Oil Results Good

The patients who got the synthetic vitamin A didn't do any better than the patients who got their only vitamins from their diets. Among these two groups, there were a considerable number of worsening cases. But all the patients who received cod liver oil got better, and their TB wounds showed signs of healing.

"The clinical results suggest that a factor favorable to healing is present in the crude concentrate of vitamin A from cod liver oil," said Dr. Getz in reporting in the American Review of Tuberculosis and Pulmonary Diseases. "The results encourage further work, which is now under way, to find the active principle responsible for the effects noted with the crude concentrate."

A technical journal also reported an odd development in the treatment of the dread "white plague" which in this country is diminishing steadily, what with the "miracle drugs" — chiefly isoniazid — that are effective against it for the time being. This development was discovered by Drs. Anne S. Youmans and Guy P. Youmans of Northwestern University Medical School.

Builds Up Resistance

TB is caused by bacteria — the tubercle bacilli. Isoniazid prevents them from growing and multiplying. In many ases, however, the bacilli have become "resistant" to isoniazid. The reason they have, the Youmans reported, is because some strains of bacilli are now exuding a chemical substance which prevents isoniazid from preventing their growth and multiplication.

The Youmans don't know yet the nature of this substance. It may be a protein but it may also be an enzyme. Even more oddly, strains of bacilli which were susceptible to isoniazid seemed to give off more of the substance than strains which were entirely resistant. They warned that no conclusions should be drawn at this time. It may be, however, that they are on the trail of how bacteria become resistant to "miracle drugs". If and when they find out it will be a great day.

Reunion

Grable Reunion

The seventh annual reunion of the Ira M. Grable family was held Sunday at the Fox and Coon hunters club house east of Columbia City. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grable of near this city served as hosts.

Scientist

to make nuclear fission safe in the laboratories of two continents.

The paper said that "with all the inherent safeguards that can be put into a reactor, there is still no fool-proof system. . . . there are unfortunately certain dangerous characteristics . . . . and this public hazard has been one of our main concerns."

It was symbolic of the aims of the conference that one of the major papers on saving lives in the new age, when nuclear reactors already are on the drawing boards, should come from the man responsible for the most lethal weapon of history.

"Perhaps," the Teller - McCullough - Wills paper said, "it is important to emphasize the degree of public hazard that might follow a reactor accident.

A Reassuring Note

"Assuming that good luck prevails and no one is killed, it may nevertheless be necessary to evacuate a large city, to abandon a major watershed and very probably it would be necessary to make the reactor site itself a forbidden area for years to come."

A reassuring note came from scientist J. D. Dietrich of the Argonne National Laboratories in the United States who read a paper incorporating the work of 32 other scientists on experiments in which 200 runaway reactor accidents were deliberately staged at Los Alamos and Oak Ridge.

These small reactors of water-cooled types appear to have reached a "high degree of inherent safety,' he said.

Britain's W. G. Marley and T. M. Frey of the Harwell Laboratories said they did not think the safety problem was "insuperable." But they urged that atomic plants be built away from heavily populated areas in such a way that only limited quantities of radioactivity would be released in event of an accident.

BINGHAM, Me. —(UP)— Mrs. Idella Fogg was stopped twice by one state trooper and once by a second within three house on charges of driving without a license. Trial Justice Maurice Alkins fined her $5 and costs the first time, suspended a similar sentence the second time and filed the third charge.

Gift Problem

HASTINGS, Neb. —(UP)— Former State Sen. Hazel Abel received the spitoon and shaving mug traditionally given Nebraska senators at the conclusion of their term. She said she hadn't figured out a use for the shaving mug, but she'll use the spittoon as a planter.

How to Spend That Pay Raise

PUT THE RAISE IN BONDS SERIES E

If you are one of millions of Americans who have had a pay raise recently, or are expecting one in the near future, the U. S. Treasury has a good suggestion: "Put the raise in Savings Bonds." The idea is being displayed here by four pulchritudinous employees of the Savings Bonds Division in the Nation's Capital. They paraded the big poster along Pennsylvania Avenue recently when the President signed the bill to give Government employees a salary boost. However, they think the suggestion is good for everyone—union members, office workers, school teachers, doctor, lawyer, or Indian chief. The publicity-minded young ladies are, left to right: Carole Fimbres, a native of Albuquerque, New Mexico; Lib Koethe, Columbia, South Carolina; Elizabeth Crowell, Washington, D. C.; and Shirley Hamilton, Barnum, West Virginia.

GOOD SAMARITAN KILLED—Still pinned to the highway at Lawrence, Kans., is the shoe of Harvey A. Makinon, 49, of Kansas City, Kans., who stopped to help another car stalled in a heavy rainstorm. Makinon's toes were severed by the bumper and he was killed when the car hit him. Six other persons were injured, none seriously.

eaning Tower [illegible]isa To Lean [illegible] Far Some Day

PISA, Italy (UP) — Some pessimistic experts are predicting that the Leaning Tower of Pisa, about to celebrate its 781st birthday, won't live out the 20th Century. One of these years it will lean all the way over, they say, and that will be that.

But if you plan to camp nearby with a camera to catch the tower's spectacular finish, there are the optimistic experts to contend with. They say the tower has at least 300 years of health leaning still ahead.

The fate of the 179-foot white marble tower was a subject of general scientific concern on the eve of the anniversary Wednesday of the laying of its cornerstone.

It was on Aug. 10, 1174, that construction of the tower began. An honor guard of crossbowmen stood straight as ramrods at the site, and the architect, Bonnaus of Pisa, proudly gave directions.

The tower was one-third up when it began to tilt. Bonnaus washed his hands of the affair and the tower stood uncompleted for 90 years. Then Pisans decided to finish it anyhow, building the upper portion heavier on one side to allow for the lean. The bells, weighing 22,000 pounds, were placed in a spot where they wouldn't aggravate the lean.

Since then the tower has stood by hurricanes, earthquakes and wartime bombing raids. It has survived the probings of scientists and the footfalls of panting tourists.

What bothers engineers is that the tower leans a little more every year. How long can this go on?

The lean from the perpendicular is now 17-feet-2½-inches, and it is increasing at a rate of about ,027 inch a year. This is perceptible only to members of the Ministerial Commission of Vigilance for the Stability of the Bell Tower of Pisa who measure it faithfully once a year.

But Prof. Silvio Ballarin, director of the geodetic institute of the University of Pisa, has noted that over the past 34 years the lean has actually increased an average of .046 inch a year.

In 1907, the tower leaned over a whole 2.75 inches further, and the ministerial commission shot thousands of tons of concrete into its base to forestall what semmed to be an imminent collapse. Similar injections of concrete continued through 1949.

Although some historians claim the architect Bonnaus devilishly plotted the tower's caprice to confound future generations, it is generally believed the tower leans because of shifty sub-soil and underground streams feeding the Arno River.

Eight persons have dived to their deaths from the upper reaches of the tower.

OPPORTUNITY
For Salesmen or Dealers
To get in your own money-making business. A brand new product has been discovered and is fully covered by patents, manufactured by an old reliable, highly-rated company. We have men who are making $150.00 to $300.00 per week on their first sample order. Excellent in rural districts and small towns. Will not consider this product being sold as a sideline. You will need no other line for sufficient income. We are closing territories. Do not expect pressure, as our company does not approve such tactics, and is not necessary with this merchandise. Age not important. We have two men, one 69 and the other 71, who have been successful business men for over 30 years, who are now handling this line on a cash basis and are far more successful than they were in their previous business with large investments and numerous outstanding accounts.

appeared before the council in person to explain the difficulties with storm water in the area. He said that the entire street and yard area near the intersection of Ohio and Swihart street was under water after the recent heavy rains.

A complaint was voiced for residents of the West side of South Chauncey street by Gates. The residents there complain that their homes and lawns were flooded by water recently because business places on the east side of Line street have built up the levels of their property. The Chauncey street citizens claim that this allowed the water from heavy rains to drain onto their property. It is their opinion that the owners of the establishments on the east side of Line street should provide a sewer to relieve the excess of water.

The council decided to have occupants of both streets concerned to hold a meeting to resolve the difficulty.

In other business, the council passed an ordinance setting up a General Improvement Fund for next year's budget. The council ear-marked $6,264.95 for the fund in the 1956 budget.

The fund is established to pay for such improvements for the welfare of the entire city, such as construction, repair, and improvement of streets, alleys, sidewalks, curbs, gutters, or sewers. A public hearing on the ordinance will be held at 8 p.m. August 23 at the City Hall.

The council approved the correction of the title and the warranty deed to the Ion Capacitor Corp. for the plant and property on South Line street.

The building and location was sold by the old Commercial Development Club to the city, who subsequently sold the property to Joseph Brennan, operator of the Ion Capacitor Corp. The name of the Club appeared incorrectly in the deed, necessitating the correction.

A clear deed to the property was made out to the corporation when the company officials advis- forthesite.Thepriceofsale s c c cc d that they wished to pay cash for the site. The price of sale is $3500.

Wilbur Steel, superintendent of public utilities, advised the council that he had investigated the request for a street light at the end of East Hanna street. He recommended thatthe request be investigated further because of the prohibitive cost to the city. Installing the light would require running an electric line some distance with several poles.

The request for the light was made by Charles Hendrickson and Keith Rupert, the only residents concerned.

The council turned down a request by Thomas Cornelius, trustee of Thorncreek township, that the school in the township be billed for its electricity on the cheaper residential rate. It was stated that all other schools in the community are billed by the commercial rate and that there should be no change at this time.

The council approved requests by Floyd Graves to cut a curb on Hanna street and by Russell D. Wolfe, city fire chief, to block off a section of South Washington street east of the County Jail for use Saturday in a water ball tournament.

Franklin Dillman, city clerk-treasurer, advised that he had contacted William Baer, Fort Wayne engineer, who made a survey for a steam heating plant at the City Hall. Baer is to submit a report on that survey at the next council meeting.

The council voted to allow all bills presented with all members but Paul Windemuth, Jr. present.

brought her from Sears-Roebuck. "Those boys weren't very friendly for a while," he said.

Postmaster 16 Years

After serving as postmaster in Columbia City for 16 years, from 1933 to 1949, Ervin Sell retired to his farm in Columbia township. He is still far from inactive, however, spending some time each day doing work on his 160-acre farm.

Prior to his work in the post office, Mr. Sell served as assessor of Columbia township in 1913, 14, and 15, and was township trustee from 1927 to 1930. He also served as Democratic county chairman for three years.

Although he still lives on a farm, Mr. Sell said that he has never actively engaged in farming. He has a tennant who cares for the crops and livestock.

Mr. Sell said that when he took over duties at the post office here business was rather slow and the office itself was a second class one.

First Class Rating

A first class rating was given to the Columbia City Post Office during the time in which Mr. Sell served, and time also brought a much greater increase in business there. There was a great increase in the sale of money orders and postal savings, he said, pointing out that work naturally increased with the volume of business.

A familiar sight at Crooked Lake Golf Course is Charles Johnson, former postmaster at Coesse.

Mr. Johnson, the first postmaster in Indiana to have more than 25 years service, worked as postmaster for 29 years and 8 months. He had the post office in his store at Coesse, which he owned and operated for 40 years.

Golfing is Mr. Johnson's favorite pastime. He usually plays about 72 holes of golf each week, since he is in a league and also plays other games. He said that he occasionally does some fishing, too.

Mr. Johnson started his term as postmaster before parcel post and air mail were started. He has a life membership to the district postmaster's organization, and was also a member of the national postmaster's association.

"I used to be troubled with persons breaking into the store, so I installed a silent burglar alarm and had it connected to my home, which is also in Coesse. I caught several bunches of thieves that way," he said.

Each of these three retired postmen writes an occasional letter, but that's about as close as they come to making a "busman's holiday" of their spare time.

TOKYO (UP) — Tokyo police today ordered coffee shop owners to stop dressing their waitresses in bathing suits.

The police said scanty costumes are not for coffee shops even though the tea cake shops have been packing customers in since the innovation.

Hoover Celebrates His 81st Birthday

NEWBERG, Ore. (UP)—Former President Herbert Hoover celebrates his 81st birthday today by speaking at ceremonies dedicating as a national shrine the home where he spent part of his boyhood.

Mr. Hoover was scheduled to speak at 6 p.m. EDT. The speech will be rebroadcast over a national network at 10:30 p.m. EDT.

The home is that of his late uncle, Dr. Henry John Minthorn where Mr. Hoover came as an orphan at the age of 10 and lived for about five years.

He arrived from Iowa in 1884 to make his home with Dr. Minthorn, his wife Laurea, and their daughters. Dr. Minthorn was a county physician.

Mr. Hoover has recalled that when he arrived at his uncle's home in the rich fruit-growing Willamette Valley that his aunt and cousins were making pear butter for the winter supply in a boiler over a fire in the yard.

The home, which has been restored to its 1884 condition, will become a national shrine largely through the work of the Herbert Hoover Foundation, headed by Oregon historian Dr. Burt Brown Baker.

Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay, whose home is in Salem, will introduce Mr. Hoover at the dedication ceremony. The former president plans to remain in the state after the dedication for one of his periodic fishing trips.

Indiana's Share Of Federal Aid For Highways

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Commerce Department announced Tuesday night that Indiana will get $21,024,748 as its share of about 875 million dollars in federal aid for highways.

The department also announced that Indiana's share of 22½ million dollars for fiscal 1947 for national forest highways is $14,894.

RAUPFER HARDWARE

Nothing GOES like a Chevrolet V8!

Drive with care . . . EVERYWHERE!

It's the new winner in stock car competition . . .

and it's winning new, young-minded friends faster than you can say America's hottest V8.

Because of its liveliness, its looks, and because it holds the road like it loves it—which it does.

Come try it, won't you, if only for the fun of it!

NOTHING
(not even the high-priced cars)
HAS GOT SO MUCH TO GO WITH!

The most up-to-date V8

So advanced in design and so efficient in operation that it needs only 4 quarts of oil instead of the usual 5. Shortest stroke of any V8 in the industry. Delivers more horsepower per pound than any engine in Chevrolet's field. Take your choice of the 162-h.p. "Turbo-Fire" or the 180-h.p. "Super Turbo-Fire," optional at extra cost.

Two Sizzling 6's

They're the most powerful 6's in Chevrolet's field—And like the V8's, they give you the extra punch, performance and reserve power of the only 12-volt electrical system in Chevrolet's field.

Powerglide, Overdrive or Synchro-Mesh

Chevrolet gives you the drive to suit your driving. A new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission, or as extra-cost options, oil-smooth Powerglide automatic transmission or Touch-Down Overdrive.

New engineering advances on steering, springing, suspension

Special ball bearings in the steering gear roll with the turn of the wheel to reduce friction. Glide-Ride front suspension rolls the bumps smooth. Outrigger rear springs straighten the curves.

Thomsons 10-0 Over Braves For League Title

Thomsons blanked the Braves Tuesday night to win the Pony League tournament, 10-0 in five inings.

This is the first time the Thomson team has been in the champion's circle, the honor having previously gone to the Lakers and South Whitley. The team also led in season standings, having won 15 games while dropping only three.

Members of the Pony League Champion team include David Hindbaugh, Vance Brown, Billy Swartz, John Myers, Bud Weeks, Rex Killian, Mickey Quinn, Roger Clark, Bob Egolf, Harvey Harris, Glen Felger, and Ronnie Smith. The coach-manager of the team is Dale Gambell.

A trophy will be awarded at a special ceremony August 28 at De-Vol Field, where ribbons will be given to each player of the championship and runner-up teams.

Librarian Finds Copy Of First Copyright Bill

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mrs. Wilma Davis was digging through a stack of forgotten lore at the Library of Congress when she came upon a treasure which had been lost for years.

Mrs. Davis is librarian of the copyright section and what she found is believed, for sure, to be a copy of the first copyright bill. The original was printed, but that record never has been found, either.

What Mrs. Davis found was a musty old letterpress book. At the heading of what concerns copyrights was the notation:

"H.R. 10, 1st Cong., 1st Sess." In other words, the House of Representatives Bill No. 10, in the first session of the first Congress. It was offered by Rep. Benjamin Huntington of Connecticut on June 23, 1789.

Just An Accident

Everybody had thought the historic bit of paper had been destroyed. The Library of Congress had made a continuing search. So, across the years, had people at the National Archives, and those in the office of the secretary of the Senate.

"It was an accident, really," Mrs. Davis said. "I was looking for something else. I can't remember what now."

The copy of the bill, letterpress book and all, was turned over to George D. Cary, head legal advisor of the copyright office. He studied it and came up with an analysis.

The original copyright bill applied only to books. Copyright protection since has been extended to such things as sheet music, newspaper and magazine articles and the like.

Rights, according to Cary, extended to the author, the bookseller and the printer.

Big Difference Today

"Unauthorized printing or importation from abroad of piratical copies was prohibited," Cary said.

Anybody caught violating a copyright was required to turn in the illegal book to the copyright owner, who according to the lettering of the bill "shall forthwith make waste paper of same."

A monetary forfeiture was mentioned, too — although there was no dollar sign attached.

"As I interpret it," Cary said, "one half of the sum, or penalty whatever, was to go to the author, and the other half to what I take to be informers."

In those days, when a man copyrighted a book, he was supposed to let everybody know about it in a newspaper advertisement.

In the second session of the first Congress the air was cleared somewhat when separate bills were introduced for copyrights and patents.

As any copyright lawyer or patent attorney will tell you, today there is quite a difference.

President To Take Part In Nationwide Safe Driving Campaign

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower will participate in a nationwide safe driving campaign Nov. 20 to Dec. 1 "in the hope that we shall be able to insure the safety of our families and fellow citizens."

The President's Committee for Traffic Safety Tuesday night made public a letter from Mr. Eisenhower to Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp., and chairman of the committee.

"In the hope that we shall be able to insure the safety of our families and fellow citizens, I shall be happy to participate in a safety campaign beginning on Nov. 20, 1955 and culminating in Safe-Driving Day on Dec. 1."

Steel Producers Wield Blue Pencil On Allotments

NEW YORK (UP) — Steel producers, caught "flat-footed" by the continued strength of the market, are wielding a heavy blue pencil on customer allotments in a "desperate" effort to restore order Iron Age said today.

"Both old and new customers are getting the treatment," said the national metalworking weekly.

Meanwhile, the mills are going through one of the worst periods in recent years from a production and customer relations standpoint.

Iron Age said steel companies thought the market would ease during the summer, but, instead, are finding incoming orders still 10 to 15 per cent ahead of capacity.

In addition, it said, producers were hit by a short - lived strike, a maintenance problem of major proportions, a record breaking heat wave and summer vacations in their own shops.

"The ingot rate, since the strike, has reflected the cumulative effect of these problems," said the magazine. Operations this week are scheduled at 87 per cent of capacity, while last week the mills produced only 88.5 per cent.

The publication said there is "no water in current demand." If there were, elimination of October tonnages plus cutbacks in allotments would have taken care of the situation. But it hasn't, the magazine said.

(1) Previous steel promises were unrealistic.

(2) Long time supplies will be unable to satisfy old customers.

(3) Warehouses, already in trouble themselves, will have more trouble obtaining their requirements from the mills.

(4) A tight steel situation rivaling the tough second quarter.

Iron Age said there hasn't been a gray market of any consequence yet because of the close balance between steel ingot and finishing capacity.

Weekly Crop Report Shows Rainfall Short

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—For the first time this crop growing season, there's a rainfall shortage in Indiana.

The weekly crop report by M.M. Justin, agricultural statistician at Purdue University, said today that 47 per cent of reports from around the state in the week ending last Saturday showed a moisture shortage.

On the other hand, moisture was ample in 52 per cent of the reports and there was a surplus in one per cent.

A week earlier, 95 per cent of reports showed ample moisture and only three per cent showed a shortage.

Justin reported pastures "deteriorated somewhat" during the week. He said corn is 83 per cent silked, "only slightly below average."

Doctor Discovers Process To Control Artery-Hardening

NEW YORK (UP)—How to stop and perhaps prevent a common, progressive form of hardening of the arteries has been worked out by a medical scientist.

What this could mean in lengthened life-spans for many people and to "tired' hearts of middle-aged men "exposed to the stresses and strains of highly complex, competitive life" in cities, needs no emphasis.

After 10 years of study and careful experimentation with scores of persons, Dr. Murray Israel of the New York Medical College discovered that the artery - hardening process could be controlled with hormones and vitamins.

The hormone is that of the thyroid gland which regulates the body's vital chemical processes.

The vitamins (and vitamin-like chemical substances) are mainly those of the "B" complex group which have a hand in the body's chemical handling of oxygen and fats.

Fat Particle Deposits

This form of artery-hardening is atherosclerosis. It is caused by the depositing of fat particles (cholesterol) in the blood stream on the innermost lining of blood vessels.

Dr. Israel's work was based on the theory first proposed by Dr. W. C. Hueper that all forms of artery-hardening have a common basis in a diminished ability of body chemistry to utilize oxygen.

Thyroid hormone and vitamin components participate in that utilization. The problem was to work out balances of vitamins, vitamin-like substances, and hormone which would correct the chemical flaw.

When the work began it was supposed generally that prolonged taking of thyroid hormone would produce "side effects' worse than the disease being treated. Israel feels he has now demonstratd conclusivly that when hormone is correctly combined with vitamins it can be taken indefinitely without harm.

But the various vitamin B complex preparations available were useless—the precisely correct balance was everything. He worked out three medicines. The first was a combination of hormone with B complex elements involved in the metabolism of oxygen. This came out in the form of pills. The second was a combination of B-12 (to step up the metabolism of cholesterol) and a hormone which came out as a liquid for injection. The third was a combination of B complex elements involved in the metabolism of fats generally. This also came out as pills.

Restored To Former Health

In presenting his results in the journal of digestive diseases, Israel gave a detailed run-down on patient "E.H." because his atheresclerosis was in the coronary artery of the heart and there it is most difficult to treat. The successful results in 20 other patients were presented in statistical form.

E.H.'s course had been steadily downhill after a heart attack. He had a second attack and his future was most questionable. Now, after five years of treatment, he has been restored to his former health and is living his usual life. The cholesterol level of his blood has been drastically lowered and stabilized at the lower level. He has to take his pills and get his injections regularly, but he has been relieved of his rigid high protein-low cholesterol diet.

Israel indicated that the treatment could prevent as well as control atherosclerosis.

Willard Nixon Is Shaping Up As Key Pitcher Of Torrid American League Pennant Race

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

They're calling Willard Nixon the New York Yankees' No. 1 nemesis today but they'd be more accurate if they called the Boston Red Sox' 27-year old right-hander "Mr. Clutch" and let it go at that.

For the big sinker - baller is shaping up as the key pitcher of the torrid American League race because of his uncanny ability to beat the other first division teams. Nixon's fine 12-5 overall record is enhanced by the fact that he has a composite showing of 10-3 against the other four contenders and owns 10 of the 23 wins the Red Sox have scored against the Yankees, Chicago White Sox, and Detroit Tigers.

Nixon turned in a neat six-hitter to beat the Yankees, 4-1, before a crowd of 61,678 at Yankee Stadium Tuesday night. It marked the fourth time in five tries this year that he beat the Yankees and gave him a brilliant two-year record of eight victories and two losses against them.

The "Yankee Killer'

It's no surprise, therefore, that Nixon has earned a reputation as a "Yankee killer" but that's only part of the story. He's also beaten the first - place White Sox and fifth - place Tigers three times each. Moreover, in the last 14 days he's beaten the White Sox twice and the Tigers once in addition to Tuesday nights triumph over the Yankees.

Nixon became nauseated twice during Tuesday night's duel with Whitey Ford but stuck it out to gain his sixth straight triumph since June 30. Billy Klaus hammered a two run homer in the first inning, Grady Hatton homered in the fourth and Nixon himself drove in the Red Sox final run with a double. Willard walked four and struck out four.

The loss, combined with victories by the White Sox and Indians, dropped the Yankees into third place only a half game ahead of the Red Sox. The Red Sox trail the White Sox by a game-and-a-half and Cleveland by one game.

Pierce Pitches Two-Hitter

Billy Pierce pitched a brilliant two - hitter as the White Sox snapped a four game losing streak and held onto first place with a 4-1 victory over the Kansas City Athletics. Pierce, who won his eighth game, had a one - hitter until the ninth when Bill Wilson homered. The White Sox wrapped it up with a three-run second-inning rally in which Pierce singled home a run and Minnie Minoso delivered a two-run triple.

Ray Narleski came through with a shutout performance in his 40th relief job of the season to preserve rookie Herb Score's 11th win—a 4-2 verdict over the Tigers. Gene Woodling delivered three hits for the Indians, who ended a three game losing skein.

Roy Sievers hit a pair of two-run homers to lead the Washington Senators to a 6-3 victory after Bill Wight's second straight four - hit pitching effort enabled the Baltimore Orioles to win their opener, 1-0, in the other American League games.

Dodgers Beat Giants

In the National League, the runaway Brooklyn Dodgers overcame Willie Mays' two-run first-inning homer to edge out the New York Giants, 3-2, when Marv Grissom walked Don Hoak with the bases filled and two out in the 10th inning. Clem Labine received credit for his 11th win after relieving Johnny Podres. In case the rest of the league hadn't noticed, the Dodgers started the game with a three-game losing streak.

The Milwaukee Braves solidified their hold on second place with a 6-2 win over the St. Louis Cardinals behind Warren Spahn's seven-hitter. Hank Aaron hit his seven - hitter. Hank Aaron hit his 24th homer for the Braves and Stan Musial No. 24 for the Cardinals.

Herman Wehmeier raised his career record to 22-7 against the Pittsburgh Pirates when his five - hitter paced the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-1 triumph and the Chicago Cubs, squeezed out a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs in other games. It was the Cubs' sixth straight win.

William Daseler Wins Award For All Star Lineup

The distinction of being named, "Mr. Average Baseball Fan" for 1955 went to William Daseler, manager of the Clugston Hotel in this city.

Daseler entered the All Star lineup contest sponsored by the Reston Slacks company through their local dealer, M. Strouse Sons.

Daseler only missed on three of the lineup in both the National and American leagues. He missed on Campanella (and where is there a man who didn't). Campanella was voted to start the game but due to injury was unable to play.

He also missed the starting pitchers in both leagues, as the American League pulled a complete sleeper in starting Pierce above the logical choice of Early Wynn.

Daseler was presented a check for $10 for his entry.

Sports Briefs

NUERNBERG (UP)— Art Larsen, former U.S. singles champion from San Leandro, Calif., joined Vic Seixas the current U.S. champion from Philadelphia, and Tony Trabert, the newly crowned Wimbledon champion on the injured list today. Larsen strained a back muscle during an exhibition match with Budge Patty Tuesday. Seixas injured his shoulder during the Wimbledon championships in England and Trabert is sidelined in New York with a back and shoulder injury.

CLEVELAND (UP)— The Federal Communications Commission has advised the City Council that it is "without power to require any television station to carry, or refrain from carrying and program." The council had asked the FCC to investigate the reduced number of Cleveland Indians' games being televised.

LONDON (UP) — The British Professional Golfers Assn., which has seen British golfers suffer six straight defeats in Ryder Cup play againt the U.S., has decided to adopt the American method of selecting its team. This year's play will be held at Palm Springs, Calif., Nov. 5-6.

WARSAW, Poland (UP)—Vladimir Stogov of Russia, bettered the world weight lifting record for the bantamweight division Tuesday when he lifted a total of 325 kilograms (715 pounds). His bettered by 10 kilograms (22 pounds) the former world mark set by Namdieu of Iran in 1949.

Basilio To Meet Scortichini Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — Carmen Basilio, brand new welterweight champion, expects his three-way improvement this year to humble Italo Scortichini tonight in their non-title 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden, despite the double trouble furnished by cocky Italo in two previous bouts.

"I've improved my defense, my pace and my placement of punches since our two fights last year," said the left-hook specialist from Chittenango, N.Y., who will be making his first appearance as 147 pound ruler in tonight's nationally televised and broadcast bout.

Muscular Scortichini, a speedy bobber-weaver, held Carmen to a draw at Miami Beach on Jan. 16, 1954, and four months later lost a close decision to Carmen at Syracuse, N.Y.

In neither of those bouts was rugged Scortichini decked by the lethal left hook that only two months ago tonight floored Tony DeMarco twice and won the title on a 12th-round TKO at Syracuse.

Although Carmen's title will not be on the line, he will be risking his unbeaten string of 12 bouts. He hasn't been defeated since Sept. 18, 1953, when he lost a title decision to then-champion Kid Gavilan.

Bill Stern Is Hospital Patient

NEW YORK (UP) — Bill Stern, American Broadcasting Company sportscaster was in Jewish Memorial Hospital today recovering from injuries sustained when his automobile crashed into an abutment on the Henry Hudson Parkway Tuesday. Veteran golfer Gene Sarazen will pinch hit on the networks' "Sports Today With Bill Stern" until Stern recovers.

Cleveland Browns Complete Training

HIRAM, Ohio (UP)—The champion Cleveland Browns complete their training today and will fly out to Chicago Thursday for a brief workout before taking on the College All-Stars in the annual classic Friday night.

Coach Paul Brown, concerned over reports that the collegians have the best squad in years ready and waiting for the Browns, has made several offensive line changes. For the first time since 1952, John Sandusky won't be the starting right tackle on offense.

Sandusky, a 250-pounder, will become the team's "swing" tackle with young Mike McCormack, a faster 250-pounder and last year's middle guard, taking over as the right offensive guard. Sandusky will be spotted on either offense or defense Brown said.

Auto Racing Gets Another Big Jolt

MEXICO CITY (UP) — Auto racing was jolted again today by a reaction to recent tragic accidents with the announcement by the Mexican government that it has suspended the sixth annual Pan - American road race scheduled for Dec. 2-5.

In the first five runnings of the Pan - American race, from the southern border of Mexico to the northern border, several spectators were killed in accidents and many more injured.

The suspension order from the office of President Adolfo Ruiz Cortinez said that all racing automobiles would be barred from federal highways "until regulations give ample assurance of safety for spectators."

Mexico's action follows the temporary suspension of auto road racing in France after the tragedy at Le Mans ywhich claimed 87 lives, and the withdrawal of the American Automobile Association from racing in the United States.

To Sell Tickets

DETROIT (UP) —The Detroit Police Department has offered to help the University of Detroit sell season football tickets in an effort to keep varsity football at the school. There were rumors last season that the school might drop football because of public apathy.

U. S. Has Good Showing

MALMOE, Sweden (UP)—Ernie Shelton of Los Angeles, turning in his best effort of the current European tour, defeated European high jump champion Bengt Nilsson of Sweden for the second time in three days Tuesday by jumping 2.08 meters (6 feet, ¾ inches). Jim Lea of the U. S. Army won both the 100 meter and 200 meter dashes, while Josh Culbreath of Morgan State won the 400 meter run, Don Vick of Los Angeles captured the shot put and Harold Connolly of Boston scored in the hammer throw.

Cardinals To Hold Baseball Tryout Camp At Marion

A St. Louis Cardinal baseball tryout camp will be held at Veteran's Administration Field in Marion Thursday, Friday, Saturday, September 1, 2 and 3, it was announced today.

Prominent Cardinal scouts will be on hand to conduct the workouts which may result in a baseball career for some of the youthful hopefuls on hand. Workouts, open to all players between 17 and 23, start each morning at 10 o'clock.

Players attending the trial sessions need bring only a glove, baseball shoes and a uniform, if he has one. All other equipment will be furnished by the St. Louis National League team.

Tryout camps have long been a source of a great amount of the player talent that is contained in the Cardinals' farm system, largest in the world and hence the one with the most opportunities.

For example, three of the 25 players now on the Cardinals' major league roster were discovered in tryout camps - Pitcher Harvey Haddix, Rookie Third Baseman Ken Boyer and the incomparable Second Baseman, Red Schoendienst.

Who Hits Hardest In Baseball Today?

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Who's the hardest hitter in baseball today? Dugout consensus indicates a toss-up between Ted Kluszewski of the Redlegs, Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, Duke Snider of the Dodgers and Larry Doby of the Indians.

"The only man I've ever seen hit a ball with as much power as Kluszewski," says Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbetts, "was Lou Gehrig. Klu hits a ball so hard that he leaves the imprint on his bat."

This is no idle statement by Tebbetts, inasmuch as the last part of it is verified by batboys around the National League.

Big Johnny Mize, another extraordinary power hitter during his prime, agrees with Tebbetts.

"I haven't seen anyone in the National League who hits a ball harder than Kluszewski," he says. "A lot of his 'outs' travel farther than most fellows' home runs."

Snider Vs Big Klu

Some National League observers however, insist Snider hits a ball just as hard and as far as Kluszewski "when he gets a hold of it."

"Duke has hit some balls that actually appeared to jump off his bat," offers teammate Peewee Reese. "I'll admit you have to have plenty of muscle to rip a ball like Kluszewski does, but if anyone can give him competition, Duke certainly can."

Over in the American League, Mantle wins the majority of votes while Doby ranks a fairly close second. It is significant that Mantle and Doby both love to swing from the heels and invariably are high up on the strike list as well as in the home run department.

Yankee Coach Bill Dickey says no man in the majors hits a ball harder than Mantle "when Mickey hits it clean." Dickey, who played on the same clubs as Babe Ruth and Gehrig, insists Mantle hits with the same power they did.

Like Mantle, Doby has hit his share of 400-foot wallops and even one or two balls that reportedly traveled more than 500 feet.

"There are times when the ball leaves Doby's bat like a rocket," says Cleveland Manager Al Lopez. "On some of his drives, I honestly don't see how it is possible for anyone to get more power into his swing than Doby does."

Other Sluggers Around

Even though Kluszewski, Mantle, Snider and Doby are regarded just about the hardest hitters in the game, there are a number of other sluggers around who get more than average mileage out of their blows.

Jim Rivera of the White Sox, for example, isn't a big home run threat but rival infielders will tell you his grounders come at them as if shot from a cannon. One of the reasons Rivera doesn't hit more homers is that he doesn't pull the ball consistently.

Wally Post of Cincinnati and Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh are another pair who get plenty of muscle behind their smashes. Likewise Ted Williams hasn't yet lost the knack and Gus Zernial of Kansas City can still pole a ball into the next precinct.

Others who are harder hitters than average include Willie Mays of the Giants, Hank Sauer and Ernie Banks of the Cubs, Del Ennis of the Phils, Norm Zauchin of the Red Sox, Al Rosen of the Indians and Walt Dropo of the White Sox.

But when it comes to the question of who is the No. 1 power hitter in the majors today it still boils down to Kluszewski, Mantle, Snider and Doby.

Everything Tastes Like Chocolate

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Mrs. Mary Spirk appeared before the city Zoning Board of Adjustment Tuesday to protest the petition of her next door neighbor, Robert Einson, for a permit to operate a flavor processing business in his home.

She said a vent in Einson's home blew chocolate odors all through her house and "I can't tell what I'm eating, everything tastes like chocolate."

Eight Singles Matches On Tap For Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO (UP) — Eight singles matches between top American and foreign golf stars were on tap for Tam O'Shanter's "International Cup Match" today with the home team holding a 2½ to 1½ edge after four team battles.

In the opening four scraps, with two man teams playing alternate shots, the Americans came up with two victories and a half, while British Open champion Peter Thomson of Australia and teammate Angel Gutierrez of Spain turned in the only foreign victory, 3 and 2 over PGA champion Doug Ford, Utica, N.Y., and Leo Biagetti, Willoughby, Ohio.

The American wins went to Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and Fred Haas, Claremont, Calif., 6 and 4 over Rudy Horvath of Canada, and Antonio Cerda of Argentina; and to Ted Kroll, Utica N.Y., and Tony Holguin, Chicago, 5 and 4 over Kel Nagle, Australia, and Roberto De Vicenzo, Argentina and Mexico City.

The fourth match ended even as Jay Hebert, Woodmere, L. I., and Bo Wininger, Oklahoma City, Okla. came from behind to win two of the last six holes and finish square with Stan Leonard, Canada, and Yoshiro Hayashi, Japan.

Today's singles battles will match Biagetti vs Nagle, Wininger vs Cerda, Kroll vs Hayashi, DeVicenzo vs Ford, Gutierrez vs Haas, Thomson vs Holguin, Demaret vs Leonard, and Hebert vs Horvath.

Honesty Pays, But Not Much

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UP)—Karel Reynecke said a local building firm, whose $7,000 payroll he found in a black bag on a roadside, told him he was the "most honest man" they ever met when he returned it.

Then they gave him a five shilling (70 cent) reward.

Not Enough Loot

MARSEILLE, France (UP) — Taxi driver Manuel Guerpillon reported today that two deserters from the Foreign Legion robbed him of his wallet, saw it contained only about 3,000 francs (about $7.40) and returned it to him because "it wasnt enough."

RICHLAND SONS OF SOIL

The Richland Township Sons of the Soil held their annual club tour August 2. The first stop was at the home of Melvin Mathias, where President Norman Metzger called the meeting to order. The Pledge to the Flag was led by Larry Schuman and the 4-H Pledge by Bruce Kistler. Larry Schuman, chairman of the tour committee, announced the stops to be made on the tour.

At the Mathias home, the group was shown Melvin's Leghorn chickens, and Donald told about their Poland China pigs. The second sotp was at the Burnworth home, where Larry showed his Yorkshire pigs. At the home of Tom Wiley, those on the tour were briefed on how he is preparing his dairy calf for the fair and were also shown his Tamworth pigs. The final stop was at the home of Nancy Halt, who showed the other 4-H'ers her garden project.

The club members extend their thanks to the parents who provided transportation on the tour and to Mrs. Schroeder, Mrs. Leffel, and Mrs. Metzger for refreshments.

Club members are reminded to bring their record books to the next meeting for the leader's signature.

BUSY BEES

The last meeting of the Collins Busy Bees 4-H Club before the fair was held Thursday at the school. Hilda Wade called the meeting to order, Carolyn LePage led the group in singing and led the group in the Pledge to the Flag. Bruce Geiger led the 4-H Pledge. Several demonstrations were given for the benefit of the 20 members attending.

'Undertaker' At POW Camp Witness

NEW YORK (UP)—The "undertaker" at the prisoner of war camp in Korea where Sgt. James C. Gallagher allegedly murdered two fellow American prisoners told from the witness stand today how he buried the bodies.

The witness was William C. Stevenson, 24, Bandy, Va., who was imprisoned with Gallagher and the two victims, Cpl. John William Jones, of Detroit, and Cpl. Donald Thomas Baxter, Waukon, Iowa, in Communist Prison Camp No. 5 in North Korea in early 1951.

Gallagher, 23, Brooklyn, also is accused of murdering a third soldier, unidentified, and of collaborating with his Communist captors. His court-martial at Ft. Jay is in its seventh day. The prosecution planned to rest its case today.

Stevenson testified that he knew Jones personally and knew Baxter by sight. He said he saw the bodies of the two men in February, 1951, stretched out on a porch of the building where they were quartered with Gallagher. He said they were frozen to death.

"How could you tell they were dead?" asked Asst. Trial Counsel Lt. Erwin B. Drucker.

"Their bodies were bluish-gray," the witness replied. "Men in that condition have frozen to death."

Stevenson said he saw the two when he and seven other men took them on stretchers from the "death house" across a frozen river to "boot hill" where they did their best to bury them in the frozen ground.

"How often were you on the burial detail?" Drucker asked.

"Every other day," the witness said.

"Were you on the burial detail more often than other men?"

"Yes, I was sort of the undertaker in the camp."

Twenty-one witnesses have testified since the lanky, strawberry-blond soldier's court-martial began Aug. 1.

CONSERVATION
With HARLEY HOOK

Next Saturday the squirrel season opens in Indiana. This date was not set in a haphazard manner. Our field scientist who have spent years in studying the habits of the gray and fox squirrel in Indiana were consulted. After they mentioned the approximate date when least harm could be done, a public meeting was called. those in this meeting decided that the opening day should be on Saturday.

I wish that every man in Indiana who knows how to carry a gun could go squirrel hunging for just a day during the season. It's not so important if he fails to bag his limit, or if he fails to get a shot at one of the sly creatures. There's more to squirrel hunting than just bringing home enough squirrels for the skillet.

When you sit on a log in a woodland and watch a squirrel playing hide and seek in the top of a tree, you have the most valued period of quiet and repose that you have ever experienced.

You may become so interested in other scenes that you will forget about busy little bushy tail peeping at you around the tree. There will likely be a decaying beech tree that will bring a nostoligic feeling to take hold of you.

You will recall the days when your grandfather had great ricks of beech wood and how he would pile the seasoned sticks on the fire in the old fireplace.

You will likely forget for the time being about making a living, and think of the greater experience of living a life.

You will thrill at the graceful attire of the red headed woodpecker, as he flies about showing his tri-colored coat of bright crimson, embellished with bluish-black and white. The old beech tree is loaded with a green crop of beechnuts, his best-loved food, and the squirrels delicacy.

You will likely be so impressed with the grace and style of the acrobatic squirrel that you may hesitate to shoot the very thing for which you are hunting.

The hunter for gray squirrels will rise early in the morning, for they rise at dawn, feed for an hour or two, then seek the shelter of a den or leaf nest. If you don't get out early, you can wait until late afternoon, when the gray squirrel again feeds.

The fox squirrel is different, he is a late sleeper and he feeds during mid-morning, noon, and afternoon, but he is a wild creature and you must have quiet step of an Indian and the patience of the provebial Job if you want to get a shot at him.

Go see the farmer who has a good squirrel woodland and nine cases out of ten he will allow you to hunt. He may like his squirrels but likely hasn't forgotten the two rows of corn along the fences they ate last year.

Indiana owns 110,000 acres of forest land, where with the exception of the marked picnic areas, you are allowed to hunt.

There is also 115,000 acres of federal forests in Indiana where you are allowed to hunt. In all there is nearly a quarter million acres of squirrel hunting in Indiana aside from the private woodland.

The season closes Oct. 11. The bag limit is five squirrels on any one day.

Take your boy with you, and be careful, so the 13th will be both a pleasant and lucky day even if you don't get your bag limit.

"Fermati Dove Ti Trovi. E Basta Cosi"

NEW YORK (UP) — "E basta cosi!"

With those words, a little Italian cobbler from the Bronx, Gino Prato, rang down the curtain and retired $32,000 richer today.

They mean: "That's enough."

Prato, making his fourth appearance on CBS-TVs "The $64,000 Question," had captured the fancy of much of the nation by wading through a series of questions in the category, "opera." The gentle, graying, 55-year-old shoemaker had pyramided his winnings to $32,000 by doing so. Tuesday night, Prato had the opportunity of doubling his stake by tackling another question. He decided to bow out.

"My father in Italy sent me a wire," Prato explained. "It said: 'Fermati dove ti trovi. E basta cosi.' That means: 'Stop wherever you are. That's enough.'

"Because I take my daddy's advice when I was a small kid, I take it now.'

Prato was presented with his check for $32,000 and kissed it amidst heavy applause from the studio audience. He said he would use some of the money to visit his 92-year-old father who lives in Statale di Ne, Italy, a small village near Genoa. He said he had not seen his father since he left Italy, 33 years ago.

"I will also buy my father a good hearing aid," said the smiling Prato after the broadcast. "He is stone deaf."

For the first time in four weeks, Prato appeared visibly relaxed. He posed with a professional aplomb for photographers and answered questions with a happy grin.

"I didn't know right up to the broadcast what I was going to do," he said. "I could have taken another chance, but I gotta obey him, my father. He might take a shock if I go on.

"I want to see him," Prato added with a shrug.

Prato said he and his wife, Caroline, would take off for Italy by air sometime in early September.

Prato will not have to use any of his winnings for his air fare—a New York travel agency has agreed to foot the bill for Prato and his wife. Prato also was presented with another gift during the program—two eighth row center season passes to the Metropolitan Opera.

When he returns from his trip abroad, Prato will begin to get in harness in a new job. A Chelsea, Mass., firm which manufactures heels and soles signed Prato to a one-year-contract this week, as its "goodwill ambassador" for a sum "in excess of $10,000 a year.'

North Webster Lions Will Stage Showboat Concert August 20

A public "Show-Boat" concert will be presented from the upper deck of the Dixie boat on Lake Webster, just off shore from the town of North Webster, on Saturday evening, August 20 at 8:00 p.m., officials of the North Webster Lions Club announced today.

The performance will be reminiscent of old time Mississippi show boat days and will be the first ever attempted in Kosciusko County. It will be open to the public and no admission will be charged.

"Show-Boat" will be presented by 75 members of the Epworth Forest Choir School who will come from all parts of Indiana to train for one week under the direction of Varner M. Chance at Epworth Forest beginning August 14.

Recent Heat Drove Hundreds To State Parks

It has long been said "It's an ill wind that blows no good." The warm winds of past several days have blown up some pleasing figures for Kenneth R. Cougill, Director of the park division of the Indiana Department of Conservation.

Hoosiers have flocked to Indiana's 18 state parks in such large numbers that an overall increase of thirty per cent has been made for the week of July 25 to 31 over the same week a year ago.

The Dunes State Park with its attractive three mile beach along the shores of Lake Michigan led all of the others with a weeks attendance of 33,186. The strongest percentage gain was at the Whitewater State Park, one of Indiana's newer parks. Here 11,536 came against 7,166 a year ago.

While the parks with bathing facilities naturally showed the greatest increase, picnicking and camping drew large crowds. Also the modern tendency to stage family reunions at state parks helped the increase.

Ten of the parks have public swimming facilities, while the same number have developed camp sites. There are a total of near 700 sites. There are thousands and thousands of picnic tables and furnaces. Riding stables are at eight of the parks.

Harley G. Hook, Director of the Department says it is highly gratifying that so many Hoosiers can find comfort in the park systems shaded areas, and in the cooling waters of its sandy-bottomed lakes and pools.

Richard D. Lee Appointed To Air Force Academy

Richard D. Lee, son of Mrs. Nadine Lamkin of Kalamazoo, Michigan nad the late Ernest Lee, former resident of this city, is among the 305 cadets in the first class of the new Air Force Academy located at Denver, Colorado. Mrs. Edwin Heupel, sister-in-law of the cadet's mother, received the news here.

Cadet Lee, 19, who moved from this city with his mother some 14 years ago following the death of his father, was a pre-medical student at Kalamazoo College before starting his cadet training in July. He had applied for the academy last November. He was nominated by his congressman, August E. Johansen, to take the competitive examinations, and Mr. Johansen informed him of his appointment by telegram. He was one of nine young men chosen from Michigan, and the first class of 305 were selected from 6,000 applicants the nation.

Lee is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lee and Frank Smith of this city. His maternal grandmother, Mrs. Vera Gardner, lives in Kalamazoo.

Esther Williams Offers Swimming Lesson For Children

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Vacation time! But far be it from me to give one word of advice about summer romances not lasting through the winter, or the dangers of drowning, sunburn and mosquito bites.

We are told so much about drowning we have frightened ourselves and especially our perfectly adjusted children into thinking of the water as the worst enemy they have in the world. It's kind of a dirty trick.

Children love water. They can spend more actual exercise time playing in water without getting too fatigued than any other sport. And consider the wonderful dividends — strong bodies, ravenous appetities, sound sleep and the feeling of confidence from learning a sport.

In other words, let the kids learn to swim this summer.

So often I want to be a meddling bystander when I see parents laying down unnecessary fears about the water. If your child is too small to be near the water alone, wouldn't it be just as easy to knit or talk to Mrs. Jones and keep an eye on your offspring? Or, better still, invest some time on teaching him to make water his new best friend.

Make use of the 8 or 9-year-old child next door. I've discovered my boys just love it when we take along older boys. Children want to learn and the example of a well-behaved older child can show in a few moments what we spend hours trying to explain.

Well, here we are the beach, your little one and the older child who understands the water and makes it look like such fun to your baby. Now is the time for you to see he isn't really a baby any more. If you shriek with fear at his first attempts you may have set down a pattern in his mind about water that will take years to dispel. Go into the water with him. Give him firm confidence in you. Hold him close and enjoy the fun of the waves over your bodies. Keep him entirely safe. There isn't any hurry, really.

Along with the laughter there should be gentle warnings about going in alone, about water over the head, etc. Then stay by and let him play by himself. Children are born with a wonderful natural caution. If you observe closely, you can learn the speed with which he wants to progress.

Wholesale Food Prices Rise

NEW YORK (UP) — Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index on Aug. 9 rose 3 cents to $6.24, the agency reported today.

The latest index, showing an increase for the second consecutive week, compared with $6.21 in the previous week and was 12.1 per cent below the $7.10 in th ecorresponding 1954 week. It was 4.7 per cent above the pre-Korea $5.96.

On the index, reflecting the sum total of the price per pound on 31 foods in general use, 10 declined, 8 advanced and 13 remained unchanged.

Hoosiers Enjoy Pleasant Weather

By UNITED PRESS

Hoosiers enjoyed the fourth consecutive day of pleasant weather today after a five-week heat wave. They warily eyed the thermometer, but the weatherman said there will be little change in temperature through Friday.

The entire state will have mostly cloudy weather with scattered showers likely in the southern portion.

Tuesday's high was 90 at Evansville. Low maximum was 84 at South Bend and Lafayette. Tuesday night's highest low was 72 at Evansville, and 66 at Lafayette was the lowest minimum.

Today the mercury is due to reach 92 in the south and 84 in the north. Lows tonight will be 68 north and 72 south. The forecast for the north and central sectors Thursday is 85 and for the south 90.

There was no precipitation reported by weather stations Tuesday.

The outlook for Friday: Partly cloudy with scattered showers likely south portion. Little change in temperature.

U.S. To Protect Red Members Of Inspection Team

Dulles Says So. Korea Shouldn't Use Force To Oust Members

WASHINGTON UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that the United States has told the Republic of Korea it will protect Communist members of the neutral nations inspection team in South Korea.

He said South Korea should not use force to oust the Communist Polish and Czech members of the inspection team from Korea. However, he said the United States sympathizes with South Korea's dislike of the Communist members.

As for the troublesome problem of reunification of Korea and other divided nations, Dulles said that to do so by war could only lead to the horrors of atomic and hydrogen devastation.

Dulles told a news conference that South Korean President Syngman Rhee clearly understands the United States obligation under the armistice to protect Communist members of the inspection team in South Korea.

The Korean discussion arose when a reporter asked Dulles to comment on South Korean demonstrations aimed at ousting Polish and Czech members of the inspection team by Saturday.

Some responsible quarters were represented as believing the United States may use large scale armed force, if necessary, to keep South Korea from upsetting the Korean armistice.

Eleven Happy U.S. Airmen On Last Leg Home

To Reach California Friday Night

TOKYO, (UP) — Eleven happy American airmen, out of Communist Chinese prisons less than a week, flew towards home and their eagerly waiting loved ones today.

Behind them lay more than two and a half years imprisonment, and for at least one man, Col. John Knox Arnold, the bitter memory of Red torture.

Ahead lay the United States and long-awaited family reunions. The airmen are scheduled to reach Travis Air Base, near San Francisco, Friday night.

The former B-29 crew boarded two plush C-54 transport planes at 1:25 p. m. (12:25 a.m. EDT). When Arnold, their leader, bounded up the boarding ramp two steps at a time, the Tachikawa air base band broke into a rousing "California here I come."

The siv officers and five enlisted men, who were released from Red China last Thursday, grinned broadly and waved at the large group of military personnel, Red Cross girls and Japanese employes who saw them off at the air base.

At the men's own request, there will be no family reunions at Travis air base, as originally scheduled. The former prisoners will be whisked away immediately upon arrival in Air Force planes to Air Force bases or commercial airports nearest their homes.

Indiana Has Rash Of Traffic Deaths

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—A new burst of traffic deaths raised Indiana's 1955 total to 601 last week, but the number of victims remained slightly below the size of the list a year ago.

The 601 through last Sunday midnight, according to Indiana State Police provisional figures, compared with 605 a year ago.

The total was boosted by 27 last week. The corresponding week in 1954 recorded 23 highway deaths.

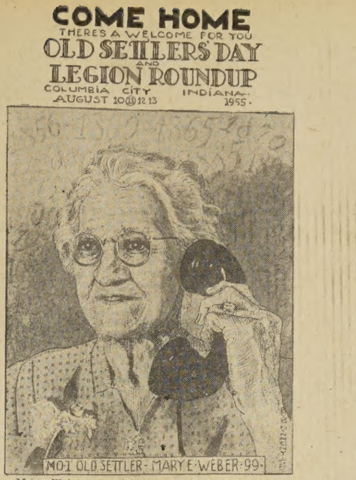
Old Settlers Day Thursday, August 11

COLUMBIA CITY POST

NEA FEATURE AND PICTURE SERVICE COLUMBIA CITY, IND., THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 11, 1955 UNITED PRESS TTS WIRE SERVICE

Stuart Smith Named President Of Old Settlers Day For 1956



Mrs. Mary Weber was featured by Rob McNagny on the postal card drawing for Old Settler's Day. Mrs. Weber, who now resides at the South Whitley Rest Home, is 99. She won both cups in 1950. The county's Oldest Settler attended the annual affair today.

Yes, There Are Those In The County Who Have Almost Reached The Century Mark

By GERTRUDE MEREDITH

We all like to read about our forefathers and the part they played in making this a fit place to live. Of the ox cart, the horse drawn wagon and the old surrey with the fringe on top.

Hisotry tells us the first settlers were friendly, always glad to see the "newcomer in the community." They would help each other to build their cabins and roll logs. No account was kept of the time or would they expect any pay. The chief employment was clearing.

There were two teams of oxen and two gangs of men hauling and rolling logs into heaps and each gang striving to be ahead. These scenes were interesting but they are gone forever. The years have come and gone. We pay homage to our forefathers.

That was a little more than 100 years ago in Whitley county. There are those in Whitley county still living who were born back in those early days.

The Welcome Home cards sent out drawn by Rob McNagny bears a splendid likeness of one born in that early day, 99 years ago last April. It is no other than Mrs. Mary Weber, resident of North Oak street until two years ago when she went to the South Whitley Rest Home to reside.

Her parents were among those that saw the privations of that early day. She was the wife of a pioneer doctor who made his calls, many of them by horse and buggy and perhaps some on foot. One of the Welcome Home cards sent to Virgil and Frances Roberts Morgan formerly of this city, now of Sarasota, Fla., brought back memories to Virgil, who writes "Sure do remember Mrs. Weber. She always had her dime in one particular place every Saturday when I came for the collection as a carrier boy for the Post. I passed her paper for four or five years. She always was so good to me." That was some forty or more years ago, wasn't it Virgil?

Anyway, the Morgans, who came north earlier in the summer ask to be remembered to their friends back here Old Settlers Day week.

A Welcome Home card was sent' to the former Gertrude Young Wilson Oliver of Portland, Ore. In writing friends Mrs. Oliver states "How I would love to be there."

Mrs. Oliver, the former Gertrude Young of this city, was a type setter on The Mail, then owned by John W. Baker which later became the Commercial-Mail.

Some months older than Mrs. Weber is Mrs. P. D. McClain, born in January 99 years ago, who always lived in Smith township until recently when she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Earlin Budd in Noble county. She has a son, Ben McClain in Churubusco. She has four grandchildren, the children of Mrs. Budd, and 10 great grandchildren.

Born and Has Lived On the Same Farm

Charles Reese, born on the farm where he has always lived in Columbia township, will be 95 years old next Christmas Day. In 1951 Mr. Reese was winner of the cup given the longest continuous resident of the county, also for the oldest resident of the county present on that day. The cups were presented by Herbert Ihrig of Laud.

President Of Class

Lincoln Lee, born in Cleveland township and cup winner in 1954, was 92 last April 22. He now resides with Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Pressler near South Whitley. When a car is not available and he wants to go to town a mile away, Mr. Lee walks. He would drive his own car but he has a cataract on one eye and is unable to drive until the cataract clears up.

Mr. Lee taught school in the county and was a farmer for many years. He is president of his Sunday School class at the South Whitley Evangelical United Brethren church and he teaches the class when the teacher is absent. When the newspaper representative called at the Pressler home, he was studying his Sunday School lesson.

Mrs. Mary J. Hasty of Jefferson township, was born in the county Mary J. Johnson, and was 90 years old Tuesday. Since the death of her husband Elphiness Hasty in 1921, she has lived alone. In recent years she has resided in the winter with her son, Roy M. Hasty at Laud, and in the summer goes back to her own home. She has one other son, Denzil Hasty, Fort Wayne.

Mrs. John Feist, 209 North Washington street, is the former Emma Old Or Young Settlers Can Enjoy The Food, Have Fun At Stands, Ride The Attractions

As in the past, during the Old Settler's Day celebration one will be able to buy anything from cotton candy to a french fried hot dog along the "midway".

Other stands will have regular hot dogs, hamburgers, pie, soft drinks, coffee and pop corn. If you crave an old-fashioned drink of water, it can be had too at two fountains set up by the city.

When you have had your fill of "pop" and sandwiches or sweets, you can visit any number of game stands, have your photo made, take a ride, or just stand around watching all of the "goin's on".

Twelve local organizations are sponsoring stands or games for your entertainment. Included is the Kiwanis Club, Washington Center EUB, and Laud and Saturn Christian Churches, American War Mothers, all of whom will have sandwiches and drinks. Veteran's of Foreign Wars, Thorncreek township Fire Department and Larwill Lions' Club, Delta Theta Tau, and Tri Kappa all will have games. The Columbia City Jaycees will have a merchandise wheel, while the American Legion will sponsor a game tent, in addition to giving away a 1955 Oldsmobile .

Gooding's Amusement Company is back for about the 17th year, according to George Pence, one of their chief travelling assistants. Seven different rides will be available for the enjoyment of young and old. They include a large ferris wheel, merry-go-around, tilt-a-whirl, octopus, and kiddie rides, such as Bilgie the Whale, Midgeo car races, and ferris wheel.

The concessionaire with the longest record for attending Old Settler's Days is Alfred Karkenreider, Fort Wayne, according to Byron Beaber, of the concessions committee. Beaber believes that Hakenreider's OSD visits extend back about 36 or 37 years. Hakenreider's wife is the former Sally Buchtel of Columbia City.

Other old-timers are Dan Jessop, who has a pop-corn and candy stand, with 12 years at OSD, Harry Beers, who has visited for the past five years, and of course "Little Joe" Miller, the honorary Old Settler, has returned again this year.

An "average" crowd attended the opening of the Old Settler's event Wednesday night. Pence, the Gooding's rides representative, said that he believed attendance was "about right" for the first night. Many of the youngsters and adults took advantage of the opening night longer turns on the rides. The largest crowd is expected at the affair Thursday, traditional OSD, and Saturday, closing night.

Children were in line early Thursday morning to see the free movie at Columbia Theatre. The attraction, "Return To Treasure Island," was shown free of charge from 10-11:30 a.m. The "kiddies" will also be treated to rides at reduced prices from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, according to Pence.

Thursday afternoon will see the first performances of the free act attractions, including "The Great Fussner" and his rolling globe act the only aerial act in the show.

List Given Of Previous Cup Winners

At Old Settlers Reunions Since 1904

Although for all practical purposes the first Old Settlers Day meeting was held September 17, 1904, at Loon Lake, there had actually been three previous meetings held, but each was scattered and forgotten, and the one in 1904 actually was the forerunner of our present day Old Settlers Day.

The old settlers of Whitley County had gathered at Columbia City in 1877, Troy township in 1881, and at Blue Lake in 1896. At the laying of the corner stone of the courthouse in 1888 a committee of the older settlers had a part in the program.

There is no record as to whether Elizabeth King received a loving cup in 1904, but according to the "History of Whitley County" by Kaler & Maring, published in 1907, the first loving cups were given in 1905.

The first of the below named was the oldest person present and registered as a resident of Whitley County. The second named each year was the one who had the longest continuous residence in the county.

1904 Elizabeth King
1905 Mary Gould, William Leslie
1906 James Davis, Jane Hull

Willard Phillips and Jimmy Watters are the champion Old Settlers Day horseshoe pitchers, winning over four other teams and defeating three other teams to decide the championship. The second place team was composed of Lawrence Kerch and Ruskin Baublet, and the third place team was Fred Bennett and George McConnell.

"The Country Store" Recalls Yesteryear

Editor's note:

Mrs. Mary Weber recited a poem at the first Old Settlers Day at Loon Lake in 1904, entitled "The General Country Store". The recitation was given at the close of the program.

In trying to find a copy od the poem we contacted her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Miller, Washington, D. C., who sent us the following verses with similar title, which Mrs. Weber thought might possibly be the poem.

Mrs. Floyd Hopper (Hazel Whiteleather), checked the files at the Indiana State Library and sent us a copy of the same poem to recall the days of yesterday.

THE COUNTRY STORE

Far out beyond the city's lights, away from din and roar,
The cricket chirps of summer nights beneath the country store;
The dry goods boxes ricked about afford a welcome seat
For weary tillers of the ground, who here on evenings meet.

A swinging sign of ancient make, and one above the door,
Proclaim that William Henry Blake is owner of the store;
Here everything from jam to tweed, from silks to ginghams bright,
Is spread before the folk who need from early morn till night.
Tea, sugar, coffee (browned or green) molasses, grindstones, tar.
Suspenders, peanuts, navy beans, and homemade vinegar,
Fine combs, wash wringers, rakes, false hair, paints, rice and looking glasses,
Side saddles, hominy, crockery ware, and seeds for garden grasses,
Lawn mowers, candies, books to read, corn planter, household goods,
Tobacco, salt and clover seed, horsewhips and knitted hoods,
Canned goods, shoe blacking, line and nails, straw hats and carpet slippers.
Prunes, buttons, codfish, bridal veils, cranberries, clocks and clippers,
Umbrellas, candles, scythes and hats, caps, boots, and shoes and bacon,
Thread, nutmegs, pins and Rough on Rats, for cash or produce taken;
Birdseed, face powder, matches, files, ink, onions and many more,
Are found in heaps and stacks and piles within the Country Store.

Old Settlers Presidents Of Past 52 Years

Few Living Of Original Meeting In 1904

Old Settlers Day was first held in September, 1904, at Loon Lake. In those days it was a huge picnic outing with recitations and songs as the feature entertainment of the day.

Mary Weber, who is now residing in South Whitley, gave a recitation at that first meeting entitled "The General Country Store."

There are very few of those original old settlers still living today.

The presidents of the Old Settlers Day Association are listed since that first meeting.

ENTIRE PROGRAM ANNOUNCED BY "WHITEY" ROBERTS, MASTER OF CEREMONIES

Succeeds David Spence, William Bloom Will Be The 1956 Vice-President — Oldest Settlers Are Selected

BULLETIN

Charles Emig, who is 91 years, 9 months, and 4 days old, was the winner of the cup as the oldest person registered. He was born in Pennslyvania. He later lived in Illinois, and then moved to Whitley county, settling in Thorncreek township. He now lives at 315 W. Ellsworth.

Mrs. Emma Thomson, who is 91 years, 6 months, and 4 days old, won the cup for the longest continuous resident. She was born near Larwill and has lived in Whitley county most of her life. She now resides in Cleveland township.

Stuart D. Smith, of the Smith Funeral Home, will serve as president of the Old Settlers Day Association and be in charge of planning next year's event, the 53rd Old Settlers Day.

Mr. Smith was named to the office of president by the nominating committee composed of Roscoe Brumbaugh, Forrest M. Orr, and James C. Gallagher.

William Bloom was nominated as vice-president for 1956, George Leininger was nominated for the office of treasurer, and Mrs. Hugo Jacobsen will be the historian. Rob R. McNagny will again serve as the Old Settlers Day cartoonist next year, and the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be the "keepers of the relics".

Customarily the vice-president of the previous year steps up as president, and that is what was done this year, as Mr. Smith served as vice-president this year. The offices of president and vice-president are the elective offices, and the others are practically permanent offices. Mr. Leininger has served as treasurer for many years, as has Mrs. Jacobsen, the historian who keeps the record of deaths. Mr. McNagny draws the cartoon post cards, and the Daughters of the American Revolution have been in charge of the relic room many years.

The Old Settlers Day good luck held out today, and the day broke with clear skies and pleasant breezes. The annual event got underway Wednesday evening, as the rides and concessionaires attracted many people to the midway.

With the beginning of the merry-making last night, the job of two of the hardest workers behind the scenes has eased. DeWitt Phillips and Byron Beaber, who have the responsibility of placing the concessions, have been busy for the past two weeks receiving letters and phone calls and settling any dispute over positions of stands.

BULLETIN

Arthur Helgesen's 41 points were sufficient to make him checker champion at the Old Settlers Day tournament. The Churubusco man will win the $7.50 first prize.

Burton White and John Markwalter were winners of the $5 and $2.50 second and third prizes, respectively.

Gives Welcome

The annual address of welcome to "old settlers" and friends was given at the beginning of this afternoon's program by David Spence, the president. Guests were welcomed to Old Settlers by the following speech.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I want to welcome each, and every one of you back home. I know that if you have ever lived in Columbia City you still consider it "home." The word "home" has a lot of significence. Edgar A. Guest once said in one of his poems, "it takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make a home." Ladies and Gentlemen, it also takes a "heap o' livin' in a community to make it "home." '

This is not a city. I hope it never becomes a city, for then we would lose that "home town" atmosphere that we now have. We have what I like to call the "spirit of Columbia City." That is the friendliness, the neighborliness, the willingness to co-operate that exists here. Where else could you walk down the street and say "hello, there" or "good morning" to a perfect stranger without thought being a bit odd? Where else would the neighbors go into a home in time of distress and give unselfishly of their time or money?

Perhaps some of you here knew of the doctor and his wife from Iowa who were in the bad wreck here a couple of months ago. They were in the hospital in a very serious condition. Perfect strangers, those people were treated in such a manner that they told their insurance adjuster from Indianapolis that they were overwhelmed with the friendliness here. They just couldn't get over it. That, folks, is what I mean by the "Columbia City" spirit.

When I speak of Columbia City, I don't mean just within the city limits. Columbia City could not exist without our friends, the farmers. Just ask any merchant what happens to his business when the farmer is too busy to come to town. He will tell you in a hurry just how important the farmer is. We worked together on the 4-H buildings, on the community chest, the town-country fish fry and the farm bureau chicken barbeque. These are some of the things I was thinking of when I said, "It takes a heap o' livin'."

Another thing that I should mention is the fact that I, as president of Old Settlers Day, am little more than a figurehead. The permanent committee that really carries on the work year after year gets very little public recognition.

Judge Rob McNagny, my friend and neighbor, has been drawing the post cards for over forty years. (Of course I want you to understand that he started when he was very young.) Very few communities can boast of an artist of his calibre.

George Leininger, as secretary and treasurer, stays in the background and yet he has been the real mainspring of the organization for many years.

Mrs. Hugo Jacobsen is the historian. Hers is not just a one day job. She works day after day and year after year just because she loves Old Settlers Day.

I couldn't possibly mention everyone who works hard to make this celebration a success—there are too many people...But to each and every one I want to give my sincere thanks.

Friends, once again I want to remind you that Columbia City is already known as a "friendly city." Let's keep it that way. Let's go out of our way to be nice to those new people who just moved in down the street or down the road. Let's be friendly to that stranger who is just passing through. Let's never get too wrapped up in our own problems to give a helping hand. Let's work together in our youth organizations, our churches, our schools. Let's all help make Columbia City a place known far and wide as a good town in which to live.

Ed Pugh, commander of the American Legion Post 98, bid the old settler a sincere welcome from the Legion.

Police Department To Supervise Traffic

The city police department has obtained the services of three additional men for handling traffic during the Old Settler's Days. The three ,Forrest Adair, Homer Van Orsdall, and Steve Ruckman, all are employes of the city street department.

Traffic will be supervised by the department at the Chauncey-Market street intersection and the three extra men will over-see traffic at Market and Main streets. Lee Gross, chief of police, reports that no difficulties have been encountered as yet and he expects none.

Main and Van Buren streets, the only other open intersection around the Court House square, has been closed off with picket fencing to discourage pedestrians from crossing there.

'No Answer' Checked After 170 Old Settlers' Names

By Hildreth Jacobsen

The 52nd Annual Roll Call elicited no response from 170 of Whitley County's Old Settlers. This exceeds the list of departed over last year by only four and the apparent longevity of these pioneers continues.

A review of the death list, as compiled by Mrs. Hugo Jacobsen, historian of the Old Settler's Day Committee, reveals a heavy toll among many prominent and outstanding local families.

The record of those deceased from August 1, 1954 to August 1, 1955 who have been residents of the County approximately thirty years or more, includes the following names:

The Reaper Reaps

Editor's note: We are republishing an editorial written for Old Settlers Day in 1953 by the late John Q. Adams, publisher of the Columbia City newspapers until July. His name appears in the IN MEMORIAM list today.

There's a line in the Rubaiyat to the effect that "the moving finger writes, and having writ, moves on," or at least words to that effect.

It might be paraphrased today to read something like this:

"The grim reaper reaps, and having reaped, moves on." That is not very good grammer and worse poetry but if you scan the annual list of dead, published in today's newspaper, you will see what we mean.

Old Settlers Day is at the half century mark. Started at Loon Lake in 1904, it has grown into more than just an observance. In fact, as Milton Lorber used to say, "It is America's Greatest One Day Celebration."

Looking over the names today you will see that many who were young boys or girls on the first Old Settlers Day have answered the final summons.

As one grows older one realizes the unerring, unhestiating advance of time. There is so much that one would like to do, so much that remains to be done, and so little time remaining to do these things, that one cannot but speculate as to why it is that when one is young times seems to move at snail's pace, and that it moves as the hare, swiftly, with advancing years.

These people listed today have lived out their allotted time, some three score and ten and some not so many years.

Elks will know what we mean when we say the hour of eleven has struck for all these men and women listed.

The consoling thing about reading such a list as this one is the pleasant memories that the close relatives of those who have passed on must have.

This is a list on which almost all of us, in the course of time, will appear if Old Settlers Day continues another 50 years and while there have been rumors that this might be the last, we hope it will continue until the 100th time, even though we will have long since been on the list about which we are commenting when the year 2003 rolls around.

It would be well for each one as he reads this list of dead, to pause for a moment and recall something of the good of each individual on the list with whom he was acquainted.

Donald Quarles New Secretary Of Air Force

To Succeed Harold Talbott

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today appointed Donald A. Quarles, now assistant secretary of defense for research and development to be secretary of the Air Force.

Quarles will succeed Harold E. Talbott who resigned during a controversy over his private business while serving Air Force secretary.

Quarles has been assistant defense secretary in charge of all the department's research and development, including guided missiles. Previously he had been an official of the Bell Telephone laboratories. He was vice president when he quit to join the Defense Department.

After serving as a field artillery captain in World War I, Quarles went with the Bell laboratories in 1919. He is 61, and a fellow and former president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. His home town is Englewood, N.J., where he once was mayor.

He is married and has four children. His appointment was announced as the Air Force prepared an elaborate farewell ceremony today for Talbott.

Talbott was scheduled to receive the government's medal of freedom at today's ceremony.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson was named to present the medal of freedom award to 67-year-old Talbott at Bolling Air Force Base where 1,800 troops were to march in retirement review.

Wilson recommended Quarles, the White House said.

In 1953 the free acts on OSD were rained out on Friday evening. Tents blew over and 1:55 inches of rain fell. The acts were given on Saturday afternoon.

Notice To Taxpayers Of Additional Appropriation

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of Smith Township, Whitley County, Indiana, that the proper legal officers of said municipality, at their regular meeting place, at 8:00 P.M. on August 30, 1955 will consider the following additional appropriations which said officers consider necessary to meet the emergency existing at this time:

Township Fund:
Pay of Trustee	$122.00
Pay of Clerk	38.00
Tuition Fund:
Pay of Teachers	5870.00
Special School Fund:
School Supplies	500.00
Janitor Supplies	500.00
Pay of Clerk	90.00
Transportation	1900.00

Taxpayers appearing at such meeting shall have a right to be heard thereof. The additional appropriation as finally made will be automatically referred to the State Board of Tax Commissioners, which Board will hold a further hearing within fifteen days at the office of the County Auditor of Whitley County, Indiana, or at such other place as may be determined. At such hearing interested taxpayers may be heard. Those interested may inquire of the County Auditor the time and place of the meeting.

Identify Fliers Killed In Crash South Of Riley

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UP)—Two Air Force fliers killed when their T-33 jet plane crashed in a field south of Riley were identified today as Capt. Lee B. Jetton, Van Buren, Ark., and Capt. Harry Sawyear Hall.

Air Force spokesmen said both were stationed at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., and were enroute to Chanute, Field, Ill., Wednesday when the plane exploded and crashed in a corn field.

Woman Dies As Result Of Collision

KENDALLVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Mrs. Sylvia Irene Stout, 34, Kendallville, died Wednesday, the second victim of a two-truck collision on Ind. 3 five miles south of here.

Killed outright in the Tuesday night crash was Kennel Mosley, 30, Willard, Ohio, driver of the pickup truck in which Mrs. Stout was riding.

Mrs. Charles Dinius Reviews Sloop's Book "Miracle Of The Hills"

Twenty-eight members of the Columbia Township Home Demonstration club were present at the Tuesday meeting of the club held at the REMC Home in this city when Mrs. Charles Dinius reviewed the book "Miracle of the Hills" written by Mary Martin Sloop.

Members responded to roll call with Bible quotations and the group sang "Holy, Holy, Holy" led by Mrs. Jacob Kerch. Mrs. Floyd Miller played the accompaniment. Mrs. Jesse DePoy read "Paul's letter to Timothy" during the devotional period.

The club announced the club's dress revue for October 11 at 7:30 in the evening.

Mesdames Floyd Miller, William Miller, B. M. Pressler, Eugene Pressler formed the committee for the afternoon. Ice cream bars were served.

Return From Eastern Trip; Travel Through Mountains And Caves

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Anderson of North Main street have returned from a visit made with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Anderson. Mr. Anderson is stationed at the Navy base at Patuxent River, Maryland. They were accompanied by Mrs. Iva Zumbrun.

The local people traveled through Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, visited the Seneca Caves in West Virginia, and traveled through the Blue Ridge and Allegheny mountains.

In Washington D.C. they toured the nation's capitol building and visited the Gettysburg Battlefield and had a view of President Eisenhower's farm. The Andersons toured the great Navy base at Patuent River and while there learned that Lloyd Kneller, who has recently visited in the county, is now stationed there, DeWayne Anderson and Mr. Kneller have recently been together.

Christine Steiman and was born in Columbia township, 94 years ago last January 26. She has always lived in the county and for many years has been a resident of North Washington street. She has been an invalid for a number of years.

August 2, Mrs. Gusta Lundbald, well-known in this city, was 90 years old. She was born near Lorane. A member for many years of the Women's Relief Corps, she is still holding an office in that order, and can be seen in her pew at Trinity Methodist church in which she has long been active, each Sunday morning.

Is Son's Only Cook

Mrs. Ben Thomson, living five miles northwest of South Whitley, was born Emma Hayden near Larwill and is a member of the Hayden family, Richland township's first settlers. She resided for a time at Sidney and North Manchester but most of her life has been spent in Whitley county. She is the mother of seven children and keeps house for her son, Morris. She says she is his only cook. When asked how old she was gave the day, the month and the year and told the newspaper to figure it up. She was born February 7, 1864; we figure she is 91.

There is another resident of the South Whitley Rest Home, Mrs. Elizabeth Buntain wife of the late Foster Buntain, who was born in Coshocton, Ohio, but who came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Maston many years ago to Richland township.

Mrs. Buntain was 67 years old last December 24. Having lost her eyesight, Mrs. Buntain is quite feeble and is confined to her bed most of the time.

Is Sports Fan

Wesley Sickafoose, South Whitley business man for many years, now resides in an apartment in the building he owns in South Whitley where he at one time operated a bakery and confectionery. He has lived in South Whitley since 1903.

In 1952, Mr. Sickafoose was awarded both cups, one for the longest contineous resident and the other for the oldest person present in years. He will be 95 on November 12. Mrs. George N. Maddux, who came from Washington D.C., resides with her uncle.

He has a son, Boyd Sickafoose living at Fort Worth, Texas, an alumnus of South Whitley high school, who is expecting to arrive in South Whitley, with his wife, in time to attend the trienial alumni reunion to be held August 20.

In excellent health, Mr. Sickafoose takes his daily walk and has time to listen to sports events and news on the radio.

A familiar figure on the streets of Columbia City is Charles Emig, who will be 92 in November. He was born in Pennsylvania but was living in Illinois when he moved to Whitley county, settling in Thorncreek township where he owned two farms. Since his retirement he has lived in Columbia City.

J. W. Luther of Union township was 90 years old in July when he was honored with a family dinner. He was born in Illinois and has been a resident of Whitley county since 1910.

Sherman Welker was born at Larwill and resides on the same acreage his grandfather, Jesse Perrin, acquired from the government and later deeded to his mother, Mrs. Diantha Welker. He will be 91 in December and was born on the same plot of ground but not in the same house where he now lives. He and his sister, Miss Dottie Welker, lived together.

The Rev. M. C. Pittinger, 91 March 11, resides with his daughter, Mrs. Nile Schrader in Hilltop. He came from Selma to Whitley county and has been a resident here since 1906. He began his ministry in the Methodist church in 1891.

Nearing 90 Mark

Henry Phend, carpenter and builder, resident of the city for the past 57 years, is nearing the 90 mark and will observe the event in November. In 1898 he came to this city from Chicago Heights as a foreman in the Heel factory which opened in the building which is now the Moose Home.

About two years later he began work as a carpenter and builder in this city and has continued to be active in his work until about two years ago. Mr. Phend was born near Nappanee.

Another is Mrs. Effie Braddock who has observed her 88th birthday. She was the wife of the late Carey Braddock and has lived in Columbia City for many years. Born in Smith township, she was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert DeMoney, early settlers in Smith township.

Mrs. Braddock now resides with her daughter, Mrs. Fern Stickler, 204 South Line street. She has been a member of Colonel Augustin le la Balme chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution.

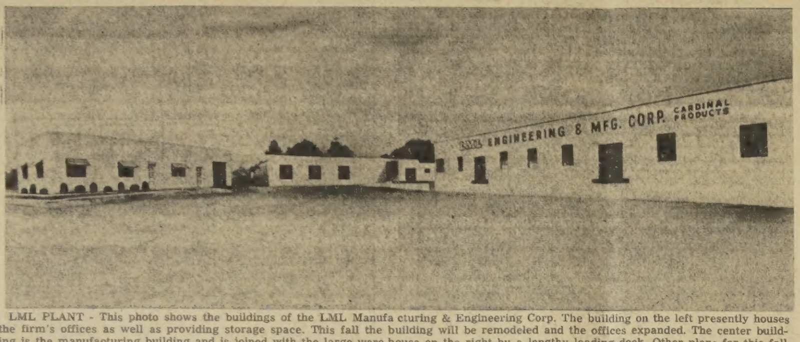
LML Is Big Asset To Community



LML PLANT - This photo shows the buildings of the LML Manufacturing & Engineering Corp. The building on the left presently houses the firm's offices as well as providing storage space. This fall the building will be remodeled and the offices expanded. The center building is the manufacturing building and is joined with the large ware-house on the right by a lengthy loading dock. Other plans for this fall include landscaping of the grounds on the west end, which extends to Line street.

Growth, recent building expansion, and operations of the LML Manufacturing & Engineering Corp. in Columbia City, home of Cardinal Products, were discussed at the local Rotary Club meeting Wednesday evening by the firm's president and vice-president, Lorin Badskey and Milton Schubert.

The LML, as the manufacturing firm is commonly known here, just completed its greatest building project, after having added to their manufacturing area each year since moving to the present location at the end of South Chauncey street. The building program completed this summer included an additional 6,000 square feet of floor space in the manufacturing area, a new warehouse 154 feet long and 48 feet wide, and more than doubled the size of the shipping dock. Last summer the plant's manufacturing area was increased with a new building, and the plant officers plan to expand the office facilities this fall.

In addition to the new buildings erected, the firm purchased immediate surrounding property and increased the employee parking area immensely this summer.

Firm's History

A brief history of the local industry, which is one of the nation's leaders in the manufacture of "equipment for material handling on the farm," was given by the officers. In 1945, Mr. Schubert started manufacturing farm elevators in the building on South Main street where Snyder's Grill is now located. That was the forerunner of the present corporation, which was organized in September 1947. The first home of "the LML" was in the quonset building on Chicago street, and in 1950 the firm purchased the buildings of Masonary Products from the late Lawrence Mason at the end of South Chauncey street.

The original incorporators included Mr. Badskey, Mr. Schubert, and Lewis Reiff, of Benton Harbor, Michigan, the firm's secretary. "The LML" now manufactures nine different models of Cardinal farm elevators, and its market has recently expanded into Mexico and South America. Many of the Cardinal products have been shipped into Canada for a long time, in addition to sales all over the United States. "The LML" has a few units in Korea, which carry the Cardinal emblem and the name of Columbia City into the Eastern Hemisphere as well as all of the Western Hemisphere.

Mr. Badskey is currently serving as national president of the Allied Farm Equipment Manufacturing Association, which has approximately 1400 members in the United States.

Community Asset

"The LML" has grown into an extremely valuable asset to this community, providing employment for 120 persons with a payroll of $322,762 for the past 12 months. In addition to the payroll, additional wealth was put into this community by the expenditures on the local level of $71,280 during the past 12 months by the corporation.

The officers stated that "LML" staffs its own engineering and designing departments and manufactures all of the parts used in its products.

During the past 12 months the plant used 236,000 pounds of aluminum, 3,223,176 pounds of carbon steel, 269,890 pounds of pipe, 94 tons of castings, and 33 miles of wire rope in its operations.

Gordon Chapman, a local contractor, has done the building at "LML" for the past two years that has expanded the manufacturing area of the firm to a total of 51,000 square feet.

Editor's note: This is the first story by the Columbia City newspapers which are intended to acquaint the citizens of this community with industries here.

Hurricane Connie Unlisted Contestant In Tennis Tourney

NEWPORT, R.I. (UP) — Hurricane Connie was an unlisted contestant today as three of the top five American and foreign entries squared off for the quarter - final singles matches of the 74th Invitation tennis tournament at the Newport Casino.

All four instead of two quarterfinals were re-scheduled for today to avoid conflict with the storm which threatens to strike in this area before the tournament is over.

Two Americans and two foreign players were defeated in the round-of-eight competition Wednesday, leaving top-seeded Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., to face fifth-seeded Straight Clark of Philadelphia in the most-promising singles match today.

Denmark's Kurt Nielsen, the No. 1 foreign seed, was paired with fourth domestic seed Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Malcolm Anderson of Australia faced Japan's Atsushi Miyagi; and unseeded Cliff Mayne of Berkeley, Calif., was paired with unrated Bob Wilson of England in the other two hurricane-hurried singles.

The late John Watt, salesman for the A. H. Perfect Company was made an honorary old settler in 1937.

Fred Bennett, Gerald Johnston, Otto Ward, and Charles Hoard, Sr., were winners of the '39 horse-pitching contest.

Corn Crop Yield For Indiana Nears All-Time Record

WASHINGTON (UP) —Indiana's estimated corn crop yield approached an all-time record today as the Department of Agriculture boosted its prediction for the 1955 Hoosier harvest by 19 million bushels.

The department's August forecast was for 275,595,000 bushels, compared with 256,255,000 bushels in the July estimate and 256,104,000 bushels actually harvested last year.

Indiana remained in fourth place among the nine major producing states in potential yield. Wisconsin, Missouri, Ohio and Illinois prospects also showed an increase over last month while Minnesota's was the same and Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota prospects dropped.

The Indiana winter wheat estimate was 33,988,000 bushels, a decline of 1,162,000 bushels from the July estimate and about six million bushels under the 1954 yield.

Death Comes Early Today To Etna-Troy Township Woman

Mrs Fred James Succumbs To Long Illness

Mrs. Anna M. James, 53, a resident in Etna-Troy township, three miles northeast of Larwill died at 4:25 this morning at her home. She had been in failing health since November 1950 and for the past three weeks had remained bedfast when her condition became critical. Her death was attributed to carcinoma.

She was born May 12, 1902, in the same home where her death occurred, a daughter of Asher and Minnie White Barnes. She was graduated from the Larwill high school with the class of 1920, and May 13, 1922, was united in marriage to Fred James. They spent their first year of married life at Tippicanoe, in Marshall county, and later moved to Elkhart. In the fall of 1930 they moved to the Barnes farm in Etna-Troy township where they have since made their home.

Mrs. James was a member of the Larwill Methodist Church. She was also a charter member and Past Worthy Matron of Cardinal Chapter 572 Order of the Eastern Star and a member of the Past Matron's Club.

The surviving relatives, in addition to her husband, Fred, are two sisters, Mrs. Lester Souder, Richland township; Mrs. Joe Martz, Thorncreek township. Her parents, one brother, Richard, and one sister, Mary Jane, have preceded her in death.

The body has been removed to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after 7:30 this evening. At noon Saturday it will be taken to the Larwill Methodist Church to lie in state until the hour of the service. The Rev. Walter Meachum, church pastor, will officiate at the rites to be held at 2 o'clock. Committal services and burial will be in the Hillcrest Cemetery at Pierceton.

Cardinal Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will conduct the twilight ritualistic service of the order at the funeral home at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

North Carolina Coast Struck By High Winds

As Connie Lumbers Nearer Seaboard

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (UP) —The coast of North Carolina was struck by near hurricane force winds today as mighty Connie lumbered nearer the Atlantic seaboard.

Even as the battering 115 to 120-mile-an hour winds whirled in the Atlantic 120 miles southeast of Myrtle Beach, S.C., ships at sea reported that a new tropical storm was building up 400 miles northeast of San Juan, P.R.

A 9 a.m. EDT bulletin from the Miami Weather Bureau said winds had risen to near hurricane force around Cape Fear, N.C., a point south of Wilmington where the shoreline juts into the ocean.

Storm signals were changed to red and black hurricane flags from a spot south of Myrtle Beach to Cape Romain near Georgetown, S.C.

Connie was lumbering along at a snail's pace of five to seven miles an hour, bearing north-northwest or northwest.

Winds will continue to increase along the coast of the Carolinas, first to gale and then to full hurricane force by mid-day, the Weather Bureau said.

Tides were running four to five feet above normal and were expected to get 10 feet above normal at some unprotected points along the Carolina coast.

The new storm was named Diane. Early today she had winds of 50 to 60 miles an hour, still 15 miles an hour short of hurricane force.

Tensions grew along the entire Atlantic coastline over the uncertainty of Connie's future path. Florida residents feared the storm may bring death and destruction to its shores. More than a thousand miles north, in New Jersey, Rhode Island and Massachusetts similar fears were felt.

Military Will Set In Motion Reserve Program

In October, Full Operation In Three Months

WASHINGTON (UP)—The military services are ready to set the big new reserve program in motion in October and should have it in full operation in the following three months, Defense officials said today.

Six month volunteers will be the first to train under the new plan which President Eisenhower signed into law Tuesday. But the rest of the program — mainly the post-active duty training of men who enlist or are drafted — will be operating by January.

The goal is to build a ready-reserve force of 2,000,000. Despite the fact that Congress did not give the Pentagon all it wanted, military sources said that it still may be possible to build the force by 1959.

The Defense Department wanted to enforce reserve service on all persons who entered the armed services after June, 1951, but Congress ruled that only those entering after enactment of the bill could be forced to participate.

The force will be drawn from two sources. Young men between 17 and 18½ may volunteer for six months training and then 7½ years of reserve service in organized units which engage in drills and field training. Men who enlist or are drafted are obligated to serve a total of six years in the active and reserve forces.

The goal eventually is to train 250,000 six-month volunteers a year. Under present plans about 100,000 will be trained in the first year.

Defense Department officials said that first quotas have not been fixed yet but may run 5,000 to 10,000 in the first month.

The Army and Marines will take six-month volunteers but the Air Force and Navy are not expected to use that part of the reserve program. Army sources said their service is ready to start on Oct. 1.

Explosion Kills 20 Persons

By RICHARD E. FALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

ANDOVER, Ohio (UP) — The bodies of 2 more persons were recovered today from the wreckage of a block-long building demolished Wednesday night by an explosion and fire, bringing to 20 the number of dead.

Neither of the new bodies was identified. They, like most of the others, were burned beyond recognition.

They were taken to a hastily assembled morgue in the garage of this small town's only funeral home.

The painstaking culling of the building debris was halted shortly before 5 a.m. when officials elected to wait until daybreak. They had virtualle convinced themselves, however, that no more victims were in the wreckage.

A tow truck was brought to the scene when the search resumed. Within a half hour the two additional bodies were found under piles of shattered lumber and brick.

Prescribed medicine is today's biggest bargain in health. Into it go the finest quality drugs produced under exacting scientific controls and representing, in many cases, initial expenditures of millions of dollars for research. Into the medicine goes also the pharmacist's professional skill acquired through long years of collegiate study and practical experience. Yet, nothing of such great value to you costs so little as does prescribed medicine. The price is indeed a small one to pay for speedy recovery from illness.

Al Lopez Said His Cleveland Indians Would Be Back In First Place Today, And They Are

By UNITED PRESS

Al Lopez promised his Cleveland Indians would be back in first place and that's exactly where they were today all because of Ralph Kiner, who made a few special promises himself.

The 32-year-old Kiner, plagued by a bad back and reduced to part-time status, propelled the Indians into the American League lead by blasting a ninth - inning grand slam homer that beat the Tigers, 6-4, Wednesday night. Kiner's homer was the 365th of his career and it moved the Indians two percentage points ahead of the White Sox, who slipped to second place by bowing to the Athletics, 5-4.

"It's high time I did something to help this club," Kiner said just before Wednesday night's game with Detroit. "My back feels a lot better tonight than it has in some time. If I get a chance to hit some pitcher might feel sorry."

Kiner received his chance in the seventh inning when he came in as a pinch hitter for Gene Woodling with the bases full but Al Aber struck him out. Kiner remained in the game and got another chance with the bases full in the ninth. Aber was still pitching and Kiner kept his promise by slamming the ball over the left field fence for his 14th and most important homer of the year.

Two Other Distinctions

The blow gave the ex-National League home run king two other distinctions. It gave him a total of 1,001 runs batted in for his career and made him the leader among active players with 13 grand-slam homers.

Until Kiner came through with his game-clinching clout, the Tigers led 4-2 on Earl Torgeson's two-run homer in the seventh inning. Al Rosen and Hal Naragon also homered for the Indians.

Hector Lopez' sixth inning home run proved to be the deciding blow in Kansas City's victory over Chicago although the White Sox came within one run of tying the game in the eighth, a frame in which Bob Nieman homered. Minnie Minoso also homered off winner Alex Kellner with one on in the fifth. Harry Byrd was the loser.

Andy Carey's single in the 13th inning gave the Yankees a 3-2 decision over the Red Sox and Don Larsen his third straight triumph since returning from the minors 10 days ago. By winning, the Yanks climbed to within a half game of first place, four percentage points behind the White Sox and six behind the Indians.

Boston shortstop Billy Klaus set the stage for the winning run when he bobbled Yogi Berra's leadoff grounder in the 13th. After a sacrifice, an intentional walk and an infield pop - up, Carey smashed a drive over left fielder Ted Williams' head to bring home Berra with the tie-breaker. Big Frank Sullivan went all the way and gave up five hits, the same number as Larsen.

The Washington-Baltimore game was postponed because of rain.

Dodgers Increase Lead

In the National League, the pace-setting Dodgers hopped on Ramon Monzant for five runs on five hits in the first three innings to beat the Giants, 5-4, in a game called during the seventh inning because of rain. The victory pushed the defending world champions 18 games off the pace, in third place.

Cincinnati climbed to within 1½ games of fifth place by beating Chicago twice, 7-2 and 6-3 with rookie Don Gross getting credit for the opening game victory and Art Fowler the nightcap. Ted Kluszewski slammed his 37th homer off loser Warren Hacker in the second game while Ernie Banks hit his 38th.

The Cardinals snapped a four-game losing streak by beating the Braves, 7-2, with the aid of three hits by Stan Musial, including his 1,000th extra base blow. Tom Poholsky hurled a six-hitter for his sixth victory.

Jerry Lynch's 10th inning single gave the Pirates a 3-2 triumph over the Phillies as Bob Friend registered his ninth victory of the year and ended a four-game Phillies' winning streak. Frank Thomas homered for Pittsburgh.

Basilio Wins Lop-Sided Victory Over Scortichini

NEW YORK (UP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio, disappointed with his lop-sided, non-title victory over Italo Scortichini, said today, "I thought the crowd was booing me, so I shot the works and got tired in the late rounds."

He was chagrined because it was his first appearance as champion.

In his non-title fight with Gil Turner next month there'll be no repetition of the all-out aggressiveness that featured his decision victory over Scortichini of Italy in their third fight Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden, he assured.

The rainy-night crowd of about 2,500 began booing the TV - radio fight in the fifth round because it was so one-sided. Scortichini had been much more effective in their two previous bouts. He held Carmen to a draw at Miami Beach on Jan. 16, 1954, and lost a close decision four months later at Syracuse, N.Y.

Wednesday night's affair was a pursuit in which the back-pedalling speedster from Fabriano, Italy, engaged in but few exchanges and missed many punches when he did exchange. The champion was favored at 3½-1, and that certainly was no "over-lay."

The ring officials all favored 28-year-old Basilio of Chittenango, N.Y.—Referee Harry Kessler voted 9-1, Judge Harold Barnes, 7-2-1, and Judge Aartie Aidala, 7-2-1. The United Press scored it 8-2.

Six NFL Teams Preparing For Exhibition Games

Six National Football League teams made final preparations today for Saturday night exhibition games.

The New York Giants were on their way to Spokane, Wash., where they will meet the Green Bay Packers in the first tune-up game of the training period for each club. The Packers, in training at Stevens Point, Wis., leave for Spokane Friday following a brief workout today.

At Moraga, Calif., Coach Red Strader announced that halfback Hugh McElhenny, who has been hampered by injuries, will be in the starting lineup Saturday when the San Francisco Forty-Niners play their second exhibition game against the Pittsburgh Steelers. San Francisco defeated Washington, 7-6, last Sunday with McElhenny seeing very little action.

The Baltimore Colts will finish up their preliminary training grind today and then will move on to Hershey, Pa., for a Saturday night exhibition game against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Kicking specialist Ben Agajanian and halfback Buford Long checked in at the Giants camp in Salem, Ore., late Wednesday. Agajanian, the NFL's fifth leading scorer last year with 74 points, has been busy cleaning up business ties while Long was given permission by the club to report late.

Staley Is Winning Driver In Fair Event At Warsaw Races

Bob Staley, Warsaw, was the top driver at the Warsaw Speedway stock car races, run Wednesday night as a feature of the Kosciusko County Fair.

In addition to receiving money as the fastest qualifier in the time trials, Staley took prize money as the winner of the feature race, second in the third-heat race and in the race among the six fastest qualifiers.

Other finishers receiving money in races were first heat: Oscar Cook, Joe Hamsher, and Hank Easley; second heat: Charles Howell, Steve Osbun, and Glenn Richards; third heat: Jimmy Hullinger and Archie Holle; fourth heat: "Slug" Morr, Bob Shlater, and Cliff Gibson; six fastest qualifiers: Archie Holle and Arden Leiter.

Consolation race: Rollin Smith, Dick Parker, L. C. Drabenstott, Kenny Leiter, and "Ike" Holderman; feature: Charles Howell, Jimmy Hullinger, Arden Leiter, "Slug" Morr, Rollin Smith, Joe Hamsher, Steve Osbun, Hank Easley, and Archie Holle.

Races will be held at the speedway again Saturday night.

Address Given At First Old Settlers Day At Loon Lake In 1904 By W. H. Liggett

Loon Lake was the site of the first Old Settlers Day 51 years ago.

Several hundred persons attended the event then, according to the September 23, 1904 issue of the Whitley County News, then a weekly publication at South Whitley.

W. H. Liggett was one of three speakers at the first Old Settler's Day, and was later named chairman of the committee to make the day an annual event.

Liggett was a farmer, teacher, sheriff, businessman, and miller in Whitley county.

Following is a portion of his speech, taken from the 1904 News.

"What I shall say to you today will not be of historical interest—perhaps will not be of any interest and certainly will not be of sufficient importance to entitle to a place in the historical collection of addresses made here today.

"Yet I hope to see this organization become one of the permanent and useful organizations in our county, to the end that it may bring a day of pleasure at least once a year, to the old people of our county, and at the same time be the means of recording the many incidents of a historical character relating to the early settlement of the county and the old pioneers, who first made their homes here in the forests—now so nearly gone.

"These things must be done soon, these incidents must be gathered without delay, if gathered at all, as the old settlers are passing away like the old forests that once stood here—where now are fields and traveled roads.

"What changes have been wrought since some of you old people came to Whitley County—what improvements! What inventions! What advantages compared to fifty years ago! What surroundings now and how pleasant compared to that early day! Fifty years ago who among us dreamed that we would have good roads ever, or free from ague, or have our letters or our papers brought to our doors, or be able to talk to our friends over a wire stretched from one end of the county to the other; or read by electric lights hung in our homes or ride in a horseless carriage, like the trolly car or be scared half to death or perhaps run over by an automobile — Scarcely any of these inventions were dreamed of then—even the sewing machine, the reaper, the mower, the threshing machine, the riding plow, the hay loader, the corn cutter and binder and a hundred like things you can think of at your leisure, were not thought of then.

"But while we enjoy the convenient and useful things by which we are now surrounded, you nor I have forgotten the pleasurers of the days that are long past. We remember the joys we had then, and the discomforts and hardships of that time are as though they never existed. We remember the friends of our younger days and the good times we had in their society, and we think there never was before or will be again such beautiful girls as we knew then, nor such honest, true manly friends as were ours in that long ago.

"We like to get in some corner with some one of the old pioneers still living and we talk of the good old days, and we in a measure live over again the days that are past; we sigh perhaps and wish we could be "boys again"...

"O, to be young! To have the glorious opportunities that the young people enjoy today; to have the education—their bright future before us; to be young again to enjoy for sixty years more this goodly land.

"What a glorious thing it is to be young today; but it is not for us. Our children and childrens' children have a goodly heritage, and a land flowing with milk and honey; a land of grapes and pleasant fruits. How will they take care of it? You old men like the Israelite of old came up through the wilderness and you conquered by your labors a rich country, and you have seen your descendants as a great multitude enjoying the fruits of your labors; and you are glad. May you and I live many more years yet to see the growth and development of this country that is yet to come.

"We can't be young again in body but we are not all old in spirit. We can yet enjoy many of the pleasures by which we are surrounded.

"Let us believe that after all our last days are our best days.

"My old friends, may your sun go down clear and unclouded by sorrow or regrets; may you long live to enjoy the fruits of your labors, and may we meet many times to pass a day together and at last with a firm and steadfast faith in Him Who gave all the good things we have had in life, may we lie down to rest; to waken on the other side where we will be forever young."

U.S. Has Been Working To Harness Power

For Peace For Considerable Time

GENEVA (UP) — The United States announced today that it has been "working for a considerable time" to harness for peace the power of the hydrogen bomb.

Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission made the disclosure in answer to questions at the United Nations Atoms-for-Peace conference.

"But there has been nothing in the nature of a break-through," Strauss said.

He described the task as a problem "unprecedented in difficulty." Because of this, he said, he could not attempt to predict when it might be solved.

The formal American announcement made official a race to harness the H-bomb between the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

Control of the power of the hydrogen bomb, scientists said, would give man a source of power the equivalent of the force of the sun itself.

Strauss was asked if progress has been made in that direction.

"Progress certainly has been made, from the scientific viewpoint," he said. It was then he added there had been no "breakthrough."

Some 300 newsmen attending the conference here peppered Strauss with questions. Most of them he said he was unwilling to answer.

At the opening of his press conference Strauss said he had not answered a question on America's role in "thermonuclear" development other questions and he did not have time to answer them.

"I repeat the question," a reporter said.

"The reply is brief and affirmative," Strauss said. "The AEC is and has been working on the subject for a considerable time."

He said control of nuclear fusion is "one of the great projects" now being studied.

Strauss said the project is receiving from the United States government the amount of financial support requested by the AEC.

Strauss was asked if the United States has any information indicating whether any other nation is as far or further advanced than the United States in the drive to harness the power of the hydrogen bomb.

"We haven't," he said. "It is not a subject of this conference."

But the race to achieve that historic goal became the biggest unofficial subject of the conference at its opening on Monday when Dr. Homi J. Bhabha, of India, predicted the power of the H-bomb would be controlled and put to use within 20 years.

Fair, Pleasant Weather Follows Some Thunderstorms

By UNITED PRESS

Fair and pleasant weather in Indiana today followed by a rash of thunderstorms which literally flooded some communities and left others nearby as dry as a bone.

A humid Wednesday was highlighted by a torrential downpour in one east side section of Indianapolis in which overflow water up to five feet deep stalled traffic in a busy section of the city.

Martinsville got 1.50 inches of rain, Terre Haute an inch, and some areas without official Weather Bureau rain guages got perhaps more than three inches. A small area near Columbus reported 3.2 inches unofficially.

The Indianapolis rain caught motorists by surprise. It inundated some parked cars up to their windows. Flood waters stopped traffic at underpasses and other low points. Basements were flooded.

The day was humid but the mercury never touched the 90s in Indiana.

The warmest spot was at Fort Wayne where 88 was recorded. South Bend's 81 was the low.

The mercury ranged between 62 in South Bend and 66 at Indianapolis during the night.

No rain was predicted for the state today or Friday. Mostly fair and pleasant weather was in store for the north and central portions today, tonight and Friday.

The southern sector was due for partly cloudy and cooler weather today. Tonight and Friday will be mostly fair and pleasant for the south.

Today's highs will be 82 north to 87 south. Friday's highs will be 88 south and 83 north.

Peabody Library Board Honors Mrs. Brenneman

Secretary 42 Years; Her Name Retained On The Active List

The board of the Peabody Free Library at their meeting Tuesday evening adopted memorial resolutions to inscribe the name of Mrs. Gladys Brenneman on the library records as a perpetual and active member. Mrs. Brenneman had served as secretary of the library board for 42 years.

Mrs. John Lillich is the acting secretary of the board at present. William Bloom is the president and Mrs. E. E. List, the librarian.

A MEMORIAL TO GLADYS BRENNEMAN

BE IT RESOLVED by the members of the Board of Trustees of the Peabody Free Library of Whitley County in regular meeting held at said library on August ninth 1955, that the name of Gladys Brenneman, who departed this life July thirtieth 1955, be inscribed on the records of this body as a perpetual and active member thereof, in token of her long and unstinting loyalty, interest and devotion to this library and all it means, and has meant, to the citizens of Whitley County.

Service is not a thing of the flesh but of the Spirit – an eternal, imperishable thing which lives on to inspire and spark us, long after mortal clay has vanished. The Spirit of Gladys Brenneman will always linger within these walls, a deathless part of them.

A women of keen perceptive mind, an omniverous reader of books and book reviews, a practical politician of high order, Mrs. Brenneman was not only a thinker but a fighter – an unarmored but fearless champion of library affairs and legislation. – She not only gave of herself, but sparked the energies of fellow members in forwarding the necessary, but sometimes irksome, duties and interests of this library and local cultural affairs.

Mrs. Brenneman was appointed to Board membership in 1910. In 1912 she became its secretary, and served diligently and faithfully in such capacity until shortly before her death. Mere membership of such Board was not enough for her remarkable capabilities; she made it her life – her career. – She was an advisor and counselor of the late S. J. Peabody in selecting a site and approving plans for the present library's home. She attended its meetings religiously, and kept its records. She lived it, planned for it, breathed it, and gave unstintedly of her time and efforts for its betterment.

Nor was her zeal confined to this one library alone. With a broad view on library needs and service, she became an honored member of the Indiana Library Association and the Indiana Library Trustees' Association, and served as the latter's president in the years 1932 and 1933. In 1943 she received a citation for outstanding and distinguished service from the Indiana Library Association – an unusual honor. – She took an eager and active interest in state library affairs and library legislation, attended countless meetings throughout the state, and until her death maintained an aggressive interest in library and cultural affairs. And even as the Shadows of Death closed round her, her alert mind was full of plans for the betterment of our library, and its future she knew she would not share.

We mourn her passing. We cherish her memory. To her the words: "Well done, good and faithful servant" most fittingly apply. And so, because her memory will always live and endure as an inspiration to this body, we soberly and humbly lay this resolution to reserve to her a perpetual and active membership, as a token upon her record.

Farm Population Shows A Drop

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The government estimates that the farm population has dropped about 3,000,000 since 1950.

Estimated farm population is 22,158,000 about 13.5 per cent of the total population. The estimate was prepared by the Census Bureau and the Agriculture Department's marketing service to reflect the farm population as of April, 1955.

The farm population for April, 1954, was 21,890,000.

The drop between 1950 and 1955 represents a continuation of a long time downward trend. Between 1940 and 1945, the number of persons living on farms fell by more than 5,000,000.

Crop Production For 1955 May Equal Record

Of 1948; Would Tax Nation's Bulging Storage Bins

WASHINGTON (UP)—A whopping big food and feed crop is in prospect for the 1955 harvest season.

The Agriculture Department's crop reporting board said Wednesday the all-crop production for this year may equal the record output in 1948. This in spite of early season freezes, drought, insect damage, and government acreage and marketing curbs. Such a production would tax the nation's already-bulging storage bins containing surplus products from past years.

"Generally favorable" weather throughout most of the producing area during July is responsible for the prospective record-matching output, plus high yields per acre attributable to better farming techniques.

All major crops except wheat are heading for increased output over last year.

Corn, the major feed for livestock, is expected to hit almost 3,500,000,000 bushels, 17 per cent more than last year's production and not far below the 1948 record output of 3,605,000,000 bushels.

The fall harvest of wheat will add about 911,00,000 bushels to a carryover of about 1,000,000,000 bushels, providing enough of the important bread grain to supply this country's domestic and export needs for two years. The prospective crop is 6 per cent more than the July 1 estimate and 6 per cent less than last year's production.

Prospective oat production is a record 1,625,000,000 bushels, 8 per cent more than last year, while hay was estimated at 109,000,000 tons, 5 per cent more than last year.

Soybeans also were in the champion class, with an estimated production of 420,000,000 bushels, 23 per cent above last year's crop. Potatoes were expected to weigh in at 399,000,000 bushels, 12 per cent more than last year.

The corn crop is expected to average 43.1 bushels per acre, a record. This compares with 37.1 bushels an acre in 1954 and a 10-year average of 36.4 bushels. Winter wheat yields were estimated at 20.3 bushels an acre, the third highest on record.

Vernon Trier Escapes Serious Injury When Car Hits Utility Pole

Vernon E. Trier, 29, escaped with minor injuries at about 11:45 p.m. Wednesday when his car left the road and struck an electric light pole one-half mile north of the city on State Road 9.

He apparently suffered only a bruised left leg but x-rays are being taken at Whitley County Hospital to determine the extent of the injuries.

Trier was rounding a curve southbound on the State road and was evidently driving too fast, according to Trooper Norman Pierce, of the Indiana State Police. Pierce said that Trier's car ran off the road then swung back again momentarily before running down an embankment. The car snapped the utility pole which was in its path. The pole was replaced by city employes Thursday morning.

Trier told Trooper Pierce that he swerved his vehicle to avoid an oncoming car which was traveling down the middle of the road and lost control on the loose gravel.

Trier is charged with driving at unreasonable speed.

FBI Holds 3 Charged With Robbing Bank

NEW YORK (UP) — The FBI today held three men charged with robbing a Queens bank of a record $312,219.42, and agents sought two other suspects.

The pair still being sought are Redmond Cribbin, 43, a paroled murderer and Thomas F. Connelly Jr., 30, whose two small children were found abandoned recently in Baltimore, Md., and Wilmington, Del.

The FBI said Wednesday its agents had arrested James McCoo, 36, Frank Cocchiaro, 34, and Vincent W. Kritil, 28, in connection with the robbery of a Chase Manhattan branch bank in Woodside, Queens, April 6.

The FBI said McCoo was arrested at his home. The others were picked up on the street. They had only a few dollars between them, agents said.

The FBI said they refused to talk about the holdup that netted the largest cash haul in the nation's history.

McCoo and Cocchiaro were arraigned on charges of violating the federal bank robbery statute. Kritil was arraigned and held as a material witness.

McCoo was held without bail on a charge of being a direct participant in the robbery. Cocchiaro, accused of aiding and abetting the holdup, was held in $40,000 bail. Kritil's bail also was set at $40,000.

67 Killed In Crash Of Two Flying Boxcars

Loaded With U.S. Paratroopers

STUTTGART, Germany (UP)—Two U.S. Air Force C119 Flying Boxcars loaded with American paratroopers collided near here today and crashed in flames killing 67 men, an Air Force spokesman announced.

The announcement by the 12th Air Force said:

"Two Air Force C119 troop carriers crashed this afternoon about 30 miles west of Stutgart and initial reports indicated that 67 persons on board were killed.

"The C119s wet pero ant arin-e plane flight which had just taken cf from Echterdinger Arifield, near Stuttgart, on a training mission with troops from 7th Army aboard.

"Initial reports said that one plane developed engine trouble just a few minutes after takeoff, after reaching a cruising level of 4,000 feet.

"The crippled plane lost altitude momentarily, then pulled up abruptly across the front of another aircraft in the formation.

"The crippled plane went down immediately.

"The first plane to crash had 42 passengers and a crew of 5 plus one loadmaster on board.

"The second plane carried 14 passengers, a crew of 4 and a loadmaster.

"The crashes occurred at 2:18 German time (6:18 a.m. CST). The second plane flew level for almost one minute, then went out of control and nosed into the ground.

"The accident occurred less than 15 minutes after takeoff," the announcement concluded.

Homemade Pies Are Great Benefit To Whitley 4-H Fair

"The Fair that Pies Built" will again feature that great American institution, "the pie" at the 4-H exhibition to be held at the Community Center Columbia City August 25, 26 and 27. This event, in its 31st year, and supported by pies throughout, promises to be bigger and better than ever, states Robert Pontzius, president of the 4-H corporation.

Every 4-H club member is expected to contribute one pie toward the financing of the fair, according to Harold Ruckman, superintendent of this department. Farm Bureau families and Home Economic Club families are also asked for a half pint of coffee cream. Pies from other friends of 4-H will be gratefully received.

Washington, Columbia and Union townships are to present their donations on Thursday, August 25. Thorncreek, Cleveland, Etna-Troy and Smith are to bring theirs Friday and all others, Saturday morning.

Mrs. Russell Geiger was elected general chairman of the ladies "eats" section at the organization meeting of the concessions committee. Mrs. Leroy Martin, Mrs. Carlton Hasty and Mrs. Daivd Dunfee are assistant chairmen. Forty-five ladies from all parts of the county are assisting in this section.

Leaves For Oklahoma

Paul Bridegam, A.A. left Wednesday for Norman, Okla., after a 14-day leave spent with his mother, Mrs. Carl L. Bridegam and other relatives in Thorncreek township.

He will attend Aviation Mechanics School at Norman after completing training at Great Lakes.

Last Sunday, Mr. Bridegam was guest of honor at a dinner for which his aunt, Mrs. Fred Sell was hostess at the Sell summer home, at High Lake in Noble county.

Red China Delivers Secret Reply To Demand

Of America For Speedy Release Of U.S. Prisoners

GENEVA (UP) — Communist China delivered a secret reply today to American demands for speedy release of U.S. prisoners held by the Reds. Unofficial Communist sources said both sides were moving closer to agreement.

The optimistic note could not be confirmed on the American side in the negotiations here between U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Communist Chinese Ambassador Wang Pin-nan.

But there was dogged hope that the 41 Americans would finally win freedom as result of these talks.

Johnson met with Wang for 85 minutes this morning, their fifth session in 11 days. A brief joint announcement said only that they continued discussion of the first agenda item — return of citizens of both sides.

They agreed to resume discussion on the civilians at their next meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Communist sources would not give details of the secret note but they strongly indicated it might contain satisfactory answers to questions raised by the United States during the negotiations.

The United States thus far has balked at Red China's demands for third party itervention in the dispute and asserted that Chinese students in the United States were perfectly free to return to Red China if they wished.

The Communists' problem has been to find some face-saving method of acknowledging this but that third party action would bring the Peiping regime a step closer to recognition.

Diplomatic sources said the Communists were most anxious to settle the prisoner problem early and get on to the task of trying to arrange a meeting between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Red Premier Chou En-lai.

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (UP)—Coroner Robert Couden said Friday a man clad in a baseball uniform and found dying alongside of U.S. 40 near Dunreith apparently was a hit-and-run victim.

Eleven Freed American Airmen Arrive In United States Today

OLDEST SETTLERS - Winners of the two Old Settlers Day loving cups were publicly announced Thursday afternoon on the grandstand on the courthouse lawn. Stuart Smith, vice-president of the 1955 Old Settlers Day association, presented the cups to Charles Emig and Mrs. Emma Thomson.

CHAMPS IN ACTION - Jimmy Watters, pitching the horsehoe, and Willard Phillips demonstrate their championship form following the Old Settlers Day horsehhoe pitching contest Thursday morning. They won all three of their games.

JUDGES AND SPECTATORS lined up in the shade of the Presbyterian church to watch the horseshoe pitching contest, first one held with Old Settlers for about 12 years. Those enjoying this bit of relaxing fun are (L to R) Owen Zumbrun, "Buz" Duncan, Jesse Zeigler, and Earnest Cotterly.

CHECKER CHAMPIONS lined up on the grandstand Thursday afternoon to receive their awards from Foster Riddick (on left), chairman of the contest.

Arthur Helgesen (on the right) won the contest and received a ribbon and $7.50. Burton White (center) placed second to win $5.00, and John Markwalter was third place checker player, winning $2.50.

Helgesen Named Checker Champion

There were seven entrants in the checker-playing contest Thursday at the Old Settlers celebration.

Arthur Helgesen, of Churubusco, was first prize winner with 41 points. He received a $7.50 cash prize. Burton White's 37 points netted him the $5 second prize, while John Markwalter won $2.50 with his 36 points.

Other entrants and scores included Roy Pray, 25 points;Clayton Gaff, 23 points; Doc Fletcher, 10 points, and Bill Yaney, 1 point.

Foster Riddick was chairman of the tournament, and Franklin Dillman, Willis Goble, Woodie Jones and Jesse DePoy served as judges.

The tournament was in the Second Floor corridor of the courthouse.

Son Born Wednesday To Mr. And Mrs. Rossiter

A son, Marvin Lee, was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rossiter, of R 3, Fort Wayne. The child weighed 6 pounds 7 ounces at birth at the Whitley County Hospital.

The mother is the former Helen Bercot. The couple has another son.

Theodore Schaper Present At The Old Settlers Day Program

Theodore Schaper, who has resided in this city for the past two years with his son, Harry Schaper, local plumber, was able to attend the Old Settlers Day program, and spend the greater part of the day downtown. He resided for many years west of the city.

Mr. Schaper will be 90 years old in October. His wife, more than 90 years old, is confined to her bed.

Tourney Decides Local Horseshoe Pitching Champs

Phillips And Watters Combination Unbeaten

Five teams of horseshoe players over 50 years old entered the contest held in the Presbyterian church parking lot Thursday morning in conjunction with Old Settlers Day. Willard Phillips and Jimmy Watters emerged the champions, winning three games and not suffering a defeat. The second place team was Lawrence Kerch and Ruskin Baublet, and the third place team was Fred Bennett and George McConnell. Other teams participating were Clyde Anderson and Marion Walker, Ray Cullum and Albert Hitzfield.

In winning the championship, Watters and Phillips defeated McConnell and Bennett 50-18, defeated Cullum and Hitzfield 50-7, and defeated Kerch and Baublet 50-14.

The record of the second place team, Kerch and Baublet, was: win over Walker and Anderson 50-39, win over McConell and Bennett 50-38, and their loss to Watters and Phillips 50-14.

The third place team made this record: a win over Anderson and Cullum (Anderson's original partner had gone home) 50-46, a loss to Watters and Phillips 50-18, and a loss to Kerch and Baublet 50-38.

Prices of $5.00, $3,00, and $1.00 were awarded and the three top teams. Foster Riddick, chairman of the contest, made the presentations during the afternoon porgram Thursday.

Officials for the contest were Ernest Cotterly, scorer; Owen Zumbrun, George Fry, and Therman Martin, judges.

Man, Woman Win Old Settlers Loving Cups

Mr. Emig Oldest, Mrs. Thomson Is Longest Resident

Stuart Smith, presented the Old Settlers Day loving cups to Charles Emig, of this city, and Mrs. Emma Thomson, of Cleveland township, at the annual presentation of these awards Thursday.

Mr. Emig, 91 years, 9 months, and four days old, received the large silver trophy for being the oldest person registered, and Mrs. Thomson was awarded her trophy for having lived in Whitley county the longest continuous time of any person registered. Mrs. Thomson is 91 years, six months and four days old and has lived every bit of those years in this county.

Mr. Emig is a native of Pennsylvania. He moved to Farina, Illinois in a wagon where he farmed. From Illinois he came to Thorncreek township in 1910 and brought the old Adams Farm west of Cresco. From there he purchased a farm near the Blue River Methodist church, and in 1950 when his wife became ill, they moved to this city. His wife died in June 1951, and one of his two children, Mrs. Sheldon Cooperrider, died in September the same year.

Mr. Emig has one son living, Carl Emig, 332 N. Main street, city. There are also two grandsons, Robert Emig, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, and Charles Cooperrider, who is in the Air Force.

Longest Resident

Mrs. Emma Thomson, the person who has lived in the county longest, was born about two and one-half miles southweat of Larwill. She was married to L. F. Thomson in August 1885, and they moved to the farm in northwest Cleveland township where she has lived ever since. She is the mother of seven children, six of them are still living.

The children of Mrs. Thomson are Maurice, who lives with her; Ralph, Mrs. Walter Norris, and Mrs. Mary Karns, who all live in South Whitley; Mrs. Floyd Miller, of Huntington; and Carl, who lives in northwest Cleveland township. Another son, Fred, died in 1941.

She has been a member of the Booneville Congregational Christian church since moving to the South Whitley neighborhood.

Car, Truck Collide Causing Minor Damage To Each

Minor damage was caused to a car and a semi-trailer at 9:15 a.m. Friday morning when they collided at the intersection of Van Buren and Main streets.

The truck and semi-trailer, driven by John Roland Berry, 34, of R 1, Cowpens, S.C., was making a right turn into Main street from West Van Buren street and the car was also attempting a right turn between the truck and the curb. The right rear tandem wheels of the trailer struck the left front end of the car. The car was driven by Willodean Janice Durfey, 30, Cromwell.

Estimated 5,000 Attend Evening OSD Program, Have Mild Weather

An estimated crowd of 5,000 persons attended the Old Settler's Day festivities Thursday evening as the mild weather continued in its favor for the second straight day.

This was some 3,000 more than the estimate of the attendance during the afternoon part of the program.

Most of the visitors crowded around the stage on the Courthouse lawn while the free acts portion of the program was being presented. It wasn't until the huge throng surged out into the midway during the show intermissions, that it seemed as large as it evidently was. Many local families left their cars at home and walked uptown since all available parking space was taken for three blocks in all directions.

The crowd seemed well pleased with the evening show, which followed an hour long concert by the Columbia City high school band. Many sat around on the lawn listening to the music. The puppet comedy team of "Fernando and Fair" proved to be one of the most interesting of the attractions. 'The younger "settlers" especially seemed to enjoy their antics. However, "The Great Fussner" and his rolling globe act was probably the most colorful act and received the most attenion from the crowd.

South Bend Families Await Final Decision

On Whether Men Are Eligible For Jobless Insurance

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—The question of bread and butter on the tables of thousands of South Bend families may hinge on results of a hearing next Wednesday.

The hearing conducted by Douglas Morris, appeal supervisor of the Indiana Employment Security Division, will decide if men thrown out of work at the Studebaker Packard Corp. by recent "wildcat" strikes are eligible for jobless insurance benefits.

The walkouts began July 18, and have occurred intermittently since then. The production work force of about 7,000 is sent home each time a handful of body shop employes walks out shortly after the plant opens.

The walkouts, called "unauthorized" by Local 5, CIO United Auto Workers union, are in proetst to seniority practices in force since the firm laid off at least 1,700 workers several weeks ago.

When the walkouts occur, the only pay workers get for the day is for the few minutes or an hour between starting time and the time the workers leave and the company sends the rest home.

A union spokesman said the Police Receive 2 Reports Of Prowlers At City Residences

City police have received reports of prowlers around homes during the last few days.

At least two residents claimed they saw a man coming out of of their homes as they were returning from the Old Settler's activities Wednesday night. The persons said that they had left the doors to their home unlocked when they went uptown in the evening.

Another family, residing in the 300 block of West Market street, reported having clothing taken from a wash line in the back yard Tuesday night.

Police said that the residents seeing the man described him as short, and wearing tan trousers and blue shirt and a long-billed cap. A man answering such a description was said to be working for one of the carnival establishments, but no one has been apprehended.

Lee Gross, chief of police, advised residents to lock the doors of their homes before going uptown at night.

Handley Blames Craig For Loss In Gas Taxes

Bill Would Have Raised 13 Million Dollars A Year

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Lt. Gov. Harold Handley said today Indiana could collect 13 million dollars a year more than it does in state gasoline taxes with an extra one-cent-a-gallon levy if Governor Craig had endorsed such a proposal last winter.

Handley, commenting on new reports that Indiana must either boost gasoline taxes or lose millions of dollars in federal highway matching funds, said efforts to meet the problem were fruitless in the 1955 General Assembly.

"An increase in the gasoline tax was advocated in the last session of the Legislature...in the form of a bill in the House," Handley said, "but the Governor turned thumbs down."

Handley said the bill would have boosted taxes one cent a gallon to five cents, and would have raised 13 million dollars a year.

Handley, who tangled with Craig on the toll road issue during the Legislature, said Indiana lost millions of dollars of revenue to gasoline producers because it failed to increase the tax.

No sooner had the Legislature adjourned than the price of gas went up two cents, he said.

Virgil Smith, state highway chairman, said he is "in favor" of a two-cent increase, but "I'm not pushing it." Smith said Indiana probably could match federal funds available for highway construction this fiscal year, but perhaps not in the year beginning July 1, 1956.

State Treasurer John Peters said he would "prefer to see the federal government get out of the road-building business...repeal the gasoline tax...and let the states have that."

"We have to make up our minds if we're going to take the federal funds," Peters said.

Secretary of State Crawford Parker said "eventually, we're going to have to increase the gasoline tax," but how much he didn't know.

Parker said he was not in favor of the federal gas tax, but "as long as we have it we at least should try to get back our proportionate share."

Injured Driver Faces Drunken Driving Charge In Court

Wayne Hackworth, 20, of R 3, North Manchester, was charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverage in an affidavit filed Tuesday in Whitley County circuit court.

Hackworth has been a patient at Whitley County Hospital since last Saturday where he is being treated for a neck fracture he suffered in a one-car accident west of South Whitley. His neck and head have been placed in traction and he is expected to be confined for some time, hospital officials said.

In the accident, Hackworth's car, eastbound on State Road 14 west of South Whitley, ran off the road and through a fence on the farm of Delmer Grable, R 1, South Whitley.

The affidavit was signed by Trooper Wayne Reese of the Indiana State Police who investigated the accident.

Phillip McNear Has 1916 Annual To Look For Classmates

Phillip McNear, 637 Patterson Street, Chicago was a visitor at the Old Settlers Day celebration Thursday and Friday.

He is a graduate of the Columbia City high school, class of 1916 and brought with him his annual to try to locate some of his former classmates.

Mr. McNear has been a driver for the Yellow Cab Company, Chicago, for 34 years.

Immediate Plans For Flights To Hometowns

Prefer To Hold Reunions At Home With Families

By RONALD WAGONER
United Press Staff Correspondent

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UP)—Eleven American airmen freed after 2½ years in Red Chinese prisons arrived back in the United States today and started making immediate plans for flights to their various hometowns.

Only a few relatives were here to greet the returning fliers, who had signified earlier that they preferred to hold reunions with their families at home.

The first of two Air Force planes carrying the men on the last leg of their long flight from the Far East touched down from Hawaii at 1:57 a.m. EDT. Aboard were Col. John K. Arnold, Montgomery, Ala., Airman Daniel C. Schmidt, Redding Calif, Airman Harry Benjamin, Worthington, Minn., Lt. Wallace Brown Montgomery, Ala. Capt. Eugene Vaadi Clayton, N.Y. and Airman John W. Thompson, Orange Va.

Arnold First Down

The second plane landed two minutes later at this base north of San Francisco. It carried Capt. Elmer Llewellyn, Missoula, Mont.,

Firemen To Sponsor Water Ball Tourney Saturday Afternoon

The Columbia City Volunteer Department will sponsor a water ball tournament at 2:30 Saturday afternoon as a part of the Old Settler's Day celebration. The tourney will be held on South Washington street east of the Whitley County jail.

A total of 22 teams from the area have been invited to participate in the battles, according to Russell D. Wolfe, fire chief. Wolfe said that the state champions from Laud and last year's champs from Poe will both be here for the tournament.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners of the water ball tournament. Everyone is invited to watch the free event.

Wolfe also announced that the Columbia City team will travel to Poe August 27 for a water ball battle.

Betsy Blair Tells Reaction From Role As Homely Old Maid

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—This is the new Betsy Blair talking.

They have been carrying things too far.

It was at first flattering to read about myself as "the actress courageous enough to face the cameras completely unglamorized for her role in 'Marty'."

In the first place, actually it wasn't like that at all. The role was a nice, fat juicy plum, and I grabbed for it.

The critics have been magnanimous, the public is wonderful. The Catholic Society of Arts and Letters last week gave me their award for "best dramatic actress."

I am not complaining about any of it.

But in Hollywood there is a strange mental block that goes by the name of "typing."

Since "Marty," I have turned down three roles. They wanted me to play a witch who hid all her money in old newspapers, a fugitive from a psycho ward and a nice girl who could pass for a reasonable facsimile of Dracula's daughter.

In a way, I suppose, it's my fault. Up to now, I've always lived fairly circumspectly. I've never been one to order a $500 Don Loper original just to do the family shopping. I've been a good wife and a devoted mother and I never throw a drink or start pulling anyone's hair at a party.

So I guess it just figures for me to keep playing the poor little girl nobody wanted.

Ernie Borgnine was a sadistic killer in "From Here to Eternity," a lonesome, good-hearted kind of a Joe in "Marty" and a pious Amish farmer in "Violent Saturday." If it's good enough for him, it's good enough for me.

I'm on my way to Paris where I intend to buy a pair of the longest false eyelashes in the world.

I'm going to France to make a picture with Jean Gabin and Sydney Chaplin called "The Free Devil," in which I play a coquette of the boulevards, complete with plunging neckline, bared midriff and sheathed skirt, a sort of wildcat of the boudoir. A gal with men and money on her mind.

Then I'll be coming back to Hollywood looking for action.

Standing Alone

Dr. Foreman

THEN what? What happens next? What is going to happen to me if I don't do what you want? What does "or else—" mean? If the person who asks such questions doesn't get answers he likes, but goes right on in his determined way, we say he is brave. If a man does what he does when everybody else is doing it, when he gets well paid for it, praised and rewarded, we do not call that brave. But when a man does what he does knowing pretty well that he will get hurt because he does it, we call the man brave.

Two Kinds of Courage

There are two kinds of bravery or courage. One we call physical courage, the other is moral courage. The physical hero dashes into a burning building or into a swift river, to save some one else at real peril to his own life. He may refuse to disclose an important secret even though he is being tortured to make him reveal it. The moral hero stands up for what he knows is right even though this makes him unpopular or ridiculous in the eyes of people whose good will he would like to keep. We might say that physical courage is determination in spite of the prospect of bodily pain; moral courage is determination in spite of the prospect of mental or spiritual pain. Sometimes the two are combined in the same act and the same person, as with Daniel in the stories assigned for this week. Moral courage being rather more unusual than physical, let us take a look at that, especially.

Ridicule

Standing with the crowd never takes courage. Standing alone against the crowd always calls for courage, no matter what the crowd is carrying. Are they picking up stones? Then facing them calls for physical courage. Are they laughing their heads off? Then facing them calls for moral courage. The one thing that most people are afraid of more than anything else is being laughed at. Ridicule can be as cruel as any instrument of torture. Even men with a keen sense of humor don't like to be made fun of. Why do people who really know better, who down in their consciences know it is wrong for them to drink, drink and even get drunk all the same? The reason is, they can't stand being laughed at. It takes courage to stand alone against a laugh!

Contempt

Most men do not like to admit having made a mistake. It sounds a little like admitting one was a fool. And it has been observed that most men can more easily admit to being knaves than fools; we would almost rather be wicked than look silly. We can stand opposition more easily than we can stand contempt. But that is exactly what calls for moral courage in the man who stands alone. No one likes to be looked down on, no one likes to be thought of as so stupid or out-of-line that no one will respect him. But that is what young Daniel was facing in Babylon, it is what many today have to face. To take our temperance illustration again: Why do many people drink alcoholic liquors against their better judgment? They can't stand up against the crowd. Within the memory of living men there was a White House hostess who would not serve liquor at State dinners, no matter who was there. Many foreign ambassadors wrote home contemptuously about it; but she stood to her convictions. Not many have courage of that sort.

Loneliness

"Dare to be a Daniel, dare to stand alone!" is easy to sing, hard to do. The sheer weight of numbers overpowers people. They will climb aboard any bandwagon if it looks crowded; they will not venture into a heavenly chariot if they have to ride alone. It takes a little moral courage to stand up and be counted with a minority. It takes a great deal more to stand up and be counted THE minority of One. But such courage is possible. Daniel showed it; he showed that his moral courage was matched by his physical courage. And after all, he was not in the minority after all. God was on his side, or rather he was on God's side; and that made the difference. Many a time a good cause has been lost not by weakness but by cowardice; but on the other hand good causes have been saved by men who believed in their rightness so deeply that rather than deny their faith, they would be buried alive in loneliness.

For Sale, Cheap, Cluttered Variety Of Fishing Gear

By RICHARD A. MONTABA
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—For sale, cheap, a cluttered variety of fishing gear. Includes rods and reels plugs, hooks and flies, and a half used bottle of pickled frogs.

The tackle is not guaranteed to catch fish, at least not in Indiana. But it should provide diversion in sorting, oiling and cleaning.

At least that's all the good it's done me. I've still to catch my first fish in Hoosier waters — or strike.

Not a single fish or strike in more than three years.

I may forget my telephone number or even what day it is. But Ive got a memory like an elephant when it comes to when, where and how I've hooked even the smallest fish. My recollection of Hoosier fishing thrills is as empty as my creel.

No Fish Around?

I've advanced several theories for my misfortunes during the past three years of roaming up and down the state in search of finny friends. None of them seems to provide the whole answer.

My first thought was that I must be a lousy fisherman. That doesn't hold water in the light of past experience. As a youth in Wisconsin, I occasionally came home with more fish than we could possibly eat.

And even now during my vacation forays into the wilds of northern Wisconsin I'm seldom skunked in my angling luck.

That led to theory No. 2, that Hoosier lakes and streams have been subject to such heavy fishing pressure for so many years that there's nothing left in them but empty beer cans.

Of course, I realize the state plants fish in Hoosier waters, ubt I figured perhaps they ate each other up to frustrate ex-Wisconsin fishermen.

Too Smart for Him?

This idea was blasted last weekend while I fished one of the "plentifully stocked" lakes at Shakamak State Park. I headed into an inlet at dusk and tried a number of lures without success.

I was ready to give up when the man next to me caught a beautiful three-pound bass. I stuck around for two hours more without getting so much as a nibble.

My next thought was that Indiana fish must be too smart for me. But by the same token, that would mean I'm too dumb for the fish, and that's a theory Im trying to steer clear of.

So now I've about decided to get rid of my accumulation of fancy rods and reels, shiny lures and tempting baits. In their place I'll get an old cane pole, some string, a bent pin and a can of worms.

Maybe I'll get the hang of Hoosier fishing if I start over from scratch.

Around The Clock: Around The World!

By UNITED PRESS

DENVER (UP)—Ethel Merman, star of Broadway and Hollywood musicals, underwent "minor surgery" today at St. Luke's Hospital here.

Doctors would not disclose the nature of the operation but said the star probably would be allowed to return to her Denver home Sunday if complications did not occur.

Continental Airlines President Robert F. Six, Miss Merman's husband, accompanied her when she entered the hospital Thursday.

HAVANA, Cuba (UP) — Former President Carlos Prio Socarras said on his return from self-imposed exile Thursday night that he is willing to meet with President Fulgencio Batista in an attempt to bring peace to Cuba.

Prio said he is not interested in politics personally but only in finding a solution to Cuba's political problems.

The former president arrived from Miami, Fla. Thursday after more than three years in exile. He was deposed March 10, 1952, by an army coup d'etat headed by Batista, who later was proclaimed president.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (UP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, left with 300 Catholic pilgrims for New York Thursday night aboard the liner S.S. Brazil.

The Americans stopped at this island off Ecuador briefly Thursday on their way home from South America where they attended several religious meetings, including the International Eucharistic Congress at Rio De Janeiro.

TOKYO (UP) — Factory worker Sadao Sato and his bride of three days threw themselves to their death from a moving train southwest of Tokyo Thursday night.

Police said they found a note in Sato's pocket which said he loved his wife's sister.

TOKYO (UP) — A rolling earthquake originating in the Pacific Ocean shook northern Japan on a 200-mile front today.

The central meteorological observatory said the temblor shook Mito 100 miles northwest of Tkyo with a "rather strong" shock, and was felt along the coast from Tokyo to Fukushima. There were no reports of injuries.

BERMUDA (UP) — U.S. Navy rescue boats went to the aid of the British freighter "Wytchwood" today after the vessel became lodged on some rocks 10 miles off Bermuda. The freighter hooked on to the rocks Thursday and began to leak. No explanation for the accident was disclosed.

HARLINGEN, Holland (UP) — Gold fever struck this North Sea harbor today after word spread that a tavern owner who was killed in World War II had buried a box filled with gold coins near his house. Town residents began digging with all available implements.

MOSCOW (UP) — Russia's new "sweetness and light' attitude scheduled to leave for abroad in a few days.

The groups, one from Moscow and the other from Leningrad, will visit Poland for 10 days. Other like groups are expected to follow on visits to China, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and other Soviet satellites.

SAIGON, Indochina (UP) — A series of explosions rocked this capital of South Viet Nam today. One of them shook the villa of Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, former inspector general of the army and now in central Viet Nam. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

BOGOTA, Colombia (UP) — Fifteen persons were reported today to have been killed by a landslide which buried the settlement of Jamaica in western Colombia. This brought to 29 the number of fatalities due to heavy rains in that area since Tuesday when 14 persons were drowned in a flash flood of a creek near Medellin.

Sweet Nothings

MILAN (UP)—Adele Ferretti, 32, said today her husband, Adelmo, 36 had been talking in his sleep for years but she always closed her ears to the chatter—until last month.

She said she listened one night and heard her husband talking affectionately and mentioning another woman's name.

She checked up on her husband's nocturnal sweet nothings and haled him into court today asking legal separation for unfaithfulness.

Drinking Cup In Courthouse Relic Room May Be County's Most Valuable Antique

Midst the array of old guns, arrowheads, photographs and other articles on display at the Whitley County Relic Room, is a cup believed to be the most valuable article in the entire collection.

Mrs. Velma Moeller, regent-elect of the Col. Augustin de la Balme chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, conducting tours through the Relic Room, showed the cup. It's made of wood, and the label on it says that it is believed to have been aboard the Mayflower.

Mrs. Moeller said the cup was placed in the smaller room which depicts a room in a pioneer home. She noticed it there this morning and thought it to be of so much value that she placed it in a glass case, where damage would be less likely.

The cup, made of wood, would have been used for drinking water. It has a rather ornate handle, with some carving on it.

The cup was donated by S. J. Peabody and was registered in the relic room record in 1928.

The cup is said to have come from the family of Peregrine White, the first white child born in America after the arrival of the Mayflower at Plymouth Rock. S. J. Peabody's first wife, Miss Hannah B. Smith, was a lineal descendant of Peregrine White.

Mrs. Moeller said that if the cup is authentically from the Mayflower, and there is no reason to doubt that it is, that it is probably among the only, if not the only, article in existance which would date back to that period of American history.

More than 800 persons toured the Relic Room on the third floor of the Counthouse Thursday. In addition to Mrs. Moeller, other hostesses for the tours included Mrs. Lloyd Rumsyre, Mrs. G. H. Lytle, Mrs. Elmer Hendrickson, Miss Marguerite Stultz, Mrs. George Long, Miss Marie Friskney, Mrs. Raymond Messner, Mrs. George McConnell, Mrs. John Keiser, and Mrs. John Adams.

What Our Old Friends And Neighbors Said

The following quotes were assembled Old Settlers Day during the distribution of badges:

"Drove here all the way from Garrett and I want that rosette. I'll be 88 my next birthday." — Ed Runyan.

"Don't care how old I get, just so long as I can fish." — Charles Heinley.

One proud grandparent said, "I fetch my granddaughter every year to get a badge, so when she is as old as I am, she can make a quilt out of them."

"I'll get a rosette next year." — Ben Boyer.

"They say I've got the wrong badge — I want one with a rosette, I am 87 years old." — Mrs. P. A. Edwards. (She sure didn't look a day over 60.)

"Pin a tag on me. You have for five straight years and I hope for five years more." — Mrs. Artie Hively.

"This is my first registering. I'm just 21. — Elsie Oliver.

"Here is a 1910 badge for your permanent collection. I fount it in my mother's bible. Mary Goodrich was my mother." — Mrs. Leonard Foster.

"I'm perking strong at nearly 81." — Mrs. Addie Lansdown.

"S. F. Trembley is my uncle. And my grandfathers were Martin Bechtel, who came to Washington township in 1847 and John S. Tremblev, a pioneer of Richland township in 1942." — Mrs. Clara A. Trembley Shaffer.

Boy Earns $600 A Week; Spending Money Is 50 Cents

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Tiny Tim Hovey, the latest Hollywood "find" in the young actor field, has what my kid would like on one hand but wouldn't stand for on the other.

The 9-year-old blond, with the coy blue eyes makes himself $600 a week. But from his mom and pop, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hovey, he gets 50 cents a week spending money. And there is a string attached to the latter.

"Every time Tim is bad there is a demerit," his mom, Anita Hovey, said, "and that is most of the time. Right now he owes me $5 for the past 10 days. He runs around broke most of the time.'

He's All Boy

Tim is very small for his years. He stretches only 3-feet 10-inches, and weighs only 60 pounds. While his mother was talking about his expense account, he was busy lousing up a press luncheon and going deeper in debt.

Somebody had given him a dart game. Darts with rubber discs. He couldn't resist taking pot shots at reporters and his mom couldn't resist taking things down.

Perhaps it is understandable that a child in his position should become a little spoiled. Tim is all boy, and a likable one, too. Universal - International pictures has billed him as another Jackie Coogan. That may be. At any rate, little Tim is under contract and already has appeared in a picture called "The Private War of Major Benson." Tim was supposed to be the imp in the film, and I guess he was.

A Fine Job

But during the hour and a half I spent with him he was both imp and actor. First he wanted to take the bucket of fruit from the waiter and place it on the table. The waiter wasn't willing, but what can a white-coat do in front of young rank?

Tim did a pretty fine job of spilling pears, bananas and oranges and other things the reporters didn't cottón to anyhow. He even offered to peel a grape or two. He wanted to show me his new tank. It was, he said, a replica of a real big one. He would one day, he added, grow up to drive one. His mother said he would not. And Tim said he would And thereoto too. And there went another nickel off the allowance.

local would set up no benefit fund for idled workers as long as there in an authorized strike.

Indiana law says laid off workers are ineligible for jobless insurance if there is "participation or interest in" a labor dispute which causes their loss of work. The hearing officer must decide whether the law applies to the Studebaker workers.

In any case, it will be a hardship for workers' families. It may be a week after the hearing before a decision is handed down, and then it could be appealed to a three-man review board, and finally to the Indiana Appellate Court.

Even when the decision is final, there would be a time lag of several days until the division computes benefits, writes checks and gets them delivered.

The division said about 5,500 of the 7,000 workers had filed claims. South Bend claims last week were blamed mostly for increasing the state's total from newly-unemployed persons by 3,300.

Lois Dowell Granted Divorce In Circuit Court

Lois E. Dowell was granted a divorce from Phillip E. Dowell in Whitley County circuit court Wednesday.

She was also awarded the custody of a minor child and the court ordered Dowell to pay $15 per week for support. Dowell was granted the right to visit the child at all reasonable and proper times.

The court also approved a property settlement agreement previously entered into by the parties.

Looks Good

GENEVA (UP) — Dr. Frederic De Hoffman, of Los Angeles, a member of the U.S. delegation to the Atoms for Peace conference, said he was very happy to get one of the leather-bound volumes of the proceedings given away by the Russian delegation.

"I can't read Russian," he said, "but it will look good in my library."

Retaliation

CHARLES CITY, Iowa (UP)—Charles City residents could make nine cents today by buying a loaf of bread in one store and selling it in another.

A market cut the cost of a loaf to 10 cents. In retaliation, another market offered to buy bread at 19 cents a loaf.

Yankees' Big Winter Deal Finally Paying Off; Other Clubs' Deals Paying Off, Too

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees' big winter deal finally was paying off today but a couple of little ones made by the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox may prove more important in deciding the American League pennant race.

The Yankees were convinced they had "won" the pennant when they obtained Bob Turley and Don Larsen from Baltimore in that massive, 16-player transaction last Nov. 18 and the big pitchers suddenly have stepped in to save Manager Casey Stengel's buckling staff. They've accounted for five of the Yankees' past six victories and show a combined 17-11 mark for the year.

But a pair of $15,000 deals — Clevelands acquisition of outfielder Hoot Evers and Chicago's of pitcher Connie Johnson — are paying off, too, and could mean the flag for either the Indians or White Sox.

The 34-year-old Evers delivered a three-run homer Thursday to give the Indians a 3-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The blow enabled the Indians to sweep their three-game series with the Tigers and to retain their two percentage point hold on first place.

Wynn Nears 200-Win Circle

Evers' homer, his second for Cleveland in the month he's been with the team, came in the sixth inning off southpaw Billy Hoeft and paved the way for Early Wynn to win his 14th game of the year and 198th of his career. Wynn, who struck out seven and allowed eight hits, needs only two more triumphs to join teammate Bob Feller as the only active 200-game winners. Feller has won 265.

Johnson, a 32-year old righthander recalled from Toronto in the International League little over a month ago, scored his fifth triumph since July 4 as the White Sox crushed the Kansas City Athletics, 14-1. Johnson, the team's biggest winner since he joined the White Sox, has been the key man in making up for the loss of ailing 13-game winner Dick Donovan. His earned run average is a glittering 2.20 and he's pitched four complete games.

Jim Rivera sparked the White Sox' 16-hit attack with two triples and a double, driving in five runs and scoring four himself. Minnie Minoso collected a triple, double and two singles and Walt Dropo homered for Chicago.

Turley, whose failures against first-division teams were a keen disappointment to Manager Casey Stengel, came through with his second straight strong performance in beating the Red Sox, 5-3, Thursday. Turley struck out six batters before giving way to relief pitcher Tommy Byrne in the ninth. It was Turley's 13th win and followed Larsen's fourth victory—a 13-inning, 3-2 verdict over the Red Sox on Wednesday.

Two Thousand Hits For Williams

The sole consolation for the Red Sox was Ted Williams' attainment of the 2,000-hit level with a first-inning single. The Red Sox, however, dropped three games off the pace and Manager Mike Higgins strategy in starting rookie Frank Baumann in the big game was being sharply questioned. The $90,000 bonus pitcher yielded four runs in less than two innings in his major league starting debut.

In the heat of the American League race, brilliant achievements by Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs and Willard Schmidt of the St. Louis Cardinals went almost unnoticed.

Banks tied Vern Stephens' major league mark for shortstop by belting his 39th homer of the season as the Cubs bowed in 11 innings to the Cincinnati Redlegs, 6-5, and Schmidt, a 22-year old rookie brought up on July 12, pitched a one-hitter as the St. Louis Cardinals drubbed the Milwaukee Braves 7-1 and 4-0. As a result, the Brooklyn Dodgers' lead over the Braves soared to 16 games and their "magic number" for pennant clinching dropped to 26.

Ted Williams Gets 2000th Hit Of His Career

NEW YORK (UP)— Ted Williams, instead of celebrating the 2,000th hit of his major league career, shrugged it off instead today and said he was "sorry it had to be such a lousy one."

The hit that enabled Williams to reach the milestone was a bloop single that dropped in centerfield during the first inning of Thursday's game between the Red Sox and Yankees. It was hit off Bob Turley.

"I was looking forward to getting it but I was hoping that number 2,000 would be a lot better one than that," added the curly-haired 36-year old Boston slugger.

"The double I got in the fifth inning was a lot more like it," he said. "I hit that ball a lot better."

Williams' 2,001st hit was a solid smash that bounced into the right field stands for a ground-rule double but the hit before that put him in a class with Stan Musial of the Cardinals, Enos Slaughter of the Athletics and Mickey Vernon of the Senators as the only men active in the majors who have made 2,000 or more hits. Only 96 players, including Williams, have collected that many hits in major league history.

Track Stars Clash In Attempt To Smash Landy's Record

LONDON (UP)— Five British and Hungarian track stars capable of running the mile under four minutes— including two who already have done it— clash today in a mass attempt to smash John Landy's 3:58 record for the mile.

Red-haired, cigar-smoking Chris Chataway of England and surprising Laszlo Tabori of Hungary were the already-proven four-minute milers entered in the big event on the first day of a long-awaited dual meet between stars of the two nations.

But Sandor Iharos and Istavan Ken Wood of England also are rated capable of bettering the four-minute mark that stood as a barrier to the world's runners for so many years until Britain's Roger Bannister smashed through it last year. Bannister, now retired, is not entered in this meet.

Iharos, 22-year-old Hungarian army lieutenant who has cracked three worlds records this year, was the hot favorite to win the big race. He proved his good form in his last start when he smashed the record for the 1,500 meter run, the so-called "Metric Mile," by clocking 3:40.8 at Helsinki, Finland July 28. The "Metric Mile" record, like the 3:58 standard for the mile, had been held by Landy of Australia.

In addition, Iharos set world records this year of 7:55.6 for 3,000 meters and 8:33.4 for two miles.

Syngman Rhee Offers Advice And Discusses Reds

By SYNGMAN RHEE
Written For United Press

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — Living happily is not important in this world of ours. What counts is to live constructively, to stand for the right, and never surrender principles to expediency.

Good health, mentally and physically, is the secret of anyone's productive energy and long life. I am fortunate in having a good wife who looks after my health so carefully that I have to give it very little thought myself.

The idea of Greek tragedy that the struggle is more important than the victory contains a great deal of truth. I do not agree with the ancient Greeks that man cannot triumph over his baser side, but I do believe wholeheartedly that there will be no victory unless he makes the struggle.

That is the problem we are facing in the world today. There are those who say the battle is not worth while, that it is better to put aside our ideals and settle for survival—even though it may be in chains. I cannot agree.

If we fight Communism with all that we have, we can defeat it and win through the just peace and plenty that we all want so much.

But even if we could not, I should prefer oblivion in the struggle to the sacrifice of everything that we have gained in the thousands of years of our slow and painful climb out of barbarism.

The happy life is the dedicated life, provided that a man's conscience approves that to which he is dedicated. The Communists are not happy and can never be, because they know in their hearts that they are following a false and empty creed. But the man who fights for freedom and democracy is happy, because he knows that he has given himself to a righteous cause that is much greater than he is.

My advice to aspiring young politicians and government officials is to study the great moral truths of life and try to live by them.

The world is full of shrewd leaders who can win votes. But it is woefully short of those who never compromise with the right, who would sooner die than violate their trust, and who always put the interests of state and people above their own ambitions.

Grid Coach Barnum To Issue Equipment On Monday Morning

Columbia City high school football coach, Leonard Barnum, issued a reminder this morning to all prospective members of the 1955 Eagle squad. Coach Barnum announces that physical examination certificate slips are available at Phillips Sporting Goods for all boys wishing to participate in the sport this fall. High school boys should get the slips at Phillips and be examined by their family physician. No boy will be issued equipment until a doctor has certified the boy physically fit to participate.

The issuance of football equipment and practices will begin Monday morning at 9:00. The regular pre-school practices will begin August 15, and two sessions will be held each day, at 9 a.m. and at 6:30 p.m. Coach Barnum states.

All high school boys are invited to report for the first practice session. Coach Barnum is optimistic about the probable tournout on Monday. He anticipates from 55 to 60 boys will be trying out for the Eagle team. He pointed out that this year will be the first that additional students will be coming into the Columbia City Joint high school. Washington Center will begin transferring its high school students into the high school here this fall, and all Washington township boys are included in the invitation to play football.

Coach Barnum also is expecting a large crop of freshmen this fall, since 27 eighth grade boys participated in the spring practices this year. He expects some of thsse boys to help add strength to the Eagle squad this fall.

Babe Zaharias In Good Spirits

GALVESTON, Tex. (UP)—Babe Didrickson Zaharias was in good spirits today, confident she'll get well, but "not thinking' about any more golf tournaments.

The famous woman athlete is in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston suffering from recurrence of a rectal cancer. She spends most of her hours watching television and visiting with her husband, former wrestler George Zaharias.

"Im not thinking about golf right she said, "I'm just worried about getting well."

"She's doing fine and responding to treatments," husband George added.

Marciano-Moore Bout To Be On Air

NEW YORK (UP)— More than 350 radio stations will carry a broadcast of the world heavyweight championship bout between Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore on Sept. 20, the American Broadcasting Company announced today.

There will be no home television of the title fight, although there will be closed-circuit television to theaters throughout the country.

The American Broadcasting Company said a record radio audience was expected for the blow-by-blow account from ringside at Yankee Stadium.

Rocky Says Moore Talks Too Much

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UP) — Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, asked to comment on a statement by challenger Archie Moore that "Rocky has lost his punch," snapped back, "Moore talks too much."

"Moore is having himself some fun, I guess, shooting off his mouth that I have lost my punch,' said Marciano at his training camp here. "I hope some one asks him that same question the day after our fight.'

Manager Al Weill said Marciano is "now in shape" for his Sept. 20 meeting with Moore and therefore will box only enough "to stay keen."

Soviet Army Will Remain In Romania

Until All Foreign Troops Are Out Of Western Europe, Says Romania Red Premier

By A. L. BRADFORD
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)—Romanian Premier Gheorge Gheorghiu-Dej said in an exclusive United Press interview that "the necessity of the presence of Soviet troops in Romania would be removed" when troops of the foreign powers are withdrawn from Western Europe.

"Important changes" have occurred since Russia originally promised to withdraw Soviet troops fro mRomania at the same time as she withdrew Soviet troops from Austria, Gheorgiu-Dej said.

His telegraphic response to United Press questions cabled to Bucharest did not say flatly that Russia intends to back out of its Yalta promise to withdrew its troops from Romania and Hungary after the Austrian occupation ends.

Situation Has "Changed"

But he said the situation in Western Europe had "changed" with the formation of Western military alliances—alliances that have been followed by the Communist military groupings under the Warsaw pact.

On July 31, widespread reports were published that the Soviet Union intended to honor the agreements and withdraw troops from Hungary and Romania by Oct. 1—the deadline Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov set for getting all Soviet troops out of Austria.

United Press on July 31 asked the Romanian premier directly for an authoritative answer to these "Mr. Bradford: reports. The reply said textually:

"As it is known, the Soviet troops are on the territory of Romania according to the peace treaty, in order to ensure the security of communications of Soviet troops in Austria.

"After the conclusion of the treaty with Austria it is necessary, under the present conditions, to take into account the fact that during the last period important changes have occurred in the European situation.

Appropriate Measures Taken

"In the West, military groupings, numerous foreign military bases have been created, and the Paris treaties that provide for the remilitarization of Western Germany and for its inclusion in the military groupings of the Western powers have been ratified.

"It is as a consequence of this fact, as it is known, that the Warsaw treaty was concluded, according to which appropriate measures have been taken to ensure the security of the European democratic states, among them Romania.

"Of course, if the foreign troops of the Western states were withdrawn from the countries of Western Europe within the limits of their national boundaries, and the military groupings created in the West were liquidated, the situation in Europe would change, and the necessity of the Warsaw Treaty would be removed along with the necessity of those measures ensuring security that are provided by this treaty.

"In this case, it is obvious that the necessity of the presence of Soviet troops in Romania would be removed too, and these troops would be withdrawn from Romania."

Airmen

Maj. William H. Baumer, Lewisburg Pa. Sgt. Howard W. Brown St. Paul, Minn., Capt. John W. Buck, Armathwaite, Tenn. and Airman Steve Kiba Akron Ohio.

Arnold, pilot of the ill-fated B29 shot down over North Korea in January, 1953, was the first man off the first plane. He was greeted by his brother, Dr. Robert Arnold of Sunnyvale, Calif., and the latter's pretty wife, Ellen.

Arnold said he expected to leave for Alabama as soon as possible today for a reunion with his family.

"I expect to know my children" he said. "But I hear they've grown a lot since I last saw them."

A few feet behind Arnold was Schmidt, the airman whose wife re-married while he still was in prison.

"I will not discuss anything about the situation with my wife," he said. "I'm only going to be here a few minutes. I will not discuss it."

"Thanks for Everything'

Schmidts wife, Una, did not come to the air base to greet him.

She was waiting at an undisclosed spot to discuss their tangled marital situation.

Schmidt was swamped by hordes of newsreel cameraman, photographers and reporters, and although he refused to discuss his marital status he managed a broad smile and shouted into radio microphones:

"Hello folks, Im glad to be back. Thanks for everything,".

His first cousin, from Alameda, Calif., met Schmidt.

Spannuth Named To State Police Captain

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana State Police Supt. Frank Jessup announced today that Lt. William G. Spannuth, Knightstown, will be promoted Aug. 15 to captain in charge of the departments investigation division.

Spannuth succeeds Maj. John J. Barton, who recently was named executive officer.

One-Week Respite From Heat Wave May End Sunday

By UNITED PRESS

A one-week respite from a long heat wave in Indiana may end Sunday, but the new onslaught probably won't be as severe as the earlier one.

The Weather Bureau said in its five-day outlook today that temperatures will average three to five degrees above normal through next Wednesday.

Normal highs are 85 to 90, and normal lows 64 to 68. That could mean readings up to 95 for the south portion.

However, the rest of this week will remain "fair and pleasant," the forecast said.

A temperature rise was expected throughout the state Sunday with a slight cooling in the north portion Monday.

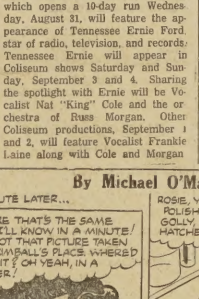
The warmup Sunday will remain through the rest of the period in the south portion.

Little or no precipitation was predicted for the period.

Highs today will be 82 north to 85 central and south. Tonights lows were set at 57 to 65. The mercury will hit 83 north and 87 south Saturday.

Thursday was mostly sunny and pleasant over the entire state. The high was 86 at Evansville and Indianapolis, South Bend and Lafayette were low with83. Thursday night's high was Evansville's 60 and South Bend and Lafayette had 57 for the low mark.

The only rain recorded by weather stations was at Evansville which got one-tenth of an inch during a brief shower.



This year's Indiana State Fair, which opens a 10-day run Wednesday, August 31, will feature the appearance of Tennessee Ernie Ford, star of radio, television, and records. Tennessee Ernie will appear in Coliseum shows Saturday and Sunday, September 3 and 4. Sharing the spotlight with Ernie will be Vocalist Nat "King" Cole and the orchestra of Russ Morgan. Other Coliseum productions, September 1 and 2, will feature Vocalist Frankie Laine along with Cole and Morgan

Fort Wayne Man Killed In Collision

FORT WAYNE (UP)—Elmo C. Waltenberger, 54, Fort Wayne, was killed today in a two-car collision which injured two teen-age boys.

Waltenberger was thrown from his automobile when it collided at the intersection of U.S. 30 and Meyer Rd. with a car driven by Marie Wisley, 46, Fort Wayne. Winston Yates, 13, and Gary Kummer 14 Fort Wayne who were riding in the Wisley car were injured.

Not Fast Enough

ALEXANDRIA, Ind. (UP)—Mrs. Bessie Craig observed her 81st birthday anniversary by going on her first plane ride.

After cruising around at 120 miles an hour, Mrs. Craig had only one complaint.

"It didn't go fast enough," she said.

What Five Men Belong In Senate's Own Hall Of Fame

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—What five men belong in the Senate's own Hall of Fame?

A five-man Senate committee is going to choose the five "outstanding" from among the hundreds no longer living who served in that legislative body since the first Congress in 1789. Nominees may come from among those who wrestled with such varying problems as the Bill of Rights, the Missouri Compromise or atomic energy.

The decision to pick the five was made in a resolution adopted by the Senate in the closing hours before the adjournment of Congress last week. The committee, to be named by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, will make the selections at the rate of one every two years.

This committee will be delving into the biographies of such senatorial giants as Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, John C. Calhoun, Carter Glass, George W. Norris, Robert M. LaFollette Sr., Robert A. Taft, and Arthur H. Vandenberg to make its choices.

The resolution requires the selection of five "outstanding persons . . . but not a living person" from among all who have served in the Senate. Their pictures will be painted in now blank ovals in the center of ornate panels in the Senate reception room.

No standards are set in the resolution so the committee itself must set them.

Those chosen presumably will be picked on the basis of their service in the Senate, although the resolution does not carry that requirement. Some who have served in the Senate, like James Monroe, John Quincy Adams and Cordell Hull, gained their greatest fame in other offices.

The committee also may have to decide what makes a great senator. For example, Taft was known as a great legislative craftsman and tactician. But his name was not attached to legislative monuments like Vandenberg's was tied to the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty or Norris' to the Tennessee Valley Authority and the lame duck amendment to the constitution.

Recent incumbents like these three, of course, are identified with issues which still are controversial.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson is expected to head the selection committee at the outset. Another likely choice is Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), who has a reputation as a student of history.

The resolution authorizes the committee to consult "such historians and other sources, including the general public, as it deems advisable."

Quigley Sizes Up Most Famous Man In His District

By RICHARD E. MOONEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—President Eisenhower's congressman today sized up the most famous man in his district as: President "no great shakes," person "very charming," constituent "a congressman's delight."

The congressman is James M. Quigley, a 37-year-old Democratic lawyer serving his freshman term as representative of Pennsylvania's 19th Congressional District, where President and Mrs. Eisennhower's Gettysburg farm is located.

Quigley said in an interview "some people think it's a disgrace" the President is not represented in Congress by a member of his own party, but Quigley points out he supported Eisenhower programs more than half the time during this, his first year on Capitol Hill.

"Could Do Worse"

Asked whether he would like to see Gettysburg's No. 1 citizen voted out of his job next year, Quigley said "I think we could do worse than re-elect Ike, but I think and hope we could do better."

Quigley said he has been dissatisfied with the President most for "not working at the job as hard as he should." Does Quigley think Mr. Eisenhower spends too much time in Pennsylvania's 19th Congressional District? "That's part of it, and the golf, and his not being briefed on the details and so many aspects of the job.'

The presidency is "the most important job in the world,' Quigley said, "and you can't do it as well as it should be done if you do it on a part-time, casual basis."

He predicted Mr. Eisenhower will not go down in history as a great president because he has not "shown much imagination . . . but maybe that fits the mood of the country."

"The Low Point"

Quigley's claim to the title of "Presidents Congressman" is not undisputed. The President did not vote here when Quigley was elected last November, but in uptown New York City, where another freshman Democrat, Herbert Zelenko, was elected. Since then Mr. Eisenhower has switched his voting residence.

But Quigley stakes his claim on the endorsement Mr. Eisenhower gave his Republican opponent at a political picnic on the farm last fall. That was "the low point" of the campaign, Quigley said, but otherwise the President has been "no trouble at all as a constituent."

When Quigley was introduced to the President at the White House last sring, Mr. Eisenhower said "I'd better get to know this fellow real well, because maybe some day I'll want to appoint him as postmaster." Thats another basis of Quigley's title claim.

As an individual, Quigley says, "his instincts are the best; he doesn't intend harm or evil to anyone."

Hurricane Connie Hurls Herself Against North Carolina Coast, Sends Thousands From Homes

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (UP)—Hurricane Connie hurled itself against the North Carolina coast today, sending thousands from their homes to escape flood waters, and headed north toward Washington and the heavily populated eastern seaboard.

Weathermen predicted the hurricane's 100-mile-an-hour winds land, but New England was alerted for the big blow.

A massive storm front preceding the hurricane dumped heavy rain on New York City today causing the death of at least one person. Rushing waters blocked highways, slowed rail and subway traffic and flooded thousands of homes in the nation's largest city.

Begin Rehabilitation Work

The hurricane struck the coast at Morehead City and at 11:30 a.m. EDT was 68 miles west-southwest of this lonely cape. That put the storm 270 miles south of Washington and it was moving toward the capital at a rate of 12 miles an hour.

The official information was contained in a special weather bulletin issued after a new radar fix on the storm's movements.

Telephone lines were down to Morehead City but a short wave radio report said the town had felt the worst and apparently came out without too much damage.

The amateur radio reports indicated Morehead City residents and those at New Bern to the north of there already were in the midst of rehabilitation work.

New England, removed from the danger zone Thursday when it appeared Connie would bore inland and blunt her power on North Carolina, was returned to the alert.

New Storm Forming

Another tropical storm was rolling north-northwest about 500 miles south-southeast of Bermuda.

Miami hurricane experts said they could see no particular reason why Connie would regenerate power over open water. For two days the storm wallowed aimlessly off the North Carolina coast and lost much of its strength with the effort.

The act included Fussner's "walking" globe up and down a spiral ramp.

The other acts included numbers by Roberta Markfield, an accordionist, who was also accompanist for the show; the chorus-line renditions by the Dorothy Durben Dancers: Louis Tops wtih "Ros-o and Mickey", a crow and monkey act; and Gregory and Cherie, a musical comedy team. Most of these acts had no particularly enduring attraction, although they had interesting moments.

"Whitey" Roberts served as the master of ceremonies.

The bright sun Thursday afternoon made it difficult for the crowd to enjoy the matinee show. The large number of persons who work during the day kept the attendance down in the afternoon for the only matinee performance of the show.

"Old timers" say, however, that Thursday's crowd was nothing compared to the seemingly 30,000 persons who jammed the Courthouse square when the Old Settlers celebration was still a one-day affair.

All of the amusement rides as well as most of the stands appeared to be kept busy. This applies especially to the food stands where often persons stopped just to sit and rest and have coffee or a soft drink. The food stands were packed during the supper hour, since most of the local eating establishments were closed.

The celebration will continue through Saturday with the program to be repeated both evenings. Fair and mild weather was again forecast for Friday. Thus far, the only weather scare came Wednesday evening. It became clouded early in the evening and appeared as though it might rain, but cleared later.

Law Increases Borrowing Authority

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower Thursday signed into law a bill providing a two-billion-dollar increase in the borrowing authority of the Commodity Credit Corp.

The new law increases from 10 to 12 billion dollars the corporation's authority to borrow from the Treasury.

Defense Counsel Says Gallagher Resisted Chinese

During Prison Camp Riot In 1953

NEW YORK (UP) — Defense counsel for Sgt. James C. Gallagher, 23, accused of murdering three American prisoners of war in Korea and collaborating with the Communists, attempted to show today that he resisted the Chinese during a prison camp riot in 1953.

It called as a witness, Cpl. George E. Walker Jr., 24, St. Albans, Vt., who has testified previously as a prosecution witness. He said the riot occurred when the Chinese attempted to remove a mentally ill American soldier from a prison barracks. The soldier was identified as a William Ring.

A second witness was Sgt. Fred J. Prosperi, 22, Bellaire, Ohio, now stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

In cross-examination, the prosecution attempted with both witnesses to point out that Gallagher's asserted resistance to the Chinese occurred at a time when most prisoners knew that repatriation to their homeland was near.

Asked by defense counsel Lt. Col. William B. Walsh whether Gallagher played any part in the riot of about 50 POWs, Prosperi replied, "Yes sir, we were all there."

"What took place?" Walsh asked.

"There was some trouble with Ring when he cracked up there. The Chinese came after him. Every one wanted to keep him in camp. They started shooting and using bayonets around there."

"Wat Sgt. Gallagher one of those who resisted the Chinese at this time?"

"To the best of my knowledge he was."

Walker testified that he was on the outside of the crowd when the shooting started.

"I just heard Gallagher was hit with a bayonet," Walker replied. "I didn't see it myself."

Dale H. Williams, 25, now a gas worker from Marion, Mich., also testified that about three or four hours after the riot he saw "a scratch" on Gallagher's left shoulder.

He said Gallagher told him it was a "bayonet wound."

The court adjourned until Monday because a defense witness failed to appear.

New York Police Dismantle Bomb Found In Roxy

Hope It Will Yield Clue To Maniac Who Plants Bombs

NEW YORK (UP) — Police experts hoped their dismantling of a powerful home-made bomb today will yield a clue to the identity of the maniac who has planted 23 explosives in crowded places in the past 15 years.

The latest bomb manufactured by the mysterious would-be killer was found Thursday night in the slashed cushion of a seat in the huge Roxy Theater where more than 2,000 persons were watching a movie. Also found in the cushion was a bone-handled knife used to make the slash, another trademark of the madman.

Police said a preliminary inspection of the bomb showed it to be made by the same man who has planted 22 other crude devices in downtown theaters, railroad stations and the public library.

Several bombs have been found in recent months and police, completely baffled by the man's method of operation, are conducting a frantic investigation with the hope of finding the maniac before one of his bombs kills smoeone.

Had the bomb found in the Roxy gone off it could have killed a number of people, police said. An expert said several bombs left by the madman could have killed anyone within ten feet of it and injured anyone within about 30 feet of it.

Several of the bombs have exploded and seven persons have been injured. Many of the devices have been duds, however, because of their crude construction. They usually consist of a length of pipe containing a powerful explosive, a cheap watch and a detonator.

The bomb found Thursday night was made of a one-inch pipe about five inches long. Police said it apparently lay unnoticed for most of the day before John Sena, a theater upholsterer, took the seat apart to repair the slash.

Sena took the seat to his basement workshop Thursday morning and left it. He was working on it Thursday night when the bomb fell out. He called police who removed the device in a heavy steel mesh bag and took it in a special bomb-proof truck to Fort Tilden on Long Island.

The bomb was placed in oil in a bunker for inspection today.

Red China Slips Observer In Meeting Through Back Door

By WILLIAM C. SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — Red China slipped an observer into the United Nations Atoms-for-Peace Conference today through the back door.

Tu Shangwang, identified as a Peiping metallurgist, arrived at the atom congress sessions with credentials from the "Communist "World Federation of Scientific Workers."

He was admitted as an observer.

A spokesman for the Communist Chinese consulate here said Tu flew in Thursday from Peiping, by way of Moscow.

He drove to the Palace of Nations headquarters of the conference and today was permitted to sit in on highly technical atomic sessions.

"He is, of course, an observer from the World Federation of Scientific Workers," the consulate spokesman said. "His services were made available by the People's Republic of China and one may assume he will report back.

"You may say he represents the people's government, too."

Veterans of the Euroean headquarters of the United Nations said this was the first time Red China had participated in a U.N. meeting here.

Tu arrive don the fifth day of the atomic conference, in the midst of a complicated technical session.

He heard papers read by scientists of the U.S. atomic center at Oak Ridge, Tenn., who told how atomic waste products are being fr reatment of cancer on a scale that now is entering the big business stage.

Indiana Sweet Corn, Tomatoes Roll To Packing Plants

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana sweet corn and tomato crops have started rolling through packing plants.

The Farm Labor Bulletin issued weekly by the Indiana Employment Security Division, says this week that corn is being canned in the Lafayette and Columbus areas and tomatoes in the Columbus area.

"Most of all crops are in good condition and promise bountiful yields,' the bulletin said. "Early picking of tomatoes has started with trial runs by a few canning plants. Tomato processing expected to increase rapidly between Aug. 15-20."

In the Fort Wayne area, tomato crop prospects are "best in the past few years," the report said.

Lois Strong Gale, Former Resident, Sends OSD Poem

Mrs. Lois Strong Gale, who will be 92 in September has sent an Old Settlers Day poem.

Her address is 93 Buffalo street, Springville, New York.

Mrs. Gale is a sister of the late Ephraim Strong, Mrs. Jennie Hammer and Mrs. Sarah Baker.

RETROSPECT

I may not attend Old Settlers Day
But this I can say:
I have the honor to have known
two of your oldest pioneers, children of whom were in my schoolroom in 1899.
Mrs. Mary Weber, 99 years, and Mrs. Martha Mclain, older, or about the same.
Mrs. Weber came to my class bearing upon her arm her baby lass
Mary, to hear her daughter Ruth recite something that did us all delight.
Mrs. Mclain did not come to see the performance of her son.
Remembrance of these events
May be had by ancients none of whom would be much younger than seventy.
How many are alive today,
Who went to school to me one day?

Backstairs At The Rural White House

By RICHARD E. MOONEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Backstairs at the rural White House:

Gettysburg has welcomed its most famous citizen with honors befitting his high office. President Eisenhower has been made an honorary member of the Barlow Volunteer Fire Company, which serves the township of Cumberland, Pa., in which the President's farm is actually located. Several months ago, the Gettysburg Junior Chamber of Commerce made him an honorary member. First to honor him was the Gettysburg Country Club with an honorary membership. He takes advantage of that honor more than any other.

The Eisenhower farm is on the edge of the Gettysburg battlefield, as the news reports say. But the presidential acres also were the scene of plenty of activity during the fateful days in 1863. The farmland lies about ¼ mile west of where the Confederate army formed its lines. Gettysburg historians say the Eisenhower fields were overrun by Confederate General James Longstreet's troops standing ready behind the battle line from which the charge was launched to the east.

Gettysburg is a retiring place. The visiting minister at the President's church last Sunday - a former Gettysburgian himself—began his sermon with an announcement that he and his wife had decided some years ago to come back to Gettysburg to live when he retired "and it seems we made a good choice."

The President, who is also planning to retire to Gettysburg, chuckled with the rest of the congregation. No hint from either man as to when each would retire.

The tourists skip the Gettysburg battlefield scene when they hear the President is on view. A dozen travelling California schoolboys went to church to see him last Sunday, after they had already been to Sunday school. Outside the packed church several hundred more tourists and 157 citizens waited in th ehot sun for a glimpse of Mr. Eisenhower, and many for a snapshot to be treasured in years to come. A disappointed Southerner's camera jammed at the crucial moment.

"I'm the kind of guy whose car would stall in the middle of a desert" he moaned.

The road from Washington to Gettysburg has several reminders of the presidents who have travelled it. As it passes through Thurmont, Md., there is a "Shangri-La Motel." "Shangri-La" was Franklin D. Roosevelt's name for the presidential mountain retreat. It is now called "Camp David" in honor of President Eisenhower's grandson. There is also an "Ike's Inn."

Hargrave, Rockville Republican Publisher, Begins His 100th Year Of Life Next Monday

ROCKVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Arthur A. Hargrave, dean of Indiana newspaper publishers, begins his 100th year of life next Monday still alert enough to grind out a weekly column for the Rockville Republican.

Hargrave has failed in the past 10 months due to a double jolt of bronchial pneumonia. But though his condition keeps him confined to his home, he hasn't missed his column a single week.

In fact, the Republican never has gone to press since Hargrave became publisher 67 years ago without having something in it written by the owner.

Hargrave always did his writing on his own typewriter at his office until last October. He usually wrote one or more editorials along with the chatty column titled "Clubman's Talk."

Dictates to Daughter

But shortly after he received an honorary degree at Indiana University, Hargrave had an attack of illness. Since then, he has dictated his column to a daughter, Mrs. Ethel Henderson.

"He does his column every week," said Hargrave's son, William B., who actively manages the Republican. "He might be able to use the typewriter except that his sight is imparied by cataracts."

But Hargrave is mentally alert, nevertheless, and recently has devoted his columns to reminiscences of his boyhood and youth in and near Rockville.

Nothing special was planned for his 99th birthday anniversary. A daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Tyler, Birmingham, Ala., came for a visit. The oldest of the five Hargrave children, Palmer Hargrave, San Gabriel, Calif., will not be here. He is 71.

Married a Missionary

Hargrave was graduated from Wabash College in Crawfordsville in 1881. He worked more than a year for the Kansas City Star, then went to Persia to take charge of the printing department of a Presbyterian mission. There me met and married Marin Moore, Joliet, Ill., a missionary. Their first child was a year old when the couple returned to the States.

Hargrave bought the Rockville Republican in 1888. He has published it ever since. Although he traveled extensively in all the 48 states, Canada, Mexico and Alaska, Hargrave never failed to meet the Republican's deadline with at least one piece of copy.

His wife died in 1938.

Hargrave is an elder emeritus in the Memorial Presbyterian Church here, a 50-year member of the Masonic Order, a member of Phi Psi social fraternity and the oldest member of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association.

Tells of Boyhood

In his most recent columns, Hargrave has told about his school days in a one-room building in Putnam County, where he once was ordered to cut a cane from a thicket for his schoolmaster - who whittled his old one to bits with a pocket knife.

He also wrote of maple sugar making, butchering and the hardy life of Hoosier farmers in the 1860s and 1870s.

At the end of his July 28 column, Hargrave quoted a Bible passage which perhaps reflects part of his philosophy of life formulated over his 99 years:

"Where envying and strife is, there is confusion and every evil work."

Hoosier Pilots Compile Enviable Safety Record

By ROBERT V. HUDSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Hoosier pilots are compiling an enviable safety record. So far this year, only five persons have been killed in civilian airplane smash-ups in Indiana while the automobile death toll has zipped past the 480 mark.

Of course, there are not as many airplanes as cars. But figures show last year's national average was .07 deaths for every 100,000,000 miles flown by all civilian aircraft in the United States and U.S. aircraft in other countries.

Richard Cunningham, director of the Indiana Aeronautics Commission, said Hoosierland's air safety record is nearly the same.

He pointed to the automobile fatality record. Last year 6.2 persons were killed for every 100,000,000 miles traveled in Indiana. The figure was 6.5 nationally.

Pilot Error Blamed

No one knows how many vehicle crashes there have been this year. There certainly have been far more than 4, the number of plane crashes. Most of the 4 were non-aircarrier, single-engine planes, Cunningham said.

In three of these crashes five persons were killed. In the other 46 crashes, five persons were injued seriously and 115 were slightly injured or escaped unhurt.

What caused these accidents? It wasn't speeding and it wasn't drunken piloting. In fact, Cunningham cannot remember the last time a pilot was prosecuted for drunken flying.

However, basically the causes of the plane crashes were like the causes of auto crashes—pilot error.

Cunningham estimated 35 of 36 crashes are caused by pilot error. The remaining one is blamed on equipment failure.

One of the most common pilot errors is failure to recognize a stall or its approach, Cunningham said.

Crashes Below 1954

Another kind of pilot error is blamed for the big increase in crashes during the spring and late fall. In the spring the pilot may be flying after a long winter layoff on the ground. He's rusty, and if he doesn't get a refresher course his plane is liable to end up with nose down.

During both seasons, the changing weather causes pilot error if the man at the controls hasn't adapted from one kind of weather to the other.

An even brighter note in Hoosier pilots' records is that plane crashes this year are eight behind the number at the same time in 1954. There was a total of 70 plane crashes in the state last year, the second best record in the state's recent aviation history.

There were six fatal accidents in which 10 persons were killed, twice as many as this year, at this time last year.

Cunningham credits an accelerated safety program for the reduction.

Like the old song "Everybody talks about heaven ain't goin' there', Indiana Traffic Safety Foundation warns, "Everybody takes a vacatiton ain't comin' back". To be one who does come back well and happy remember to Slow Down and Live.

LED TWO LIVES—The amazing "double life" of the late Kern D. Metzger, a retired Air Force major general and prominent Cleveland businessman, was disclosed when his will was admitted to probate in Cleveland, O. Metzger left two-thirds of his estimated $1,000,000 estate to the 16-year-old daughter of his common law wife. The daughter, Marcia Metzger, lives in Cincinnati. Metzger's legal wife, Mrs. Helen MacNaught Metzger, 53, who lives in suburban Cleveland and who inherited one-third of the estate, refused comment.

Russia Will Cut Armed Forces Strength Soon By 640,000 Men

STORMY WEATHER—The path of love isn't smooth for Cpl. Stephen Doerner Jr., 21, of Chicago, and his 16-year-old bride, the former Barbara Jean Sterling of suburban Winnetka. The young couple started to correspond after Doerner's father, a TV repairman working in Barbara's home, said his son in Verdun, France, was lonely and might like to hear from a girl like Barbara. Back in the states on furlough some 30 letters later, they eloped to Shawneetown, Ill. Now the girl's wealthy widowed mother, Mrs. Louis Sterling, is seeking to have the marriage annuled and says she will charge Doerner with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Barbara says she will have no part of an annulment.

Connie Flings Heavy Winds, Rains Over 7 States And Takes Heavy Toll

By DICK WEST
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The dying hurricane Connie flung heavy winds and rains over seven states today, leaving a heavy toll of dead and damage in its wake.

At least 30 deaths were balmed on the big storm as it slowed to gale force in its erratic movement northward inside the coast.

In the single biggest disaster, the howler smashed an ancient three-masted schooner in Chesapeake Bay leaving at least 10 persons drowned and 4 missing.

Flash floods, power failures, fallen trees, and other damage were reported in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey Pennsylvania New York and Connecticut.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's warning center here ordered all hurricane signals hauled down, but warned of heavy rains in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

In a 9 a.m. EDT bulletin, the bureau reported the center of the storm was a short distance west of Baltimore, Md., and moving north northwest at 15 to 20 miles an hour.

Big Blow Weakens

It said it has "continued to weaken" with winds northeast of the center mostly 30 to 40 miles an hour. It predicted continued heavy rain as far as 250 miles northwest, north and northeast of the center. It warned of probable floods in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York state.

Meanwhile, a new big wind—hurricane Diane — moved toward the island of Bermuda 700 miles east of the mainland.

The deluge had dumped nearly 9 inches of rain on New York City and the Weather Bureau said there is no sign of a letup. It was the city's heaviest downpour since 1926. At least 10 deaths were reported in the New York metropolitan area, including a man electrocuted and a woman either drowned or electrocuted in flooded cellars.

Richmond, Va., got 9½ inches of rain up to midnight, the heaviest

Girl Scouts Need More Leaders For 1955-56 Work

Twelve Leaders Secured; To Get Council Training

More leaders are needed to guide Whitley County Girl Scouts in 1955-56.

Mrs. Robert Estlick, chairman of the troop committee, said that 12 persons have already been accepted for scout leader positions.

New leaders for the coming year include Mrs. Lowell Shearer, Mrs. Paul Fesler, Mrs. Arlene Watson, Mrs. Grover Bosworth, Mrs. Earl Byron Beaber, Mrs. Joe Roe, Mrs. Allen Rush, Mrs. James Rohrbach, Mrs. Sherman Kneller and Mrs. Don Miller.

These leaders will get special scouting training from the area council instructors.

There will be more than 200 members in Whitley County Girl Scout troops this year, with the number of intermediate scout troops increased to 10. There will also be 9 brownie scout troops and two senior scout trps.

Other persons interested in applying for the scout leader positions should notify Mrs. Barry Brennan, Phone 943-J, or Mrs. Ferman Orcutt, Phone 729-L.

Local Boosters Will Again Provide 4-H Fair Awards

Two local businesses and one city service club has announced they will lend support to the 1955 Whitley County 4-H Fair by offering awards for the encouragement of the youthful members.

Squires Jewelry Store will again present two loving cups, one for the best 4-H girls' club display and one for the best girls' marching club in the parade. O. P. M. Squires states that the cups to be awarded are now on display in the jewelry store window.

Blumenthals will present prizes to the top winners of the girls' judging, demonstration, and dress revue contests. Blumenthals has provided these awards for the past several years.

The Columbia City Rotary Club will again donate $40 to the 4-H association to be given deserving exhibitors as "Care and Keep Awards". The committees in charge of the barns will select of their animals and keep their the 4-H'ers who take the best care exhibiting space the most tidy.

The 31st annual 4-H fair for this county will be staged August 25-26-27.

Ed Smith Awarded DePauw Scholarship

Gaylen Edward Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Smith, R 5, Columbia City, and a 1955 graduate of Jefferson Center high school has received a freshman scholarship to DePauw University at Greencastle. He will enroll this September.

The scholarship is valued at $250 a year, to be applied to the tuition fee.

Ed is widely known in this county among basketball fans as Jefferson Center's outstanding center during the past three seasons. Last season he led the Tigers to the county net championship. He also competed in track for two years.

This summer Ed is employed by the Don Reed Construction Company of South Whitley.

The scholarship was awarded on the basis of his athletic record, his scholarship record, and the recommendation of his high school principal.

Tri Lakes Garden Club Announces Flower Show For Sunday Afternoon, August 21

"Blossoms and Books" will form the theme for the annual flower show of the Tri Lakes Garden club to be held Sunday, August 21, in the spacious dining room of the American Legion Home.

The show will be open at 2 o'clock and close at 6 o'clock. Exhibits will be received between 8:30 and 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Exhibits coming after that time will not be judged.

Each member of the club has undertaken this year to grow a flower not easy to grow here and the efforts of the club members will be manifest in the exhibits.

Mrs. Clyde M. Shafer, Fort Wayne, a charter member of the club, is general chairman of the 1955 show. Pink petunias, Columbia City's chosen flower, marks the drawing with three volumes of Garden Guide on the program cover to depict the theme for the show which is open to the general public.

The committees serving under Mrs. Shafer are Mrs. L. Foreman, schedule; Mrs. Howard Egloff, Mrs. J. R. Roth and Mrs. Walter DeHaven, entries; Mrs. Paul Vance and Mrs. Lloyd White, classification; Mrs. Louis Schalk, publicity. Mrs. A. A. Berry, Mrs. J. E. Perkins and Mrs. J. J. Jenkinson, hospitality; Mrs Ernest Buenting, Mrs. Raymond Langohr and Mrs. A. Schott, staging; Mrs. L. Perry, awards; Mrs. C. Vail and Mrs. Charles Houck, judges. Mrs. Richard Smith, exhibition and conservation; Mrs. Robert Pontzius, Mrs. A. D. Zuber and Mrs. H. W. Schabacker, properties.

RULES

1. Standard judging will be used.

Rhee Postpones Deadline For Several Days

For Red Truce Inspectors To Leave

By ROBERT BROWN
United Press Staff Correspondent

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — South Korean demonstrators were beaten back in three new attempts to storm U.S. compounds today. A short time later President Syngman Rhee postponed the midnight deadline for the ouster of neutral nations truce supervisors from this country.

Two hours before the midnight (9:30 a.m. CST) mark set by the Republic of Korea government for the Communist truce inspectors to leave, Rhee announced that he was postponing the deadline "for several more days."

The first attack was made by a mob of 200 to 300 Koreans who attempted to rush the gates of a san. They were stopped by tear U.S. Air Force compound at Kungas.

Later, government - inspired demonstrators struck twice at American-held Wolmi island in Inchon harbor.

Korean war veterans told newsmen that one of their number was shot and wounded by an American guard during one of the assaults on Wolmi-Do. But a U.S. Army officer on the island said, "I don't believe the report."

Rhee Postpones Deadline

Rhee, in a special statement handed to newsmen, urged South Korean citizens "not to go too far (but) endeavor to make them (the truce inspectors) leave promptly by arousing public opinion."

"According to foreign news dispatches," Rhee's statement said, "the assistant U.S. secretary of state, (Walter) Robertson, met with our ambassador and gave a message to me and then stated that the U.S. State Department will study means to solve this problem promptly and peacefully."

Rhee added that, as a result, "We should not allow the situation to lead to a conflict."

"Our patriotic people should be patient and put off the deadline several more days to achieve their objectives," he said.

Diane Picks Up Top Winds Of 115 Miles An Hour

Approaches Hastily Alerted Bermuda

MIAMI (UP) — Hurricane Diane picked up top winds of 115 miles per hour in the Atlantic today and approached the hastily alerted resort island of Bermuda 700 miles east of the U. S. coast.

Kindley Air Force Base, a key hurricane-tracking center for the Atlantic, ordered evacuations of all non-essential aircraft.

Weather officials advised authorities in the British resort island of 40,000 population to post warnings of possible gales by noon and hurricane-force winds by late Sunday or early Monday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Miami estimated the new hurricane, fourth tropical storm of the year, was centered 1,200 miles east of Palm Beach, Fla., at midnight EDT.

The still-young whirler was moving in a north-northeasterly direction about six to seven miles per hour an advisory said.

The Weather Bureau warned that Diane, already sweeping the Atlantic with gales 250 miles from the center to the northeast and 130 miles to the southwest, would grow still further in size and intensity.

Ships in the hurricanes path were warned to use caution.

Bermuda was alerted to batten down for a possible bad blow.

The fabulous "honeymoon" island, famed for its scenic spots and other tourist attractions, also is a "crossroads" for hurricanes. Almost all off-shore Atlantic hurricanes take a swipe at the island.

The rocky, but verdant island is a tiny bit of land stretching over 19 square miles, teeming the year around with tourists.

About 1,200 Watch Legion Fireworks Display Last Night

An enthusiastic crowd of about 1,200 persons watched American Legion Post 98's fireworks display Friday night at DeVol Field.

The display, which was rained out when scheduled for the 4th of July, got underway promptly at 9 p.m. and was over by 9:25. Following a number of opening bursts of rockets, the crowd was treated to a lighted "welcome" sign, and then the noise was on.

The audience of both adults and children "oh'd and ah'd' as they viewed one colorful and bright flash and listened to one loud retort after another until the display was over.

Other illustrative displays included a sign showing a bugling soldier with the slogan "Lest We Forget,' and the American flag.

The climax consisted of a display along the entire north end of the field resembling a number of spouting fountains. The entire scene was emphasized with the usual number of "bangs."

The crowd on hand, reduced by the attraction of the Old Settlers' festivities, filled the grandstand and a number of persons sat in parked cars near the field to watch the display.

Mrs. Overdeer Has Amateur Exhibit

An art exhibit showing paintings by Mrs. William (Trudy) Overdeer has been arranged in the Meyers and Stickler drugstore window.

Included in the display are animal and rural scenes.

Judd Named 'Airman Of Month'

S—Sgt. David Judd, son of Mrs. Edith I. Judd, of R 5, was recently named Airman of the Month of the 6932nd Communications Security Squadron.

Judd is serving with the Air Force in Tokyo, Japan, and recently was promoted in rank, also. He will serve in Japan for another year.

Mrs. Judd was notified of her son's award through a letter from Major Jose Blondet of the Air Force.

Rhee Says ROK No Longer Bound By Armistice

Determined To Recover Territory

By EARNEST HOBERECHT
United Press Staff Correspondent

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—President Syngman Rhee said today the Republic of Korea no longer feels bound by the armistice terms and that he is determined to recover South Korean territory south of the 38th Parrallel now held by the Communists.

The 80-year-old Korean leader gave his blessing to the nation-wide demonstrations against Communist members of truce inspection teams and said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave him a solemn promise a year ago to get them out of South Korea.

Rhee, in an exclusive interview, warned that the Communists again were planning to attack South Korea and told the United States not to repeat "the mistake it made in 1950 of believing the Communists are not going to attack us." He told of the Reds illegal military buildup in the north.

The wrinkled but spry old man, appearing in excellent health, met this correspondent in the living room of his house where he made a number of major points. He drove home these points by waving his arms and by pounding the arms of his chair.

Stresses Eight Points

In the hour-long interview Rhee declared:

1. "The Republic of Korea no longer feels bound by the terms of the armistice agreement. We demand the armistice agreement be abolishd. We promised to support it for 90 days. That was two years ago. We have no obligation now. The Reds have violated the armistice.

2. Dulles told him during his

ATLANTIC FLEET (FHTNC) — Enroute to Europe on the summer's second Midshipman training cruise, Midshipman John J. Schang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blain B. Schang of R 6, Columbia City, attaches a signal flag used in intership communication abroad the destroyer USS Allen M. Sumner.

He is a senior at Northwestern University.

More than 1,700 Naval ROTC midshipmen left Norfolk, Va., July 11, aboard 14 ships of the Atlantic Fleet for a two-month cruise. They are undergoing practical training in shipboard life and duties.

While in Europe the training squadron has scheduled stops at Edinburgh, Scotland; Copenhagen, Denmark, and Stockholm Sweden.

Gunnery practice at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, will climax the cruise before the midshipmen disembark at Norfolk September 2.

Annual State Fire School To Meet At Purdue

Educational Meet On September 13-16

LAFAYETTE, — The 22nd annual Indiana Fire School will be held at Purdue University September 13-16. Talks on new developments in fire fighting and demonstrations on firemanship are designed for volunteer, paid, and industrial firemen, fire chiefs, officers, city officials, and others interested in fire prevention and control.

Arnold H. Meister, state fire marshal; H. J. Elbourn, manager, Indiana Rating Bureau; and Dr. George E. Davis, director, Division of Adult Education, Purdue, are members of the executive committee in charge of the school. Francis Hartman, director of fire service training in Purdue's Public Safety Institute, is general chairman.

Talks will include training for service, major disasters, problems of hotel fires, protecting grain elevators, grading of municipal fire protection and its relation to fire insurance, laws affecting firemen, industrial fire protection, new problems for fire fighters, and the fireman's responsibility in arson.

Speakers for these sessions are Prof. Shelby Gallien, director, Public Safety Institute; Robert F. Hamm, Indiana Rating Bureau; Chief John C. Klinck, Memphis, Tenn.; Emmett T. Cox, Western Actuarial Bureau, Chicago; Arnold Phillips, assistant fire chief, Indianapolis; R. G. MacDaniel, Grain Dealers Mutual Insurance Company, Indianapolis; Harry Corcoran, Iowa Inspection Bureau, Des Moines; Fred Dilger, assistant fire chief, Indianapolis; Harrold L. Schuman, Indiana Manufacturers Association, Indianapolis; and Meister.

The firemanship classes will cover rescue, under the direction of Capt. Kenneth Tubbs, South Bend; inspection in industry, Cox; officer's training, Hamm; ladders and tools, Ralph Ellenwood, Fort Wayne fire department; hose layouts, William E. Weaver, Evansville fire department; fire extinguishers, Dan Welch, of the state fire marshal's office; fire streams, Herbert Dwyer, battalion chief, Indianapolis; and breathing apparatus, Capt. Francis Commons, Indianapolis fire department.

Antique Exhibit At Smart Shop Honors Settlers

An exhibit of coverlet, glassware, old jewelry and china belonging to Mrs. Boyd Parks has been arranged in honor of the Old Settlers Day week in the Smart Shop window.

Forming the background are two quilts made by Mrs. Addie Hart, 87, the mother of Mrs. Parks. Mrs. Hart lives with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Parks, Squawbuck road. The quilts were made last year. One is in the Lone Star pattern in rainbow shaded prints. The other has small blue stars on white. Both quilts have intricate quilting.

A blue and white coverlet marked the corner "Peace and Plenty, 1846 came from the Hart family Huntington county.

A sunflower pattern china footed compote has an orchid lining and raised flowers in green, blue, pink and yellow on the outside.

An unusual clock which forms the support for a shelf above has a wooden pendulum and brass works. Mrs. Parks reported that the clock is in use all the time.

A candidate ribbon for William Henry Harrison, hero of Tippecanoe, dated September 10, 1813 is matted and in a small frame.

A Bible dated 1815 which belonged to a great aunt of Mrs. Hart is included in the display. Handmade jewelry for pierced ears, china and glass also forms part of the exhibit.

Has X-Rays Thursday

Mrs. Edith Bodley, 207 South Elm street was taken to the Whitley County Hospital on Thursday for x-ray of her left leg and ankle. She later was taken back to her home by the J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance.

Harold VanVoorst, of near this city, was taken from the Whitley County Memorial Hospital to the Parkview Memorial Hospital, Fort Wayne in the Smith and Sons Ambulance Thursday afternoon. He entered the hospital as a medical patient and is under the care of a specialist. His room number is 246.

CIO - UAW And American Motors Recess Talks

Until September 1; Chrysler Council Orders Strike Vote

DETROIT (UP) — CIO United Auto Workers recessed negotiations with American Motors Corp. until Sept. 1 today but the union's national council called for a strike vote of Chrysler employes.

Failure to gain contracts from the two companies left the status of almost 165,000 members of the union in doubt.

UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock announced after an all-night, 16-hour bargaining session broke up at 3 a.m. EST that negotiations had been recessed at the union's request to Aug. 30 and the AMC contract extended by mutual consent until Sept. 1.

"Because of the inability of the parties to reach an agreement before the vacation period at most plants . . . the union has set a strike deadline of midnight, Sept. 1," he said. "This will give the parties three days to negotiate after the vacation ends."

"If we called a strike at this time many members who are beginning vacations this week end would feel obligated to join picket lines," he added. Most AMC workers begin their vacations this week end when the company starts changeover operations.

The AMC contract covering some 24,000 workers at plants in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Mich., Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., and El Segundo, Calif., was originally set to expire at midnight Friday night.

A company spokesman said negotiating teams still were "far apart" on four major economic issues—wages, pensions, insurance and holidays — and also were at odds over local issues at the Grand Rapids and Milwaukee plants.

The 175 - member national Chrysler council ordered a strike vote of 139,000 workers after rejecting what Chrysler called the

First Massive Demobilization Order By Soviet

Since World War II Announced By Tass

MOSCOW (UP) — Russia announced today it will cut its armed forces strength by 640,000 men within four months.

It was the first massive Soviet demobilization order since World War II.

The announcement by Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the move was prompted by recent world developments which show a certain "relaxation of international tension.' It said the demobilization of army and navy personnel is to be achieved by Dec. 15.

Previously the Soviets said they would discharge some 45,000 troops withdrawn from Austrian occupation duty. It was not known if these would be included in the 640,000 announced today.

(Despite the proposed cut, Russia will still have a marked edge over the United States in number of military personnel. Western military experts put the ground strength of Russia and its satellites at 4½ million with another 1½ million in the Communist air forces. The United States has an armed force of just under three million.

WASHINGTON (UP)—American officials today saw little likelihood of any further cuts in U.S. forces in the foreseeable future despite a reported plan to slash Soviet military manpower.

They pointed out that even if the Soviet reduction of 640,000 men by Dec. 15 goes into effect it still would leave Russia by far the worlds leader in overall troop strength.

Most sources here took an attitude of hope on Moscow Radio's report. They said that, if true, it was a good omen for world disarmament. But they cautioned against attaching too great a significance to the move.

Jack Stephensons' Move To Warsaw

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stephenson and infant son moved Wednesday from 315 East Jackson street to R 2, Warsaw. They are living in the new Hersher addition at the south of Warsaw.

The Stephenson property has been sold to Don Reed, South Whitley.

Mr. Stephenson is employed by the Northern Indiana Public Service Company.

World Pays Tribute To Mann, Grand Old Man Of German Literature, Who Died Friday Night

ZURICH, Switzerland (UP)—The world paid tribute today to Thomas Mann, Nobel Prize winning "grand old man of German literature" who died Friday night.

Hundreds of messages poured into the little post office at Kilchberg, the small town on the shores of Lake Zurich where the noted novelist spent the last months of his life before entering the hospital.

Mann's death was attributed to a thrombosis, or blood clot, following a period of general weakness. He was 80 years old.

At his bedside when the end came were his wife Katja, his daughter Erika Mann, and one of his sons.

Mann was stricken during a holiday in the Netherlands last month and was returned to Switzerland on a stretcher. Mrs. Mann said then that her husband felt "quite strong and chipper otherwise."

Dr. William Loeffler, who had been directing the writer's treatment, said the general period of weakness which preceded Mann's death set in Friday morning.

"It was a sudden deterioration," Loeffler explained, "for the patient had recovered rather quickly from his phlebitis. Unfortunately, such things can happen when you are 80 years old."

Until stricken last month, the famous novelist — a naturalized citizen of the United States — led a quiet but active life in his home above Zurich. He wrote daily, read with insatiable desire and walked in his garden every day.

His daughter said her father's funeral will be held at Kilchberg.

Mann was probably the greatest of modern German novelists. He wrote in the tradition of Goethe and Heine. He also was a frank foe of Adolf Hitler and wrote not only in opposition to the Nazi regime.

Mann's fame grew steadily in his German homeland since his novel "Buddenbrooks" was published in 1901 when he was 26 years old. His winning the Nobel Prize in 1929 stimulated world interest in his writings which were translated into many languages.

Among them were "Death in Venice," "Royal Highness," "The Magic Mountain," "Children and Fools," and "Joseph and His Brothers."

For nearly a generation Mann was a prophet of liberty without honor in his own country. But the honors finally came.

In 1949 he was awarded the $3,000 Goethe prize for "Dr. Faustus." And only four days ago, he was given membership in the German cultural order, "Pour Le Merite."

From the early 1930s to the mid 1940s, however, when he took his implacable stand against Nazism and totalitarianism, he was derided by the Nazis, his books were banned, and he was condemned by Hitler as a "degenerate."

Opposition to the Nazis cost Mann his home near Munich, his belongings and his German citizenship. When he left Germany, he became first a citizen of Czechoslovakia and then, when that country went to Hitler, a citizen of the United States.

It Isn't Often A Private Makes Money By Serving Officers

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — It isn't very often that a private in the Army can make money by serving his officers.

But, according to the Pentagon, Pfc. Tadeus Lukjanczyk, now stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., is doing right well.

He is making swagger sticks for the officers—personalized and stylish, he says, since it has been popular for a well-dressed officer to fetch one along at formal functions.

Tadeus is with the 3rd Infantry Division at Benning.

"It brings in better than Army pay," he says, "and besides that it takes up the slack on time when a man does nothing but read whodunits."

Tadeus, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., got into the business of making swagger sticks after he finished basic training.

Are Highly Personal

"It was something to do," he said. "And I saw a market."

The private didn't know much about swagger - sticking, except what he had read. But learned wood-carving in his off time.

"There was more than that to it," he said. "I had to learn something about the decorative metal-in-laying, engraving and special polishing. Those things are highly personal to each officer."

Actually, Private Lukjanczyk, had a head start on other swagger stick makers.

He called upon the knowledge he gained from his father. His dad is a master jeweler, a watch maker and a goldsmith, who learned his trade in Poland.

Duty In India

For his work, the private uses snakewood or cedar for the stick part—ebony and mahogany for the handles. He picks out the wood himself and looks over the sawing to see that the grain is just right and contains no knots that would show up in the finished product.

Incidentally, there is still a small controversy going on among the holders of the swagger sticks.

What was the history?

Some allow that it started with the riding crop.

There is a second school that claims that the British began it all when they would rather carry a stick than lug along heavy weapons while on occupation duty in India. That was in the 19th Century.

The private from Niagara Falls doesn't care how it started so long as the popularity has been revived.

He won't say how much he clips his officers, but he let it out gentle like that the sticks aren't for free.

Weatherfotocast Editor Tells Why Atlantic Coast Can Expect Hurricanes Every Season

Editor's Note: The owner of a private service which prepares newspaper and television stations with maps for United Press newspictures tells in the following story why the Atlantic coast can expect hurricanes every season.

By EDWARD L. A. WAGNER
U.P. Weatherfotocast Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — The big question along the Atlantic coast of the United States right now is "will this area be plagued by hurricanes each coming season, such as has been the experience of the south east coastal areas in past years?"

Jerome Namias, chief of the extended forecast section of the United States Weather Bureau, said there is evidence that the east coast of the United States is likely to be exposed to a rash of hurricane threats in the normal season for these storms for some years to come.

Namias cites Weather Bureau findings which indicated a westward drift of semi-permanent pressure centers over the Atlantic Ocean as being responsible for the expected recurrence of this tendency.

An Enormous Storm

A hurricane would probably be best described as an enormous storm, comparable to a tornado in its intensity and occurring over the ocean, which, when it strikes a coastal area, can wreak extensive havoc, because of its extraordinarily high winds.

It is a well-known fact that the course of hurricanes is considered scientifically almost unpredictable, except for very short periods of time.

There is little mystery about the seasonal recurrence of hurricanes. Such storms are tremendous sources of energy, and this release of power is caused by the condensation of the great amounts of moisture contained in them. The energy released by this condensation is ample to keep a hurricane going while it is over the surface of the ocean. However, once it strikes land, this moisture is no longer available and so the storm loses much of its intensity.

Origin Of Hurricanes Known

Science knows that the hurricanes which plague the east coast of the United States in the summer and early fall usually originate off the coast of Africa or in th eWest Indies. They begin in the belt north of the Equator and usually in a belt where the water temperature is abnormally high.

A famous meteorologist has claimed that a water temperature of about 85 degrees is critical for the formation of this type of storm. When a warm cloud containing moisture forms over such an area, and begins to lose its moisture in the form of rain, there can be a sharp temperature difference established at the surface, and it is this temperature difference that becomes dangerous when it is about 20 degrees.

Hurricanes bear a marked resemblance to tornadoes, the type of severe wind storms which occur over land areas. The difference between the two may, in one respect, be considered one involving the area they affect.Tornadoes normally strike over an area of about 1-4-mile. However, a hurricane is usually 500 miles or more in diameter.

Lack First-Hand Observation

Meteorologists are always alert in tornado or hurricane seasons to note unusual variations in temperature.

The incidence of hurricanes has been linked to the temperature of the ocean. When those temperatures rise to or above a critical point, hurricanes occur more frequently. One of the gaps meteorologists know and deplore is the lack of first-hand observation of these differences over vast ocean areas, about which they must know, in order to make accurate forecasts.

Weather Bureau records show that during August, about 68 per cent of tropical storms originating north of the Equator become hurricanes. In September, this drops to 57 per cent, and by October, only 37 per cent of such storms reach hurricane force. Furthermore, there is always a greater probability of hurricanes recurving out over the Atlantic Ocean away from the United States after mid-September. Most severe hurricanes which have struck the continental United States, particularly along the north Atlantic coast, have occurred in late August or early September.

Nation-Wide Trend, More Fried Eggs

NEW YORK (UP)—A nationwide trend has been spotted that should not go unheralded. If you know a herald who isn't working at the moment, give him this: The nation is trending toward more fried eggs.

What this augurs for the nation's stomachs must be a subject of ominous concern for people who prefer their eggs coddled, boiled, baked, poached, or shirred.

Or people like Jimmy Durante who says "I eats 'em rawr.'

And for the residents of Providence R.I., who, despite the trend prefer their eggs boiled.

The trend - and the steadfast adhering of Providence to boiling—was spotted by the National Geographic Society, a group of learned persons (eggheads) who seem to stretch geography a long way—all over the map, in fact.

The society, in its news bulletin issued from the nations capital, does not say where it got its information on the national fried-egg trend, and Providence's boiled egg bent, and maybe it's best we not inquire.

It offers the following additional egg habits:

1. Half the shoppers in Mansfield, Ohio, Columbus, Ohio, and Wichita Kan. still buy their eggs by the bag rather than the carton.
2. Chicago housewives go for light-yolk eggs; those in surrounding towns go for orange yolks.
3. Bostonians will pay several cents a dozen more for brown-shell eggs; New Yorkers pay more for white shells.
4. Americans ate an average of 414 eggs per person last year—more than ever before and almost half again as many as 40 years ago.
5. Hot out of the nest, an egg has a temperature of 105 degrees. But if you don't put the chill on it "it deteriorates fast."

And as for the trend toward fried eggs, the society merely observes it and offers no explanation. Maybe it's just the pendulum swinging.

Avoid Bleaches On Crease Resistant Finished Garments

LAFAYETTE, — Fabrics with crease-resistant finishes - designed to minimize wrinkling - have been so popular this summer because they continue to look fresh and require little or no pressing between wearings. Give such fabrics proper care in laundering and they will continue to look fresh.

Follow the instructions for the care of the fabric given on the label. If no label was on the fabric at the time you purchased it, Purdue University home economists recommend that you wash such fabrics in warm - not hot - water because hot water will remove some of the finish after several washings.

In the past crease-resistant finishes were used mostly on colored fabrics and of course there were no problems because bleaches were not used. Now crease-resistant finishes are being applied to white blouses. Home economists caution you not to use chlorine bleaches on white garments with this kind of finish because such bleaches may cause yellowing or scorched looking spots to appear on the garment.

Nixon To Speak At GOP Rally In Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Vice President Richard M. Nixon will speak here Sept. 17 at a Republican party fund-raising banquet, GOP state headquarters announced today.

Nixon will come from Wabash, Ind., where he is scheduled to attend the National Plowing Contest.

The banquet tickets will sell for $100 each, according to Thomas Mahaffey, Jr., GOP state treasurer, who announced he received word this morning that Nixon had accepted an invitation to speak.

The proceeds will be used to help finance the Indiana municipal election campaign this fall and for other campaign purposes in 1956.

It will be the first $100-a-plate GOP rally here since 1953, when Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson was the speaker.

Notice To Taxpayers Of Additional Appropriation

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of Etna-Troy Township, Whitley County, Indiana, that the proper legal officers of said municipality, at their regular meeting place, at 8:00 P.M. on August 30, 1955, will consider the following additional appropriations which said officers consider necessary to meet the emergency existing at this time:

Township Fund:
Trustee Pay	$122.00
Clerk Pay	38.00
Tuition Fund:
Pay of Teachers	1400.00
Pay of Transfers	2150.00
Special School:
Janitor Service	80.00
Janitor Supplies	200.00
Transportation	650.00

Taxpayers appearing at such meeting shall have a right to be heard thereof. The additional appropriation as finally made will be automatically referred to the State Board of Tax Commissioners, which Board will hold a further hearing within fifteen days at the office of the County Auditor of Whitley County, Indiana, or at such other place as may be determined. At such hearing interested taxpayers may be heard. Those interested may inquire of the County Auditor the time and place of the meeting.

Milk-Fruit Drinks Provide Refreshing Tasty Diet Aids

LAFAYETTE, — Milk, combined with fruits, provides appetizing, refreshing, nutritious drinks suitable to serve at summer club meetings and to the children for a mid-afternoon "pick-up."

Miss Lois Oberhelman, extension foods and nutrition specialist at Purdue University, points out that serving these cooling drinks is an excellent way of getting more milk and fruit juices into the diet.

Following are recipes that she gives for some cooling dummer drinks:

Pineapple milk - combine 4 cups milk, 1 cup crushed canned pineapple, sugar to taste and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Beat about one minute. Pour into tall glasses.

Variation of pineapple milk - omit lemon juice and make a combination of ½ cup orange juice and ½ cup pineapple juice. Beat about one minute into the 4 cups milk and sugar to taste.

Banana milk - combine 4 cups milk, 4 ripe bananas, sugar to taste and beat about one minute. Pour into tall glasses.

Orange eggnog - 6 egg yolks, baten, 1½ cups orange juice, ¼ cup sugar, 6 egg whites, beaten, 3 to 4 cups milk, grated orange rind. Combine egg yolks, orange juice and 1 teaspoon sugar. Beat. Combine egg whites and remaining sugar and beat. Fold most of egg whites into egg yolk mixture. Pour into tall glasses. Top with remaining white and sprinkle with grated orange rind.

If you are a calorie-dodger, use nonfat dry milk and add a non-calorie sweetener to taste. This substitution will give you the same nutritional value in terms of proteins, vitamins, and minerals, but will cut the number of calories to less than half of those in the above recipes.

You may serve these beverages with or without a saltine cracker (20 to 25 calories), or a simple cookie (100 calories), for summer club meeting refreshments.

James Elliotts Quietly Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Elloitt, 348 North Line street quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary August 10. Members of their family and a few close friends have called during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott returned to Columbia City in May, 1946 with Mr. Elliott's retirement as general accountant for the Chicago and Eastern railroad where he had been employed for 40 years.

Among those present at the wedding were Mrs. Julius (Edith Baker) Sanders, George Aker, Fort Wayne and the late Mrs. Gladys Brenneman among whose papers the following article clipped from the Commercial-Mail of 1905 was found:

Elliott-Stingle Marriage Solemnized

A quiet home wedding took place at the home of Mrs. John Mosier on north Main street at 2:30 p.m. Thursday when her youngest daughter, Ora Anna Stingle was united in marriage to James Garfield Elliott, of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. M. Barrett, of the Presbyterian church in the presence of a few intimate friends and members of the families of the contracting parties.

The bride was attired in a blue broadcloth traveling costume. The groom, wore conventional black. After receiving congratulations, refreshments were served and the couple left on a bridal tour on the 4:48 p.m. train.

They expect to return to this city Saturday and will then arrange to take up their residence in Chicago. Many beautiful presents were received by the happy couple.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Elliott of this county and is well and favorably known in this city where he was engaged in business for some time. For two years he has held a responsible position in the auditing department of the Illinois Central Ry., general offices in Chicago and stands well with his employers.

The bride is a well known and popular teacher of this city where for several years she has been a successful teacher in the public schools. She is an accomplished young lady. The Commercial-Mail joins the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott in extending hearty congratulations.

MAKE VISIT IN OHIO FOR A FEW DAYS

Mrs. Eddie Simmons and daughter Peggy, Mrs. Paul Marrs and Mrs. Gleason Anderson returned Friday evening from a visit at Defiance, Ohio, with Mrs. Nick Ehman and the John Potts family.

They also called on friends at Hicksville, Ohio, and Harlan, Ind.

Popcorn Production May Tumble This Fall

WASHINGTON (UP)— Popcorn production may tumble this fall if the 11 major producing states produce their average yields per acre.

The Agriculture Department reported today the popcorn acreage for this year is only 128,000 acres, down 13 per cent from the 147,000 acres planted in 1954 and 27 per cent under the 10-year average of 174,000 acres.

Indiana, the largest popcorn producing state, has planted 25,000 acres. Acreages of other commercial popcorn states include: Ohio, 12,000; Illinois, 18,000; Michigan, 3,500; Iowa, 23,000; Missouri, 10,000; Nebraska, 11,500; Kansas, 6,000; Kentucky, 12,000.

Harmless Fun

LONDON (UP)— A judge fined bus conductor Douglas Haven $8.40 and costs Friday for spanking a 19-year old girl passenger who had complained about the service.

Haven's lawyer said the conductor had regarded the incident as "harmless fun.'

"Spanking is a thing that is often done between a young man and a girl,' he said.

Democrat, Republican Review What They Think Of Party's Chances

.3 UP17 Aug. 13 V430a

Editors Note: Political speculation on the major parties' nominations for national office, and the possible candidates, occupied a major share of the news dispatches from the 47th annual governors' conference this week at Chicago. In the following, written for the United Press, a Democratic and a Republican governor review what they think of their respective party's chances for a victory at the polls in 1956.

By GOV. AVERELL HARRIMAN of NEW YORK
Written For The United Press

Even the Republicans agree that they have no chance of winning the 1956 election unless President Eisenhower is a candidate for reelection. For my part, I am confident that with a vigorous candidate and an aggressive campaign the Democrats will win the presidency and Congress next year regardless of Mr. Eisenhower's decision to run or not to run.

Never in our history, I think, has there been so rapid a disillusionment with a national administration as we have seen since 1953.

The evidence of this disillusionment is plain. Since the Eisenhower administration took office nine states, including New York, have switched from Republican to Democratic state administrations and our part yhas won control of both Houses of Congress. The same trend has been evident through his elections throughout the country, and I believe the Democratic tide is still running strongly.

In 1954 Mr. Eisenhower made an all-out campaign for the election of a Republican Congress and despite his efforts the people elected a Democratic majority. Never before has a President's party lost control of both houses of Congress in a nelection midway through his first term. President Eisenhower's cynical campaign political statement that there would be a "cold war in Washington' if the Democrats won has been proved untrue. Actually, the only "cold war in Washington' has been between Mr. Eisenhower and the leaders of his own party.

The people of the United States know— and this fact will be driven home in the campaign— that insofar as the Eisenhower administration has been successful in its foreign policy it is due to Democratic support in Congress and to the solid foundations laid by the Truman programs.

We will win in 1956 because the men and women on the farms, the wage and salary earners and businessmen in the towns and cities— the ordinary people who make up the greatness and strength of our country— know that the Democratic Party is concerned about their welfare. They have learned again that the big interests which control the Republican Party are not.

GOV. GOODWIN KNIGHT of CALIFORNIA
Written For The United Press

I confidently believe President Eisenhower will be a successful candidate for re-election in 1956.

By his uncompromising integrity and tremendous capacity for leadership, he has earned the respect and confidence of the American people.

He has demonstrated he keeps his word and the people will place implicit faith in his campaign pledges. He has also made it clear he expects his associates to give undivided loyalty and honesty to the American people.

His marvelous ability and aptitude in foreign affairs has restored American ascendency in that field.

He has shown a rare quality of being able to work amicably with all kinds of people of various political persuasions and to achieve beneficial results for all the people.

The people should, and I believe will, elect a Republican majority to Congress next year to firmly fix responsibility in the President's party. Failure of the Democratic Congress to enact a federal highway program, school building assistance and other progressive domestic proposals of the President will work against Democratic incumbents next year.

Democratic control of Congress is dependent upon election of more liberal-minded Northerners and Easterners. However, Democratic control of Congress means domination by that party's conservative Southern bloc because of seniority rules in both houses on committee assignments.

Because we Republicans have no such predetermined blocs, membership in Congress from court party tends to change more frequently, to be younger and more vigorous.

We have demonstrated in the West and elsewhere that Republicans can merit and receive liberal and labor backing. If this can be projected nationally, our chances of winning Congress would be more materially enhanced.

Thief Identified

KALAMAZOO, Mich, (UP)—Grocer Henry Topoll said he has finally identified the thief who has stolen 75 loaves of bread from his grocery in the past six months.

Topoll said he got up early Friday and saw a bloodhound sniff around his shop until he found the white bread rack, then make off with the loot.

Coast Guard Searches For Four Persons

Missing In Capsizing Of Cruise Ship

NORTH BEACH, Md. (UP) — Two Coast Guard cutters patrolled the storm-chopped waters of Chesapeake Bay today searching for four persons still missing in the capsizing of a three-masted cruise ship in hurricane Connie's worst disaster.

At least 10 persons were drowned—3 women, a small girl and 6 men—when waves up to 10 feet high broke the ancient wooden ship to pieces. Their bodies were washed ashore.

Thirteen swam ashore, some with the aid of life jackets. Many were helped by rescuers who plunged through the raging surf.

The four passengers still unaccounted for were Dr. Andrew Chesson, Raleigh, N.C.; Dr. Hillard R. Neyin of New York City and his 13-year-old son; and Louis H. Sobel, prominent New York social worker. Wives of the three men were among the dead.

Police reported one of the survivors of the ship, the Levin J. Marvel, was its captain, John B. Meckling of Annapolis, Md.

The rescued were taken to hospitals in Prince Frederick Md., Annapolis and other nearby communities. Some suffered exposure and shock but none was reported in serious condition.

The vessel, which had no motor, was on a weeklong vacationing cruise of the bay. A survivor told police it had anchored in Herring Bay a few miles north of here to ride out the storm. Surf, high tides and wind up to 50 miles an hour battered the 64-year-old ship and drove its wreckage to near this town.

Let's Let Russian Women Get Look At U.S. Fashions

NEW YORK (UP) — Now that the Iron Curtain has parted slightly we should let Russian women get a good look at American fashions, designer Adele Simpson suggested today.

So far, Mrs. Simpson lamented, the countries have exchanged farm experts and touring businessmen and talked about cultural exchanges, but no one has planned anything for the women.

As a result, the diminutive fashion designer, who stands only 4 feet, 9 inches tall and wears size 3 shoes, is taking matters into her own hands. She is organizing a fashion show to take to Russia.

"First I thought I might do a one designer thing," Mrs. Simpson explained in her beige-carpeted 7th Avenue showroom.

"The eternal female—they are the same in Russia as they are here. Clothes that would make them look prettier would give the Russian women just as much of a lift as American women. The pictures I've seen of Russian men show them to be fairly well dressed. And the women seem to have pretty enough faces, but their clothes are a little depressing."

The idea first came to Mrs. when she read stories about the Russian farm experts touring Iowa farms.

"After all," she said, "women are as interested in clothes as farmers are in corn."

She really got into action about the time of the Geneva conference when she noted that only the Russian leaders didn't bring their wives.

"I suppose it's silly of me, but right away I wondered if they didn't have anything suitable to wear," Mrs. Simpson said.

She decided the one-designer fashion show idea should be expanded for a representative collection of several American designers. The clothes they should take, she emphasized, are pretty styles that could be adapted to Russian life, not extravagant ball gowns.

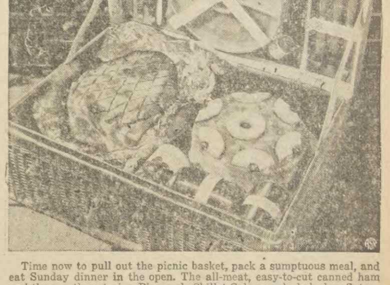
Summer-Way Sunday Dinner



Time now to pull out the picnic basket, pack a sumptuous meal, and eat Sunday dinner in the open. The all-meat, easy-to-cut canned ham and the mouth-watering Pineapple Skillet Cake may be baked on Saturday. Cans or jars of baked beans or pork and beans, ripe olives, pickles and mustard are ready to go. Add bread or rolls for the sandwiches, a crisp salad and cool drinks.

Pineapple Skillet Cake

1 can (9 oz.) sliced pineapple	½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup butter, or margarine	Maraschino cherries
	1 pkg. cake mix

Drain syrup from pineapple into a deep 9-inch skillet. Add butter and brown sugar and cook until thickened. Arrange pineapple slices and cherries in a design in skillet. Prepare cake mix following directions on package. Pour carefully over pineapple. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) about 1 hour. Remove from oven and allow to stand about 5 minutes. Turn out on serving plate. One 9-inch cake.

To Bake Canned Ham: Remove from can and place fat side up on a rack in an open pan. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) 15 minutes per pound. Glaze ham if desired.

All-Stars Defeat The Cleveland Browns In 22nd Annual Battle Friday Night, 30-27

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UP) — Curly Lambeau's hand-picked collegiate football players can play professional style as well as the best of the veterans, it appeared today.

Lambeau's 1955 aggregation, selected to play the platoon system, were more adept in both offense and defense than the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns and turned on the pressure in the last half for a 30-27 victory in the 22nd annual battle Friday night.

There were nearly as many heroes as All Stars, but tiny Tad Weed, a 146 pound left footed place kicker from Ohio State, L.G. Dupre, speedy halfback from Baylor and Ralph Guglielmi, Notre Dame quarterback who played the full game for the collegians, stood out on offense.

On defense the flashiest were linebacker Tom Bettis of Purdue, tackle Rosey Grier of Penn State, and Jim Temp of Wisconsin, and halfback Frank Bernardi of Colorado.

Weed set a game record with three field goals, from the 28, 20 and 41 yard lines, while Guglielmi completed 10 of 19 passes for 129 yards and hit Henry Hair of Georgia with a five yard pitch for one touchdown.

Dupre ran for 74 yards on 12 carries and caught three passes for 49 yards, including one 19 yard toss which took the Stars to the pro's one yard line to set up a touchdown by Toledo's Mel Triplett.

The final All Star tuchdown was by Frank Eidom of Southern Methodist on a two yard plunge after Ron Drzewiecki of Marquette returned a kickoff 48 yards and Dupre turned in a 19 yard run to get in scoring position.

The Browns stayed in contention in the first half when George Ratterman plunged a yard for one touchdown, passed to Ray Renfro for 25 yards for another and Renfro ran 18 yards for a third. But the All Star defense held Cleveland, winners of a divisional or league championship every year since its organization, without a first down for more than 20 minutes of the last half.

Then, trailing by 10 points, Ratterman sparked a passing surge downfield which ended when Fred Morrison plunged from the five for the final pro points.

The victory was the seventh for the collegians in the annual struggle, in which the pro's have won 13 and tied two. The last All Star win was in 1950, 17-7 over Philadelphia.

This year was the first the All Stars were coached by professional mentors, and the team played like pros. The 30 points was a new high for a college team in the event, surpassing the 28 scored against Washington's 16 in 1938 and the 28 scored against Green Bay's 45 in 1940.

Indiana's H. S. Football Forces Get Set For Season

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—A predicted new heat wave and some hayfever sniffling notwithstanding, Indiana's high school football forces trot onto the gridiron for the first time Monday to get set for a new season.

There's a good bet the roster of grid-playing schools will grow this fall. Last year, a total of 190 outfits participated in the sport, including 174 in 11-man football.

The Indiana High School Athletic Association said no drop-outs have been reported so far. And at least three schools have announced intention to join the competition—Providence downstate, Jimtown (Baugo Twp) near Goshen, and Rome City near Kendallville.

Major rules and regulations covering pre-season practice and season play remained unchanged from last year.

A player still must participate in 10 days of practice sessions before he is eligible for actual competition.

"There are no new important rules changes," said assistant IHSAA commissioner Robert Hinshaw.

"Most of the changes pertain to equipment," he said, and some are not effective until next year.

Last season was one of the most successful in Hoosier schoolboy grid history. No less than seven teams finished with perfect slates —and all of them will be on the spot.

They include past NIHSC champion South Bend Riley, which has a 10-game string in regular season play (not counting the 12-6 loss to Whiting in the league play-off), Rensselaer, and Danville. The latter's long streak covers two seasons.

Nine-game winners last year were Beech Grove, New Albany, and Terre Haute Garfield. Auburn wasn't touched in eight outings.

Play for keeps begins Sept. 2, but numerous uarger schools wait another week or 10 days.

The IHSAA, which Thursday completed its annual football-basketball coaching clinic at Purdue University, has a state invitational grid clinic on tap here Aug. 20 for regional officials, who in turn conduct 14 "refresher courses" on the sectional level between Aug. 22 and Sept. 6.

Sports Briefs

NEW YORK (UP)—The major leagues' established stars were blocked today from displaying their talents in the Caribbean winter league for $1,000 per month.

The new rules, drafted Friday by officials from the United States and Latin leagues, thereby curtailed such stars as Willie Mays of the New York Giants from playing winter ball. Mays, who won the National League batting title and Most Valuable Player award last season, also was the sensation of the winter league with the Santurce club.

SPOKANE, Wash. (UP) — The New York Giants and Green Bay Packers open their six-game National Football League exhibition campaigns tonight when they clash in Spokane's Municipal Stadium.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP) — World middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson, making his first start since he was flattened June 22 by Archie Moore, was a heavy favorite to defeat Jimmy Martinez when they clash tonight in a 10-round non-title bout at Multnomah Stadium.

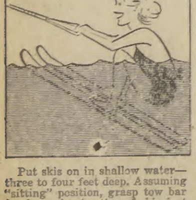
GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UP) — Rocky Marciano, already in "great shape" for his Sept. 20 heavyweight title defense against Archie Moore, will rest today and resume sparring Sunday.

Manager Al Weill said the heavyweight champion would not train strenuously for his bout with the light heavyweight champion.

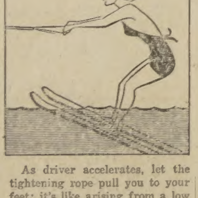
"He's in great shape now. After all, he trained seven months for his May fight with Don Cockell," Weill said.

If You Can Swim You Can Water-Ski!

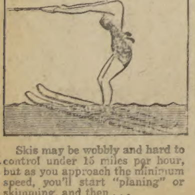
Young and old alike are now easily and safely discovering the thrill of skimming swiftly over the surface of the water on skis. Reckless and daring though this exciting aquatic sport looks, it's truly very simple.



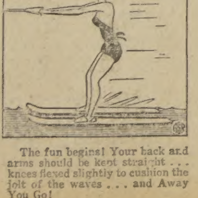
Put skis on in shallow water—three to four feet deep. Assuming "sitting" position, grasp tow bar firmly, and raise tips of skis just clear of water. Signal boat driver to go ahead.



As driver accelerates, let the tightening rope pull you to your feet; it's like arising from a low chair. Keep weight centered, knees bent, arms straight.



Skis may be wobbly and hard to control under 15 miles per hour, but as you approach the minimum speed, you'll start "planing" or skimming, and then . . .



The fun begins! Your back and arms should be kept straight . . . knees flexed slightly to cushion the jolt of the waves . . . and Away You Go!

If you think you'd like water-skiing—and everyone who tries it does like it—write to the American Water Ski Association, 307 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1, Ill. They'll send you illustrated booklets that will give you fully detailed instructions for learning this exhilarating sport.

AGONY TRAIL—Cary Middlecoff shows that professional golf's tournament trail isn't all smiles and winner's checks. The Memphis swinger goes through the agony of a guy in a dental chair when he misses a putt or tries body English.

Indians Stretch American League Streak To Five Games After 17-1, 6-5 Doubleheader

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians stretched their winning streak to five games today in the first "big move" calculated to break the log jam at the top of the American League standings.

The Indians swept to the flag last year on a combination of sound pitching and long-ball hitting—and that's exactly the formula they used in sweeping Friday's day-night doubleheader from the Kansas City Athletics, 17-1 and 6-5. The five-game streak is their second longest of the campaign and the best any of the four contenders has put together in three weeks.

As a result, the Indians opened up a onegame first-place lead on the Chicago White Sox—not much of a margin but the longest any A.L. team has held since Chicago held the same lead on Aug. 3. The White Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, Friday night but dropped back a half game. Third-place New York and fourth-place Boston were rained out of scheduled games with Baltimore and Washington.

Grand Slam By Hegan

The Indians celebrated Bob Lemon's return to the starting rotation in the afternoon game with a thunderous 18-hit barrage that included a grand slam homer by Jim Hegan and two homers by Bobby Avila. Avila also singled and drove in a total of six runs in the Indians second biggest offensive outburst of the campaign.

Lemon, who had not won a game since July 8 and hadn't started since July 19, shutout the Athletics on four hits for six innings before turning over a 13-0 lead to Sal Maglie. The ex-New York Giant curveballer went the remainder of the way, limiting the Athletics to two hits and an unearned run in the ninth inning.

Trailing, 20-0, the Indians erupted fo rfive runs in the sixth inning of the night game and then held off Kansas City's two-run surge in the ninth. Al Smith's homer and Hal Naragon's triple were the big blows of the rally.

Jim Rivera, who had enjoyed a field day against Kansas City on Thursday, blasted a two-run homer in the first inning to give the White Sox the only runs they needed to beat the Tigers. Virgil Trucks received credit for his 11th triumph, aided by Dixie Howell's shutout relief work in the last 1 1-3 innings.

Flag Hopes About Dead

The loss was the fifth straight and seventh in nine games for the Tigers, virtually writing them out of the race. With only 41 games left to play they trail the Indians by 8½ games.

Bob Rush turned in a five-hitter as the Chicago Cubs walloped the Milwaukee Braves, 7-1, and the St. Louis Cardinals rallied for three runs in the ninth to beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 8-7, in National League action. Heavy rains washed out the four Eastern teams but the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers' lead was increased to 16½ games as a result of Milwaukee's loss and their "magic number" for pennant clinching was reduced to 25.

Gene Baker and Ransom Jackson drove in five runs between them as the Cubs snapped a three-game losing streak and handed the Braves their fourth loss in a row. Rush's record is now 9-8.

Wally Moon's infield single capped the Cardinals' three-run rally and enabled St. Louis to score its fifth straight win. Brooks Lawrence, a 15-game winner last season, won his third game and rookie Don Gross suffered his first defeat.

Posse To Search For Boy Scout Missing 5 Weeks

ROCKFORD, Mich (UP) — Almost 1,000 men and boys formed a posse today to search for 12-year-old Peter Gorham, an Evanston, Ill., Boy Scout who disappeared while on a hike with 18 other youths five weeks ago.

A growing feeling that the boy is dead was expressed by Capt. Le Roy Hunt of the Michigan state police, who led today's search in the wild and swampy Duck Lake area where the youth last was seen.

Detroit police, who entered the investigation of Gorham's disappearance earlier this week, said hey feared he had fallen victim of a sex deviate.

Marvin G. Lane, chief of detectives of Detroit, described western Michigan as "the most fertile ground in Michigan for a sex deviate." He said the presence of many youth camps was a certain lure for perverts.

Lane frankly told the missing boy's father, F.A. Gorham, that the youth's body might be found within a 15 or 20-mile radius of the scout camp. "Almost invariably, that's the range in which victims of deviates are found,' he said.

However, state police advanced two other possibilities, both of which they called "remote." One was that the boy was drowned in one of the many nearby lakes, and the other that he hitch-hiked out of the area and still is wandering.

Muskegon County Prosecutor Robert A. Cavanaugh said he planned additional questioning of personnel at Camp Wabingo, which was being used by the Evanston troop, and detective Albert W. Swanson of the Evanston police department said young Gorham's scouting companions may face additional questioning at their homes in Illinois.

Should Service Academies Play In The Bowl Games

CHICAGO (UP)—A congressman and service officials appeared at odds today over whether the nation's three service academies will be permitted to play in post-season bowl games.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) told the Football Writers Assn. Friday that top-level approval has been granted Army and Navy to play bowl games in the future, if invited.

Hebert added that Harold Talbott, before his recent resignation as air force secretary, said the new Air Force Academy could also play once the school is ready for competition.

Coach Red Blaik of Army agreed bowl games, Hebert said.

But at West Point, N.J., the veteran Army coach said he knew nothing about the approval.

"As far as I know," Blaik said, "nothing definite has been done about it."

The Defense Department at Washington said it also knew "nothing about any such decision."

Tigers Cinch Pennant With 11-1 Win Over Red Sox Friday

The Tigers cinched the pennant in the Little League race Friday night, and will meet the Cardinals from South Whitley in the World Series.

The Tigers, coached and managed by William Hurtt, blasted the Red Sox for a 11-1 loss prior to the fireworks at DeVol Field. The win enables the Tigers to enter the three-game World Series, to be played Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Photographers Of Wild Life Tell Of Their Adventures

By AL and ELMA MILOTTE
Written for United Press

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — It's quite an education to see animal creation in operation.

Our latest lesson was in equatorial Africa where for almost three years we photographed birds, beasts and reptiles of the Kenya and Tanganyika wilds for Walt Disney's new true-life adventure, "The African Lion."

During that time we lived almost literally in the lion's den, watching the king of beasts and his queen in every act and mood of courtship, hunt, battle and play.

There's no great trick about photographing wild animals. You just get as close as you can without disturbing them and start your camera. Of course you've got to know where and when to find them. For Walt Disney's films no human must ever be seen and the animals must not know they are being observed.

Stood By Cameras

Several times we got too close to lions for comfort, and once dangerously close to a bull rhino. When we tried to play good Samaritan to this mud-trapped fellow he resented being rescued and almost got Al.

The most trying thing about our profession is the wear on the nerves from the constant vigilance for interesting and significant incidents. During our time in the African wilds there was scarcely a daylight hour when one of us wasn't standing watch beside the cameras for some revealing act in the life and death drama always going on around us.

Nature hides her mysteries with jealous care. The lion, because he fears nothing, is the most open in his home and family life. And he's almost the most affectionate of all the great beasts.

The most ferocious exhibition of jealousy we ever saw occurred in a group of adult lions. A roving young female attempted to win the attentions of a leonine shah away from his established harem mates. She was a stranger. They turned on her in a flash and literally tore her to pieces in outraged defense of their domestic proprieties.

The Bravest Animal

On the other hand, we never saw a greater display of maternal affection than that lavished on their children by African lionesses. If ever babies of the wild are spoiled, these cubs are. But no trace of juvenile delinquency is tolerated. For even the sons of the king of beasts may die if the stern laws of existence are flouted.

The bravest animal we saw in our 50,000-mile journey was a little warthog, probably the ugliest of all animals, defending to the death her brood of youngsters against a pair of savage hyenas—a noble show of fierce, defensive mood. heothr motherhood.

Study Of New Car Financing

By REY W. BRUNE
United Press Staff Correspondent

DETROIT (UP) — Despite all the talk about "crazy credit" in the booming automobile market, Americans buying cars on credit as a whole are making just as big down payments as they've done in the past 10 years, a study of new car financing indicated today.

The survey was made by Universal C.I.T. Credit Corp. of New York, whose business is financing automobiles. It claims to be the largest independent automobile finance agency.

It reported it found that in the 10 years since the end of World War II, the American public has bought 107-billion dollars worth of new cars on time. Of this amount, 22 per cent was handled through down payments and the other 78 per cent financed.

A Record Pace

The total amount of new cars financed during the first six months this year has been moving at a record clip. A lot of the low, low down payment deaas with long terms to pay them off have attracted attention.

The liberal financing has been responsible for part of the boom in new car sales, now running at a record pace. But the Universal C.I.T. report indicated that in the first six months the public as a whole still was financing only 78 per cent of the value of new cars bought on time.

In the first six months of the year, it said, $8,600,000,000 in new car loans were made. But these loans were used to buy cars worth 11 billion dollars, indicating the buyers still were handling only 78 per cent of the total price of the cars through loans and making cash down payments of 22 per cent for the cars.

L. Walter Lundell, president of Universal C.I.T. said Americans have proved very good credit risks in automobile purchases.

Will Pay Off Loans

He said 72 billion of the 84 billion dollars borrowed since the end of the war has been repaid already with the other 12 billion dollars being repaid at present. He said that while $8,600,000,000 in new loans were made in the first six months this year, the public was repaying $6,400,000,000 in previous loans.

During this year, he said, some 10 million Americans will finish paying off their automobile loans.

Irish Raiders Invade British Army Camp Today

READING, England (UP) — A bold gang of Irish raiders invaded a British army camp before dawn today and escaped with several carloads of guns and ammunition.

Army and police barricades thrown up across southern England trapped one of the gun-laden vehicles. Two men were arrested.

The raiders, believed to be members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, rushed into the army camp 20 strong at 2 a.m. and rounded up the guards at gunpoint.

They tied up the guards with cord and told them they could consider themsleves "prisoners of war."

Then the raiders looted the garrison army of Sten and Bren guns, .303 caliber rifles and quantities of ammunition.

They sped off in pre-dawn darkness while British army officials and police flashed the alarm on possibly the boldest IRA raid in recent history.

The IRA is a militant organization dedicated to expulsion of the British from Northern Ireland and unification of an independent Ireland.

Russians Defeat British Team

MOSCOW (UP) — The Wolverhampton Wanders of the British Soccer League lost their second straight game to Russian teams when they bowed to Moscow's Dynamo club Friday, 3-2.

Moore Skips Outdoor Session

Archie Moore will have a ring pitched on the local YMCA gym floor today so he can spar if the weather remains poor. Rain and NORTH ADAMS, Mass., (UP)— cold weather forced him to skip his usual outdoor boxing session Friday.

IN HONOR OF OLD MAID AUNTS, SISTERS, FRIENDS

Monday, August 15, is the day all old maids down in Denton, Tex., have been waiting for all year. That will be their day.

In the small Texas city, "Old Maid's Day" is scheduled to have its sixth anniversary celebration Monday with quiet tea sessions.

It all began when Miss Dorothy Babb, faculty member of North Texas State College, made a complaining remark about the amount of money she had spent on gifts for brides' showers. Miss Babb related that she has spent $1,500 in 25 years for such gifts without receiving any.

As most married couples will attest, some of the most costly presents received at bridal or infant showers and for weddings are from the unmarried sister, friend, or maiden aunt. In fact, such elaborate gifts are often expected, although they may not seem to have been chosen with the best of taste.

The spinster relative or friend is also looked upon by married couples in time of trouble and is often called upon to baby-sit.

Therefore, we are glad to see that the small Texas city has seen fit to set aside a day in the old maids' honor. May their day of fellowship and tea be as joyous as their hearts are big.

Potato Growers Discuss Problems

CHICAGO (UP) — Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Earl I. Butz told a group of potato growers from 21 states that a potato surplus has become serious enough for them to adopt marketing agreements.

The group, the National Potato Council, met Thursday to discuss problems which will be created by this year's anticipated record crop of 400 million bushels.

Potato growers have reported the bumper crop probably will drive prices down and force some growers out of business. Some farmers are reported to have plowed under up to 10 per cent of their crop in an attempt to stabilize prices.

2 Million Workers To Get Pay Boosts

WASHINGTON (UP) — About two million workers are scheduled to get pay boosts under the new federal minimum wage bill signed into law by President Eisenhower Friday.

Most of the workers due for increases are employed in industries in the South.

The law hikes the minimum wage from 75 cents to $1 an hour.

It may have an indirect effect on others of the 24 million workers covered by the wage-hour laws.

These include workers in interstate commerce and in manufacturing plants making goods for sale in interstate commerce.

LAFAYETTE, — Many Hoosier farmers are using the band seeding method when sowing legumes and grasses. The farmer above is converting his grain drill for band seeding. Band seeding controls the flow of seed out of the grain drill grass box and allows the seed to fall directly over the buried fertilizer. Purdue University specialists say less seed is required and better sands are produced through band seeding.

Rhee

Washington visit last year the United States would do all it could to get the Communist members of the Neutral Supervisory Commission out of South Korea.

"Nothing has happened," Rhee said. He said he understood Dulles has invited members of the United Nations to consider the problems of "getting these Communist spies out . . . but he should have done it long ago.'

3. He told Gen. L. L. Lemnitzer, U.N. Far East commander, that "Something must come from the United States or the Communists to solve this problem right away . . . these Poles and Czechs have been going around freely, spying, taking pictures and hiring Koreans to work for them under the protection of the Americans . . . '

4. Lemnitzer "was amazed when I told him what had been going on . . . Washington's policy has been not to do anything but we Koreans cannot just sit and let the spies do their work while the Communists up north get ready to come down and kill us."

Have Government Support

5. Koreans demonstrating against the Communist truce inspectors "have the support of the government. Both the people and the government want these spies out . . . General Lemnitzer came here worried about these demonstrations. But I told him we would not use violence and he felt very much relieved . . ."

6. "There are rumors going around that the Americans have orders to shoot, but General Lemnitzer said he has not given orders to shoot. These rumors cause trouble because the Korean people don't understand why the Americans would protect a Communist spy and shoot their Korean friends and allies.

7. "Everybody knows the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission has not functioned as planned so why not face the fact and abolish it? The Swiss have advocated its abolition.

8. "The demonstrations will end only when the Communist spies go north and when the Communist troops withdraw from the portion of the Ongjin Peninsula south of the 38th Parallel."

Husband Of Daisy Smith Kurtz Of This City Dies

Ralph E. Kurtz, 61, Fort Myers, Florida, the husband of Daisy Smith Kurtz, formerly of this city, died last Wednesday at his home at 2510 McGregor Blvd., Fort Myers. Ill for sometime Mr. Kurtz suffered a stroke of paralysis the day of his death and had suffered previous strokes.

Funeral services were held at Fort Myers last Saturday. Mr. Kurtz was a native of Indiana and went to Fort Myers in 1926 and took an active part in civic affairs. He had extensive land holdings in the Lake Okeechobee region. He served as city attorney and mayor of Fort Myers in 1947 and 1948, declining to run for the second term. He was also a former director of the Chamber of Commerce, a past master in the Masonic Order, a steward in the Methodist church and a member of the Rotary club and the Florida State Bar Association.

Mr. Kurtz received law degrees from Central Normal College at Danville, Ind., and Indiana University and practiced law in Indianapolis in 1919 and 1920. Surviving besides the wife are two sons, Thomas A. Kurtz, who was associated in law practice with his father and Howard Kurtz of Orlando, Fla., and a daughter, Marta E. Kurtz, a Girl Scout executive in Columbus, Ga. A third son was killed in Europe in World War II.

Funeral For Warsaw Child, 6, Monday; Died Wednesday

Funeral services for Sharon Elaine Prescott, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Prescott, R 2, Warsaw, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Warsaw EUB Church.

The child died Wednesday at St. from an unusual cardiac ailment. She was admitted Tuesday to Memorial Hospital here, but was rushed to the Fort Wayne hospital in a Hollingsworth ambulance Tuesday evening and was immediately placed in an iron lung.

The Rev. John Jones and the Rev. V. A. Carlson will officiate at the services. Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery. Friends may call at the Prescott residence.

Davy Crockett Gets Blame

MONTREAL UP)— The Montreal Gazette today accompanied a London dispatch reporting that grouse-shooting was the worst in years with a cartoon showing two tweedy British hunters discussing their troubles.

"Egad sir," one was saying, "that blighter Davy Crockett must have shot them all."

Students Must Be At School At Least 167 Days, State Says

Students of Whitley county schools must be in attendance at least 167 days during the 1955-56 school year, according to a directive recently received by Harry T. Yoder, county superintendent of schools. That amount is the required number of days at eight and one-half month term schools. Students at nine-month term schools will be required to answer roll call for 177 days, the State Department of Education order said.

The regulation will require changing the county school canendar as it is now. The calendar calls for students to be present at school 164 days at eight and one-half month schools and 174 in schools with the longer term.

The calendar permits students to stay home during six of the regularly scheduled class days during the year when faculty or teacher meets are in session and records and reports are being made.

Under the new order, the calendar will have to be revised to require attendance of pupils on three of the six days.

Originally, the pupils would not attend school for the first time until September 6, the Tuesday after Labor Day. The revised calendar requires the students to meet with the teachers the afternoon of September 1, one of the days scheduled for the teachers workshop.

The principal's meeting, formerly scheduled for September 7, will be held August 30. The third additional day probably will be taken from one of the days allotted for preparing records and reports.

Red Cross at Work

The Red Cross reported that it is taking care of more than 14,000 storm refugees along the Eastern Seaboard.

The heavy winds and rain played havoc with traffic and homeowners. Slippery roads and poor visibility caused numerous accidents. In some areas highways were washed out.

In the New York metropolitan area, more than 100,000 homes were without electricity.

Some 1,000 persons were evacuated from their homes in Connecticut along Long Island Sound in anticipation of rising waters.

Connie, who has outguessed the experts as often as not, turned into Chesapeake Bay during the night just when forecasters were expecting it to plunge up the coast with increased strength and speed.

Here Kitty!

HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif. (UP)— Mrs. Mary McIntyre said today she hoped a $50 reward would bring the quick return of her missing parakeet, Timothy, before his vocabulary gets him in trouble.

She said Timothy now is without the sanctuary of his cage when he screeches, "Here kitty, kitty, kitty.'

SOUTH KOREANS STAGE MASS DEMONSTRATION—A large group of South Koreans are Shown at the entrance to the causeway leading to Wolmi-de, near Seoul, where the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission is housed. The South Koreans have issued a written ultimatum that the Communist members of the commission must get out. This has been backed up with mass demonstrations in which both South Koreans and U.S. soldiers guarding the teams have been injured. In the latest demonstration, tear gas and water hoses were used to stem the attempt to break into the compounds where the teams are housed.

Wisdom Of The Body, Chemical In Nature, May Be Influencing Our Minds To The Good

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP)— Three nutritional scientists urge the truth of this "broad" principle: A "wisdom of the body," chemical in nature, may be influencing our minds to the good when we select our food and drink.

When our customary diet nourishes us properly, this "wisdom of the body" is strengthened and it becomes harder and harder for us to settle for food and drink which do not provide sufficient nourishment.

But when our customary diet is improper—nutritionally speaking—the "wisdom of the body" is weakened , the selection of food and drink becomes more nutritionally foolish, and so nutritional deficienty piles up.

Drs. Roger L. Williams, Lorene L. Rogers and Richard B. Pelton of the biochemical institute, University of Texas, based their views on precise experiments with rats which demonstrated that deficient diets caused those animals to increase their consumption of alcohol or sugar—and thus increase their nutritional deficiencies.

Alcoholics Poorly Nourished

They saw a definite parallel between the nutritional habits of rats and people although they agreed with other scientists that this parallel could not be drawn too closely. The ultimate point of their experiments is that in some people alcoholism can be a nutritional disease.

It is a well known fact that most alcoholics are very poorly nourished—they simply do not consume the food and drink which provide sufficient vitamins, minerals, and other dietary essentials. Some scientists have argued however, that experiments with rats have no bearing on human beings because (1) rats don't drink alcohol to get drunk and (2) rats will turn from alcohol to sugar if given a chance, but human beings won't.

The Texas scientist denied that alcoholics always sought drunkenness "even though it is a widely taught doctrine." It is often a part "of the story" but it is only a part, they said in the Yale Quarterly Journal of Studies on Alcohol. Alcohol craving, they continued, "may not in its origin be fundamentally unlike other cravings, for example, of a herbivorous animal for salt, or a dehydrated individual for water, except that like the craving some diabetics have for sugar and narcotic addicts for narcotics, it is a craving which leads toward physiological harm rather than benefit.

Rats Not Drunkards

"It seems clear that rats, when they consume alcohol, do not contemplate or anticipate drunkenness, but the important gustatory signals which are involved in human alcoholism may be paralleled in rats, and these signals may be induced in rats and in humans by the same fundamental mechanism—nutritional deficiency."

Only superficially do rat bodies handle nutritional elements like human bodies. They pointed out that rats build their own ascorbic acid from sugars, but human beings must get ascorbic acid from their diets. With many diets, rats can get along without niacin but human beings need niacin whatever their diet. These differences could explain why rats will turn from alcohol to sugar but human beings will not, they said.

They did not suggest that nutritional deficiencies were all there is to alcoholism. Their studies demonstrated all over again that the individuality of rats parallels the individuality of human beings—each rat and each human being is different from all other rats and human beings. Heredity makes for this individuality, and that is why their "broad principle" had to be "broad."

I. U. Starts New Clinic

INDIANAPOLIS — Diagnosis and treatment of epilepsy, a neurologic disorder suffered by more than 20,000 Hoosiers, is the objective of a clinic which has been placed in operation at the Indiana University Medical Center.

The new clinic as established by the neurology department of the University's School of Medicine is utilizing the teamwork of a neurologist, a social worker, a psychologist, and facilities to meet the needs not only of those suffering from the disorder but also of the general practicing physicians of Indiana.

The facilities of the clinic include a laboratory equipped with an electroencephalograph, an electronics device used to amplify the minute electrical currents present in the living brain. Through the device technicians are assisted in distinguishing the varying forms and causes of epilepsy, thereby providing a basis for proper treatment.

In addition to treatment and diagnosis, the University's Epilepsy Clinic has been planned with a view to research in basic pathophysiology of all convulsive disorders. Arrangements have been made with pharmaceutical companies for the testing of various new anticonvulsants. The clinic also is expected to serve as a center for non-medical research into the legal, social, economic, and educational problems of the epileptic.

Due to th efact that epilepsy is largely a disease of childhood, the clinic has been set up in the Medical Center's James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for children and was established through funds provided by the Riley Memorial Association, of Indianapolis. Office furnishings and equipment for patients and staff were contributed by the Delta Theta Tau sorority.

Patients are accepted for the clinic by referral either from other clinics or by practicing physicians. At present the clinic is open each Tuesday and it is possible to receive as many as eight patients each clinic day.

The clinic, one of an increasing number at the Medical Center devoted to specific diseases, is under the medical school's neurology department headed by Dr. Alexander T. Ross and is in charge of Dr. Philip T. White, assistant professor of neurology and director of electroencephalography.

Blazes Trail

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Police said they had no trouble following the trail "blazed" by a 15-year old Negro boy in a stolen car.

They said he drove about two blocks after taking the car, then jumped the curb and sideswiped two parked cars, veered into a parking lot and hit another auto, glanced back into the street and rammed car number four, pushing it into two more parked cars.

Next he swerved into a truck, rammed a panel truck, jumped another curb, bounced back into the street and crashed into another car.

The boy was turned over to juvenile authorities. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

"largest economic package" it ever offered a labor group.

The strike vote among the workers, most of whom are employed in the Detroit area, is to be completed by Aug. 22. It was ordered less than 10 hours after Chrysler made public its package offer, which was patterned after guaranteed wage contracts granted earlier this summer by Ford and General Motors.

The national council stated in its strike resolution.:

"The refusal of the corporation to accede to our reasonable demands and its apparent determination to weaken our working agreement compel us to direct that a strike vote be conducted."

The contract runs out at midnight, Aug. 31, but CIO-UAW President Walter P. Reuther, who personally sat in on the last two days of bargaining before talks were halted Friday, said negotiations would be resumed "early next week."

Atomic Radiation May Damage Survival Chances

Of Future Generations Say Scientists At Geneva Conference

By WILLIAM C. SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — Scientists raised the chilling possibility before the atoms-for-peace conference here today that atomic radiation already may be damaging the survival chances of future generations.

They said they did not know for certain and that they may not learn until "many generations" from now when, by coincidence, a human father and mother with the same atom-altered inheritance might meet and produce a doomed child.

A husband-and-wife team from Oak Ridge, Tenn., reporting on what radiation did to the unborn offspring of "several thousand" mice, gave one of the grim messages in medical reports to the conference.

Another American, Dr. Austin M. Brues of the Argonne National Laboratory at Chicago, used the results of such experiements on laboratory animals to forecast the danger to humanity.

It is a present danger, delegates said. Atoms-for-power may be a force of the future but already radiation is spread by atomic piles, hospital instruments and test explosions.

Mrs. Liane Russell of Oak Ridge, who with her husband beamed x-rays at mice, put it this way in an interview before she addressed the conference:

"The record indicates we still have lots of worry about genetic effects of radiation even in its peaceful use," She added that experiments with human beings "naturally" would be the best way to find out but that appears impossible.

Mrs. Russell joined her husband, Dr. William Lawson Russell, in preparing a report on radiation action on the embryos of mice. He is principal geneticist at Oak Ridge and runs a farm of 100,000 mice.

They said the mice experiments indicated that the biggest threat to human mothers is during the second to approximately the sixth or seventh week after conception.

"Thus, at least part of it occurs at a time when pregnancy may still be unsuspected," they said.

Changes Outlined

Mrs. Russell, only woman scientist delegate from the United States, furnished a detailed chart of the types of changes produced in mice by pre-natal x-raying.

Small amounts in early pregnancy caused cleft palates, joined ribs, "jumbling' of the backbone and other defects of the skeleton. Larger amounts caused overgrowth of the feet, defective limbs and bones of the trunk.

"Irradiation during very early stages . . . leads to all-or-none effects," she said. "There is a high incidence of death following shortly upon irradiation, but those embryos which survive are normal."

Brues, going a step further, applied experiments on animals to the prospects of human generations in the future.

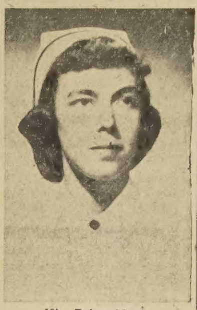
Graduates Of St. Joseph's Nursing School

Miss Joanna Keiser



Miss Delma Myers

* * * *

Two local girls were among 34 St . Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing students who received their diplomas and nursing pins at graduation ceremonies conducted in the Central Catholic high school auditorium, Fort Wayne, Sunday afternoon.

Miss Joanna Keiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keiser, R 2, city, and Miss Delma Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Myers, 503 West Ellsworth street, were recognized for having satisfactorily completed the three-year course of nurses' training.

Miss Keiser is a 1952 graduate of Columbia City high school, and Miss Myers graduated from Central Catholic high school in 1952. Miss Myers attended Columbia City high school her first two years while her parents lived in Thorncreek township. The parents then moved to Fort Wayne, and later returned to this city in May of this year. She will continue to be associated with the hospital for the immediate future.

Miss Keiser will be associated with the Whitley County Hospital after the completion of all activities at the nursing school on August 24.

Americans Pile Up Record Debts; Production, Income Reach Peaks

By ROBERT F. MORISON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Americans piled up record debts during the booming second quarter of 1955.

At the same time U.S. production and income climbed to new and unexpected peaks.

The Commerce Department reported these twin facts Sunday. They also underscored comments by President Eisenhower and Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks over possible soft spots in the current unprecedented prosperity.

The department indicated Americans may be leaning too heavily on credit to buy things they want. It also pointed out that business may be stacking up outsized inventories.

The report brought out that statistics for the second quarter outdistanced expectations in major economic categories. They topped first quarter figures by sizeable margins.

Praises Employment Program

On another economic front, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell praised the "remarkable growth" of the federal - state employment insurance program.

On the 20th anniversary of the program's beginning, he said Sunday that the number of workers protected and the size of jobless paychecks have more than doubled since 1935.

But Mitchell called for coverage of 12 million persons left outside the bill. He also said the average

2 Men Injured In Accident Near 9 And 114

Driver Hurt Seriously When Car Hits Bridge Early Sunday Morning

Two Huntington men were injured, one seriously, at about 12:30 a.m. Sunday when their car went through a guard rail of the second bridge on State Road 9 one mile north of its junction with State Road 114.

The most seriously injured was Fredrick Moyes, 19, Huntington, the driver of the car. He is reported to be in fair condition at Whitley County Hospital where he was taken suffering from a brain concussion, fractured right leg and laceration of the left elbow. A passenger in the car, Bobby Tackett, 16, also of Huntington, escaped with a laceration of the lip and the loss of several teeth.

According to Trooper Wayne Reese of the Indiana State Police, the car, northbound on Road 9, struck the guard rail of the bridge then landed in the creek. The car and injured men were still in the creek when Resse went to the scene to investigate the protruding guard rail. Reese reported that both occupants of the car had been drinking.

He arrested Moyes on charges of no driver's license and improper registration.

The injured men were taken to the hospital in a Smith ambulance.

Basle Trimmers Are Parents of First Son

Mr. and Mrs. Basle Trimmer, R 3, are the parents of a son Basle Lynn, born August 15, at 5:50 a.m. at the Whitley County Hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds and ten ounces.

Mrs. Trimmer is the former Lucille May Simon. The Trimmers have two daughters.

Diane Heads Toward Georgia And Carolinas

Packing Winds Of 115 Miles An Hour

MIAMI (UP) — The coasts of Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina were alerted today for another hurricane that was roaring toward the storm-battered seaboard with winds of 115 miles an hour.

The Marine Air Station at Cherry Point, N.C., pulled its second evacuation of planes in a week. Hurricane Connie swept inland last week at Morehead, City, N.C., and now Diane was on the way.

A noon EDT advisory from the Miami Weather Bureau said Diane, as determined in her course as Conie was erratic, is centered 550 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla., and is headed still on a west-northwest course.

Continued movement at about 15 miles an hour was forecast for the next 18 hours. By then the coast was expected to be getting high winds and pounding sides of the type that caused major flood damage in North Carolina last week.

Highest winds were concentrated in a 115-mile-an-hour vortex near Diane's calm central eye but hurricane force winds spewed out for 125 miles to the north and east and 70 miles to the southwest. Gales kicked up the Atlantic sea lanes for 350 miles to the north and east of Diane's center and 170 miles to the southwest.

Hurricane flags probably will be ordered up this afternoon on the coasts of the Carolinas and Georgia should the hurricane continue its expected course, the Weather Bureau said.

125 Persons Storm Gates Of Perfect Circle

Overturn 4 Autos During Strike Of CIO - UAW

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (UP)—About 125 persons stormed the gates of the Perfect Circle Corp. plant here today during a strike of CIO United Auto Workers and overturned four automobiles.

The gate-crashing followed the stoning of a busload of non-striking employes and workers cars.

Several persons were injured slightly. New Castle police rounded up at least 11 persons on charges of malicious trespass and disorderly conduct. State Police troopers were sent to the scene from Connersville district headquarters.

A company spokesman said not one employe of the New Castle plant was observed in the group of gate-crashers.

The violence began shortly after 6 a.m. when cars of employes on their way to work were stoned. Then a rented bus loaded with employes was stoned and most of its windows broken. The driver, Perfect Circle employe Les King, was cut about the face by flying glass.

A company spokesman said no attempt was made to keep the crowd from crashing the parking lot gates, since there were only a handful of city policemen and a couple of plant guards present.

Three of the cars overturned belonged to non-strikers and one to a company attorney.

Meanwhile, company officials reported no trouble at the three other strike-bound plants. The Richmond plants reopened today after being closed for vacations. The Hagerstown mother plant also was operating.

The strike began July 25. The union asked a 21-cent hourly package increase and a union shop. The company offered a wage increase and additional benefits amounting to 11 cents. The union shop is the principal stumbling block in reaching an agreement.

Jaycee Flower Show At Goshen College Saturday, Sunday

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Flower and Garden show Saturday and Sunday at the Goshen College auditorium.

Exhibits may be entered from 6 o'clock Friday evening to 11 o'clock Saturday morning. The show will be open until 10 o'clock Saturday evening and from noon until 6 o'clock Sunday evening.

One and three spike gladiolus may be entered as well as baskets corsages and vases. An entry may be made with a basket of 12 crooked spikes.

Arrangements in a metal container, bowl, vase or cup and saucer of zinnias, marigolds and other flowers may be entered. Garden vegetables in baskets, bowls or trays may be seen at the show.

Pierceton Native Is Elected Imperial Potentate Of Shrine

Walter C. Guy, a native of Pierceton, and now of Little Rock, Arkansas, was recently elected Imperial Potentate of the Shrine. In announcing Mr. Guy's election the Arkansas Democrat, which is published at Little Rock, hailed Mr. Guy in a 14-page section of its Sunday edition.

Mr. Guy was born April 9, 1891 in Pierceton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guy. His mother died three years ago, and a sister, Mrs. Edith Dalton, now lives at Epworth Forest on Webster Lake.

At present he is president of the Arkansas Printing and Lithographing Co., and chairman of the board of three other firms, Arkansas Stationery and Furniture Co.; Ark-N-Sets, Inc.; and Executive Services, Inc.

Mr. Guy is well known in the Pierceton community.

Keith Easterday Collapses In Yard, Is Hospitalized

Keith Easterday, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Easterday who live near Coesse was admitted to the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne early this morning.

Mr. Easterday, who has previously suffered from attacks of asthma, had been doing the morning work at the farm home. When he failed to come to the house his father went to look for him. His father found him in the yard, where he apparently collapsed, and called the Hollingsworth ambulance.

He was given oxygen enroute to the hospital. His condition upon arrival there was pronounced as satisfactory.

State's Weekend Traffic Toll Is At Least Nine

Two Victims Were Homeward Bound From Church Outing

By UNITED PRESS

Four persons were killed Sunday in the state's second major traffic crash in four days sending Indiana's weekend toll to at least nine dead.

Two of the victims in the Sunday night collision on Ind. 3 north of Markle were Muncie youths homeward bound from a church outing. The other two were from Evansville. Five others were injured severely.

Dead were Kent Moore, 19, and Linda Etchison, 20, both of Muncie and George Sugg 62 and Roy Berry 55, of Evansville.

In critical condition at Huntingon County Hospital were Rebecca Shear, 20, Barbara Hanson, 19, and Linda Lester 20 all of Muncie. Seriously hurt were Betty Evans 47, and Mrs. Edna Berry, 45, both of Evansville.

No Skid Marks

Authorities said the Muncie car driven by Moore, apparently drifted into the left lane. Sugg, driver of the Evansville car, swerved onto the shoulder in an effort to avoid the collision.

Last Wednesday night, five Ohioans were killed in a two-car collision near Seymour.

In other weekend accidents John Fenton Seagly, 71, a Ligonier merchant, was killed Saturday while crossing U.S. 6 west of Ligonier. He was struck by a car driven by Floyd Halterman of Fort Wayne.

3 from Indianapolis

Evelyn Melton, 38, Chandler was killed Saturday in a two-car collision near Rockport. Four other persons were injured seriously.

Three of the fatalities were from Indianapols. Thomas Brown, 3, son of the Albert J. Browns of Indianapolis, was killed Friday night in a traffic accident on U.S. 31 near Westfield as he returned home with his family from a Michigan vacation

Barbara Cummings, 28, was injured fatally Saturday when a car in which she rode went out of control and struck a pole on Ind. 9 south of Huntington.

James Amos, 72, was killed when he was struck by a car while crossing a street near his home in Indianapolis. Police questioned John William Long, 34, Indianapolis, driver of the car.

Huntington Man Suffers Cut-Head As Car Leaves Road

A Huntington man escaped with minor injuries at about 9:45 p.m. Saturday when his car left the road and turned over on a curve just south of the Eel River on State Road 9.

Richard G. Patton, 27, the driver, was treated at Huntington County Hospital for a cut on the back of the head and released.

According to Trooper Wayne Reese of the Indiana State Police, Patton lost control of the vehicle on the curve. The car rolled down an embankment and turned over landing on its top.

The driver was arrested on a charge of driving at unreasonable speed.

Outlawed Irish Republican Army Strikes Again

With Raid On British Armory In Wales

LONDON (UP) — The outlawed Irish Republican Army struck again today with a raid on a British armory in Wales, but new warlike security measures in effect throughout Britain foiled the attackers.

Five members of the IRA swooped down on the Kinnel Park Garrison at Rhyl in north Wales in a pre-dawn attack aimed at building up the army's arsenal in its avowed campaign to drive the British out of Northern Ireland.

They tied up one British soldier but he was able to free himself and sound the alarm. First reports said the raiders fled without taking anything, pursued by police and members of the 31st and 38th Royal Artillery training regiments stationed at the camp on the Irish Sea.

The camp is five miles southwest of Rhyl near the main Saint Asah to Abergele Road.

The raid came as an unidentified truck, possibly carrying arms captured in the IRA's most daring raid in history Saturday, ran a police roadblock near Edinburgh. The truck ignored police signals to stop and the alarm was flashed to all checkpoints.

Special Cabinet Meeting

British armed forces went on a wartime alert unparalleled since 1945 and War Minister Anthony Head prepared to report to Prime Minister Anthony Eden at a special cabinet meeting called for 1:30 p.m. (8:30 a.m. EDT).

Commander Leonard Burt, chief of the Scotland Yard special branch, interrupted his vacation to take over the manhunt. The British Army ordered all sentries be armed against further IRA raids.

That order followed an outcry in the British press when it was discovered that the Saturday victims of the IRA commandoes were armed only with pick handles.

Pat McKenna, local manager, states that the sign is about four times as large as the old one.

Firemen Investigate Blaze In Car Started By Flash In Carburetor

City firemen were called shortly after 6 p.m. Sunday when a blaze started from a carburetor back-flash in a car owned by a-foe Mosher. The car was parked in an alley on the southside of Chauncey street west of Thomson's Used Car Lot when the minor fire occurred.

Mosher said the blaze flared up as he was attempting to start the motor. Damage was confined to a hole blown in the top of the air cleaner and to the top of the hood caused by the heat.

The fire was extingushed by Mosher with the assistance of the firemen.

Reds Import Voters To Win Their Election

In Republic Of San Marino

REPUBLIC OF SAN MARINO (UP) —The Communists imported some 1,600 voters Sunday to beat the Democrats in a showdown election and retain control of the only Red-dominated state in Western Europe.

By winning, the Reds thwarted a concerted drive by an American delegation and the tiny republic's non-voting women to replace Communism with democracy.

Semi - official final returns showed the Communists gained three seats from their opponents in the 60-man Grand and General Council, which controls all life in the 38-square-mile enclave of 15,000 people in the Italian Apennines. For the past four years the Reds have held a 31-29 edge.

Before it closed Sunday night, the electoral office announced 3,008 votes for the Communists and their Socialist allies, and 2,358 for the Christian Democratic and Social Democratic opposition. A recheck today was not expected to produce any substantial change in the official results.

Opposition Suspects Trickery

As soon as the polls closed, the Christian Democrats charged foul play. Party Secretary Zaccaria Savoretti said, "This is inconceivable. The Communists - Socialists could not have won by such a margin. I suspect some trick."

The victory was considered cru-

Republican Party Needs An Inspired Crack By Skilled Phrasemaker To Identify Ike

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—What the Republican Party needs right now is an inspired crack by a skilled phrasemaker, something to match FDR's socko invention: A New Deal.

Such a phrase brightly identifying the scope and objectives of the Eisenhower administration would help 1956 candidates in the field to stick aboard the President's coat tails. That is of course, assuming that he runs again, which is being about equally assumed and prayed against by Republicans and Democrats, respectively.

Keep cool with Coolidge, Harding's normalcy, McKinley's full dinner pail, Wilson's he-kept-us-out-of-war may have been corny or, even, phony. But they all had political sock which paid off at the polls.

Mr. Eisenhower has come up with some catchword descriptions of his own administration. They didn't take. For an early "dynamic conservatism' he substituted last Jan. 20 'progressive moderation" as the basic description of his objectives and principles. Beginning his third year in office, the President said his administration sought to be:

"Liberal in its human concerns, conservative in its economic proposals, constructively dynamic and optimistic in its appraisal of the future."

Middle of Road Man

That resounding statement, likewise, failed to find a place in the common language of the people. The President sharply protested earlier when others sought to tag his administration as new deal. Not so, he said.

Best description to date, perhaps, is that Mr. Eisenhower is a middle of the road man, and is busily widening the same. He's been over to the left, or Democratic side, of the road with his foreign program, taking most of his party with him. The old isolation-

Seeks Effect Of Atomic Radiation On Man's Future

Follows Warning By Top American Scientist Of Danger

By KENNETH MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — The UNITED Nations World Health Organization (WHO) today called an urgent meeting Tuesday of biologists and physicians at the Atoms for Peace conference to study the threat of atomic radiation on the future of the human race.

The WHO call for a meeting of scientists followed a new warning by a top American scientist at the conference that the dangers of atomic radiation to future generations may be greater than heretofore generally supposed.

Dr. William L. Russell, principal geneticist at Oak Ridge, Tenn., said most of the present calculations were based on laboratory tests with fruit flies. But he said tests with mice showed hereditary changes at a rate 15 times higher than in fruit flies.

He was backed by a British researcher, T. C. Carter of the Medical Research Council of the Atomic Energy Research Establishment at Harwell. Carter called for a ten-year international study program

Farm Management Committee Of County Sets Year's Program

The Farm Mangement Committee of Whitley County met Thursday night in the local extension office. J. Merlin Hindbaugh, chairman, called the meeting to order. Lester Arnold, extension economist from Purdue, was present and helped in the discussion of plans for next year's program. Mr. Arnold was in the county for two days last week for the purpose of returning the farm record book summaries. He stressed the importance of keeping complete and accurate records and having them summarized by Purdue so that you could more easily pick out your "strong" and "weak" points of your farming program. Hugh Reinhold, assistant county agent, showed Mr. Arnold around the county in order to return the summaries.

The committee made out a tentative program for next year. A dairy and swine management tour was discussed. Also the annual Outlook Meeting was planned, plus a meat type hog school.

The committee members are: James Baker, Merle Kyler, Robert Pontzius, Herbert Gross, Edwin Pugh, Hugh Henry, Ford Mishler, and Merlin Hindbaugh.

Credit Pincers Clamp Down On Stock Market

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Credit pincers clamped down on stock market volume during the past week.

Sales fell off to a mere 8,694,470 shares, the lowest since the week ended June 18, 1954.

The daily average turnover amounted to 1738,895 shares, against 2,108,590 shares daily last week.

The Monday market was hit when bankers raised call money rates further. On Tuesday the list had a sharp selloff and it left industrials at a new low since June 23.

Recoveries came later in the week sufficient to lift the industrial average by 61 cents to 457.01 on the week. Rails lost 91 cents to 154.09 in their average. Utilities yielded 83 cents to 65.40 and the 65 stocks used in the three averages lost a half dollar to 164.35.

Copper shares were strong most of the week and they finished higher. Traders anticipate a rise in the price of copper metal which would raise earnings and dividends for the producers whose labor troubles are ebbing.

Aircrafts were sustained most of the week. Du Pont, a feature of the chemical department, rose 5¾ points for the week.

Selling went ahead in the motors with General Motors losing 6 for the week and Chrysler 2½ points.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) stood out in its section in several sessions. It closed the week with a gain of a mere 1¼ points, however. Sears Roebuck was strong in the mercantiles. Some of the rails, including Rock Island and New York Central, were firm spots.

Procter & Gamble helped lift the industrials from the low with a rise of 5½ points.

The falling off in volume was seen as a favorable omen for the market. It reflected, in addition to a desire to be cautious on the future, a distinct lack of liquidation, brokers said.

The business news was all that could be hoped for, market men said. There were gains in building, steel output, oil output, auto production electricity output, and many other gains. Retail trade many oher gains. Retail trade was higher. So was wholesale.

The whole economy was around its best level in history with gross national production at a new top.

All of this brought warnings from many sources up to government officials who urged use of common sense in business ventures to prevent excesses.

President Begins His Work And Play Vacation

DENVER (UP) — President Eisenhower, obviously glad to have Washington problems temporarily behind, today began a work-and-play vacation with enthusiastic plans for an early bout with mountain trout.

The Chief Executive, rested from a quiet night at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Sheldon Doud, scheduled an early morning visit to his temporary headquarters at Lowry Air Force Base and then a golf match with Dan Thornton, former Republican governor of Colorado, at the Cherry Hills Country Club.

Mr. Eisenhower landed at Lowry at 8:59 p.m. EDT Sunday, after a five-hour, 34-minute flight from Washington in his Constellation, the Columbine III. He was in no hurry and detoured for a low-level look en route at his old hometown of Abilene, Kan.

The President, his desk and calendar relatively clear, is expected to head for the upper reaches of the Rockies Tuesday or Wednesday for several days of trout fishing at the Fraser, Colo., ranch of his pal, Aksel Nielsen of Denver.

Speculation buzzed among newsmen and others that the Chief Executive might give his new twin-engined light plane, an Aero-Commander, a workout on some of his fishing excursions.

The small four-seater arrived unannounced from Washington about two hours before the Columbine, stopping for refueling at Scott Air Force Base, Ill.

The White House would not say what plans, if any, Mr. Eisenhower had for the trim little craft, which he used to fly between Washington and his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

The President wound up a visit of several days to Gettysburg Sunday, leaving Mrs. Eisenhower there, and returned to Washington for a few Sunday hours at his desk before taking off. He disposed of the last three of 80 bills sent him by Congress, signing two and vetoing one.

He will fly east to Philadelphia via Washington Aug. 23-24 for a major speech to the American Bar Association, but return immediately. Mrs. Eisenhower is expected to join him at Philadelphia for the return visit.

Fountain Spouts 6600 Quarts Of Beer

LUBECK, Germany (UP) —Lubeck celebrated its second annual beer festival in a big way today with a beer-spouting fountain.

The fountain, donated by a brewery, poured fourth some 6,600 quarts of beer Sunday to 37,000 celebrants.

Denmark Leads The Fight Against Polio

Little Denmark, with a population of 4½ million has paved the way and proven that, with proper administration, the Salk vaccine is very successful.

With the government handling the affair, 400,000 Danish childern between the ages of 6 and 11 have been inoculated. Each received a second Salk shot six weeks later, the recommended interval by Dr. Salk himself.

Thus far NOT ONE CASE of infantile paralysis has developed in the inoculated youngsters.

The Danes had planned the inoculations as early as 1954, as they knew, as did informed persons in the U.S., that the Salk results would prove successful.

They were very careful in the preparation and testing of the polio vaccine. They took more safety precautions, and thus there was no live virus such as slipped through one batch of the vaccine in the United States.

Of 6 million U.S. children given the first inoculation, 142 had contracted polio by June 3. True, 6 million is about 15 times the number of Danish inoculations, but in Denmark there has not BEEN A SINGLE CASE. In 1952 and 1953little Denmark had over 7,000 cases of polio.

Another thing which may or may not be a factor in children being vaccinated contracting the disease, is that in Denmark the vaccine is not injected intra-muscularly into the arm, but consists of two intra-dermal (between layers of the skin) injections on the forearm, similar to the pinprciks of thesmallpox vaccination.

Out of the entire country of Denmark only 50 parents refused consent to have their children inoculated. Expenses were paid by the government.

We wonder about the time element between the first and second shot. Although four to six weeks were recommended, it will be about 17 to 20 weeks between shotshere. We hope that the vaccine will still be as effective as little Denmark has shown it can be.

UP Movietone Starts Service To BBC Today

LONDON (UP) — United Press Movietone News today started service to the British Broadcasting Corporation under the most comprehensive news and newsfilm agreement in television history.

Signed by T. R. P. Hole, editor of BBC, and A. L. Bradford, vice-president of United Press, the contract provides for news and film from the entire world.

"This is an interesting and important step in the development of the BBC service of news and information to the public," Hole said, "and BBC looks forward to United Press Movietone's supplying it throughout 24 hours, seven days a week with comprehensive, impartial, accurate and full service of news and documentary film material from all corners of the globe."

F. H. Bartholomew, president of United Press, said in New York that the new agreement is a further extension of the worldwide broadcasting services provided by the United Press.

"United Press will service BBC on an around-the-world, around-the-clock basis," he said. "Since it was organized in 1951, United Press Movietone News has grown into the largest and television's first truly global news service."

In addition to serving BBC, he pointed out, United Press Movietone is the largest supplier of television newsfilm to stations in the United States and serves the entire network of television stations in Canada through the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Clients elsewhere in the world include: Rai Network, Italy; RDF Network, France; Belgian Television; stations in Monaco and Saar; Swiss Television; CMQ, Havana; Televisa, Caracas; Tupi, Rio De Janeiro and Sao Paulo; Belgrano Network, Argentina; XEW and XHTV, Mexico City; and NHK Network in Japan.

Facilities for complete and fast processing are maintained by United Press Movietone in London, New York, Paris, Washington, Los Angeles, Munich, and Sydney, Australia.

Two Escape From Prison In Michigan

ELKHART, Ind. (UP) —Police were on the alert today for two men, one of them from Elkhart, who escaped from the Northern Michigan State Prison at Marquette, Mich.

The Hoosier is Donald Eads, 27, sentenced two years ago to 5-10-years for the robbery of a grocery near Niles, Mich. His companion was Donald Labadie, sentenced from McComb County, Mich., for forgery.

Teenaged Boy Accidentally Killed

CLINTON, Ind. (UP)—Richard Marietta, 15, Blanford, was killed accidentally by a shotgun blast Saturday on the opening day of the squirrel hunting season.

Marietta was shot through the heart at close range by Ronald Leach 13, Blanford, as the two set on a log playing with the gun.

Police Find Body In Box Car

DECATUR, Ind. (UP)—State Police today sought the identity of a man whose body was found in a box car at the Nickle Plate Railroad yard here during the weekend. Authorities said the man had been dead for several days.

Thieves Steal 8-Ton Shove

JERSEY CIT N. J. (UP) — Victor DeSantis, Bayonne, N.J., complained to poli that someone stole his eight-ton tractor shovel valued at $7,500. Police said the thieves apparently loaded the big piece of equipment on a truck and hauled it away.

Recover Body Of Minister's Wife

BRUSH, Colo. (UP)—The body of Mrs. Margaret Escott, 54, wife of a Marion, Ind. minister was recovered late Saturday from Beaver Creek about six miles downstream from where she was torn from her husband's grasp during a flash flood.

The couple's car was trapped on a bridge south of here Wednesday night during the flood. The Rev. N.E. Escott clung to the car and was rescued by firemen in a boat.

Russians To Get Taste Of Borscht Flavored Ice Cream

By TOM NELSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP) — The Russian farm leaders touring the United States will get a taste of home tonight—borscht flavored ice cream

The new ice cream creation will be dished up to the Russians at a dinner sponsored by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

Although the borscht flavor may taste familiar to the Russians, the entire concoction is bound to be something new in desserts for both the visitors and their hosts. Its never been served at a dinner before.

Harry Bresler, general manager and partner of an ice cream company, dreamed up the idea when he heard the Russians wanted to sample as many native American dishes as possible.

"The combination may sound a little bizarre," Bresler admitted of the borscht ice cream.

"But after a bit of experimentation we have found the mixture to be delicious," he added. "We are delighted with the success of this combination of a traditional American dessert with a flavor long identified with Russian cuisine."

The Russians were getting their fill of taste sensations and the refreshments served to them at a millionaire's estate Sunday night were no exception.

Six of the Soviets spent the evening on the farm estate of millionaire businessman John F. Cuneo. At his suggestion, they sampled a round of gin and tonic.

Delegation leader Vladimir Matskevich tok one sip and puckreed his face. But when he was asked if he liked the cocktail, Matskevich replied bravely:

"I can take it."

The Russians appeared to relish their evening at the super-capitalistic estate near suburban Libertyville.

Matskevich stood on the patio, gazing over a 20-acre lawn dotted with Italian-style statues, and commented "it reminds me of Switzerland.'

Cuneo, who is owner of the Hawthorn - Mellody dairy, then showed the Russians around his 3,500-acre farm estate. Matskevich, the deputy minister of Soviet agriculture, appeared particularly interested in a "milking parlor' where cows are soaked down with a hose to "relax" them and then milked 10 at a time.

The Russian asked Cuneo for the parlo's blue prints and the millionaire promised to supply them.

Two of the Russians went on a side trip today, flying to Lansing, Mich., for a six-hour tour of Michigan State University's farm mechanization exposition.

Announce Winners At Model Plane Show

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Two Ohioans and a youth from Mishawaka were trophy winners at the ninth annual Midwestern State Model Plane championships held Sunday at Stout Field here.

About 25,000 persons watched the performances of nearly 1,800 model planes entered in the meet. Contestants came from 20 states.

Lyman Slack, Cleveland, Ohio, won the control line division of the meet.

James Ball, Toledo, Ohio, won the radio control division and William Schlarb, Mishawaka took the trophy for the best free flight craft.

Bitterness For One, Happiness For Ten Fliers

By UNITED PRESS

There was bitterness for 1 of the 11 freed American fliers today and quiet happiness for the other 10.

Airman Daniel Schmidt, 23, parted from the wife who remarried during his 2½ years in the desolation of Chinese Communist prison camps.

His wife, Una, went into hiding with Schmidt's 2½-year-old son. She said she loved her second husband, lumberjack Alford Fine.

Schmidt, tight-lipped about the domestic tragedy, planned to go to Sacramento, Calif., to retain an attorney. He didn't know precisely what he was going to do, but he commented "A man would have to be awfully big to accept her back."

The other airmen who came home from Red China's prisons last week slipped quietly back into the stream of American life.

The celebrations and welcome-home kisses were over. Now all they wanted to do was rest, say "hello" to old friends, and get to know their wives and children again.

Sunday they tasted the contentment of a summer Sunday back home. They went to church and sat down to hearty Sunday dinners. Many of them, still exhausted by their ordeal, slept late and then napped in the afternoon.

Sgt. Howard Brown slept 10 hours on his first night home at St. Paul, Minn., and Airman 2.C. Harry F. Benjamin spent Sunday driving around Worthington, Minn. with his wife, just to see how things had changed.

Capt. John W. Buck got up from a sound sleep at Armathwaite, Tenn., and donned a bright sports shirt and civilian slacks. He said it felt so good to be home he may ask for an extension of his 30-day leave.

Treasurer Riddick Given Certificates At State Tax School

Foster W. Riddick, Columbia City, Whitley County treasurer, was among 152 city, township, county and state government officials who received certificates at the conclusion of the first Indiana Property Tax School at Indiana University.

Purposes of the school mainly were to discover ways to make property taxes more equitable and to prevent evasion of payment of personal property taxes. The school was sponsored by the I.U. Department of Government's Bureau of Government Research, the National Association of Assessing Officials and state associations of county auditors, treasurers and assessors and township assessors and trustees.

Prof. Edwin B. McPheron, director of I.U.'s Bureau of Government Research, was director of the school. Roy T. Combs, Indianapolis, Marion County auditor, was chairman.

Potent Cocktail

LONDON (UP) — Bartender George Monti offered an atoms-for-peace cocktail today.

His recipe: "Put a dash of cobalt-blue Curacao rum in a champagne glass, fuse into it half a test tube of Cognac, fill with champagne, drink slowly, await radiation."

Monti added "Two or three of these and you are at peace with the world.'

Seventy members of the Helblig family enjoyed dinner Sunday at the home of Mrs. Cleveland Linvill.

During the afternoon Carl Kessie showed pictures that he had taken while in Switzerland. Mrs. Linvill's father, who married a Helblig, was a Kessie. The Kessies were originally from Switzerland.

Ray Kessie was elected president for 1956 and Marshall Linvill was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Reds

cial for the Communists, who have held power since the war. If they had lost, they might have dropped out of power for a long time because of the changing position of the republic's women.

The Christian Democrats had promised voting privileges for the women if they took over the government of the 1600-year-old republic. Political observers believed this move would have assured continued power for the Democrats, since practically all the women are devout Catholics and would vote against the Communists.

Fearful of losing their slim majority, the Reds deliberately moved the election up one week to the eve of the Italian bank holiday, or Ferragosto. This enabled hundreds of Communist-supporting emigrants to come home from Belgian and French mines to vote.

San Marinesi who move to other countries retain their citizenship and voting rights until they become citizens of their new countries. About half of San Marino's 7,897 eligible voters are expatriates, and both the Communists and their opponents campaigned ambitiously to get voters back for the election.

The Reds outdid the Democrats in this respect, despite some recruiting in America by the Democrats. The Communists "imported" about 1,600 San Marinesi who work in Italy, France and Belgium. They turned the tide unexpectedly three hours before voting ended by herding in a large number of voters from Italy.

The Christian Democrats had hopes that a delegation of 127 men from New York and the Detroit area would swing the election in their favor. The expatriates from America did some influential campaigning and were among the first in line to vote.

Publisher 'Chipper' On 99th Birthday

ROCKVILLE, Ind. (UP)—A.A. Hargrave, dean of Indiana's newspaper publishers, was "very chipper" today as he observed his 99th birth anniversary.

Hargrave's son, William B., said four of the five Hargrave children assembled at his home for a family dinner. Hargrave was in good spirits and sat beside "a basketful of greetings" most of the day, his son said.

The elderly publisher didn't do any work. He already had dictated weekly column for the Rockville Republican, which he has published for the last 67 years.

Ice Cream Man Rescues 6-Year-Old From Kidnaper

COMPTON, Calif. (UP) — An alert ice cream peddler Sunday rescued a six-year-old girl from a kidnaper whose description he heard on his radio.

Police said Everado Martinez, 39, of Artesia, Calif., lured Joyce Pike into his car with the promise he would give her money. The girl's companion, Terry Hose, 8, also entered the car but managed to jump out before it sped off.

The boy's description of the abductor was broadcast immediately and ice cream salesman Braden Jr. heard it and spotted the girl in a car. Braden walked to the parked car and found a man sprawled asleep in the back seat, he said.

"Is anything the matter?" he asked the girl.

"This man won't take me home," she sobbed.

Braden said he seized the ignition keys from the dashboard, calmed the girl and called police who arrested Martinez under California's "Little Lindbergh Law."

Martinez, father of eight children, said he had not molested the girl.

"I lost my mind . . . I've never done anything like this before," he told officers. "I'm sick and I'm an alcoholic."

Nuclear Pioneers Uneasy

The American - inspired atoms conference which drew leading scientists from 72 nations went into its second week with reams of highly technical papers. But laymen could see that the nuclear pioneers were uneasy about their brainchild.

Dr. Russell, principal geneticist of the Oak Ridge laboratory's biology division, read a paper on the effects of radiation on mice in the middle of a lively international controversy on the possible birth in the future of freaks and monsters because of radiation from atom bomb tests.

Russell said the danger came from so-called mutation changes, changes passed on by men and women to their children. He noted the great changes in several generations of mice and said calculations on human hazards may seriously underestimate the human damage.

He suggested a partial solution for cases in which a man, through accidents in atomic studies, receives a considerable radiation dose.

He recommended that the individual abstain from procreation for the few weeks required for the disappearance of (sex) germ cells that were irradiated.

Would Reduce Risk

But he added that his studies indicated that although postponement of procreation for a few weeks would reduce the risk of transmission of mutational changes, further postponement would not give any additional reduction in risk.

Russell said adequate protection against genetic hazards may require a limitation not only of the average dose of radiation received by the population as a whole but also of the dose accumulated by individuals.

Carter said most experts agree that to expose a human population to continuous irradiation would be "very undesirable," but that the limit of 25 roentgens he mentioned is far more than the world is getting from A-bomb tests.

jobless paycheck, despite the weekly rise in benefits from $10.66 in 1939 to about $25 now, was not good enough. He said it amounted to only about one-third of the average worker's regular pay, compared to 41 per cent in 1939.

The nation turned out about 7 per cent more goods and services in the second quarter of this year than in the same period of 1954. At the same time, wage earners received about 5 per cent more in personal income.

Income Above Expectations

Income climbed to an annual rate of $300,500,000,000, some 2 million dollars above expectations. This was an increase of $6,900,000,000 over the rate for the first three months of 1955. It compared with a rate of $286,600,000,000 in second quarter 1954.

The report showed that taxes on personal income amounted to about $33,400,000,000 at annual rates, a rise of about 800 million dollars from the first quarter. This left some $267,10,000,000 for spending or saving. Of that amount, again at annual rates, some $250,500,000 000 went for spending and about $16,600,000,000 for savings.

Savings increased $1,300,000,000 over the first quarter rate, but remained below expectations. The President's Council of Economic Advisers had expected personal savings to hit an annual rate of $17,500,000,000 in the second quarter.

The April - May - June rise in spending was largely for food, clothing and services, the report said. This followed a "sharp" rise in expenditures for automobiles, furniture and household equipment during the preceding three months.

Police Call In Camp Counselors For Questioning

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UP)—State police called in counselors of Camp Wabaningo for questioning today in their search for clues to the sex-slaying of a young Boy Scout who wandered away from his companions while hiking through the woods.

Sheriff Axel Pederson, out to get "all the details" in the slaying of 12-year-old Peter Gorham of Evanston, Ill., said at least several of the 10 counselors would be given lie detector tests.

Peter, who had been missing since July 5, was found dead Sunday in a swampy wooded area 10 miles north of here and 6 miles from the camp.

Pederson said the slaying "undoubtedly was the work of a sex pervert."

State police said they believed the crime was committed by a person who was not connected with the camp but who was familiar with the area. They said all counselors and some of the Boy Scouts were being questioned to make sure no possible clues would be passed over.

President Offers Solution To The Teacher Shortage

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP) — President Eisenhower, said today one way to relieve the "serious shortage of teachers" is to pay them salaries commensurate with the services they perform for the individual family, the community, and the nation.

He made his statement in a message to the AFL American Federation of Teachers, which opened its 38th annual convention here.

But the Eisenhower administration drew criticism from AFL President George Meany and Federation President Carl J. Megel for its "disappointing record" in failing to support federal aid to education.

Speaking to an estimated 1,000 delegates attending the five-day convention, they promised a united labor fight for federal aid when the AFL and CIO merge this winter.

Meany, in a message, called for a "vigorous campaign for the conssruction of new schools and the lifting of teachers' standards to a level of decency."

Megel, in his presdential address, charged that the administration has "dodged the issue" of aid "by artfully following the delaying tactics of study, stall and stand pat."

Ohio Teenager Wins Annual Soap Box Derby

AKRON, Ohio (UP)—A tall, slim Rochester,, N.Y., teenager headed for home today with the college scholarship he won in the 18th annual Soap Box Derby race here Sunday.

Richard Rhorer outdistanced 152 other entrants in his blue and gold racer to win first place and a $5000 college scholarship before an estimated crowd of 65,000.

Rhorer raced down the 975-foot course at derby downs in 27.25. His time of 27.12 also was the fastest time of the day's four heats.

Dave Thayer, 14, Detroit, Mich., won the second place prize of $4000 and Albert Cobble 14, Long Beach, Calif., was third, for $3000.

Adenauer Makes Release Of Prisoners Main Condition

BONN, Germany (UP)— Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has made the release of German war prisoners from Iron Curtain countries a main condition for establishing normal relations with the Soviets, the Bonn government disclosed Sunday night.

The chancellor took the tough stand for the first time publicly in a note delivered to the Soviets and released by the Bonn government.

At the same time Adenauer reiterated Western allied warnings that there can be no European security system without agreement on German reunification.

Adenauer has agreed to fly to Moscow to begin negotiations with the Soviets around Sept. 9.

Chunk Of Cobalt 60 Vanishes From Exhibition

GENEVA (UP) — A chunk of radioactive "cobalt 60" vanished today from the Atoms-for-Peace exhibition. It was believed taken by a souvenir hunter who does not realize he may be carrying death in his pocket.

This is the same radioactive metal used in hospitals to power coblat radiation guns. Swiss police appealed for its return and warned it is dangerous.

The small sample was missing from the French industrial exhibit in the Palais des Expositions when it opened today. Officials said it apparently was stolen by a souvenir hunter during Sunday's public show.

British Spokesman Says U. S. Wants To Publish Records

LONDON (UP)—A spokesman for the British Foreign Office disclosed today that the United States wants to publish the records of the Big Four summit conference at Geneva in the near future.

Britain objects to the plan.

The Foreign Office spokesman said:

"Consultations are in progress and no final decision has been taken so far.'

"Britain,' he said, "would prefer not to publish."

The spokesman said the United States government has informed the British government it wishes to publish the records "in accordance with their (the United States') practice."

The four powers participating in the Geneva conference which sought a formula for ending the cold war, have each drawn up their individual records of conference proceedings. There is no single, agreed record, British officials said.

British officials would like to postpone publication of the Geneva conference records for an indefinite period.

In the British view, the proceedings of such conferences should not be made public during the lifetime of its principals.

The same question arose earlier this year when the United States announced the decision to publish the records of the long - secret Yalta conference. Britain opposed publication of those papers on grounds such "premature ublication" might adversely effect future confidential discussions in other conferences. Britain also objected that the rocedure might be embarrassing to individuals who spoke, believing they were speaking in confidence.

Heart Specialist Convicted Of Murdering Wife

MCALESTER, Okla. (UP)—Dr. Ben T. Galbraith, 34-year-old heart specialist convicted of murdering his wife, today awaited a judge's formal sentence that will send him to a life term in prison.

The slightly-built young physician will be taken from his jail cell before Judge W.A. Lackey Tuesday to hear the sentence as recommended by an all-male jury.

The jury, which could have handed down the death penalty, deliberated only an hour and 10 minutes Saturday night before finding Galbraith guilty of killing his wife, Katherine, 34.

The verdict climaxed a week-long trial, presaged by Dr. Galbraith's slashing his wrist a day before it started. It was his fourth attempt at suicide since last March 17, when his wife was clubbed to death and his three children died from injections of poison.

Galbraith admitted killing his family and trying to burn their house down to cover up the crime.

He said he killed them because of a fear he was going crazy and his family would be left to starve.

Galbraith's attorneys indicated they would not appeal, and it appeared likely that the state would not prosecute him on the three counts of killing his children.

Struggle For Power Within Red China

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP) — The influential United Daily News said today a struggle for power within Red China was underway between Premier Chou En-lai and Communist Chief Liu Shao-chi.

The newspaper predicted Chou would lose and a sweeping purge would result.

Liu, chief Communist theorist for Peiping, is chairman of the standing committee of the National Peoples Congress. He is head of the Communist Party in Red China.

"Liu is predestined to win out while Chou will suffer sad defeats," the newspaper said. "The clique led by Liu will become more powerful and will present the appeasers with unpleasant facts."

Chester Wiley Makes Initial Ayrshire Buy

Chester Wiley, R 1, Columbia City, recently made an initial purchase of three registered Ayrshires, according to the Ayrshire breeders' Association Eecutive Secretary, Chester C. Putney, of Brandon, Vt.

The transaction was recorded in the National Office of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association in Brandon where complete records on all registered Ayrshires in the United States have been maintained since 1875.

Indiana Author Cited

BLOOMINGTON — A book by an Indiana University author has been chosen as one of the 42 notable educational books of 1954.

The National Education Journal has listed as an outstanding 1954 education book, Educating Women for a Changing World ,written by Mrs. Kate Hevner Mueller, professor of education at I.U. The 42 notable books were selected from approximately 600 published last year.

Manager Casey Stengel Dines On Own Words; Yankees Feast On Rival Pitchers

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

Manager Casey Stengel was dining on his own words today but couldn't be happier because his New York Yankees are feasting on rival pitchers again.

Only a week after Stengel labelled them "the worst hitting New York team I've had," the Yankees unleashed a total of 30 blows good for 49 total bases in crushing the Baltimore Orioles, 7-2 and 20-6.

As a result of the heavy cannonading the Yankees:

1. Moved past the Chicago White Sox into second place in the American League race only a half game behing the Cleveland Indians.
2. Stretched their winning streak to four games—the longest they've put together since June 2.
3. Attained their largest single game run output of the campaign and scored in double figures for the first time since June 2.
4. Can take over first place by beating the Orioles twice again today.

The Yankees sliced a game-and-a-half off the Indians' margin when Cleveland bowed to the Kansas City Athletics, 7-3, Sunday. They moved past the White Sox, who defeated the Detroit Tigers, 5-4, and held their three-game lead over the fourth-place Red Sox who walloped the Washington Senators, 9-6 and 2-1.

Hank Bauer homered in each game and Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra also hit homers in the Yankees' tremendous assault. They routed ex-Yankee Ed Lopat in a four-run fifth inning in the opener and blasted seven pitchers for 20 hits in the nightcap. Whitey Ford received credit for his 13th win in the opener and comeback kid Tommy Byrne hit his 11th victory in the second game.

The Atlhetics pounded Mike Garcia for six runs in three innings and went on to snap Cleveland's six-game winning streak with the aid of Art Ditmar's fine relief performance. Ditmar took over for ailing Bobby Shantz in the fifth inning and yielded only two hits in 4 2-3 innings to gain credit for his eighth win. Garcia, a 19-game winner last season, now is 8-11.

Fleet Jim Rivera scored from third base on Walt Dropo's infield out in the eighth inning to give the White Sox their third win in four games. Billy Pierce won his ninth game of the season and first over his former Detroit teammates in two years.

George Susce Jr. pitched a seven-hitter for his sixth win for the Red Sox after Norm Zauchin's 23rd and 24th homers paced Boston to its first-game triumph. Billy Klaus' double, Ted Williams' single, an error and Jackie Jensen's sacrifice fly gave the Red Sox their two runs in the first inning of the nightcap. Zauchin drove in five runs in the opener.

In the National League, Robin Roberts and Don Newcombe finally met in their long-awaited duel with the Philadelphia Phillies' star coming out on top of the Brooklyn Dodgers' ace, 3-2, in 10 innings. The Dodgers rebounded to win the second game, 5-4, on Carl Furillo's 13th-inning single and still lead by 15½ games. Their magic number is "24" with 40 games to play.

Roberts' victory was his third in a row and made him the first major league pitcher of the season to win 19 games. Newcombe suffered his second straight loss and now has an 18-3 record.

Sid Gordon's 200th homer of his career gave the New York Giants a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in their opener and the 37-year old veteran also homered in New York's 3-1 nightcap win. Johnny Antonelli won his 10th game and Jim Hearn his 13th for the Giants.

Ted Kluszewski's 40th and 41st homers of the year were not enough as the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-4, in 10 innings and the Milwaukee Braves won a 4-3, 10-inning decision over the Chicago Cubs in the other National League games.

Hoosier Swimmers Make Good Showing At AAU Tournament

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Hoosier swimmers picked up their share of ribbons during the weekend in competition in the 1955 National AAU swimming tournament which ended here Sunday.

Coralie O'Connor of Lafayette, Ind., placed third with a time of 1:16.4 in the 100-meter back stroke, Sharon Goodman of Indianapolis came in sixth in 3:16.5, and Betsy Ewbank of Indianapolis was eighth in 3:19.3. Winner of the event was Mary Jane Sears of Washington who broke her old mark of 3:07.4 set in the tourney at Indianapolis last year. Miss Sears' time was 3.4 seconds.

Phylis Shields of Indianapolis A.C. took third in the one meter diving contest with 384.20 points. Emily Houghton of Lafayette was fourth with 373.25, and Mary Croake of Lafayette was sixth with 364.80.

Australia Is Favored Over Italy

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Australia was heavily favored to clinch its Davis Cup tennis interzone final against Italy today with a victory in the doubles, with even the Italian captain admitting that "I probably wouldn't believe it if we won."

Australia won the opening singles of the best of five series Sunday as Lew Hoard trounced Italian champion Fausto Gardini, 6-3, 6-2, 6-0, and Ken Rosewall had unexpected trouble with 21-year - old Nicola Pietrangeli, although Ken won, 8-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Today, Australia's Wimbledon champion doubles team of Hoad and Rex Hartwig was to meet Pietrangeli and 6-foot, 7-inch Orlando Sirola on the grass court at Germantown Cricket Club.

The interzone winner will play the U.S. for the cup at Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 26-28.

The interzone matches originally were scheduled to start last Friday but were pushed back by two days because of rain. It rained again Saturday night and Sunday morning, then cleared, but the court was soaked soft.

New Haven Wins Waterball Tourney; Columbia City 4th

The New Haven Fire Department won the first-place trophy in the water ball tournament Saturday afternoon, sponsored by the Columbia City Volunteer Fire Department on South Washington street, east of the County Jail.

The second-place trophy went to a women's team of the Big Lake department and third was Columbia township. Columbia City finished fourth but did not receive a trophy. Laud, the state champions, were eliminated in the first round battles.

Nine teams participated in the water ball battles, held in conjunction with the Old Settler's celebration. Other teams represented were Arcola, Larwill, Laud, Thorncreek, and Washington township (Whitley county). The tournament began at 2:30 and was completed by 5 p.m. and a crowd jammed the sidewalks and street to watch the "battle of the hoses."

The crowd was kept informed of the progress of the tournament by use of a public address system furnished by the Allen County Sheriff's Department.

The next match for the Columbia City team will be in a tournament at Poe August 27. They also have a match early in September, details of which will be announced later.

Young Carin Cone Surprise Of 4-Day National Swim Meet

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Olympic diving star Pat McCormick of Los Angeles, distance swimmer Carolyn Green of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., 15-year-old Carin Cone of Ridgewood, N. J., and Washington's Walter Reed Swim Club took home the major honors today from the 39th annual National AAU swimming championships.

Young Miss Cone, who never before had won a major title, was the surprise of the four-day tournament. The unheralded young merfiliation, equalled the world's 50-maid, competing without a club af-meter course record to win the 200-meter backstroke championship in defeated defending champion Sheltwo minutes, 45.6 second. She also ly Mann in the 100-meter backstroke to become a double-winner.

Miss Green and Mrs. McCormick also won two championships but it was a disappointment to them. Both were triple champions in the 1954 meet and lost one of their crowns this year.

Miss Green successfully defended her 800 and 1,500 meter freestyle championships but lost her 400-meter title to Dougie Gray of the Walter Reed Club.

Mrs. McCormick won the one and three meter diving titles for the fifth straight year but she lost her platform diving crown to Mrs. Juno Stover Irwin, 24-year-old Pasadena, Calif., mother of three.

The meet was even more disappointing, however, for Miss Mann, who lost both the championships she won last year, the 100-meter backstroke to Miss Cone and the 100-meter butterfly to Betty Mullen, her teammate at the Walter Reed Club.

Despite Miss Mann's title losses, the Walter Reed Club piled up an overwhelming score to win the team title during the four-day meet which continued through Hurricane Connie. The club totaled 109 points compared to 51 for the Los Angeles AC, the nearest competitor.

Guglielmi Chosen Most Valuable Player

CHICAGO (UP)—Notre Dame's Ralph Guglielmi, who engineered the College All-Stars 30-27 upset win over the Cleveland Browns, was chosen by football writers during the weekend as the Stars' most valuable player.

The Irish quarterback, who called every play in the Friday night classic, garnered 62 votes out of a possible 110.

Among those singled out for special praise on the defensive squad was linebacker Tom Bettis of Purdue.

Holle Nears Track Record As He Is Top Winner At Warsaw

Archie Holle, Warsaw, had the fastest qualifying time of 18.83 seconds Saturday night at the Warsaw Speedway as he neared the track record of 18.28 set by Gale Smith, his hometown neighbor.

Holle also won top prize money as he took first in the 20-car feature race and second in both the third heat and the race among the six fastest cars. Smith was the winner in both of the latter races. He was forced out of the feature by two flat tires.

Others receiving prize money were first heat: Joe Hamsher, New Paris; Buck Beazley, Wolf Lake; and Bill Jones; second heat: Cecil Huntley, Columbia City; Steve Osbun, Warsaw; and Gerald Bills, Columbia City; third heat: Smith, Holle, and Bob Staley, Warsaw; fourth heat: "Slug" Morr, Albion; Charlie Howell; and Cliff Gibson, Columbia City; six fastest qualifiers: Smith, Holle, and Jimmy Hullinger; consolation (includes all drivers not winning money in other races): Arden Leiter, Pierceton; Wendell Fike, Dick Parker, Columbia City; Rollin Smith, and Don Riley, Marion; feature: Holle, Staley, Hullinger, Gibson, Huntley, Leiter, "Wheaties" Smith, Riley, Morr, and Fike.

In an added attraction, Bud Gullett, Arkie Yeazel, and Max Bessinger were the first three finishers in the jalopy race, which included 17 cars.

The wins by Holle the last three weeks has brought him to within six points of the leading total of 130 for the season held by Bob Staley. The five drivers finishing the season with the most points will receive trophies from the Hoosier Hot Rods Racing Association, Inc. C. E. "Hoot" Gibson, Columbia City, is president of the association. The drivers are awarded points according to the place in which they finish in the various races.

A crowd of about 2000 persons attended Saturday night's races aided by the attraction of the Kosciusko County Fair.

Julius Boros Holds Golfdom's Richest Paycheck Again

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UP)—Stocky Julius Boros held golf's richest paycheck for the second time in four years today, and the 35-year-old Connecticut pro said he'd be glad to play exhibitions to make some more money.

Boros, always steady despite the pressure of a $50,000 cash prize, ripped two strokes off Tam O'Shanter's 72 par on the final round of the "world" tourney and finished seven under par for 72 holes with 281, two strokes better than Fred Haas, Claremont, Calif., next best in the classy field.

"I didn't know I had it won until Gene Littler came to the 18th tee and needed an ace to tie me," Boros said. "I just played the best I could all the way around, without worrying about what anybody else was doing."

His attitude carried him through. He started the last round two strokes behind Bo Wininger, Oklahoma City, Okla., and one behind Wally Ulrich, Rochester, Minn., and Littler, Palm Springs, Calif.

Wininger succumbed to the pressure with a first hole bodie and Littler moved into a tie. He held at least a share of first place thereafter, though tied occasionally by Boros and Lionel Hebert, Erie, Pa., until the 13th hole.

That one settled the tourney. Boros slapped in a 35-foot putt for a birdie and Littler, short with his second shot, missed a six-foot putt and trailed by a stroke. He never got it back. Boros parred three holes, then birdied the 17th with a nine-foot putt, to clinch the big payoff.

In 1952 Boros also came home in front in this same tournament, that time for a $25,000 first prize which moved him into first place in earnings for the year and which clinched for him the money winning championship with $37,035 for the season.

The purse for Sunday's triumph, in addition to the cash, also included a contract for 55 exhibitions at $1,000 per appearance and Boros said he would make as many as possible.

Haas put together the best round of the day, a 68, to win second money of $10,000, while Henry Ransom, Chicago, Peter Thomson, Australia, and Littler shared third money, each getting $3,500. Antonio Cerda, Argentina, and Ulrich tied for sixth and won $1,950 each, while Fred Hawkins, Chicago, and Hebert each won $1,750 for an eighth place tie.

Patty Berg, Chicago, won permanent possession of the "world" championship Cup for women pros with a final round 75 for a 298 total to beat out Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., by one stroke.

Doug Sanders, Cedartown, Ga., won the men amateur title with a final round 70 for a 284 total, and Wiffi Smith, St. Clair, Mich., took the women's amateur crown with a 74 for 309.

American's Queens Favored To Win Wightman Cup

RYE, N. Y. (UP) — Although jarred by the surprising defeat of U.S. champion Doris Hart in the first match Britain has won in four years, America's powerful tennis queens were favored to win the Wightman Cup today for the 19th straight time.

Miss Hart, unbeaten in 12 previous cup matches since 1947, was only one game away from another victory when she fell apart and lost to Britain's best player, Angela Mortimer, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5.

Miss Mortimer's victory was the first scored by Britain in this most lopsided of international competitions since Jean Quertier of Britain beat Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, in 1951. It was only the third match won by Britain in the 65 making up the series played since World War II.

But Wimbledon champion Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., had a hand in both a singles and doubles triumph Sunday to give the United States a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. The American girls thus need only a split of the four matches scheduled today to win the Cup for the 23rd time in 27 years of play since 1923. Britain has not taken the Cup since 1930.

Manager Haney Says His Pirates First In Hustle

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) —From deep down in the cellar, Manager Fred Haney proudly proclaimed today that his Pittsburgh Pirates are "outhustling every club in the league."

"We may be last in the standings," Haney declared, "but we're first in hustle. There isn't a club in the league that hustles as much as Pittsburgh — and that includes Brooklyn, too."

Painfully aware that his Pirates are about to finish eighth for the fourth straight season, the stocky, bespectacled Haney insists they're not as bad as they look on paper.

"Actually, the club played a lot better ball then it did last year," he pointed out. "I know you wouldn't draw that conclusion by looking at the standings but the won-and-lost records don't really show the true picture.

"Last year, I'd say we were out of almost 50 per cent of the ball games we played. By that I mean we never had a chance to win those games after the first few innings. But this year we've been playing 'em much closer.

"Now realize that being close only counts in pitching horseshoes and it doesn't bring you even one more game in the win column in baseball, but it definitely does show our club is on the way up."

Haney said the three most improved players on his club were outfielder Jerry Lynch, shortstop Dick Groat and third baseman Gene Freese.

"All three came along very well this year and there's no reason to think they won't be even better next year," he said. "Of course, we've had our disappointments, too.

"Outfielder Frank Thomas had a poor year and we had counted on him tremendously for the long ball. We also thought that Dick Littlefield would win his share for us but he got hurt and never really got started."

Haney emphasized that the "potential is here" but it might be "another year or so" before Pittsburgh fans can expect a club that has an outside chance to move into first division.

"There's no question but that we'll be in the market to make deals this winter, although that department is in the hands of Mr. (Branch) Rickey," Haney said.

"Wait 'Till Next Year"

"There isn't very much wrong with our pitching and I know a few clubs in the league who are no where as well off as we are in that department. Some of the youngsters have made mistakes this year but that's only natural when you consider their limited experience.

"Next year thay won't make the same mistakes and we should be a lot stronger. I know that 'wait until next year' is the saying that belongs to Brooklyn but I can't help feeling it applies to us now."

Haney admitted he toought before the current season started that the Pirates would vacate the cellar this year. But they're 10½ games behind seventh place and their chances of climbing that high aren't good.

Nevertheless, Haney insists, hustle, we rate No. 1 in the league."

Rivers-King 10-Rounder Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) —Neal Rivers, young middleweight slugger of Niagara Falls, N. Y., will try for his sixth straight knockout tonight in a TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena with Alabama's Jimmy King, a crafty, Europe - polished veteran.

Coincidentally, it will be the first professional appearance in New York City for each and his debut on network TV. Rivers fought here once as an amateur.

Despite Rivers' punch, 30-year-old King is favored at 8-5 because of his skill and experience. The slick boxer of Birmingham, Ala., returned two months ago from a campaign of more than four years in Europe. This is his home-coming performance.

Tony Trabert Gives His Ailing Shoulder First Big Test

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UP)—Tony Trabert gives his ailing shoulder its first big test today with Davis Cup Captain Billy Talbert watching anxiously from the other side of the net as the National doubles tennis championships begin at Longwood Cricket Club.

Trabert, on whom U.S. hopes of defending the Cup later this month depend so much, underwent a brisk workout in Philadelphia Sunday and drew optimism from pro star Jack Kramer, who has been coaching him.

"Tony tried some hard shots and the shoulder felt all right," said Kramer. "I think he will be all right for the National doubles and for the Davis Cup play. But, of course, he will try to be careful and we will watch him closely."

Talbert, non - playing captain of the U.S. Cup team, gets an unusual chance to watch Trabert and his Cup teammate Vic Seixas of Philadelphia in their opening match today in the doubles. Talbert and young Maxwell Brown of Louisville, Ky., are the team opposing the U.S. stars.

Trabert and Seixas, who are expected to carry the Davis Cup load for the United States, are the defending champions and have been top-seeded. Australians Rex Hartwig and Neale Fraser are top-seeded among the foreign entrants.

The latter took on Sam Schoonmaker and Ed Bennett, both of Pine Orchard, Conn., in first day action.

In the women's division, reigning champions Doris Hart, of Rye, N .Y., and Shirley Fry, of Akron, Ohio, were matched against Helen Rihbany of Boston, and Karol Fagaros, of Miami.

The Hart-Fry combination, top-seeded in the ladies domestic bracketings, was seeking to extend to five in a row their National doubles triumphs.

The IRA's insolent raid netted 67 Bren and Sten guns and rifles and 80,000 rounds of ammunition when a band of commandoes descended on the British barracks at Arborfield near London and tied up 20 sentries.

Three suspected raiders and a fifth of the stolen ammunition were captured a few hours later, but the rest got away.

Extra Guards For ueen

A British War Office spokesman said today "units have been told to post armed men at all important points and have a bullet up the spout."

The Navy and Air Force also tightened their security guards and it was reported without confirmation that extra guards were surrounding the residence of ueen Elizabeth at Balmoral Castle in Scotland and Eden's cottage at Broad Chalk.

The Home Office said the reports were "unlikely." Scotland Yard commented only, "We never discuss security arrangements.' A spokesman at the War Office said the reports "could be true."

Hurricane Fringe Fades Out Of State

By UNITED PRESS

The dulled fringe of hurricane Connie faded out of Indiana today, making room for mostly fair and warmer weather.

The fringe of the hurricane swung through Indiana Sunday in the form of moderate winds and overnight showers, mostly in northern and central sections.

But skies cleared today, and the Weather Bureau forecast highs ranging from 85 north to 88 south, as much as 11 degrees warmer than Sunday's highs in some areas. Lows tonight will range from 60 to 64.

Highs Sunday ranged from 74 at Fort Wayne to 87 at Evansville. Lows early today ranged from 56 at Indianapolis to 65 at South Bend. A little rain fell during the 24-hour period ending early today, the most .07 inch at Indianapolis, the weatherman said.

The outlook for Wednesday was mostly fair and warm.

Souped Up

CAMDEN, N. J. (UP) —Police arrested three employes of a soup company and charged with with stealing cases of canned soup during their lunch hour.

Is That Clear?

CONCORD N. H. (UP) —One of the laws passed by the 1955 state Legislature yielded the following paragraph:

"The singular includes the plural and the plural includes the singular; the masculine includes the feminine and neuters, as requisite.'

Around The Clock: Around The World!

By UNITED PRESS

RIVER SIOUX, Iowa (UP) — Myron Hoff, 56, isn't sparing the calories these days because he's worth his weight in silver.

Hoff won the prize in a nationwide livestock judging contest for feed dealers and will receive a silver dollar for every ounce he registers at an official weighing - in at Chicago.

His current weight of 177 pounds is worth about $2,800.

TOKYO (UP) —Horrified police guards surrounded Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako with drawn guns today when a mother bear and her cub confronted the strolling royal couple near their villa.

The bears blinked at the scene and fled.

TOKYO (UP) —Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt arrived in Japan by air from the United States today. She will stay a week, making tours of Kyoto and Kikko.

The widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt is scheduled to leave Aug. 21 for Hong Kong and Bangkok where she plans to attend a conference of the U.N. Association.

DJAKARTA, Indonesia (UP) — A series of 10 strong earthquakes Sunday and today wrecked the west Java mountain town of Sumedang.

There were no reported casualties, but 200 houses were destroyed and 38 other buildings were leveled. The quakes came from the Tampo Mas Volcano several miles from the town, which is near Bandung.

BIRMINGHAM, England (UP)— A 26-year-old laborer was fatally injured Saturday night by a discharging gun he threw down in disgust after missing a target 16 times at a carnival rifle range. George Larmore was hit in the chest by a bullet and died Sunday.

UJIYAMADA, Japan (UP) — Shigemasa Sunada, Japan's civilian defense chief, called today for the creation of a full-fledged defense ministray and the strengthening of Japan's present defense forces.

He told newsmen that Japan's self-defense forces are shackled by an organization which has not changed from the time it was a "national police reserve," Sunada said the country's World War II military leaders should act as advisors on the project.

TOKYO (UP)—The elder brother of the Dalai Lama, theocratic ruler of Communist - occupied Tibet, has received a permanent visa to live in the United States as a political refugee, it was disclosed today.

An American embassy spokesman said the visa was issued last Friday to the Tibetan priest, Tag Tser (also known as Dempa Rabche), who has been here more than one month waiting for the visa clearance.

CAIRO, Egypt (UP) — Finance Minister Abdel Moneim Elkaisouni announced today that Egypt has reached trade agreements with Russia and Romania to exchange oil for Egyptian cotton. He said the pacts were renewals and extensions of present trade accords.

CATANIA, Sicily (UP) — The small-scale eruption of Mt. Etna acted up again today for the benefit of thousands of Italian bank holiday tourists. Europe's loftiest volcano spewed molten rock high into the air and sent out a stream of hot lava. Scientists said there was no danger to nearby villages.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Attend Weekend Assembly At Goshen

Mr. D. E. Stull of New York, district minister of Jehovah's witnesses in this area will be the principal speaker at the circuit assembly to be held at the Goshen High School on Highway 33 East of Gosher, August 19-21. An expected audience of 700 delegates from 20 congregations will attend the welcoming address at 7 o'clock Friday. Thirty-five will attend from the local congregation.

The theme of the gathering will be, "Training for Ministerial Work," which will be emphasized by talks, demonstrations and playlets during the three days.

The film, "The New World Society in Action" will be shown and narrated Saturday.

The climax of the assembly will be Mr. Stull's talk, "Why a New World is Possible," to be given Sunday at 3 o'clock.

No meetings will be held at the local Kingdom Hall this weekend.

Grain Futures Take Sharp Turn Down Last Week

CHICAGO (UP) — Grain futures took a sharp turn downward on the Board of Trade last week, reflecting huge surpluses of grains as of July 1, estimates for bumper crops this year, and brisk competition in world markets.

Export sales and domestic flour business were negligible.

Compared to Friday a week ago, wheat ruled 1-4 to 1 cent a bushel lower; corn 4 3-8 to 10 3-4 lower; oats 1 1-4 to 2 1-8 lower; rye 1 3-4 to 2 3-8 lower; soybeans 5 1-4 to 7 lower; and lard 2 to 32 points per 100 pounds higher.

Cash markets showed comparable losses.

The Agriculture Department announced Friday it will follow through with its proposed changes in the wheat price support program for 1956 in an attempt to discourage production of inferior types of grain.

The department said it will cut 20 cents a bushel from the current price support for 23 varieties of wheat considered unfit for making bread, pastry or other wheat products. The remainder of the 1956 wheat crop will be supported at an average price of at least $1.81 a bushel.

Government officials said the idea behind the new program was not so much to trim wheat output as to get a better quality of wheat grown in this country. They explained any improvement in wheat quality would make it easier to sell U.S. wheat abroad as well as to domestic buyers.

Millers usually have rejected the inferior grades of wheat with the result that the grain often landed in the hands of the government as surplus.

Republicans

ist wing is now but a fistful of feathers. But, for example, in carrying on the New Deal reciprocal trade policies, Mr. Eisenhower accepted some of the safeguarding compromises demanded by the protectionists.

Mr. Eisenhower's effort to ease restrictions of the Refugee Act was a left-of-center maneuver. But he went to the right with his hydro-electric power program, on tidelands, taxes, and wage-price controls. He was down the middle on public housing — asked for 35,000 units annually for two years, settled, finally, for 45000 units in one year. The Democratic opposition wanted 135000 units annually for four years.

The President was a bit left of the old Republican Party line with a health reinsurance plan for financing catastrophic illness. But he was far to the right of former President Truman's payroll tax plan of compulsory health insurance which was borrowed largely from the recent Socialist government of Britain.

Widens Middle Road

He widened the middle road a bit with a request that minimum wages be boosted to 90 cents from 75 cents an hour. The Democrats struck for one buck, 25 cents short of the $1.25 sought by organized labor.

Mr. Eisenhower has fostered expanded Social Security but successfully opposed Democratic efforts to expand further this year. The Eisenhower administration school construction program is more a leave-it-up-to-local communities than it is a federal program.

The President's recommendations on the Taft Hartley Act pleased neither side. His approach to public road building was new, as were the approaches to public power development, health reinsurance and the building of schools.

There remains within the Republican Party a core of opposition to Mr. Eisenhower and there are those who spurn him as a New Dealer. He may get some comfort from the fact that many a builder and real estate operator called the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, most effective sponsor of public housing, a Socialist.

Honor Guest Absent

LODI, Wis. (UP) —Local folks were so impressed with "Susie' the duck's regularity in nesting each year at the same spot on Spring Creek that they held a big festival in her honor Sunday.

Some 8,000 persons showed up and took part in parades, softball games, art and puppet shows.

But, there was one hitch. For the first time since 1947, Susie didn't show up.

Indians Attempt To March Across Border At Banda

Portuguese Guards Fire Upon Them

PANGIM, Goa (UP)— Reports reaching here said 7 Indians were killed and 36 were wounded today when reinforced Portuguese frontier guards fired upon hundreds of Indian "volunteers" who attempted to march into this enclave to demand its surrender to India.

In Calcutta, India, it was reported that 6 Indians were killed and more than 100 wounded when Portuguese police fired on Indian "non-violent" demonstrators attempting to march into Goa.

Automatic rifle fire could be heard on the Indian side of the border with enclave, the reports said. The Portuguese were said to have fired many blank rounds into the air before shooting at the "invading" Indians.

United Press staff Correspondent John Hlavacek, who saw one of the most bloody incidents, said 3 Indians were killed and 13 were wounded when 50 Indians attempted to march across the frontier at Banda.

The unarmed Indians retreated, he said, after gathering up their wounded. Hlavacek and another correspondent, Arthur Bonner of CBS helped the Indians remove two of their dead.

Portuguese sources described as a failure the Indian demonstration, aimed at forcing the portuguese to get out of Goa—a colony about the size of Rhode Island.

Other reprts said two Indians were killed at Aronda. One was killed and 19 were wounded at Erekhol and 1 killed and 4 wounded at Vapi, near Daman.

Messages from Diu said 200 Indian marchers were poised on the frontier to march into Goa from that point but there was no information on how many actually attempted to enter or whether there was gunfire.

Indicaions received here were that of the several thousand who had converged on the frontier for the march, only 300 to 400 actually attempted to cross, in face of the determined resistance of the Portuguese guards.

(In New Delhi both the British High Commission and the American Embassy denied they were considering intervening in the Indian - Portuguese dispute. Their denials were issued in response to persistent rumors that the two countries had been asekd to intervene.)

Rhee Determined To Force Out Red Inspectors

American Military Officer Flies Back To Southern Korea

By ROBERT BROWN
United Press Staff Correspondent

SEOUL, Korea (UP)— U.S. Far East Commander Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer hurried back to riot-torn South Korea today after President Syngman Rhee reaffirmed his determination to force U.S.-guarded Communist truce inspectors out of Korea.

Lemnitzer, the top American military officer in the Far East, flew in from his Japan headquarters. It was his third trip to the uneasy peninsula since Korean mobs 10 days ago started demanding that Polish and Czech truce inspectors leave the country. The general's mission today was not disclosed.

Republic of Korea President Syngman Rhee earlier today reaffirmed the determination of his nation to tnrow out the Communist truce team members, whom Rhee calls "spies."

Lemnitzer met with Rhee in Seoul last week and was believed to have urged the aged leader to appeal to his people to avoid against U.S.-guarded truce team compounds.

After the meeting, Rhee called off his ultimatum for the Poles and Czechs to leave and warned his people against violence.

But today, speaking to 50,000 persons in Seoul City Stadium in observance of the 10th anniversary of Korea's liberation from Japan, Rhee renewed his demand that the Reds must leave Korea.

Even as he spoke, thousands of his people massed in front of U.S. Army compounds housing neutral Czech and Polish members of the truce team.

"We must carry on our determination to oust the foreign spies until we succeed," Rhee declared extemporaneously, after reading a prepared address. "Nobady can stop our determination."

The president cautioned, however, against violence of "unlawful" acts.

"They (the demonstrators) should behave themselves as gentlemen," he said.

Farm Organizations Plan To Eliminate Federal Gas Tax

WASHINGTON (UP) The nation's major farm organizations are planning an all-out campaign to eliminate federal taxes on gasoline used in farm tractors and other agricultural machinery.

Farmer spokesmen call the taxation "unjust and inequitable.'

The federal government levies a 2-cent tax on each gallon of gasoline. This levy is scheduled to drop to 1½ cents per gallon next April 1.

Since tractors and other farm equipment do not use the highways, farm leaders feel gasoline used in this equipment should not pa ywhat is essentially a road tax.

Forty-five states already have agreed, granting exemptions from state gasoline taxes for farm-used fuel. Only Utah, Wyoming, and Vermont fail to grant farm exemptions.

Dropping the federal tax would cost the treasury about 60 million dollars annually at current rates and 45 million dollars a year at the reduced rate scheduled to take effect next April 1, the American Farm Bureau Federation has estimated.

Rioting Convicts At Walla Walla Surrender Today

Release Hostages After Speech By Tough-Talking Warden

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UP)— Twelve rioting convicts at the state prison surrendered and released ten hostages today after Warden Lawrence Delmore Jr., backed by armed guards, told them they were "damned fools.'

The convicts had barricaded themselves in the food manager's office of the prison, where they were driven by tear gas and a warning shot fired by the tough-talking warden.

Delmore said the rioting inmates captured 11 guards at 10:15 p.m. EDT during the evening meal and released one of them, Gerald Lehan, with the convicts' demands. For a short time the rioters held partial control of the prison, but guards went into action with tear gas.

In quick succession, the guards secured one cell block after another. During the confusion, three guards were locked into one of the cells. These three, not kept as hostages, were released when guards moved through the cell blocks.

The riot leaders tried to get to the isolation ward where 15 of 18 "maximum security" prisoners who headed a riot here 40 days ago are held.

"I put a 30-30 slug over their heads and they gave up that idea," Delmore reported to Dr. Thomas A. Harris, state institutions director, at Olympia.

At one point the dozen rebellious convicts threatened to "slit the throats" of their hostages if Delmore didn't order his guards to put down their weapons.

Among the demands handed Lehan to take to Delmore was that a meeting be scheduled with Harris and three newsmen today. A similar meeting led to the end of last month's riot.

Delmore talked the dozen leaders of the latest uprising into surrender by reaching them on the telephone in the steward's office. The warden said he would use guns if necessary to take the kitchen area.

"You're damned fools," Delmore told the cornered rebels. "Improvements are coming up."

The warden said the convicts had a half hour conference among themselves after he talked to them by telephone. They "agreed to surrender, that it was foolish to hold the hostages,' he said.

The surrender came at 4:15 a.m. EDT.

Famous World War II Hero Is Found Dead

WASHINGTON (UP)—The coroner's office withheld a formal ruling today in the puzzling death of Marine Maj. Gen. Merritt A. Edson, famous World War II hero who was found dead Sunday of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Deputy Croner Richard M. Rosenberg said he could not issue a formal ruling on the cause of death until completing the investigation which might take two or three days.

Edson, leader of the famed "Edson's Raiders" in World War II, was found dead in his car inside his closed garage. The auto's ignition key was turned on, but the engine was not running, Rosenberg said.

Members of Edson's family told Rosenberg Edson had shown no signs of despondency and that he was in good health. No notes were found, Rosenberg said.

Ike Expresses Hope For A Second Conference Of Atoms-For-Peace

By WILLIAM C. SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — The United States announced today that President Eisenhower wants another Atoms for Peace conference to carry on "the great beginning" in international atomic cooperation.

Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman mission, said the President had of the U.S. Atomic Energy Com- authorized him to express the United States' hope that the work begun here will continue.

"Ive just received a message from him (Mr. Eisenhower) authorizing me to state that it is his hope that a second conference will be convened at a later date..." Strauss told the American Club of Geneva in an informal lunch address.

"The interval between the conferences," Strauss said, "might be as much as two or three years and will, of course, be gauged to allow for a significant accumulation of new scientific knowledge."

Ike is Pleased

It was the first such proposal by any of the 72 governments represented at the first atoms for Peace congress. But many delegates have expressed the private belief that progress made here has been such that the conference should continue.

Strauss said the President "is highly gratified" at the results of the 12-day session.

UnknownWarrior Of World War II To Rest In Glory

In Arlington National Cemetery

WASHINGTON (UP)—An unknown warrior of World War II is to be brought home at last to rest in honored glory in Arlington National Cemetery.

Representative of 16 million persons who served in World War II, symbol of 360,000 who died, and chosen from 8,000 who could not be identified, he will be enshrined beside the Unknown Soldier of World War I.

Unlike the Unknown Soldier, whose white marble memorial is a mecca for American and foreign visitors here, the unknown of World War II may be a soldier, a sailor, a Marine, an airman or a Coast Guardsman.

The Defense Department after a five-year delay announced Monday that planning for selection and burial will go forward now. It had been intended to select a World War II unknown warrior at Independence Hall in Philadelphia on May 26, 1951, and to have the burial ceremony at Arlington on May 30, 1951. But the outbreak of the Korean War in the preceding summer caused the Defense Department to put off those plans as "not appropriate" at that time.

Congress in 1946 authorized the honoring of an unidentified American fighting man.

Chinese And Indian Held For Murder Of UP Manager

SINGAPORE (UP)—A Chinese truck driver and an unemployed Indian youth were ordered held for trial today for the murder of Gene Symonds, United Press manager for Southeast Asia who was killed in a riot May 12.

Magistrate Choor Singh ordered the truck driver Ong Ah Too and the unemployed Indian youth, Suppiah Waw, held for trial after a Chinese deaf mute told how the Indian kicked Symonds repeatedly as he lay on the ground.

The two youths originally were charged with being members of an unlawful assembly which caused Symonds' death. The murder charge was preferred against them by prosecutor H.B. Livingstone when the preliminary inquiry opened Monday.

The deaf mute, Lim Yan Ling, identified a picture of Symonds as the man who was assaulted and readily identified the Indian as the person who kicked him and then ran off with his wrist watch.

12-Year-Old Boy Critically Hurt In Odd Accident

Impaled By Broken Radio Antenna That Pierced His Heart

FORT WAYNE Ind. (UP)—A 12-year-old boy impaled by a broken car radio antenna that pierced his heart and who was twice nearly given up for dead was in "very critical" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today.

The youngster, Larry LaTourette of Fort Wayne, pulled the antenna shaft from his chest and then collapsed late Monday following a bicycle accident on U.S. 24.

Authorities said the mishap occurred as the youth cycled home from a swimming pool with a companion, Michael Hildenbrand, 12, riding on the handlebars.

Larry struck a sign along the road and Michael, clutching the broken antenna they had found along the road, toppled to the ground. Larry fell on top of Michael and the slender antenna rod plunged three inches into his chest, piercing the tip of his heart.

Attendants said the boy's heart stopped beating twice while he was in the hospital emergency room, and both times physicians thought he was dead. However, the youth regained consciousness and was able to give authorities a complete account of the accident.

20,000 Indians Demonstrate Today Before Portuguese Consulate At Bombay, India

BOMBAY, India (UP)—Twenty thousand Indians demonstrated today before the Portuguese consulate here in protest against the death of 23 "peaceful liberators" of GOA shot "by Portuguese authorities seated on chairs."

Authorities ordered 600 police to protect the Portuguese consulate while a dispatch from Goa said authorities there were rushing reinforcements to the Indian border against Indian demonstrators "using arms."

In New Delhi, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said the Indian victims of Monday's clashes which took at least 23 lives were "fired at by Portuguese authorities seated on chairs." He accused Portuguese police of being "brutal and uncivilized."

Nehru declared "this kind of action has no argument" and warned that the "Goa story will not end, until our object is achieved"—the union of the 400-year-old Portuguese enclave with the Indian government.

At the same time United Press Correspondent James Berry reported from Goa that police rushed reinforcements to two points along the jungle border between India and Goa after receiving reports the Indians were using arms.

The "peaceful invasion" of Goa was being carried out by "Satyagrahis"—believers in peaceful resistance—and today's report was armed. Nehru, in a speech before the first that any of them were parliament, emphasized their peaceful nature.

Nehru mentioned only 15 dead and 28 injured in Monday's clashes but he admitted the reports were fragmentary and said "many more might have died."

The Goa reports said 23 indians were killed and 120 injured when some 5,000 "Satyagrahis" tried to march into Goa and two smaller enclaves of Damao and Diu on the west coast of India.

Nehru paid tribute to the dead, particularly the woman marchers who laid down their lives "for a noble cause." Members of parliament stood in silence in memory of the dead.

Mr. Sarley is the assistant manager of the Montgomery Ward store in this city.

Police Guard Against Renewal Demonstrations

Against Government Of President Peron

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UP) — Federal police guarded today against a possible new wave of demonstrations against the government of President Juan D. Peron.

In Buenos Aires Monday night, police used tear gas to break up an anti-Peron demonstration virtually on the doorsteps of the presidential palace. Clashes also were reported in Cordoba.

The street battles flared even while police were rounding up members of an alleged conspiracy to assassinate Peron. According to a police announcement, the alleged revolt was to be touched off by armed attacks on the public services, police stations and garrisons and headquarters of the pro-government General Labor Confederation.

In the general confusion expected to follow the attacks, Peron was to be assassinated. Also marked for death, according to police, was Army Minister Gen. Franklin Lucero who commanded Argentine security forces that crushed the navy-led revolt two months ago.

A crowd of 400 defied police to march into the Plaza de Mayo Monday night, shouting such slogans as "Long live liberty." The presidential palace fronts on the square in downtown Buenos Aires. It was damaged by rebel air attacks during the abortive June 16 rebellion.

A police sound truck warned the demonstrators to disperse as they surged toward the palace but the warnings were ignored. Foot police then opened fire with tear gas, scattering the marchers and thousands of spectators crowding the square.

Defiant demonstrators attemping to regroup were lashed with streams of water from the high-pressure hoses of fire trucks. Smaller gatherings were dispersed by police and two shots were

Indianapolis Man Dies Of His Injuries

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—John Adamson, 14, Indianapolis, died today of injuries sustained when he was struck by an automobile as he rode a bicycle on an airport runway.

Authorities said the boy was riding at the Midwestern States Model Airplane Show Sunday at Stout Field. He was hit by an automobile driven by Marion Miller, 24, Greenville, Ohio, who said he was turning into a parking space on the runway when the boy pedaled into the path of the car.

Committee Calls 8 Or 9 Surprise Witnesses Today

In Investigation Of Stage, Television, Radio Personalities

NEW YORK (UP)—The House Un-Amercian Activities Committee called "eight or nine' surprise witnesses today in its investigation into communist activity among stage, television and radio personalities.

Frank Tavenner, counsel for the committee, said names of the witnesses would not be disclosed before their appearance.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa), committee chairman, said several of the witnesses under subpena probably would be "helpful" in the investigation. He declined to identify the witnesses or say when they would appear.

Walter said Monday night he planned to begin in February an investigation into Communist infiltration in high government circles.

Walter said preliminary examination by staff members of his committee indicated "Communist cells in the United States Senate, the War Labor Board and the National Labor Relations Board." He said later he meant the red cells were among staff employes of the Senate, not among senators themselves.

Seven well known stage actors appeared before the committee on the opening day of its hearing Monday and one by one refused to answer questions relating to communism.

Five invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions. Three of these also specified rights granted under the First Amendment and their rights to free association.

One of the seven, Sarah Cunningham, the only woman to appear, said she was the descendent of a former President of the United States but she refused to identify him with the explanation that she did not want to "smear anyone."

Gibson Gets Fine, 60 Days On Drunken Driving Conviction

James L. Gibson, Churubusco, was assessed a fine of $25 and costs and sentenced to 60 days at the Indiana State Farm Monday when he pleaded guilty to two counts of intoxication in Whitley County circuit court. Judge Pefley also ordered that no driver's license be issued to Gibson during a period of one year from the date.

Gibson, 41, was arrested Saturday while driving on State Road 205 in Churubusco by Max Miller, chief of police there. In the affidavit filed, he was charged with public intoxication and driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverage. He was driving with a suspended license at the time. The sentence was made on count two. Count one of the affidavit was continued.

Railroad Brakeman Falls Beneath Train Wheel; Is Killed

WARSAW, Ind. (UP)—A Nickel Plate railroad brakeman was killed today when he fell beneath the wheels of a freight train on which he was serving as a crew member.

Robert John Treece, 30, Payne, Ohio, apparently slipped on loose stone along the tracks west of Sidney when he jumped off the engine as it moved slowly toward a stop on a siding.

Engineer Earl Hiatt Fort Wayne, reported to police Treece fell beneath the wheels and that 15 cars of the train passed over his body before the train was stopped.

Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Pence Will Return To Florida Tuesday

Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Pence, who have been visiting in this city since the first of June, will return to Hollywood, Florida, Tuesday of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pence recently purchased a new home in Hollywood, having moved there only three weeks before making their annual visit back here in Columbia City. Their new address will be: 2601 Taylor street, Hollywood, Florida.

Mr. Pence sold his two business properties here during this visit. Hollis Peeler purchased the building in which the O'Daniel Drug Store is located. He is the owner of the drug store. Wilfred Dues bought the building on the corner of Chauncey and VanBuren street, which houses Williams Food Market and Dr. Thomas Hamilton's office.

Britain's Royal Marriage Act May Be Changed

To Permit Princess Margaret To Marry Man Of Her Choice

LONDON (UP) — Two British newspaper indicated today that Britain's royal marriage act may be changed to permit Princess Margaret to wed the man of her choice.

There was no mention of divorced Group Capt. Peter Townsend but the implication was there. Margaret will celebrate her 25th birthday on Aug. 21.

The Daily Telegraph mentioned the Royal Marriage Act of 1772 for the second day running, and between the lines was the hint that the law might be changed.

The tabloid Daily Sketch raised the question a little more bluntly. In two-inch tall banner headlines on page one it said: "Princess Margaret — will the law be changed?"

The Sketch answered its own question with, "While the world guesses at Princess Margaret's intentions after her 25th birthday, the belief is growing among lawyers in touch with the government that the Royal Marriage Act may be amended."

But first, the sketch predicted, the Princess would have to renounce her rights to the throne (she is third in line) and give up the state allowances of 6,000 pounds (16,800) a year now and 15,000 pounds $42,000) after she marries.

She might also have to give up her title as princess and her status as "her royal highness' which entitles her to a curtsy the Sketch said. But this would be up to her sister, Queen Elizabeth II.

Theoretically she could renounce these rights without a change in the Royal Marriage Act. But a change take care of any possible parliamentary objection to her action.

Surgeons Remove Peanut From Left Lung Of Youngster

CHICAGO (UP) —Surgeons removed a peanut from the left lung of 14-month-old Timothy Reidenbach, brought here with a police escort from his home at Bluffton, Ind.

A spokesman at Children's Memorial Hospital said the youngster slept well after the operation, had a good appetite this morning and may be released today or Wednesday.

He was brought here by his mother, Mrs. Bonnie Reidenbach, and his aunt, Mrs. Oral Fulton, Monday night.

Diane Lumbers Toward Coast Of Carolinas

At Slow Freight Speed; 100 MPH Winds Near Center

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UP)—Hurricane Diane lumbered toward the coast of the Carolinas at slow freight speed today with a tempest of 100-mile-an-hour winds boiling near its center.

Intensity of the storm had dropped 15 miles an hour since early morning.

South Carolina was warned that the second hurricane in a week to hit the Atlantic seaboard's midsection would bring torrential rains and possible severe floods with the wind.

A noon EDT advisory put Diane's center 235 miles southeast of Myrtle Beach, S.C. The howler was moving toward the north-northwest at 10 miles an hour. It was expected to slam inland somewhere near the South Carolina-North Carolina border early Wednesday morning.

Winds along the coast should reach gale or hurricane force tonight or early Wednesday, the weather advisory said. Tides were running high ahead of the storm.

The coast was buttoned up tight. Savannah Beach, Ga., was largely evacuated and boarded up. Blimps at the Navy's Glynco Station at Brunswick, Ga., were flown to Montgomery, Ala. Disaster shelters were designated in the danger area — 19 in Charleston County alone — and were provisioned with food and medical supplies.

Navy and Air Force reconnaissance planes located the "eye of the storm and found winds over a small area near the center up to 115 miles an hour. But Hurricane force winds whirled out for 125 miles to the north and east and 70 miles to the southeast.

The coast was preparing for its second hurricane within a week. The town of Savannah Beach, Ga., linked to the mainland by a long causeway, was evacuated.

Diane changed course slightly from west-northwest toward a more northwesterly direction this morning. That would tend to lessen the danger to the Georgia coast and intensify it in the Carolinas.

A long area from Fernandina, Fla., to Wilmington, N.C., was on hurricane alert. Small craft as far north as Cape Henlopen at the Delaware breakwater and lower Chesapeake Bay were warned of high seas.

Five Days Of Warm Weather Is Ahead

By UNITED PRESS

The weatherman said today Hoosiers have five days of warm weather ahead with some relief scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday.

Temperatures will range from three to six degrees above normal for the five-day period. Normal highs are 83 north to 88 south. Normal minimum temperatures are 59 north to 64 south.

There will be very little precipitation except some light rain in the central and extreme south sectors today and in eastern Indiana Thursday.

Today's forecast called for continued warm weather for the state fair in the north and partly cloudy in the central and south.

Partly cloudy skies will cover the entire state tonight and Wednesday. The weather is due to cool slightly Wednesday.

Highs today will be 85 north to 92 south. Tonight's lows will range from 65 north to 70 south. Wednesday's maximum temperatures will vary from 82 north to 88 south.

Monday's high was 91 at Fort Wayne. Low was 87 at Lafayette and Indianapolis. Monday night's temperatures ranged from 55 at South Bend to 68 at Evansville.

No rain was reported at any of the weather stations Monday.

Third Daughter Born To The Robert Moogs In Washington, D.C.

A third daughter was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moog, Washington, D.C. and formerly of Columbia City. She weighed 5 pounds, 7 ounces.

Announcement of the birth was received here by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hougendobler, Washington township, parents of the mother. The paternal grandparent is Mrs. Walter Moog. The great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spear, Kendallville.

Mrs. Hougendobler reports that the father, Robert Moog, underwent a brain operation in March and is in only fair condition. She left Tuesday for Washington, D.C. to assist her daughter in caring for the new-born child.

Red China Still Stalls Efforts Of United States

To Win Freedom For Americans Detained In Red China

GENEVA (UP) — Authoritative sources said Red China continued to stall United States efforts today to win freedom for 41 American nationals detained in Communist China.

These sources said Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan devoted most of today's meeting with U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson to various maneuvers designed to force the United States into at least an implied recognition of Red China's responsibility for and control over all overseas Chinese.

An official U.S. spokesman said, following todays session, that the day's discussin was confined to the question of returning civilian nationals of the two nations to their homelands. He added that the next meeting — eighth in the current talks — will be devoted to the same stalled issue.

The Chinese have insisted on linking the return of the 41 Americans to a demand for return to China of thousands of Chinese students in the United States.

The United States has pointed out that the Chinese are free to return to the China mainland any time they choose to accept Communist rule. But Ambassador Wang and the Peiping regime have insisted on some form of neutral inquiry into the desires of the students and at least an implied recognition by the United States of Red China's claim to control over them.

To Construct Radar Stations On The DEW Line

Will Provide Four To Six Hours Warning

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army announced today that 3,000 troops are pushing toward the Arctic frontier with enough building material to construct more than 50 radar stations and other sites on the continent's air raid warning net.

The announcement, giving the first indication of the number of locations planned for the distant early warning (DEW) line, said the specially trained troops will unload more than 200,000 tons of construction material and supplies along the largely unexplored high Arctic coast line.

The DEW line is a joint U.S.-Canadian venture, being financed by this country, designed to provide four to six hours warning of approaching enemy bomber attacks along the polar approaches to North America.

Seven radar stations already are operating in the American segment of the line along the north coast of Alaska. Others are functioning in Greenland at the opposite end of the net which is approximately 3,000 miles long. Work now is beginning to fill in the large gap across the top of Canada.

The Army said it has two task forces in the shipping operation, which must be completed by late September before polar ice makes further navigation impossible.

One force left Seattle last month and soon will pass Point Barrow, Alaska, headed toward Canada's central Arctic areas. The other force, broken into two groups, is operating along the coast of Baffin Island and northeastern Canada, having sailed from Norfolk, Va.

The Navy, in a recent announcement, described the norther moment as the largest Arctic operations ever staged. The operation involves 117 ships carrying supplies for the DEW line as well as Alaska and Greenland air bases.

The Army forces have the task of moving the building materials and supplies onto the Arctic shores under conditions ranging from mucky tidal flats to Rockbound cliffs.

Committed Murder Nearly 25 Years Ago

VIROUA, Wis. (UP)—Raymond Kroll, 47, Davnport, Iowa awaited sentencing today for a murder committed nearly 25 years ago. Kroll pleaded guilty Monday to shooting and killing Clarence Sutherland during an attempted robbery here Oct. 19 1930.

Governor Craig Predicts North-South Toll Road Will Be Reality Sooner Than Expected

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governor Craig predicted today a north-south toll road running the length of Indiana and extending on to Miami will be a reality soner than expected.

He brought newsmen up to date on highway and bridge plans at a news conference late Monday. His plans covered projects from Lake Michigan to the Ohio River.

Craig said he once believed the Indiana-to-Florida turnpike could not be built for 10 years. After conferring with other governors in Chicago last week, he now thinks "it will all be planned, not built, in five years."

On the Hoosier portion, Craig said a final survey on a north-south road from Hammond to Indianapolis will be ready in November. The superhighway already is known to be "worthwhile," he said, so bonds can be sold at once and construction started in the spring of 1956.

"Roads Beget Roads"

Then "roads beget roads," the governor said, and the Hammond-Indianapolis segment will make it feasible to start an Indianapolis-to-New Albany segment.

Linking with that, Craig plans a new toll bridge, costing 12 million dollars, across the Ohio River in the New Albany-Louisville area. A traffic count of the proposed four-lane structure should be ready in two weeks.

To finance the structure, Craig figured Indiana and Kentucky could sell bonds for 6 million dollars, share the cost of constructing approaches, and obtain the remainder by "refinancing" Indiana's first toll bridge across the Wabash River near Mt. Vernon.

The 2½ million dollar Mt. Vernon bridge was financed from a revolving fund because the bond market was not favorable. Now, with the bridge built, bonds should bring a good price, Craig said.

Also as part of the New Albany bridge plans, Craig is trying to win federal designation of U.S. 31W—from Scottsburg to New Albany—as an "interstate highway." This would qualify the road for from 60 to 93 per cent federal aid.

Two Roads Approved

Horace Coats, the governor's executive secretary, conferred with federal officials in Washington about 31W last week. Coats, said it appears likely 31W and Ind. 100 around Indianapolis will be added to the federal aid system.

Craig also sought the federal designation for Ind. 37 from Indianapolis to South Bend, and U.S. 41 from Earl Park to Evansville. But Coats said it was "impossible" to win approval on those roads. On other matters, the governor said:

Politically, he has "no plans to be a candidate at any time for anything."

He will gladly participate in the Kentucky gubernatorial campaign if invited to do so.

He will tour southern Indiana this week, stopping at Madison State Hospital, Evansville State Hospital, Muscatatuck State Park, New Albany Tuberculosis Hospital and Morgan-Monroe State Park.

Place Emphasis On Peaceful Uses Of Atomic Energy

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP)—The emphasis was on peaceful uses of atomic energy as some 800 union officials and apprentices met today in the second United Association of Plumbers and Pipefitters conference at Purdue University.

Registrants for the week-long program included more than 600 officials of the plumbers union and employer representatives, 150 apprentice instructors from the union and 77 apprentice plumbers and pipefitters.

The apprentice plumbers from all parts of the United States and Canada will match their skills for $3,500 in cash prizes during the conference.

The delegates were welcomed Monday by Vice President Frank C. Hockema of Purdue and heard an address by Peter T. Schoemann, assistant to the general president of the organization's United Association at the opening session.

A forum on atomic energy will open tonight and continue through Thursday. Topics for discussion and demonstration will include atoms for peace, safety and health hazards, disposal of radioactive waste, new metals and installation techniques.

Speakers include George Glasheen, Louis A. Roddis, Joe Machurak, Fl. Brannigan and Robert E. Paher of the Atomic Energy Commission; W.R. Ellis, Westinghouse, Pittsburgh; W.A. Elliot, General Electric, Schenectady, N.Y.; E.E. Hamer, Argonne National Laboratory, Chicago; J.L. Klein, Nuclear Metals, Cambridge, Mass.; D.K. Davis, Babcock and Wilcox, Barberton, Ohio, and A.M. Gegenheimer, Blaw-Knox, St. Louis.

Monday and today were devoted mainly to sectional meetings stressing collective bargaining, health and welfare plans and other union matters. Sectional leaders were union spokesmen and representatives of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Clara Walker Granted Divorce In Circuit Court

Clara Carole L. Walker was granted a divorce from Fred M. Walker in Whitley County circuit court Monday.

The plaintiff was also declared the owner of real estate owned in Coesse, and of certain household goods and an automobile titled in her name.

On The Job

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—State Agriculture Commissioner Buford Ellington today praised the Tennessee Highway Patrol for "being on the job."

An automobile in which Ellington was a passenger was stopped by police in a radar speed net and the driver was fined $13.50 for speeding.

Dulles Holds News Conference

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission in Korea may be serving an evil purpose.

He said that removal of the commission or restriction of its activities would be desirable.

Dulles also told a news conference that he has seen no evidenc from the Communists that progress can be made now toward unification of Korea. In the recent Communist calls for a conference on Korea he said the Communists have not indicated they are ready to accept United Nations-supervised election to unify the nation. He said no progress toward unification can be made without that.

The status of the supervisory commission has become increasingly critical. South Koreans have been rioting, with the blessings of their government, in an effort to drive the Communist Polish and Czech members of the truce inspection group from their territory.

On other subjects, Dulles had these comments:

Russias decision to cut the size of its armed forces apparently means it recognizes the "peaceful purposes of the United States and its Allies." He warned that even after cutting its forces by 640,000 men, Russia will have more men under arms than the United States. Nevertheless, he said the cut apparently reflects acceptance of President Eisenhower's dclaration at Geneva that this country "never will be a party to aggression."

He is disappointed that Red China had not yet released American civilians it has detained. The United States will keep trying to get the Americans out.

Confirmed the United States plans to compile an official report on the formal meetings of the Geneva "summit" conference and to publish it.

Alibi

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — A 9-year-old boy, caught by police burglarizing a hamburger stand, came up with a quick alibi.

He said he had been walking in his sleep and didn't know where he was until officers awakened him.

Lost

NEW YORK (UP)—Out of town residents aren't the only ones confused by New York's subway system.

The city Transit Authority said one of its subway trains got "lost" Monday when it was switched onto the wrong track on Manhattan and dropped passengers off blocks from where they were headed.

Wilson And Company Plans To Abandon Its Chicago Plant

CHICAGO (UP)—Wilson and Co., prepared today to abandon its 28-acre plant here, shifting operations to three midwestern plants closer to the source of supply.

Most of the Chicago operations and Albert Lea, Minn., James D. with a lesser proportion scheduled for Omaha, Neb.

Cooney explained the decentralization move was decided upon because the Chicago plant had become obsolete, and was inefficient. Rehabilitation would cost 8 million dollars, he said, while modernizin and expanding the plants at Cedar Rapids, Albert Lea and Omaha would cost only 4½ million dollars.

Cooney valued the Chicago plant at $7,800,000. He said it was hoped to make the move by next January, but that the company will not act hastily.

The Chicago plant employs 3,800 persons. Cooney said about 800 will be retained here for administrative and sales work, and in non-food divisions that will be left at Chicago. The remaining 3,000 may transfer to the new operations if they wish to do so, he said.

Wilson was the third large packer to move from Chicago. Swift and Co., stopped killing hogs here and shifted the operations to other plants, and Cudahy Packing Co., recently moved its general offices to Omaha.

Florence Chadwick Fails To Make Her Round-Trip Crossing

FOLKESTONE, England (UP)—Florence Chadwick, a California long distance swimmer, failed in her attempt to make a round-trip swim crossing of the English Channel from England to France Monday.

Miss Chadwick, a channel veteran, plunged into the water near Dover at 8:50 a.m. and left the water at 3:22 p.m. before completing the first leg of the swim to France.

Miss Chadwick abandoned her attempt because of bad weather conditions when she was approximately six miles off the French coast. She had been battling through waves 10 feet high and was advised by her navigator she would have no chance to make a two-way crossing.

Local Family Is Back From 5,000-Mile Trip To Coast

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Killian and children, Richard and Rebecca, and Mrs. Killian's mother, Mrs. Maggie Bratt, returned from a 5,000-mile auto trip to the west coast Saturday.

The family group left here July 28 and traveled through the southwest on their way to the coast. They visited a week in Phoenix, Arizona. At Phoenix, they saw Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Stevens, the Richard Allen family, the Dale Snapp family, and the James Bratt family.

They drove on to Riverside, California where they visited the Rome Repp family, and Mr. Repp toured them around that vicinity for a day. The Killians returned home on a route farther north, through Nevada, Utah, and Colorado.

Mr. Killian reported that they saw the aftermath of flash floods in Albuquerque and Phoenix. He stated that 40 city blocks of Albuquerque had been flooded, and that Phoenix had more rain this year than in 44 years.

During their 5,000-mile drive, the group from this city did not see a single automobile accident.

WILL MEET THURSDAY AT LINVILL HOME

Man Believes Son Is Prisoner Of The Russians

Asks State Department To Investigate

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—William G. Baumeister said today he has grounds for believing that his fighter pilot son, shot down over Burma in 1944, is alive and held prisoner by the Russians.

He asked the State Department to look into the case.

Baumeister said his son, William G. Baumeister Jr., was shot down Nov. 19, 1944, while flying a P38 in a bomber escort north or Rangoon. Lt. Baumeister was 23 years old at that time.

The elder Baumeister recently saw a news story in the St. Paul Pioneer Press about the release of 250 Germans and Austrians from Russian prison camps. Some of the men released said they had known several Americans in Russian prisons, including a man named William, Baumeister said.

Baumeister contacted Robert Branson, United Press bureau manager at Vienna, and asked how he could get in touch with the men released in Russia. Branson sent BaumeisterS letter and pictures of his son to one of the ex-prisoners, Karl Heinz Schleich, who had known an American named William or Billy in prison.

Heinz Schleich, a German at first wrote Baumeister "it is necessary to use a certain amount of imagination to recognize Billy from these pictures. He did not look like these pictures any more when I knew him."

Later, Heinz Schleich sent Baumeister a cable which said he was "sure" that Billy's last name was Baumeister.

The father said he believes his son was taken prisoner by the Japanese and was brought to North Manchuria, where he was later turned over to the Russians.

Baumeister contacted Sen. Edward Thye (R-Minn), who forwarded the information the father has collected to Undersecretary of State Thurston Morton.

Scotland Yard Recovers Bulk Of Ammunition

And Arms Stolen In Daring Raid By IRA

LONDON (UP)—Scotland Yard today announced the recovery of the bulk, if not all, arms and ammunition stolen in Saturday's daring raid by members of the Irish Republican Army on Arborfield Barracks, near London.

Detectives recovered the loot in a building in London's Caledonia Road area.

The case was broken early today by detectives who had been keeping watch on a vacant store building on Caladonia Road.

"We have recovered the bulk, if not all, of the weapons and ammunition stolen in the Arborfield raid," a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

Britain had been seriously alarmed by two daring raids within 48 hours on British barracks and arsenals and British police warned that the outlawed IRA apparently was attempting to stockpile arms for a large-scale future attempt to end the partition of Ireland.

The recovered arms were found packed in a number of wooden cases inside the vacant shop.

Twelve detectives of Scotland Yard's special branch entered the store and seized the arms which, they said, apparently was prepared for shipment elsewhere.

The first reports from Scotland Yard did not mention any arrests.

Prime Minister Anthony Eden held a special cabinet session Monday night to discuss the IRA's bold strikes against British army camps and a War Office statement said new "special precautions" had been ordered.

Army camps throughout Britain already were on a near war-time footing to forestll new IRA raids and special secudity guards were posted at the massive Parliament buildings to guard against a reported plot to blow them up.

Two London newspapers said Scotland Yard had seized an IRA "master plan" to invade Northern Ireland in 1957 after overthrowing the Dublin government, but government officials here would not comment.

A Scotland Yard spokesman, asked to comment on the alleged "master plan," said, "We know nothing about it at all."

The reports were carried by the Daily Mirror and the News Chronicle.

The News Chronicle said the IRA also planned to seize the "Dublin broadcasting station and broadcast calls for a rising against Britain."

The newspapers said the master plan was being studied by the cabinet and the War Office and noted that Eden met Monday night with Home Secretary Gwilym Lloyd George, War Minister Antony Head and Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

heard during one scuffle.

Police announced 40 persons arrested during the hour-long clash. There was no report of casualties.

Police patrols were strengthened. More patrol cars than usual cruised through the streets.

Reports from Cordoba, however, said four policemen and a "number" of students were injured in pro-Catholic demonstrations in the provincial capital 400 miles northwest of here. The four policemen were stoned while trying to break up an attempted march on the center of the city by Catholics who attended Assumption Day Mass. The students were injured in a second clash.

Police charged Monday that a highlight of what was called a civil disobedience movement would be the defiance by Catholics of a government order banning observance of the day as a religious holiday. Very few children attended classes despite warnings they would be punished.

Sluggers Steal Spotlight In Tense American League Battle And Turn Out To Be Key Men

The sluggers have stolen the spotlight in the tense American League battle and knocked the old axiom that pitching pays off in a tight pennant race into a cocked hat.

It used to be that the experts singled out the contender with the strongest pitching staff and confidently predicted it would win out. And, more often than not, they proved correct.

But it's the boys "with the big bang" who are turning out to be the key men in the current four-team struggle.

The New York Yankees, for example, recaptured first place by a half game for the first time since July 27 Monday when they downed the last-place Baltimore Orioles, 5-4 and 12-6. A ninth-inning home run by Hank Bauer gave them the winning margin in the opener while Mickey Mantle's 28th and 29th round-trippers of the season carried them to victory in the nightcap.

At Boston, meanwhile, a pretty fair county hitter named Ted Williams hammered out the 13th grand slam homer of his career to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-4 triumph over the Washington Senators.

Pitching? Both Yankee starters failed to last through the sixth inning and Mel Parnell, Boston's starter, was knocked out in a four-run third inning after being presented with a 6-0 lead. The Yankees have gotten only one complete game from a pitcher in rolling to their six straight wins and the Red Sox have had one complete game in their last five contests.

Even the supposedly pitcher-rich Cleveland Indians have been relying on their sluggers. They've received only two complete efforts in 13 games this month. The third-place Chicago White Sox have had better luck with their piitchers—but even they have had only three complete games in 11 contests this month.

Bauer, who hit two homers in Sunday's sweep of the Orioles, connected for his 13th against Bill Wight to give rookie Johnny Kucks his eighth win in relief. The Yankees had given starter Bob Wiesler a 4-0 margin but he was kayoed when Baltimore tied the score in the fifth frame.

In the nightcap, Mantle hit a three-run fourth-inning homer batting left-handed and then blasted a solo round-tripper batting right-handed in the sixth. Rookie Rip Coleman got credit for his first big league triumph but he was routed in the sixth and Bob Grim, returning from the disabled list, pitched the last 3 2-3 innings.

Williams' homer, his 20th of the season, climaxed a six-run outburst during which Washington right-hander Ted Abertnathy issued six walks — only two short of the record for an inning. The Senators chased Parnell in the very next inning, however, before Leo Kiely came out of the bull-pen to hurl shutout ball for the last 6 2-3 innings.

Williams' homer tied him with Cleveland's Ralph Kiner for the lead in grand slams among active players. They're 10 short of Lou Gehrig's record.

The Indians and White Sox were idle Monday but swing back into action against Detroit and Kansas City respectively tonight while the Yankees and Red Sox begin a three-game series at Boston. So, for the next three days at least, the schedule favors both western teams.

In the only National League action, Warren Spahn pitched eight-hit ball and hit a single, triple and home run in leading the Milwaukee Braves to a 12-1 rout of the St. Louis Cardinals. Ed Mathews also homered as the Braves knocked out Willard Schmidt, who pitched a one-hitter against them in his last start. The win was Spahn's 11th.

Young Neal Rivers Defeats King; Is Big Hit With Fans

NEW YORK (UP)—Young Neal Rivers of Niagara Falls, N.Y., made such a hit in his New York television debut with a dramatic victory over middleweight Jimmy King of Alabama that he was invited today to return to St. Nicholas Arena in October.

Fresh from his seventh straight win, slugger Neal asked that the October opponent be Milo Savage of Salt Lake City. Meanwhile, he expects to fight someone next month at Las Vegas, Nev.

Rivers, 21, and King, 30, were on the canvas in the exciting ninth round at St. Nick's Monday night; and Neal was almost "out." But his youthful recuperative powers enabled him to batter King thoroughly in the 10th.

Despite the ninth-round knockdown, stocky River slugged out an upset 10-round decision in lopsided fashion over lanky King, who returned recently from more than four years of campaigning in Europe. Rivers weighed 156 pounds; King, 154½.

King, favored at 2-1, was knocked to his knees by a left hook early in the ninth round. He rose at "three" and took the mandatory eight-count. Then he rushed across the ring and nailed Rivers with a left hook to the jaw. Rivers staggered to his feet at "eight" and managed to evade a kayo until his head cleared.

The three ring officials favored Rivers on rounds as follows: Referee Barney Felix and Judge Leo Birnbaum, 7-2-1 each; Judge Bert Grant, 8-2. The United Press had it 6-3-1.

United States Wins Wightman Cup For 19th Straight Time

RYE, N.Y. (UP)—The United States put the Wightman Cup back on the shelf today for the 19th straight time, but Britain's battered tennis girls found two big reasons for hoping that some day they'll break the string.

The bare results of this year's series — won by the United States by a 6-1 score as 32-year-old Wimbledon champion Louise Brough shows the way — don't seem to give much reason for British hope.

But the British girls believe the age factor is on their side, because the oldest player on their improving team was only 26 while all of the American players were over 30. And they believe that their lone victory, in which Angela Mortimer upset U.S. champion Doris Hart, is proof that the tide is swinging.

"We'll be trying again next year," declared Mrs. Mary Halford, Britain's non-playing captain. "And we hope to be much stronger when we return to the United States in two years."

Tennis experts watching the rain-delayed series, in fact, rated the British team as the best to represent the Union Jack since 1948. But that didn't stop the United States from winning the series for the 23rd time in 27 meetings. Since the series was resumed since World War II, American girls have won 68 of the 71 matches played.

The blond Miss Brough, bidding at 32 to regain the top spot among the world's feminine net stars, was the big show for the U.S. team as she racked up two singles wins and shared in a doubles triumph. The Beverly Hills, Calif., star won the Cup-clinching match Monday by downing Miss Mortimer, the British ace, easily, 6-0, 6-2.

Dorothy Head Knode, 30, of New York, added a singles victory over Angela Buxton, 6-3, 6-3; Miss Hart 30, of Coral Gables, Fla., defeated Shirley Bloomer, 7-5, 6-3, then Miss Hart teamed with Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., in a doubles triumph against Miss Mortimer and Miss Buxton, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Strange New Names May Be Eligible For Baseball's '20-Game Winner' Club This Year

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Some strange new names may be eligible for baseball's ultra-exclusive "20-game-winner" club this season and there also may be some notable absentees among former members who didn't maintain their eligibility.

Right now there are a dozen pitchers with a chance to get in and if they all should make it, that would be the biggest crop since 1951 when there were 13. It figures that with more than six weeks of the season to go, the big winners will get as many as 10 more starts apiece and in the American League, with its skin-tight pennant race, they may have to work their aces even more often than that.

The sure-fire 20-game winners are Robin Roberts of the Phillies with a 19-9 mark and Don Newcombe of the Dodgers at 18-3, and there are only two others in the National League who look like they might make it. Robby, who is shooting for his sixth straight 20-game season, might even become the new "president" of the club. Newk had one other 20-game registry in 1950 but the other two National League "possibles" would be brand new.

They are Joey Nuxhall, Cincinnati's surprise lefty star at 13-8 and Jim Hearn, who took over this season as the most dependable of the Giant flingers with a 13-10 current mark.

None In American League

Actually, there are no sure-fire 20-game bets in the American League although eight pitchers have 12 or more wins. Frank Sullivan of Boston at 14-10 and Early Wynn of Cleveland at 14-7, should move in barring complications. The others are Dick Donovan of Chicago, 13-4, Bob Lemon of Cleveland 13-7, Whitey Ford 13-6 and Bob Turley 13-10, both of New York Herb Score of Cleveland 129 and Willard Nixon of Boston 12-6.

Of this array, only Wynn and Lemon ever have been in the "20-game" club before. Lemon, who probably would have made it easily this year had it not been for a pulled hip muscle that kept him out of action almost a month, still is shooting for his seventh 20 or better season and if he makes it, he'll go into a group of half a dozen hurlers, all in the Hall of Fame. They are the only pitchers in modern baseball history to win 20 or more games in seven or more season.

Whats more, Manager Al Lopez of the Indians thinks Lemon will hit the 20-mark this season, even though he had to lay off so long.

"If he is as hot the last month as he was the first he'll make it easily," Lopez said recently. "And he's usually great in the stretch."

Ford Came Close

During the first month of the campaign Lemon had a 6-1 mark. Wynn, who has been Cleveland's bell-wether, has made it three times previously but none of the others ever came close except Ford, who won 18 in 1953.

Donovan, the White Sox star, who was felled with appendicitis late in July, but who now is ready to go again, had the best chance before he was hospitalized. He had a 13-4 mark at that stage, pretty spectacular considering that he never won a big league ball game before this season, even in four previous trials with the Boston Braves and Detroit Tigers.

The most notable absentee is likely to be Warren Sphan of the Braves, who like Lemon was shooting for his seventh 20-game season. However, he has won only 10 to date and 20 seems well out of reach. Others who won 20 or more in recent years but who won't be around to answer roll call this year are Johnny Antonelli of the Giants, Virgil Trucks of the White Sox, Mel Parnell of the Red Sox, Bob Porterfield of the Senators and Mike Garcia of the Indians.

Aussies Assured Of Berth vs. U. S. For The Davis Cup

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The man with the fastest service in the world meets the steadiest baseline player in the world today as Australia, already assured of victory in the interzone finals of Davis Cup Tennis, meets Italy in the final two singles.

Six-foot, 7-inch Orlando Sirola of Italy has the fastest service of any player in the opinion of famed tennis coach Mercer Beasley. "It's faster off the ground than Tony Trabert's serve, which has a kick," Beasley said, "and it's faster than Lew Hoad's." Sirola will meet Ken Rosewall of Australia in the match at the Germantown Cricket Club today, and Rosewall has the finest ground stroke from the baseline of any amateur in the world.

Sirola is a replacement for Italian champion Fausto Gardini, who was badly beaten by Hoad in the first singles match Sunday and admits his game won't adapt to grass courts. Gardini just wants to get back to the clay courts of Europe.

Sirola was the star Monday as Australia clinched the series with a 7-5, 13-11, 7-5 victory in doubles, which gave the Aussies a 3-0 lead in a best of five series and moved them into the challenge round against America at Forest Hills, Aug. 26-28.

Hoad and Rex Hartwig, the Wimbledon champs, had their toughest match of the year against Sirola and Nicola Pietrangeli, the 21-year-old power hitter who all experts agree soon will be one of the world's best players. Sirola, with 11 service aces and 26 placements, carried his team, and his 37 earned points was by far the best of the four men. Hoad had 29, Hartwig 24, and Pietrangeli 15. Hoad, whose service is highly rated, had only three aces and his service was broken twice.

Australia won by cracking Pietrangeli's service for the pay off game in each set on errors by the Italians and fine net play by Hoad.

The Italians did not hesitate to pick the Aussies over America in the challenge round.

"If Trabert is right, he will win his two singles and those are the only points America will get,' said Pietrangeli.

Italian Captain Vanni Canepele agreed, calling the Aussie doubles team "clearly the best in the world."

Sirola also said that the Hoad-Hartwig team was "by far the best we ever have played" — and they met the U. S. Davis Cup team of Trabert and Vic Seixas in Europe.

Trabert's Shoulder Passes First Test In National Doubles

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UP) —U.S. Davis Cup Captain Billy Talbert, encouraged by the performance of team kingpin Tony Trabert in opening play of the National tennis doubles, served notice on Australia today that the U.S. meant to keep the Cup.

"We have a good team,' Talbert said, "and I'm fully confident that we'll beat them (the Australians). The team is playing well and it's just a matter of getting them keyed up."

Trabert wiped away virtually all the anxiety about his ability to rebound with his performance in his first test Monday. The Cincinnati, Ohio, played had been sidelined three weeks with a sprained shoulder.

He and teammate Vic Seixas, the two top American tennis players and defending champions in the tourney, made quick work of Talbert and Junior Davis Cupper Maxwell Brown, downing them 6-0 6-3, 6-3.

"I feel fine," Trabert said afterwards. "The shoulder hasn't been bothering me at all."

Otherwise, Monday's play in the first day of the 75th annual National doubles championship at Longwood Cricket Club was singularly unspectacular.

Notably absent were the top foreign teams, the Australians and Italians, still battling in Davis Cup interzone finals at Germantown, Pa. leading American and British women were playing at the Wightman Cup matches in Rye, N.Y. all but two of the foreign players were expected here today.

Besides Trabert and Seixas, only six seeded tandems saw action Monday. All won "form" victories.

FBI Investigates Professional Boxing

By HOWARD LOGAN
United Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (UP) — Professional boxing today was reported under investigation by the FBI and the Department of Justice anti-trust division.

The investigations were reported for the first time Monday by George A. Barton in a report to the National Boxing Association convention which concludes here today.

Barton, a former president of the NBA, made the disclosure after the convention unanimously adopted a resolution calling for a federal probe of racketeering in the ring world.

The Justice Department anti-trust division entered the investigation in June, Barton said.

"At that time," he said, "I received a letter from Stanley N. Barnes, assistant attorney general of the anti-trust division. Barnes asked that I make available to an FBI agent my files."

Barton said he was visited by an agent later and gave him all the details he had about the operations of the International Boxing Club and the International Boxing Manager's Guild.

He said he expects to testify before a Senate investigating committee in Washington about "mobster influence" in boxing later and has a pledge that Julius Helfand, crusading chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, also will testify.

(In Washington neither the FBI nor Barnes would comment on Barton's statements.)

Barton said the federal authorities were needed in an investigation of boxing scandals because it was too difficult a task for the NBA to handle alone.

"Gaining evidence is just about as simple as picking up a gob of quicksilver with a baseball catcher's glove," he said. "It is too big a job for the NBA alone."

There's A 'Creature' In The Ohio River

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Mrs. Darwin Johnson, 35, put her swimming suit in mothballs today and warned her neighbors there's a frightening creature in the Ohio River.

Mrs. Johnson said she was swimming near Dogtown Sunday when something came up behind her and grabbed her left leg. She said she felt its claws and a "furry palm" gripping her knee.

She screamed and fought the creature, she said, and got away from it although it pulled her under twice.

A swimming companion, Mrs. Chris Lamble, kicked and screamed too although she said she didn't see what was frightening Mrs. Johnson.

They swam to shore and found that Mrs. Johnson had scratches and bruises on her leg.

"Whatever this thing was," Mrs. Johnson said, "it had a strong grip and it was very furry."

"I wouldn't say anything about it only I want to try to make sure that it doesn't get anyone else. All I know is that I will never go swimming in the river again."

Airman Schmidt To Sue For Divorce

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP) — Airman Daniel C. Schmidt, whose wife Una married another man while he was a prisoner of the Chinese Communists, has decided to sue for divorce.

Schmidt's attorney, Howard C. Welch, said the 23-year-old airman will charge extreme mental cruelty. He said the charges would be "very general in nature." He declined to discuss the possibility of charging Una, 20, with adultery or desertion.

Schmidt has not yet decided whether to ask for custody of their 2-year-old son, Danny.

"We are jointly trying to determine if it would be in the best interests of the boy for his father to have custody," Welch said.

Schmidt's mother, Mrs. Nellie Peters, of Portland, Ore., has said she would be glad to take care of Danny if her son gets custody.

Schmidt returned home Friday after spending 32 months as prisoner of the Reds. He was one of 11 American airmen whose B29 was shot down during the Korean War.

His wife, Una, said she married Alford Fine, 21, a husky Sierra logger, last September "in Mexico." At the time, she claimed, she thought Schmidt was dead.

Welch said the divorce action will be filed in the near future, but he said the exact date has not yet been set.

Schmidt and Una were married in May, 1952. He went overseas five weeks later. His plane was shot down in January, 1953.

Una's attorney, Harold Berliner, said he had no comment to make on Schmidt's decision until he receives official notification that a divorce suit has been filed. Una was believed in hiding with her second husband and little Danny.

Spry Beggar

NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—Detective Benjamin Zager said he arrested Harris Brent, 47, of Nashville, Tenn., when he saw Brent spring athletically onto a bus while carrying some braces.

Zager told a judge Monday he had seen Brent a short time before the arrest, begging on a Newark street while wearing heavy braces on his legs. The judge gave Brent 30 days to think it over in Newark jail.

Around The Clock: Around The World!

By UNITED PRESS

CHICAGO UP) — The Chicago Public Library revealed today that Davy Crockett really was a dude.

A display of Crockett literature included a lithograph print of Dav in the outfit he wore to Congress—swallow tail coat and all.

To make matters worse for the juvenile set, Crockett wrote on the print that it was the "only correct likeness that has been made of me."

HALIFAX, N.S. (UP) — A U.S. Coast Guard ship rescued 46 men and a dog from a blazing Portoguese fishing trawler in the Atlantic about 800 miles southeast of Newfoundland, Air Force search and rescue headquarters reported today.

An RCAF spokesman said the 284-ton trawler Ilhavense Segundo caught fire Monday while fishing in the area 45 degrees north and 41 degrees west.

A B17 aircraft from the U.S. Air Force Base at Argentia, Newfoundland. flew out in answer to the trawler's desperate signal for aid and guided the Coast Guard cutter Mendota to the scene.

MANILA, P.I. (UP)—A crippled Pan-American airliner with 23 persons aboard returned to Manila Monday convoyed by three amphibious rescue planes and a C47 loaded with life rafts, it was disclosed today.

Two of the plane's four engines stopped when the big DC4 was well out over the South China Sea en route from Manila to Saigon and the pilot radioed for help.

ST. BRIEUC, France (UP) — Police said today they had recovered 20 bodies from the wreck of an excursion boat which smashed on the rocks of the treacherous Britanny cast.

Many of the victims were children dressed in their Sunday best for the Assumption Day holiday. Authorities feared the toll might go higher since the exact number of passengers was unknown.

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP) — Two Communist Chinese leaders, Liu Shao Chi and Chen Yi, have been summoned to Moscow for an emergency meeting, Tatao News Agency reported Monday night.

The Nationalist Chinese news agency said the Reds would stay in the Soviet capital for about 10 days. It gave no details about the visit.

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UP) — Direct radio-telephone and radiotelegraph services were inaugurated Monday between Paraguay and Uruguay.

CATANIA, Sicily (UP) — Etna volcano threw pieces of redhot rock 500 feet into the air Monday night in a spectacular display for thousands of holiday tourists.

Visitors to Taormina and other watched as the rocks and lava poured from the crater. Experts said there was no danger to the villages on the slopes. Etna has been in a state of intermittent eruption for 48 days.

KUSHIRO, Japan (UP) — The Maritime Safety Office reported today that 156 Japanese fishermen have drowned and 234 are missing so far in the north Pacific salmon and trout season.

During the season, which began May 1 and will end in late August, 35 boats have been sunk or are missing and 37 have been damaged.

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP) — Plans for defense against possible Communist air attack on Quemoy have been completed, it was reported today. A military spokesman said a constant flow of U.S. military aid into the island has improved its defenses.

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — The Republic of Korea air force today commissioned two North Korean fliers who defected in a Russian-built Yak last June.

Capt. Lee Woon Yong and Lt. Lee In Sun received the same ranks they held in the Communist air force and were given cash rewards. The fliers, both 24, flew the Red plane from Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, to Seoul.

Number Of Polio Cases Reduced

BOSTON (UP)—Massachusetts health officials felt "somewhat encouraged" today by the reduction of cases in polio epidemic reports.

Dr. Roy F. Feemster, director of the state Division of Communicable Diseases, said the 77 cases reported Monday were "reason to feel somewhat encouraged." The last week.

state reported 92 cases on Monday

The new cases boosted the total so far this year to 1,235 compared to 126 cases at the same time last year. The state-wide figures for the weekend will be reported today.

Dr. Samuel B. Kirkwood, Massachusetts health commissioner, said, "daily figures now indicate it may be peaking in Boston."

Boston has reported 442 cases during the current outbreak. The 12 cases reported unofficially Monday were the lowest in 10 days.

Last Tuesday 22 cases were reported in Boston. Each day since then there has been a decline.

Forty-three deaths have been reported in the outbreak in Massachusetts.

A total of 27 children out of an estimated 180,000 inoculated with Salk vaccine have contracted the disease. All of those cases except one received a single shot. One victim had two shots.

Survey On Good Will Of Russians

CHICAGO (UP)—A survey indicated today that most of the nation's governors feel the new Russian "good will" policy encourages hopes of peace, but should not change present American foreign policy.

The United Press questioned 10 governors attending the 47th annual governors' conference in Chicago about the apparent willingness of the Russians to ease international tensions. Most of the governors doubt that the new Russian tack represents a real change in Communist policy.

Seth Carrington Dies Monday At Luckey Hospital

A Summer Resident Of Big Cedar Lake

Seth J. Carrington, 68, of Fort Wayne, a summer resident on the north shore of Big Cedar Lake, died Monday afternoon at Luckey Hospital, Wolf Lake.

Mr. Carrington became ill at the lake Monday morning and was admitted to the hospital. He had been under a doctor's care for some time.

Mr. Carrington was the proprietor of the Northside Barber Shop in Fort Wayne before his retirement earlier this year. He was a lifelong resident of Allen county and had lived in Fort Wayne for the past 55 years.

He was a member of Simpson Methodist Church and the Master Barbers' Association.

Surviving are the widow, Agatha; two sons, Gerald of Fort Wayne, and Carlton G. of St. Petersburg, Fla.; one step-daughter, Mrs. C. L. Martz, Fort Wayne; and five grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Rodenbeck Funeral Home in Fort Wayne where friends may call after 7 p.m. today. Services will be held Thursday afternoon. The definite time has not been determined.

Beer From Fresh Hops

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—The Blatz Brewing Co. announced today it will brew beer for the first time from fresh hops instead of dried hops. Company President Frank Verbest said the new beer will be tested in an unidentified southern city within the next two weeks and if it proves popular will be sold in other areas.

Develops Cheap Wood Fibre Building Board

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—The U.S. Forest Products Laboratory announced today it has developed a cheap wood fiber building board which filters out poisonous gas and radioactive fall-out.

Dr. J.A. Hall, laboratory directr, said the new building material could protect troops and civilians from some of the most deadly effects of modern warfare.

Hall predicted that the material, called "diffusin board" would put protection within everyone's reach when it becomes available in volume quantities.

Services For Big Lake Man Wednesday At Fort Wayne Home

John M. Babb, 41, Died Sunday; Ill For 2 Years

Funeral services for John Mark Babb, 41, of R 3, Big Lake, who died at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at St. Joseph's Hospital will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the C. M. Sloan and Sons Funeral Home Fort Wayne. The Rev. Willard H. Zinke will officiate at the services and burial will be in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

Mr. Babb had been ill about two years and had been a patient at the hospital for only one day. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Prior to his illness, he was a draftsman at the Capehart-Farnsworth Co. in Fort Wayne. He was a member of the Salem Evangelical Reformed Church in Fort Wayne. His wife, Helen L., who survives, is employed at Columbia Products Division of the Weatherhead Company.

Other survivors include a son, James; two daughters, Judith and Patricia, all at home; a sister, Mrs. Arthur Swain, Big Lake; and a brother, James, Findlay Ohio.

Gives Suggestion

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UP) — George Brown, of Los Angeles, suggested today in a letter to the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce that "man-made old style bombs" fired into the center of Hurricane Diane would dissipate the storm.

He said he suggested that the Los Angeles chamber send on the same remedy for the late Hurricane Connie but said they didn't do so.

physicians were meeting in Geneva today at the request of the United Nations, to study the effects of atomic radiation on future generations of humaniy.

The urgent conference was called by the U.N. World Health For Peace conference of the dan- Organization (WHO) after scientists repeatedly told the Atoms For Peace Conference of the dangers ahead through exposure to radiation.

The problem began occupying the attention of the world when the United States and Soviet Russia tested atomic and hydrogen bombs and statesmen expressed alarm that the atmosphere might become

The problem became even more too polluted for safety.

Great Question Mark

acute when scientists reported to the atoms conference here that tests with laboratory animals had shown the danger of mutation changes with the danger to humans a great question mark for the future.

Observers said the biologists and physicians were expected to use today's hastily-called meeting to call for a special new meeting of international scientists to go into the matter in detail.

Even the experts at Geneva disagreed as to the ultimate effect of radiation. Dr. T. C. Carter, a British medical research council expert at the Harwell Atomic Station, noted there is no agreement on the nature and magnitude of the genetic danger.

Dr. William L. Russell, principal geneticist at Oak Ridge, Tenn., warned that the danger of atomic radiation on future generations may be greater than generally supposed.

Ahead Of Safeguards

Dr. Alexander Hollaender of Oak Ridge warned again today that man has plunged so swiftly into the atomic age he is years ahead of the safeguards he ought to be carrying with him — that the science of protecting humanity is years behind the study of atomic energy itself.

Soviet scientists attending the Atoms For Peace conference disclosed today that much of their know-how in the field of Atoms For Peace has been gleaned from reading Western scientific publications.

Three Soviet scientists, V. I. Mostovoi, M. I. Pevzner and A. P. Tsitovich, for example, gave a credit line to the late Dr. Enrico Fermi, one of the American atomic pioneers for a complex piece of atomic research equipment called a mechanical neutron velocity selector.

The complicated formula worked out by Fermi and two colleagues appeared in a 1947 issue of the Physical Review.

State Troopers At Strike-Bound Perfect Circle

Homes Of Two Non-Striking Employes Reported Stoned

NEW CASTLE Ind. (UP)—New Castle Police and state troopers patrolled the strike-bound Perfect Circle Corp. plant here today to prevent more violence.

Non-striking employes went to work this morning without trouble, except for a few rocks thrown at cars. But no damage was reported.

However, the homes of two non-striking employes were reported stoned during the night. At the Hagerstown mother plant, an employe exhibited his paint-smeared car in front of the factory.

A company spokesman said picketing was "relatively quiet' at the two Richmond plants.

Nine persons were released after a disturbanc at the New Castle foundry Monday when Prosecutor Fred Hall refused to file charges.

About 125 persons stormed inside the foundry gates and overturned cars and stoned a bus.

But Hall accused the company of failing to take adequate action to prevent, violence at the plant and said the company let "local police officers down" by failing to file contempt charges against pickets violating a recent restraining order against mass picketing.

A Perfect Circle spokesman said the company is "looking at the possibility" of filing contempt charges. He pointed out it is an "extremely long and involved legal process."

The company refused to strengthen its guard force because the union might construe it as an "unfair labor practice," the spokesman said.

Several persons, including city policeman Fred Sumpter, suffered minor injuries in Mondays incident. Previous outbreaks occurred at the other plants.

Workers Await Word From Negotiators

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UP)—1,000 CIO United Auto Workers, who union spokesmen said voted overwhelmingly to go on strike, remained on their job at the Allis-Chalmers Corp. plant today awaiting further word from negotiators.

Vice President James Harmon of the union local said a strike ballot taken Monday showed 98.9 in favor of a walkout and only 1.1 opposed.

Local President James Broshears, presently in West Allis, Wis., as a member of the union's negotiating team, said no deadline for a strike has been set. Employes will continue to work until authorized by the international union headquarters to strike Broshears said.

Company and union negotiators today studied new proposals aimed at breaking the deadlock in the contract talks. The proposals were offered at Monday's meeting. The chief stumbling block to a settlement is a union demand for a master contract covering all Allis-Chalmers plants.

President Clears Decks For Start On His 'Real Rest'

DENVER (UP) — President Eisenhower cleared the decks today for a midday start on the "real rest" part of his work-and-play vacation—a five-day trout fishing sojourn at Fraser, Colo., in the Rockies.

But the Chief Executive, not too satisfied with a reported 89 on his first round of vacation golf Mondayn planned another session on the Cherry Hills Country Club links before leaving by automobile for the mountain ranch of Aksel Nieslen, Denver banker.

Mr. Eisenhower scheduled a brief early morning session at his desk in the summer White House headquarters at Lowry Air Force Base before turning to golf.

He was expected to leave shortly after 3 p.m. EDT for the two-hour, 70-mile climbing drive to Fraser, just across the Continental Divide.

The President's grandson, 7-year-old David, will join him at Fraser Wednesday and is headed for immediate instruction from grandfather on how to lure the wary trout of the Colorado Rockies.

Photographers were disappoined, however, when the summer White House clamped a ban on any first day pictures of the President with his grandson.

Question Heir To Real Estate Operator's Estate

FREEHOLD, N.J. (UP) — Authorities today questioned a 43-year-old housekeeper in connection with the strange death of a retired real estate operator who made her heir to his $100,000 estate only a few days before he died.

The housekeeper, Mrs. Carrie Stancell, of New York City surrendered voluntarily when she learned the death of her employer, Charles Hlavac, 81, was under investigation.

She was held as a material witness in $5,000 bail along with William Jackson, 54, of New York. Both Mrs. Stancell and Jackson were with Hlavac at the time he died, apparently of injuries suffered in a motor car accident July 7.

Monmouth County Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper said he would conduct a complete investigation. He said he planned to seek a court order to exhume Hlavac's body for an autopsy.

The former real estate man died after the car in which he was riding with Jackson and Mrs. Stancell blew a tire, struck an embankment and overturned.

William H. Lavac, of Closter, N.J., a brother of the dead man said Hlavac revoked earlier wills a few days before his death and made Mrs. Stancell his sole beneficiary. He said his brothers estate was valued at $100,000.

Lavac, who dropped the first letter of his last name and made it his middle initial several years ago, said his brother had been under doctor's orders not to leave his apartment. He said his brother apparently had been persuaded to go for the automobile ride in which he was allegedly killed.

Not Enough Privately Owned Commercial Airports In State

By ROBERT V. HUDSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana aviation authorities say the state is sadly short of privately-owned commercial airports, and the situation has been getting worse.

There are only 77 privately-operated commercial airports in Indiana. Last year there were 121. The total of all types of airports in the state is 107.

Richard Cunningham, director of the State Aeronautical Commission, said one of the reasons for the decline is the lack of laws to protect airport areas. In many communities housing settlements are crowding the airports so planes cannot operate safely. So the airports close.

Cunningham also said the lack of public interest has cut down the number of privately-operated commercial airports. He says the public doesn't realize how important aviation is. For example, there are 7,000 individually owned aircraft and 1,411 scheduled-airline planes.

Farmers Need Ports

Another reason Hoosierland doesn't have sufficient airport facilities for private pilots is that there is no state aid. Cunningham said most states help. For instance, Illinois has built 205 additional airports since 1948.

Hoosiers get federal aid, but it is limited to municipal airports.

Why does Indiana need airports?

For one reason, flying is important to Hoosier farmers. Indiana has one of the largest number of Flying Farmers per population of any state.

The farmer's life centers around the county seat, Cunningham said. But only one-third of the 92 county seats have airports.

Also, if a private pilot runs into trouble, possibly necessitating a forced landing, where's he going to land? If he does find an airport, it's likely not to be sufficiently equipped with lights, a long enough landing strip or navigational equipment.

None At State Parks

Cunningham lamented the lack of landing strips at state parks. The closest strip to a state park in Indiana is at Turkey Run where the strip is about three miles away, he said.

The commission director said he has received requests from persons as far away as New York, Colorado and California for information on where to land at a state park.

There is one faint gleam of light in the dark picture Cunningham painted for private pilots. Five communities have asked the commission for aid in improving and constructing airports.

'Shoot On Sight' Order Breaks 13 Hour Nebraska Prisoner Rebellion

By FRANK W. RALL
United Press Staff Correspondent

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Nebraska Penitentiary officials issued "shoot on sight" orders and broke a 13-hour prisoner rebellion today.

Warden Joseph Bovey gave the more than 200 rebels "just two minutes" to return to their individual cells. He then threw more than a dozen state troopers into the east cellblock with orders to "shoot on sight" anyone outside his cell.

The prisoners did not deliberate long in the face of the bristling riot guns. They rushed meekly into their cells, well inside the two-minute limit.

The rebels had rioted through the night in the east cellblock after starting fires which destroyed four buildings, damaged another, and caused $100,000 damage.

No Shots at Inmates

No shots were fired at inmates, although one blast was accidentally discharged in the prison yard before the officers rushde the rebels.

Bovey issued an angry statement: "It's time that the warden directed the inmates what to do instead of the inmates directing the warden."

He said the troopers probably saved the life of Jack Stover, 64, a transient serving time for grand larceny from Omaha. Bovey said Stover was beaten and thrown into a cell by the maddened rebels, and his mattress and clothing set afire.

Two inmates beaten by the rioters Tuesday night and left lying in the prison yard were Donald R. Ryun, 34, a transient, and Charles R. Crammer, 46, Omaha. Both were in good condition in a downtown hospital.

Destroyed in the fire were the prison store, the furniture factory, a large maintenance building, and a machine shop. The dining hall and possibly other small buildings were damaged.

Bovey said he suspected who the ringleaders were and estimated their number at 30. Following an investigation, the prison disciplinary board will take action, under a new law by the 1955 Legislature imposing strict penalties on prison rioters.

4-H Members Of Two Townships Visit Centennial

Century Of Progress At Michigan State

Members of the boys' and girls' 4-H clubs of Thorncreek and Union townships visited the Century of Progress celebration at Michigan State College on Tuesday. The event is being staged in observance of the 100th year for the agriculture school at the college.

Seventy-five 4-H'ers and adults from Union township were taken on the trip in two school busses. They were accompanied by their leaders, Andrew Pylant and Mrs. Adam Palmer; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Geiger, Mrs. Roy Vanderford, Mrs. Kenneth Easterday, Mrs. Roscoe Johnson, Mrs. Alverl Pettigrew, Maurice Rouch, and Joshua Nierman. The bus drivers were Joe Perry and Carl Hearld. Gerald Holzhauer also assisted with the driving.

Sixty boys and girls of the Thorncreek 4-H clubs were taken.

The groups observed many agricultural displays and attended an hour and one-half pageant on "Agriculture Progress". A mammoth display of old and modern farm machinery, which covered 70 acres, attracted much attention. The group also witnessed irrigation demonstration, a rock picking demonstration, a home show, and a display of "cars of tomorrow" as well as old cars.

The 4-H'ers were accompanied by the township leaders, Leon Alter and Mrs. Robert Fry; Russell Sherman and Guy Jagger, members of the boys' 4-H committee; Mrs. Carl Bridegam, a chaperone; and bus drivers, Gerald Jagger and Ronald Conrad.

Gifted Or Slower Child Neglected In Public School

Is Charge Made By Speakers At Teacher Federation

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—Two vice-presidents of the AFL Federation of Teachers charged today that public schools educate "for mediocrity" and neglect gifted children.

Edward Jewett, Council Bluffs, Iowa, told the federation convention that overcrowded classrooms, "disinterested administrators" and "poorly trained teachers" have combined to lower the level of instruction to the capacity of the "median ability group."

As a result, both the gifted and slower students fail to receive the proper amount of attention, he said.

Mrs. Cecile S. Oliver of Portland, Ore., AFT vice-president and president of the Oregon Federation of Teachers, agreed that "the most neglected child in the average classroom is the gifted child."

She said her experience with a class of gifted seniors in a Portland high school led her to believe that "at no time in their previous years in high school . . . had they worked to their ability."

Such seniors had acquired a skill in "shooting the breeze" that enabled them to get high grades on a minimum amount of work, she said.

Gifted children should be given consideration early in their school life, she said, if "we are to have the well-trained leaders the country needs."

Jewett said "some action" has been taken in a few large cities to improve conditions, but much more attention is needed in small cities, towns, and rural communities.

Shrine Horse Show Set For Saturday

The first annual Shrine horse show will take place this Saturday at the horseshow grounds one mile north of this city on State road 9. Guy L. Foltz is show director.

New Jersey Resident Inquires About Date Of Old Settler's Day

The newspaper office received a telephone call Tuesday afternoon from Delbert Swartz of Nutley, New Jersey, formerly a resident of Columbia City. He wanted to know "when Old Settler's Day is."

Swartz, who formerly resided at 369 North Elm street, said that he left the city in 1941 and planned to visit here this year during the Old Settler's Day celebration.

His last visit here was July 4, 1952 with the Eugene Presslers of Westgate Addition. His last known address was 140 Lakeside Drive, Nutley, New Jersey.

Arleigh Burke Takes Command Of U.S. Fleets

Says Sea Supremacy Faces Great Challenge

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UP) —Adm. Arleigh A. Burke took command of America's mighty fleets today and warned that U.S. sea supremacy faces a "greater challenge" than ever before in this atomic age.

As the new chief of naval operations, the 53-year-old admiral promised to push for "even higher prepartions" to keep the Navy the world's best.

The oath-taking ceremony, at which Burke formally took over from Adm. Robert B. Carney, 60, was held in the Naval Academy's mammoth drill hall before more than 2,000 spectators including two squadrons of midshipmen and Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland.

It was the most colorful in modern naval annals. Booming guns from a nearby battery, 1,163 smartly dressed midshipmen and a 37-piece academy band saluted the new Navy chief.

It was the first time a chief of naval operations had been inducted outside of a Washington office since the post was created in 1915.

This was Burke's personal wish. The admiral, promoted over 90 officers who had greater service seniority, sought to emphasize the close connection between his Pentagon post and the Navy's seagoing fighting men. His original plan to hold the ceremony aboard an aircraft carrier at Norfolk, Va., had to be cancelled because of the threat of hurricane Diane.

Rain clouds scudding ahead of the hurricane also broke up plans to hold the ceremony outdoors on the Naval Academy's Tecumseh Court, and it was moved inside to the drill hall.

The weather was hot and humid and four of the midshipmen standing in their rigid formations collapsed during the hour-long ceremony. All of the midshipmen were members of the new plebe class which will graduate in 1959.

Booming out 72 times, a naval battery delivered a 17-gun salute each to Burke and Carney and two 19-gun salutes to mark the arrival and departure of Navy Secretary Charles A. Thomas.

Carney, Thomas and Burke in brief speeches exhorted the new plebe class to be loyal to Navy traditions.

Steals Red Car Of Fire Battalion Chief

PATERSON, N.J. (UP)—Police charged an 18-year-old youth today with stealing a fire battalion chief's bright red car from fire headquarters here.

Police said Roger E. Delhaie admitted taking the car early Tuesday morning when he strolled past the fire station and saw the door open. Firemen had left the door open because of the heat.

Diane Losing Some Of Power, Surges Inland

Towards Heavily Populated Interior

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UP) — Hurricane Diane, losing some of its power, surged inland at 14 miles an hour today towards the heavily-populated interior of North Carolina.

Although gusts up to 95 miles per hour struck points just offshore, winds were down to 74 miles an hour, just under hurricane strength, as the hurricane passed over Wilmington at about 6:20 a.m.

First reports of Diane's ravages indicated comparatively light damage.

The Miami Weather Bureau located Diane in a special 8 a.m. bulletin at "a htdtasiecn"rsCo e bulletin at "a short distance" north-northwest of Wilmington.

Weather observers at Stallings Air Force Base, Kinston, N. C., about 65 miles north of here, predicted the "eye" would pass between Kinston and Goldsboro shortly before noon.

City officials declared an emergency at Kinston and business was at a standstill.

Also in Diane's path were the cities of Wilson, Rocky Mount, Raleigh, and Durham, all of which felt only a few gusts as hurricane Connie hit North Carolina last week.

Facing possibly severe damage from lashing rains and floods were corn, tobacco and cotton crops which had been salvaged after Connie passed.

At New Bern, N.C., "considerable" property damage was reported due to flooding with some streets under five feet of water. More than 700 persons were moved out of low-lying sections to the outskirts of the city.

Kure Beach reported an odd phenomena during the night. Instead of sweeping away sand dunes on the beach, the incoming tide piled up sand, leaving tide-erected dunes as it receded.

Twelve-foot waves battered the beaches at some points, beating down hastily thrown-up sand dunes. Thousands of tourists and coastal residents fled ahead of the violent storm.

Winds dropped to a mere 15 miles an hour here as the "eye" of the storm swept inland.

Whoops!

GULFPORT Miss. (UP) — William R. Shuford, 20, pushed the wrong button while sitting in a Navy jet trainer parked at the National Guard base here.

The ejection seat went into action and flipped him out of the cockpit and into the air. Shuford was only slightly hurt when he hit the ground.

Riddick Names 4 Additions To Public Affairs Committee

Foster Riddick, chairman of the Public Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced the appointment of four additional members to the committee for the remainder of the year.

Those named are John W. Whiteleather, attorney; Richard Holden, city building commissioner; Clarence Jones, of Flox's Department Store; and Hal Olree, of the Post and Commercial-Mail newspapers.

Other members of the committee are John Lillich, contractor; Don Alberty, cashier at Citizens State Bank; Paul Windemuth, Jr., city councilman; and Edward Glenn, city superintendent of schools.

Riddick also announced that the committee plans a legislative forum with Congressman E. Ross Adair, representative of the Fourth Indiana District, sometime soon.

Bear Pit Empty

EVANSVILLE (UP)—Visitors to Meeker Zoo found only an empty pit today where a pair of polar bears once lived.

The female died during the weekend of an infection. The male died some time ago from injuries believed caused by vandals hurling rocks into the den.

The bears were a main attraction since the summer of 1953 when they were bought for $1,000 each.

Rep. Ross Adair To Speak At 4-H Fair August 27

Congressman Will Talk Farmer's Day At 31st Annual County Event

Rep. E. Ross Adair, congressman from the Fourth Indiana District, will be featured speaker on the Farmers Day program Saturday afternoon, August 27, at the Whitley County 4-H Fair.

Congressman Adair will speak on "Farming In Congress" and his talk will climax the three-day event, which begins August 25 at the 4-H Community Center. The Farmers Day program will be held in the natural amphitheater stage at the center grounds. The program is sponsored by the Whitley County Farm Bureau, Wednesday.

The Feminotes, a girl's barbershop quartet from South Whitley, will open the Farmers Day program at 1:15 p.m. Saturday. Preston Gregory, Cleveland township farmer and county Farm Bureau chairman, is in charge of the afternoon program.

The fair is Whitley County's 31st annual 4-H Club exhibition and will officially open Thursday morning, although livestock and other entries will begin arriving Wednesday.

State To Resurface Van Buren Street In Downtown Area

The State Highway Department will begin resurfacing of U.S. highway 30 over West Van Buren street in Columbia City within a few days, according to an announcement received Tuesday from Chas. J. LaTourrette, superintendent of the Fort Wayne district.

LaTourrete said that a contract for the work has been assigned to The Wayne Paving Company of Fort Wayne.

Repair of the federal highway will require detouring of traffic and restricting of parking during the day only. The work should be completed within about four days after its start, LaTourrette said, and should cause very little inconvenience to the traveling public and merchants in the downtown area.

The resurfacing work calls for removal of all old worn-out asphalt and replacing it with new material. Except for certain patched areas, the present surface on the street is about 17 years old.

Six Appointed To Board Of Zoning Appeals

Five From City, One From Rural Area

A board of zoning appeals has been appointed and the names anounced by Joe Roe, secretary of the city planning commission. The si-member board was appointed by Mayor Thos. H. Hood and Judge Lowell L. Pefley, as the result of the recent adoption of the city ordinance by the city council.

Members of the board from the city who were appointed by Mayor Hood are: Carl Arntson, Joe Roe, Ford Goble, Garland Mullendore, and John Bechtold. Judge Pefley appointed one member from the two-mile jurisdictional area, Raymond Langohr. All members were appointed for four years except Goble, 3 years, Mullendore 2 years, and Bechtold, 1 year.

An organizational meeting of the board will be held in the near future.

Duties

The board of zoning appeals shall have the following powers and it shall be its duty to:

1. Hear and determine appeals from and review any order, requirement, decision or determination made by the building commissioner in the enforcement of this ordinance.

2. Hear and decide on permits for conditional uses, development plans or other uses upon which the board is required to act under this ordinance.

3. Authorize upon appeal in specific cases such variances from the terms of this ordinance as will not be contrary to the public interest, where owing to special conditions, fully demonstrated on the basis of the facts presented, a literal enforcement of the provisions of the ordinance will result in unnecessary hardship, and so that the spirit of the ordinance shall be observed and substantial justice done.

If a question arises and presented to the Board of zoning appeals.

If a question arises which can by decided by the board of zoning appeals, and the question is decided adversely to the petitioner, the decision shall be subject to review of the circuit court. If the decision is adverse to petitioner, he could first present the matter to the planning commission and suggest that the present ordinance be amended to take of his situation. Only the planning commission can amend the ordiance.

Prominent Hoosiers To Take Part In Plowing Contest

President Will Proclaim New Code Of Conduct

For American Prisoners Of War

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower will proclaim a new code of conduct tonight to govern American military men who may become future war prisoners and face Communist tortures.

The President will put the new code into effect by executive order issued at the Denver summer White House. The Defense Department will make public immediately afterward an 80-page report by top civilian and military men who devised the code.

The code is an outgrowth of the notorious Red brainwashing and torture tactics disclosed in the Korean War. U.S. military men were unprepared for the treatment meted out to them as Communist war prisoners and their reactions ranged from successful resistance to collaboration and forced germ war "confessions."

The new code is expected to lay down the general policy that war prisoners should give captors the silent treatment and that the Geneva conventions on treatment of prisoners do not "require" them to tell more than name, rank, age and serial number.

But there also will be room for exercise of individual judgment by the military services and individuals, it was reported.

The new code will indoctrinate servicemen in the principle that they must be prepared to die for their country and must never surrender "of their own free will."

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson set up a special committee to study the war prisoner problem after the shocking Korean War disclosures and after it became plain that the services were following varying policies on indoctrination and treatment.

And To Build Up Military Power Of Free Korea

To Meet 'Sneak Attack' By Reds

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Korean Ambassador You Chan Yang called on the United States today to declare the Korean armistice "null and void" and to build free Korea's military strength to meet a "sneak attack" by the Communists.

In an exclusive United Press interview, Yang described the Polish and Czech members of the United Nations Truce Supervisory Commission as "thieves in our parlor." The Reds, he said, must be ousted from South Korea — "the sooner the better, by force if necessary.'

Yang said one-sided observance of the 1953 Korean armistice with the Communists had left the Republic of Korea weak and had strengthened North Korea. The Red strategy, he said, is to "attack again when they have the free world relaxed and slumbering in sweet dreams of peace.'

Yang traced his recent talks on the Korean crisis with high State Department officials.

Must Be Patient

Yang said that Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson "hotly agrees with our Korean position and states that the United States is just as much interested as we are in getting the Communists out. But he said that if we will be patient they will find a solution real soon—he doesn't say how soon."

Asked what Roberts faovrs as a "solution," Yang replied that "The solution would be the eventual dissolution of the commission." He said Sweden and Switzerland, the other truce commission members, had proposed a sharp reduction in the commission's overall personnel.

Yang recommended that the armistice be declared "null and void since the Communists have violated all treaty terms.' If the present situation is allowed to continue, he said, "they will murder us."

Yang also recommended that the United States "build us up to a military position comparable to that of the Communists." He said the present ground force level has

League Of The Long

STUTTGART, Germany (UP)—"The League of the Long," an organization made up of tall men and women, began a campaign today to get tax reductions for tall people.

Big people eat 15 per cent more league said, and thus should get tax credit for the exense.

J. A. DeMoney And Son Funeral Home Has Remodeled, Plan Open House August 27-28

The J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home is nearing completion of the modernization and remodeling project which was originated this spring. An open house to the public is planned for August 27 and 28.

Complete new air conditioning units were installed, with the ducts concealed within the walls and having overhead wall grills.

The entire funeral home has new carpet installed and the walls have been redecorated with wallpaper.

Wallpaper from the Ford Museum collection, an authentic replica of hand blocked pattern, sets off the reception and family room and the north room.

The Governor's palace, based on 18th century hand-blocked wallpaper, is a feature of the east foyer and the Washington street entrance. Dogwood wallpaper sets off the conference room and minister's consultation room. This has been altered to allow entrance to the chapel, north room and the office. A water cooler has been installed here also.

The entire ceilings have been remodeled with acoustic tile. A men's rest room has been added and the former rest room remodeled into a ladies powder room, featuring a full wall-width mirror and dressing table. The small room which was formerly the minister's room will now be used as a ladies lounge.

The chapel has been enlarged to the full width of the building, and new handmade Swedish 8-light chandeliers have been installed in the chapel. Swedish chandelier light fixtures also have been placed in the other rooms. Beautiful pictures hang on the walls in the various rooms except for the east room which features fruitwood in French provincial.

Since the modernization program the funeral home now offers facilities for as many as five casket settings.

The wood panels in the sliding doors between the east and north slumber rooms have been hand painted to duplicate the wallpaper designs in both rooms. The east room has Duke of Gloucester pattern in 18th century English textile while the north room displays the Ford Museum pattern.

A new foyer had been added to the north which enables one step entrance from the parking area. An enclosed porch leads to the north foyer directly from the park-

From Can To Cow

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — A mixedup sign painter created quite a stir at the Illinois State Fair Tuesday.

His sign over a milking machine exhibit explained that the machine transferred the milk "from can to cow." An embarrassed exhibitor withdrew the sign and had it changed.

DOLLAR DAYS IN COLUMBIA City

Shoppers in Columbia City will have two days to find bargains at Columbia City stores during the 1955 summer Dollar Days.

The semi-annual sales event is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, August 19 and 20, by the Retail Division of the Columbia City Chamber of Commerce.

Businessmen reported early this week that new stocks of merchandise had been ordered for the sale event to provide the shopper with one of the top Dollar Day sales in Columbia City's history.

Around The Clock: Around The World!

By UNITED PRESS

LONDON (UP) — London newspapers today released a new flood of speculation on the future of Princess Margaret and most of them took it for granted she wanted to marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Her 25th birthday is only four days away. On Sunday she comes of age and is free to marry the man of her choice once a few technicalities have been disposed of.

Headlines concentrated on the Princess and Townsend and recalled that he has been divorced.

GRANTS, N.M. (UP) — On July 25, 1954, a heavy rain flooded a section of U.S. Highway 66 near Grants, and a road block was set up to warn motorists.

At 3:40 a.m. on July 26 a car crashed into the road block and sent four New Mexico highway department workers to the hospital. It was six months before Nabor Gonzales, 54, one of the workers, was able to return to his job.

Monday night, another heavy rain flooded the same stretch of highway. Gonzales manned a road block alone.

At 4:50 a.m. Tuesday another motorist failed to see the road block and plowed into it. Gonzales was killed instantly.

LONDON (UP) — London police said today American mystery writer John Dickson Carr was under treatment in a London hospital for an overdose of drugs.

Police did not specify what type of "drugs" but said the overdose appeared to be accidental.

Carr was rushed from his luxurious Hampstead flat Tuesday night when he was found unconscious there. The hospital reported he was comfortable and conscious and "has been admitted for a few days for investigations."

WASHINGTON (UP)—Russia has indicated it may try to send a group of Soviet journalists to the United States as an official Soviet delegation, informed sources said today.

An earlier effort to get Soviet newsmen into the country as an unofficial group broke down. The Soviets objected to U. S. requirements that the newsmen be finger printed before they enter the country.

The Immigration and Nationality Act requires that all aliens visiting the United States be finger printed except those traveling as officials of a foreign government.

LONDON (UP)—Aram Khatchaturian, one of Russia's top composers who wrote the jukebox hit "Sabre Dance,' suggested today that Soviet and U.S. music masters get together and swap ideas.

The 51-year-old composer, who once was roundly spanked by Soviet higherups for leaning towards Western musical theories, said in a Radio Moscow broadcast that "we Soviet musicians desire a closer acquaintance with the culture of other countries."

He said he hoped that "the spirit of cooperation which dates from the Geneva talks, and which puts an end to the cold war, will give us an opportunity for close future contacts, and that we shall come to know each other's work and share the best with each other."

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UP)—The Air Force prepared today to begin flight tests at this base of the first jetpowered vertical takeoff plane. Previous vertical takeoff planes have been powered by gas turbines driving propellers.

The highly secret plane, developed by Ryan Aircraft Corp. arrived here on a truck from San Diego Tuesday, covered with a heavy canvas shroud. It appeared to have a delta wing and was about the same size, as the Convair Pogo Stick, which is a turbo prop propelled plane.

NEW YORK (UP)—Building tycoon William Zeckendorf today hailed plans for a new 41story Park Avenue skyscraper as the beginning of the end of industry's migration to the suburbs.

The Union Carbide and Carbon Corp. announced Tuesday, it plans to erect the 40 million dollar fully airconditioned building at 270 Park Ave. It previously had considered moving its offices to Westchester County, north of New York City.

Zeckendorf's firm, Webb and Knapp, Inc., handled the sale of the longterm lease on the building's proposed site by the New York Central Railroad to Union Carbide.

VENICE, Italy (UP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor arrived Tuesday night from Paris for a 10 day visit. They said they plan to visit oldtime friends and attend the famed Giorgione Art Exhibit.

For a cool, hearty salad, try this combination; Combine strips of cold meat, cucumber rings, tomato wedges and carrot strips with fresh, finely shredded cabbage. Just before serving, toss the salad lightly with a tangy blue cheese dressing.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Commissioners of Whitley County, Indiana, will receive sealed bids at the office of the Whitley County Auditor, at Columbia City, Indiana, up to the hour of 9:00 A.M. o'clock CST or 10:00 A.M. o'clock DST on the 9th day of September, 1955, as follows:

One (1) One half ton pickup truck, Lettered on each door
Less one (1) 1938 Dodge one half ton Stake

Two (2) V type Snow Plows with hydraulic lift and front end mounting for use on IHC Model R-192 trucks. Similar in size to Root Plow Model 541-V

Specifications are on file in the Auditor's Office. Bid forms will be furnished on request. Bids must be accompanied by a surety bond or certified check in the amount of 10 per cent of bid and the necessary affidavit of non-collusion as required by law.

The Board of Commissioners reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Given by order of the Board of Commissioners of Whitley County, State of Indiana.

Lyman Cook, 77, Dies Wednesday Morning From Heart Ailment

Native Of Columbia Township Was Member Of Early Pioneer Family

Lyman Chauncey Cook, 77, of Union township, died unexpectedly at 11:50 a.m. Wednesday at Whitley County Hospital where he underwent surgery earlier in the morning. Death was caused by a heart ailment.

Mr. Cook was formerly associated with the Indiana State Highway Department before retiring several years ago. He was born in Columbia township where his family was one of the earlier pioneers. He had lived most of his life in the community.

His parents were Albert Cook, a native of Pennsylvania, and Malinda Essig Cook, a native of Ohio. Both are deceased.

Mr. Cook was married to the former Jalia Powell in Missouri. She survives.

Other survivors include three sons, Tide, Churubusco, director of the high school band there; Wave A., city, co-operator of the Cook Bowling Lanes; and Joseph, Wyoming; one brother, George, Rockford, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Charles North, Wilson Lake; Mrs. Julia Whitney and Dora Schroeder, both of Two Rivers, Wisc.; eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Hollingsworth Memorial Chapel with the Rev. Marion R. Shroyer, retired pastor of The Church of God, officiating. Friends may call at the chapel after 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

The place of burial will be announced later.

CIO-UAW Hope Agreement Near On New Contract

CHICAGO (UP)—An International Harvester Co. offer of a "guaranteed annual wage" plan, a 10-cent hourly pay increase, and a union shop today led the CIO United Auto Workers to hope agreement on a new contract was near.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice-president in charge of negotiations, said the union is "encouraged by the over-all situation."

He said that while the proposed five-year contract was "not yet acceptable in its present form" negotiations will continue.

With similar progress "there is no reason why we can't complete the job by Aug. 23," he said.

The present contract expires at midnight on that date.

Harvester offered to contribute 5 cents an hour for each hour worked by an eligible employe to a trust fund which would be used to supplement state unemployment compensation payments during layoffs.

A worker would get 65 per cent of his take-home pay for the first four weeks of a layoff and 60 per cent for the next 22 weeks.

The proposed contract also contained a provision for a 6-cent per hour "annual improvement factor" during the life of the contract.

Woodcock said further negotiations was needed to settle differences over seniority and grievance provisions and other technical problems.

Members Of Screen Actors Guild Are Returning To Work

HOLLYWOOD (UP)— Members of the Screen Actors Guild returned to work today on television entertainment films, including some of TV's top shows. The SAG voted Tuesday night to end its nationwide strike against producers of such shows.

SAG members in Hollywood voted 735-307 to accept a new contract negotiated between the guild and two groups representing producers, the Association of Motion Picture Producers and the Alliance of Television Film Producers.

The guild's 10,000 members struck against producers Aug. 5 in a contractual dispute over payment to actors for the second showing of TV films in which they appear.

The new contract, which runs from last July 21 to March 31, 1960, provides for increases in minimum rates, residual payments on the second to sixth runs inclusive and other changes in conditions.

Miss Betsey Lynn Goodwin Of Tennessee Becomes Bride Of Benton Earl Gates, Jr.

Trinity Methodist Church in Lenoir City, Tennessee, was the scene of the Tuesday evening marriage rites of Miss Betsey Lynn Goodwin of Lenoir City and Benton Earl Gates, Jr., of Columbia City.

Miss Goodwin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gilbert Goodwin, of Lenoir City, and Mr. Gates is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benton Earl Gates, of this city.

The Rev. F. F. Essary, minister of the Lenoir City church, read the marriage lines at 8 o'clock. Woodwardia fern, huckleberry and white gladiolus graced the altar and white candles burned in brass candelabra.

A program of nuptial music preceded the ceremony. Organ numbers given by Miss Margaret Hall included "Because", "The Rosary", "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice", Greig's "I Love Thee", Theme from Romeo and Juliet. Mrs. Jack Armstrong, soloist, sang "Thru the Years", "Ava Maria" and at the close of the ceremony sang "The Wedding Prayer".

Gives Daughter In Marriage

Mr. Goodwin gave his daughter in marriage. The bride chose a gown of starlight white bridal satin fashioned on princess lines, falling from the bodice into unpressed pleats. The gown featured long pointed sleeves and buttoned back and a chapel train. Her cathedral length veil of rose point and duchess lace was bought in Brussels by the bride when she toured Europe last summer.

She carried three white orchids, surrounded by lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Miss Virginia Barnette of Knoxville, Tennessee, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Nancy Leeper, Lenoir City; Jean Hodges, Wayneville, N.C.; Joyce Caldwell, Norfolk, Va.; Sue Flythe, Emporia, Va.; Mrs. King Benson, Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. H. F. Hoke, Richmond, Va. They were in waltz length gowns of Percian rose taffeta, alencon lace outlining the neckline and elongated waist line. They carried shower colonial bouquets of orange delight roses.

The junior attendant, Lynn Haerle of Indianapolis, cousin of the bride, wore a colonial dress of white net styled with ruffled skirt and a yoke finished with rose point lace also brought by the bride from Brussels.

The groomsman was Richard Gates, brother of the bridegroom.

The ushers were Thomas Sample of Muncie, uncle of the bridegroom; Robert Gates and Phil NcNagny, cousins of Mr. Gates from this city; Thomas Foster, Jr., Lenoir City, cousin of the bride; Dr. Charles Giffin, Indianapolis; and Gordon Ironsides, Hastings, Mich. All were in white dinner jackets.

Purple throated orchids were worn by the two mothers. Mrs. Goodwin, the bride's mother, was in a full length gown in blue spruce of imported hand clipped chantilly lace. Mrs. Gates wore a full length gown of champagne net.

Home Scene of the Reception

The Goodwin home was the scene of the reception that followed the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with an exquisite banquet cloth brought from Brussels. White gardenias and gladiolus formed the floral decorations.

Those assisting with the serving were the Mesdames Edwin J. Haerle, H. M. Moore; J. W. Dooley, Henry Bertlekamp, Douglas Hines, and the Misses Carol Ann Goodwin, Kendrick Townsend, Pat Kavanagh, Mary Lou Williams. Miss Linda Gates, the bridegroom's young sister, kept the guest book.

The wedding trip includes the Cloister in Sea Island, Ga.

The bride attended Randolph Macon Womans College and was graduated in June from the University of North Carolina, where she was a member of Chi Omega Sorority, and Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Sigma Alpha honorary fraternities.

Mr. Gates graduated from the University of Michigan Law School, where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and Delta Theta Phi Law Fraternity. He was with the law firm of Gates and Gates in this city for one year before going into military service last March. He is now stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Local People Attend

Included among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Gates, ex-governor Ralph F. Gates and Mrs. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Gates, aunts and uncles of the bridegroom from this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gates, and Phil McNagny, his cousins, also of this city. Other guests included the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Corbett of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Haerle, aunt and uncle of the bride from Indianapolis; Miss Kendrick Townsend, Lumberton, N.C., Congressman and Mrs. Winfield K. Denton, Evansville; Mrs. Harold Fruchter, Long Island, N.Y.

Other guests were from cities in Tennessee.

Valdes-Satterfield TV Battle Tonight

CHICAGO (UP)—Cuban Nino Valdes, his chance for a title fight with Rocky Marciano deferred for at least six months, will "keep busy" tonight against an upset-minded foe, Bob Satterfield, in the television battle from Chicago Stadium.

Valdes, a 210-pounder who lost a 15-round decision to Archie Moore in his last outing, was an 8 to 5 choice to beat the speedier Chicagoan, but Satterfield believed that he could get inside the Cuban's 80-inch reach to put over a knockout punch.

Satterfield, who has knocked out 30 to 60 opponents, needed a victory to get back on the path tward either a light heavyweight r heavyweight, but could get inside the light-heavyweight limit.

The records of both fighters indicated a knockout was the most likely finish of the brawl. Valdes, 30, has won 33 fights, lost nine and drawn two, but has scored 23 knockouts. Satterfield has 38 victories 19 defeats and three draws, more often by knockout than by In addition Satterfield, 31, has lost decision.

Two indications of the outcme f the battle were in the results of both fighters against Moore and Ezzard Charles. Satterfield was put away by both in the third round, while Valdes decisioned Charles in 1953 before his 15-round loss to Moore this year.

Top-Seeded Tandems Turn To Toppling Each Other Today

CHESTNUT HILLS, Mass. (UP)—Top-seeded tandems, all but three of which survived early play in the 75th national tennis doubles championships, turned to toppling each other today.

With only two seeded teams knocked out in actual play, and the other "benched" in a ruckus-raising Davis Cup maneuver, seeded entires comprise the bulk of the remaining field. Of 29 teams surviving in the men's and women's doubles divisions, 16 were seeded.

The situation promised to step up the tempo of the tournament, somewhat sluggish through its first two days at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Attention, Tuesday, in fact, centered a large part of the time on non-tourney play involving Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, big guns on the U. S. Davis Cup team that will defend its crown against a determined Australian aggregation at Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 26-28.

Trabert and Seixas, top two tennis players in the nation and top-seeded in this tourney, won their match Tuesday by default, so got in practice rounds with Jack Kramer and Don Budge.

Trabert, a 24-year-old from Cincinnati, Ohio, out of action three weeks before the doubles championships with a sprained shoulder played flawlessly, raising hopes for a successful defense of the Cup at Forest Hills.

Eliminated in upsets Tuesday were Australians Mal Anderson and Jeoff Radford and Mexicans Yola Ramirez and Rosa Maria Reyes. The second-seeded foreign entry of Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall lost by default after Australman decided to withdraw them, apparently to save them for the Cup challenge rounds.

Anderson and Radford bowed to Leslie Longshore, of Anniston, Ala. and Alan Morris, of Atlanta, Ga. in the most spirited match of the day 7-9, 10-8, 8-6 6-4.

The Mexican tandem rated one of the best sent here by that nation in years, were set down by Midge Buck, Charlottesville, Va., and Mrs. Kay McKean South Hamilton Mass., 6-4 6-2.

In other play Tuesday, Doris Hart of Rye, N.Y., and Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio fresh from their Wightman Cup win Monday, beat Helen Rihbany, of Boston and Karol Fageros, of Miami, Fla., 6-2 4-6 6-0.

Front Burner Blazes Brightly Under Boxing World

By HOWARD COGAN
United Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (UP) — The front burner was blazing brightly under boxing today with added fuel expected at any hour.

One federal investigation of the sport already was underway. Another will be recommended to Congress in January.

The current and proposed probes stem from efforts by the National Boxing Association and its investigating cmmittee to halt alleged racketeering and mobster infiltration into boxing.

In New York, President James Norris of the International Boxing Club said the NBAs concern about government investigation of boxing "indicates impotence on their part."

Norris said he would welcome federal supervision of the sport over the "commission rule we now have." He made the statement in reference to remarks by George A. Barton, former president of the NBA and head of its investigating committee.

Barton, associated with boxing for some 50 years, disclosed in a report to the association that the Justice Department's anti-trust division was investigating charges of abuses in the IBC ,which promotes almost all major fights in this country.

Barton charged that one boxing show promoter was slugged when he refused to pay $500 "tribute" for each show. He said that when certain persons were asked to sign affidavits regarding hoodlum activity in boxing they replied: "Not me, I don't want to get knocked yet."

Admittedly facing a stonewall in its investigations, the NBA here unanimously passed a resolution asking for a federal probe.

The association wound up its three-day meeting Tuesday.

Louis Radzienda of Chicago, was elected president for 1955-56.

At Tuesday's session, the NBA appointed a 10-member committee to meet with Pennsylvania Governor George Leader Sept. 19 at Harrisburg, to discuss progress of the Justice Department investigation into possible anti-trust violations.

Other new officers elected at the group's final session included Floyd Stevens, Michigan, first vice president; Thomas Littleton, Louisiana, second vice president; Julius Greebstein Maine, third vice president; Gilbert Jackson, Wisconsin, fourth vice president; Dr. Ward Wylie, West Virginia, fifth vice president; James Crowley, Pennsylvania sixth vice president and Authony Maceroni, Rhode Island, treasurer.

Judge Rules That Union Shop Clause Is Constitutional

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—A judge ruled today that a union shop clause in a collective bargaining contract is constitutional.

Judge Walter Pritchard ruled in Marion Superior Court in a suit filed by V.R. Smith, a non-union employe of a General Motors Corp. plant here. Smith sought in behalf of about 200 other non-union employes to get an injunction preventing the union clause of a new national contract between GMC and the CIO United Auto Workers union from going into effect Aug. 26.

Smith claimed he had to join the union or lose his job. He said it was a violation of his constitutional rights.

Pritchard said his ruling does not mean about 7,000 Hoosier employes of General Motors must join the union by Aug. 26 or lose their jobs. But he said it does mean they must pay initiation fees and dues to the union by that date, even if their names are not entered on membership rolls.

Smith's attorneys said he would appeal to the Indiana Supreme Court.

Pritchard said GM and the UAW "are in common agreement with this contract. I think this is healthy."

Bull Seeks Knowledge

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—A bull that escaped here Monday apparently was in search of knowledge as well as freedom.

The animal loped through the business section, peered through a window at the Nashville Banner and Tennessean newspaper offices and finally was captured in the psychology department at Vanderbilt University.

Bovey said the rioters were seeking the release of two men who were placed in solitary confinement because they refused to work.

The riot started, he said, when he rejected the rebels' demands that he come to the dining room.

12-Year-Old Girl Wins $8,000 For Her Spelling On TV Quiz

NEW YORK (UP) — A 12-year-old Negro school girl who competed in the national spelling bee for free won $8,000 for her efforts Tuesday night on a television program.

Gloria Lockerman, of Baltimore, Md., rattled off the spelling of an 18-letter word, antidisestablishmentarianism to reach the $8,000 mark on the Columbia Broadcasting System program, "the $64,000 question.' She returns next week to decide whether she'll take the money or try for $16,000.

If she loses she gets $4,000 in lieu of a cadillac convertible which is the usual consolation prize.

Gloria finished 34th in a field of 62 in the National Spelling Bee in Washington earlier this year, flunking out on the word meerschaum. She worked up to the $8,000 question by correctly spelling coyote, chinchilla, dinosaur, minuet and waltz.

South Koreans Stone American Army Officer

In New Outbreak Of Violence

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — Angry South Koreans stoned an American Army officer today in a new outbreak of violence against Communist truce inspectors.

A mob of about 300 stonetossing demonstrators attempted to storm the causeway leading to tiny Wolmi Island in Inchon Harbor. They were driven back by U. S. troops with tear gas and stream of water from fire hoses.

He was given emergency treatment in Inchon and then was rushed by an ambulance to a U.S. military hospital at Azcom City [illegible] miles from Inchon. jeep was hurt.

The South Koreans suddenly swarmed out of Inchon's streets and mobbed at the entrance to the island on which Polish and Czech truce inspectors live. The Republic of Korea has accused the Red inspectors of being spies and has demanded they leave the country.

The Wolmi disturbance was the first bloodshed reported in South Korea since President Syngman Rhee last Saturday ordered his people to avoid violence while demanding ouster of the Communist inspectors.

At Suwon, today, Rhee said the Republic of Korea will never be-.. y the confidence of the United States.

A gang of 100 demonstrators hurled rocks at American guards at another compound in Kunsan earlier, but there were no injuries. U.S. troops drove them back with a single tear gas bomb.

Italy To Begin Operation Of Atomic Reactor

Within The Next Two Years

TURIN, Italy (UP)—Italy will begin operation of its first atomic reactor within the next two years, but it will need 10 reactors to produce atomic power on an industrial scale, informed sources said today.

Officials of the Fiat Auto Co., Italy's largest manufacturing concern, declined comment on the Geneva report that Fiat President Vittorio Valletta signed a "letter of intent" to purchase an atomic reactor from Westinghouse in the first free enterprise deal of the atomic age.

But Fiat sources said privately they hoped to have the 10,000 kilowatt reactor in operation by 1957 to produce radioactive isotopes rather than electric power.

The sources said reports the reactor would supply power to one of Fiat's shops were premature and that production of electric power from the atom still is too expensive.

The Soviet Union has reported an industrial atom plant at Kaluga, 150 miles south of Moscow The United States still was perfecting studies before starting production on an industrial scale although it has supplied at least one American city experimentally.

Sources at the Fiat plant said it would be 10 years or more before Italy starts operating an atomic power plant and estimated its costs at upwards of $40,000,000 as compared with $40,000 for a simple reactor.

First Time In A. L. History At Least Six Teams Will Pass MillionMark In Attendance

By UNITED PRESS

NEW YORK (UP)—For the first time in American League history at least six of its teams will go past the million mark in attendance this season and there is an outside chance that seven clubs could hit that figure.

That stampede for first place has given the gate its biggest shot when Cleveland and Boston had since the mad scramble of 1948, and the New York Yankees were to play a pennant playoff game not eliminated until the next to the last day of the season.

In '48, the junior circuit set an all-time major league attendance high with a total of 11,150,099 paying customers. However, only four clubs went past the million mark that season because most of the crowds were centered in Cleveland New York, Boston and Detroit.

This year the situation is vastly different. Five clubs still are very much in the race, although Detroit's chances have lessened considerably in the past few days. All of these, the Yankees, Indians, White Sox, Red Sox and Tigers will go past the million mark barring unforeseen complications.

In fact,the Yankees already have hit the million mark for the 10th consecutive year since World War II with a league high total of 1,104,150 to date through games of Aug. 16. The amazing A's from Kansas City, with 1,089073 to date probably will stay in the runner-up spot in attendance even though they are an also-ran sixth in the standings.

Earl Hilligan of the American League Service Bureau in Chicago who supplied the attendance figures, said there was a good chance for the American League to go well past the eight-million mark in attendance for the season, but that of course there was no chance of equalling that all-time 1948 mark when the Indians packed in 901.

However Hilligan had the cheery news that the American for a percentage increase of 8½ per cent over last year. There have been 6,587,330 fans at 462 games.

A look at the other attendance totals with the number of games left to play, shows the strong probability of six clubs with million gates and an outside chance for 2,620,627 and the Yankees 2,373,-515000 paying customers to date League has had an increase of Midge Buck, Charlottesville, Va., Baltimore, the seventh.

The next club to join New York and Kansas City at the million level should be Boston, and it probably will occur in the current three-game series with the Hankees. Before that series opened Boston had 915,016 attendance and with three 30,000 plus sellouts would easily go over.

Detroit with 19 more openings including two doubleheaders, is next at 874,909 and needs only a little more than 6,500 fans per game to surpass a million. They've been getting three times that many fans.

Cleveland, in a better spot in the pennant struggle, has 796,293 fans to date and with 18 more home openings including three double headers, needs an average of only 11,500 fans per opening. The Indians could get as many as 80,000 for some of their crucial games with the Yankees, White Sox and Red Sox. Chicago, with 792,523 to date needs only an average of 11500 per opening and with 18 to go including four double headers, likewise is a cinch.

Baltimore with 14 more openings including four double headers, has a total of 701,381 and needs several 40,000 plus crowds to help out since they must have to average better than 21,000. It could happen, because enthusiasm picked up with Oriole fans when the Birds had a recent hot streak.

It is only hopeless in Washington, where the Nats to date have drawn only 313,985. With 18 openings to go including three double-headers, they wuld have to draw more than 38,000 per game, Since the park holds only around 30,000, that isn't likely. They haven't had standing room only crowds in the nation's capital since the Coolidge administration. Or since Bucky Harris was boy manager in 1924.

Dodgers Take First Step Out Of Brooklyn Today

BROOKLYN UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, stung by the stay-at-home tactics of fans once considered the most fanatic in baseball, took the first step out of Brooklyn today.

By arranging to play seven of their home games next season in Jersey City, N.J., and announcing they hope to vacate Ebbets Field after the 1957 season, the Dodgers issued a pretty plain warning that poor attendance could make them leave town permanently.

It's the first time in modern baseball history that a major-league team has "farmed out" any of its home games.

And it's the first time in history that a pennant-winning team, as the Dodgers are almost certain to be this season, have gone out of games.

With Dodger attendance far off during the last two seasons, club President Walter OMalley put the finger on the parking problem as the reason for the slump. Time was, O'Malley pointed out, folks in Brooklyn used to come to Ebbets Field by trolley— the team's present name was shortened from the nickname "Trolley Dodgers." Now, fans want to come by car and there is parking space for only 700 cars at Ebbets Field.

If the Dodgers are going to stay in Brooklyn, says O'Malley, they must find a site for a new stadium which has parking facilities for at least 2,000 cars. They've been looking for such a site since 1948.

"The matter has progressed to the point where a final engineering and legal study will be made," said O'Malley. "The result will determine the future of the Dodgers.'

O'Malley insisted that the Dodger owners intend to keep the team in Brooklyn if at all possible. But he left the door open for a shift by saying "their locations" would be considered "only if we are finally unsuccessful in our ambition to build in Brooklyn."

Other locations mentioned by O'Malley, in addition to Jersey City, which lies just across the Hudson River from New York City were two areas on Long Island.

O'Malley made it plain that Ebbets Field will cease to be the home of the Dodgers after 1957.

"We plan to play almost all our home games at Ebbets Field in 1956 and in 1957, but will have to have a new stadium thereafter."

Nightmare Soon Over For Suddenly-Awake Yankees As They Begin Securing Their Spot

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

The nightmare was almost over for the suddenly-awakened Yankees today as they began putting that familiar daylight between themselves and all other contenders for the first time in three weeks.

The one calamity Yankee officials dread most is losing the pennant two years in a row. Last time it happened was 10 years ago.

But the Bronx Bombers taking steps to see it doesn't happen again this year, moved 1½ games ahead of the field by beating the Red Sox, 13-6, Tuesday night. Not since July 26 have the Yankees ld by hat much of a margin and during a good part of that stretch they were bouncing around in second and third place.

Showing no mercy to the Red Sox, the Yankees blasted out 18 hits, including four homers and three doubles, in rolling to their seventh straight victory. Mickey Mantle, Don Larsen, Bill Skowron and Hank Bauer each homered to offset homers by Dick Brodowski, Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen.

The Yankees clinched Tuesday nights victory with a seven-run burst in the third. Although he failed to go the route for the first time in four games since being recalled from the minors, Larsen was credited with his fifth triumph. Tom Morgan relieved him in the eighth and held Boston at bay.

The White Sox climbed into second place by defeating the Athletics, 5-4, in 11 innings while the Tigers blanked the Indians, 7-0.

After Kansas City scored a run in the top of the 11th to break a 3-all tie, Chicago filled the bases in the bottom of the frame and tied the score on Jim Busby's sacrifice fly. An intentional walk to Walt Dropo filled the bases again and Bob Kennedy then singled for the victory.

Southpaw Billy Hoeft limited Cleveland to two hits in posting his 12th victory. Hoeft faced only 29 batters, yielding only one walk and singles to Bobby Avilla and Larry Doby. The Tigers meanwhile clubbed Early Wynn, Sal Maglie, Don Mossi and Jose Santo for 13 hits. Frank House and Bill Tuttle each homered, driving in a total of seven runs between them.

A two-run homer by Cal Abrams helped the last-place Orioles snap a five-game winning streak with a 7-2 decision over the Senators. Erv Palica was the winning pitcher although he needed help from George Zuverink in the eighth inning. Veteran Johnny Schmitz was the loser.

Willie Mays' 37th homer with one on proved the margin of victory as the Giants beat the Dodg-Gomez went the route for his eighth victory, giving up all of Brooklyn's runs in the sixth when Roy Campanella unloaded a three run homer. Until then, the Giants led by five runs. Despite the loss, charged to southpaw Johnny Podres, the Dodgers remained 15 games in front when St. Louis nipped second - place Milwaukee, 3-2.

The Cards won the game in eighth when Bill Sarni tripled off Ernie Johnson with a man on first base. Stan Musial's 26th homer with one on in the first inning off Chet Nichols gave St. Louis its first two runs.

Cincinnati moved into fifth place by beating Chicago, 11-2, as Joe Black pitched his first complete game in the National League since Sept. 21, 1952. Smoky Burgess' 17th homer with one on put the Redlegs in front in the first inning and they turned the game into a rout with six more runs in the second inning and three more in the third.

The Phillies defeated the Pirates 12-3, as Herm Wehmeier hurled a seven hitter and made his liftime record over Pittsburgh 23-7. Del Ennis drove in five runs.

Elks To Organize Bowling League

The Elks Bowling League will hold its first meeting Friday at the Elks Lodge at 8:00 p.m. All Elks who bowl are urged to attend to assist in organizing teams for the coming season.

Charles Holbrook is secretary-treasurer of the Elks League.

Man Is Arrested On Charge Of Arson

PRINCETON, Ind. (UP)—Bond of $1,000 was set today for the release of Mardo Massie, 49, Buckskin, who was arrested on an arson charge in connection with a fire at a neighbor's home.

Investigators said a rug in the living room of the Albert Siekman home was doused with an inflammable fluid and set afire Sunday. Damage was slight. Witnesses told authorities they saw Massie standing in a grove watching the Siekman family leave for church shortly before the blaze was discovered.

ing area for use in inclement weather. The parking area has been floodlighted.

A completely new preparation room is located at the northeast corner of the building, featuring green terraza floor with green and white tile on the walls. It also features built-in cabinets and sink.

The general office is located west of the north foyer and has been remodeled out of a former hallway. The men's rest room is off the office.

The selection room has been completely redecorated. Eucalyptus plant wallpaper in a soft blue and beige color gives this room a pleasing touch.

Other features of the newly remodeled funeral home are new drapes throughout, new lighting fixtures, and an outstanding feature is the statue of the Good Shepherd which will be installed in a recession halfway up the spiral stairway leading to the private office.

A hand painted wall mural along the entire north wall of the chapel features a scene of Mediterranean women washing clothes in a river.

Another unusual structure is the hand molded and hand painted canopy of the chandalier in the south foyer.

The present funeral home represents many months of planning and remodeling and is an illustration of the many modernization programs which have been undertaken in Columbia City during the past few years.

A small lump of sugar, a half teaspoonful of baking soda, a little salt or a few pieces of white soap added to the water helps to keep cut flowers fresh.

Alumnus William Gingher To Be Speaker At 1955 South Whitley Triennial Reunion

William Striggle, president of the South Whitley and Cleveland township alumni triennial reunion, reports that local committees are busily engaged in completeing the decorations and final arrangements for the 17th meeting Saturday, August 20.

More than 700 of the 1100 alumni are expected for the reunion, coming from California to New York and from Florida and across the border in Canada.

Honored at the reunion will be Mrs. Hattie Shriver Weybright, South Whitley, class of 1891, Mrs. Lottie McConnell, Sidney and Rollo Brubaker, Warren, Ohio, of the class of 1893.

The morning session will open at 10 o'clock with the invocation by the Rev. Harold Beeman. Miss Madge Rollins and Miss Eva Mae Beard are in charge of registration.

The welcome address will be given by Fred Fox, president-emeritus and master of ceremonies of the association. His enthusiasm and talents have helped make the Alumni triennial a success and enjoyable occassion through the years since its organization in 1905, when he was elected treasurer.

Mr. Fox is associated with his brother Hugo Fox in the manufacture of bassoons at the Fox Production Corporation, South Whitley.

The response to the welcome will be given by Mrs. Ora (Garnet Goff) Grossman. The morning session will include the report of the secretary, Mrs. Earl Emerson and the election of officers.

Crowning of Alumni Queen

Miss Nancy Lilly, will be crowned queen of the alumni association by the queen of 1952, Mrs. Charles, (Betty Clark) Freer, Washington D.C., Mrs. Freer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clark, Columbia township.

Miss Lilly, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Lilly, Columbia township. She was chosen as queen by the students and faculty of South Whitley high school.

Attendants of Queen Nancy will be the Misses Sharon Wilson, Gwen Whitesell, Marilyn O'Grady and Suzette Graf.

Parade, Concert, Ball Game

The afternoon's entertainment will include a parade by classes with some entering floats. Lewis Bayman is the parade chief.

The South Whitley high school band, under the direction of the new bandmaster, Leslie Pence, will lead the parade and give a concert at the school gymnasium.

The new elementary school will be open for visitors. Athletic coach Charles Beck is arranging a ball game between little league teams, the cardinals and the cubs at 2:30 and the alumni and South Whitely high school teams at 3:30.

The alumni banquet will be served in the all-pourpose room in the elementary building under the direction of Mrs. Harold Howard.

A floor show featuring some alumni talent will follow the banquet. Hugo Fox will conduct an alumni orchestra.

Alumnus William Gingher, speaker

William Gingher, an executive of the Day Trucking Company, Fort Wayne, and a graduate of South Whitley high school will be the banquet speaker.

Dancing to the music of Sonny Minard and his orchestra will close the celebration.

Other officers of the organization are: Mrs. Earl Miller, vice-president; George Fleck, sound technician.

Hogs Judged Fair Champs Will Please "Meat Shuffler"

Ever see a meat "shuffler?"

Next time your're in a grocery store just stop at the meat counter and watch the average housewife "shuffle" the bacon packages until she finds one with lots of lean meat.

As the average American started to watch his waist line, the hog producer had to start watching the lines of his market hog.

For the past several weeks hog producers in Indiana have watched adult and 4-H exhibitors compare their hogs with their neighbors entries at county fairs. Champions from those shows have been entered in the big show – the Indiana State Fair, August 31 through September 9.

When those hogs are driven into the show ring in a few weeks, before the critical eye of the judge, you can be sure he'll be looking for the hog that will produce the greatest amount of lean pork chops and hams, Phares L. White said. He is the director of the Swine Department.

What kind of bacon will the champion have? You guessed it – the package the "meat shuffler" chose.

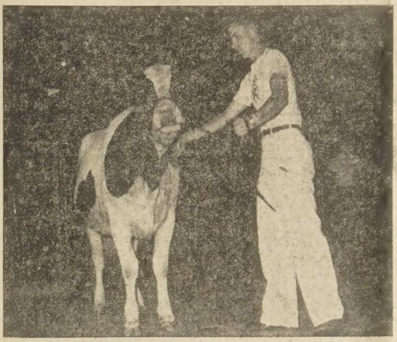
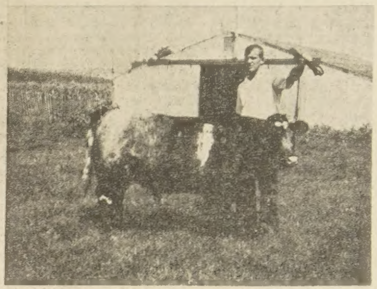
1954 4—H Champs Coming Back

Dick Austine completed four years of 4-H work in the swine club in 1954 and won his first grand championship with a Duroc barrow. Dick will be back trying for another purple when the pigs are judged on August 25. His barrow last year brought a record price. This year Dick will show a barrow and gilt. Two brothers, David and Larry, will also have pigs in the show. The boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Austin, Cleveland township.

Carolyn Waugh exhibited the champion Angus steer last year, but the steer right behind the champ was shown by Dick Richards, shown above. In 1954, Dick's steer went on to place sixth at the State Fair. Carolyn is no longer in 4-H, but Dick is back again this year with two Angus steers. His brother, David, will also show an Angus steer this year, having had the misfortune of losing one of his steers during the extremly hot weather recently.

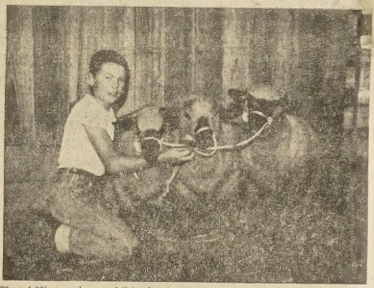


This is the champion Holstein that Fred Martz showed in 1954, and not only will Fred be back for the fair this year but he will be bringing the same cow with him. Fred is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Martz, Thorncreek township, and expects to end his 4-H work this year. He will be a junior at Purdue University this fall.



Wayne Nierman exhibited the 1954 champion Shorthorn steer, and is back again this year with another Shorthorn. He is shown with his 1955 entry, "Bucket", a half-brother to last year's champion.

Wayne is the son of Joshua Nierman, Union township, and will end his 4-H career this year after four years in beef club work. He graduated from Coesse last spring as salutatorian and plans to enter Purdue University Extension at Fort Wayne this fall. This year he is president of his club, The Sod Busters, president of the electric club, and is also in the tractor maintenance club, in which he placed second behind his brother, Earl.



The 4-H'er who exhibited the champion lamb and the champion pen of three lambs was Kent Sherman. He is shown above with his entries in the lamb club for this year, three Hampshire lambs.

Kent is the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sherman, Thorncreek township. He has his lambs ready now for the fair which starts next Thursday.

If Mrs. Dean Has Way, Neither Of Her Sons Will Ever Grow Up To Murder King's English

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UP)—If Mrs. Dorothy Dean has her way, neither of her sons will ever grow up to murder the King's English with a statement like "Me 'n Paul."

On the other hand, there is a strong possibility that Paul Dean Jr. and Sandy Dean may grow up to be even better baseball pitchers than their father — as well as better grammarians than their uncle, the famed Dizzy Dean.

"My boys are going to get an education first and Paul Jr. is going to receive training to become a dentist," Mrs. Dean said. "And, in the language of my brother-in-law, that's the tooth, the whole tooth and nothing but the tooth."

It's not that she is opposed to baseball careers for her sons, but she is determined they will be educated ball players.

Paul Jr. is a strapping 6-feet 5-inches and weighs 185 pounds. Uncle "Di" was astonished on his last visit to Arkansas to discover the 18-year-old is "taller than me 'n Paul."

Sandy is only 10 years old, but already he is the best known hurler in the Little League teams in Arkansas.

Mrs. Dean, well acquainted with baseball parlance, explains her sons' abilities in this fashion:

"Sandy has better control than Paul Jr. and may end up with better control than his dad. Young Paul has his dad's fast ball, a good curve, and fine change of pace."

Paul, the younger, now is playing with a semi-pro team at Homer, La. He pitched his first game for Homer July 14 — a four-hit, 1-0 effort in which opposing batsmen garnered only four sing-Paul made 'em look like amachooers?"

No sir. Mrs. Dean envisions, instead, the day when Sandy will les. He struck out nine men.

"Junior" also pitched with the Lakeside High School team here, and won five games against no losses last season. He had an avreage of 13 strikeouts per game.

The boy, who looks like his dad has received a baseball scholarship at Southern Methodist where he will study dentistry. Mrs. Dean said bids for his services from such major league teams as Cleveland, Kansas City and Boston will have to be shelved until he gets his education.

"Then, if he ever does play major league ball, I have an idea he'll try to play with the Brooklyn Dodgers who are his first love," his mother added.

In high school, Paul Jr. was president of the student council and played basketball as well as baseball.

Kid brother Sandy has been playing with the Little League team at Clarksville where an uncle is a lieutenant with the State Police. In a statewide tournament at Fort Smith, he won his only game by a score of 3-1, and was selected on the all-state Little League team.

There may come a day when two Dean brothers once more will be major league teammates, causing the same kind of frustration at the plate that Paul Sr. and Dizzy used to create with St. Louis Cardinals.

But, if Mrs. Dean has her way, courtesy, modesty and the King's English will mark their appearances on the mound.

You think the day might come when major leaguer Sandy Dean will tell newsmen that "me and say that 'my brother Paul Jr. and I are grateful to our teammates for the fine support which enabled us to vanquish our opponents."

And Ol' Diz will have the best publicized heart attack in the annals of the game!

Appointment Of ASC Community Committee Is Completed By Township Election Boards

Township election boards, consisting of three farmers in each township appointed by the county election board, completed the nominating of candidates for community committeemen and delegates to the county convention which is to be held on August 31, at 9:00 a.m. in the county agent's assembly room, according to Carl J. Auer, office manager of Whitley County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation.

Persons nominated in each township are as follows: Cleveland - Joe A. Bowers, Flody Bollinger, John Schipper, Fredrick Meyers, Earl Emerson, Henry Hollman, Walter Brown, Carl Bollinger, Kenneth Logan, Paul Kelsey; Columbia - Clyde Sievers, Glen Snapp, Clarence Eberhard, Clarence Fahl, Lewis Reimer, Wilson Hoffman, Irvin Sievers; Etna-Troy - Albert VanVoorst, Glenn Western, James Bohnstedt, Orville Tuggle, Donald Burnau, William Kessie, Roland Burns, Ellis Hill, Glen Witmer, Paul Wolfe; Jefferson - Coral Platter, James Pequignot, George Frazier, Newton Flaugh, Loren Cowan, G .E. Schinbeckler, Roy G. McCoy, Glenn Rupert, Archie Nicholson, Jr., L. Haven Ottinger.

Richland - Dayne Wilkinson, C. Earl Norris, Bernard Miller, Jerry Bower, Robert Long, Joe Metzger, Ray Kessie, Herman Oelschlager, Homer E. Schuman, Ed Ness; Smith - John Wilsoxson, Donald Brown, Harry Sheets, Clarence Zeigler, John W. Green, Ralph Krider, Eldon Anderson, Charles Anderson, Charles B. Zumbrun; Thorncreek - Gerald Jagger, Marvin Metzger, Monroe Kitson, Donald Hill, Benjamin Lott, John Jagger, Robert Adams; Union - Max McCoy, Robert H. Wilbur Alexander, Grant Rumsyre, Richard L. Miller, Dale Alles, Ansel Mullett, Lawrence Hesting, Robert Hinen.

All eligible voters have been sent a ballot by mail. Ballots must be returned to the County ASC Office, either in person or post marked not later than Saturday mid-night August 20th. Any eligible voter not receiving a ballot by mail may call at the ASC Office and obtain a ballot. A tabulating committee consisting of three community election board chairman appointed by the county election board will meet at the County ASC Office to tabulate the results of the election.

Plaintiff Seeks $10,000 In Accident Damage Suit

A suit asking for $10,000 in damages was filed in Whitley County circuit court Monday by Dale Lechlitner against Phyliss Troup. The suit was originally filed in Kosciusko County court December 10, 1953.

In the complaint, Lechlitner charges the defendant with three counts of negligence leading up to an accident which involved the Troup woman's automobile and the plaintiff's motorcycle. The accident occurred in May, 1952, in Syracuse, according to the suit.

First Glidden Tour Held In Year 1905 When Auto Was New

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The first Glidden tour was in 1905, when the auto was new. The idea was to prove that a man-made machine was safe and almost as fast as a horse.

In that inaugural spectacle a woman driver competed, lady by the name of Mrs. John N. Cuneo. One of the first women drivers, she ran afoul of the course between New York and White Mountains. The poor gal hit a cold, or something, and cracked up. But later Mrs. Cuneo became the idol of her sex when she succeeded as a crack driver of racing cars.

The first Glidden tour was sponsored by the American Automobile Assn. which is helping to promote the current Glidden event, starting from Niagara Falls, N.Y. August 25.

It will wind up, under sponsorship of the Antique Automobile Club of America, at Montreal. The original tours ran between 1905 and 1913. They were revived in 1946.

This year nearly 250 antique automobiles will take the spotlight. These include some "wrecks" that have stood the test of half a century or more—with the help of more than a little overhauling.

Drivers come from all parts of the United States and Canada. They will bring together all manner and makes of motor vehicles, most of which our kids never heard of. Like the Stanley Steamer, the Elcar, the Hupmobile, landaulets and one-cylinder buggies. Some will be powered by gas, some by steam, and some by electricity.

Over a hundred of the cars go back to 1913 vintage or earlier, according to Jerry Duryea, of Longmeadow, Mass., son of the pioneer car builder.

Oldest in the line will be a 1903 curved dash Oldsmobile, entered by James Staats of New Hope, Pa., and a 1903 Marble Swift, owned by Regins A. Stern of Pittsburgh.

A novel car will be that driven by Joseph Cest of Montreal. It is a 1906 Baker Electric. He will have to change or re-charge batteries along the route.

Owning very old cars, of course, is a hobby and in most cases a rich man's toy. Almost all of the parts needed have to be especially tooled.

James Melton, the singer, owns a fabulous stable of old machines. He has spent several fortunes on just finding the relics...and several more in reconditioning them and keeping them in shape.

Montgomery Ward Has Fall Sale Book

CHICAGO (UP)— Montgomery Ward and Co. today announced what it called its largest fall sale book in company history, and said reductions averaged 10 per cent on prices which were cut.

School clothing for children, household furnishings and electrical appliances were among the featured items in seasonal price cuts, the company said.

Judges Select Ten Acts For Annual Fair Talent Show

The 4-H Talent Show is scheduled for Thursday evening August 25 ,at the 4-H Grounds in Columbia City. It brings some of the finest amageur talent of the area to the Whitley County 4-H Fair.

The judges have auditioned some forty acts, with the following chosen to compete for the large cash awards: Etna-Troy Girls Trio - Small but mighty; Joyce Miller - Exceptional "Bones" act; Fred Martz - baritone from Purdue Glee Club; Wisler Family - tumbling act; Nix Sisters - two accordions and a piano; Carol Mills - guitar and vocal; Griffis Sisters - precision tap dancers; Barbara Bilger - an Indiana University vocalist; Smith and Boyer - pantomime; "The Notesmen" - Churubusco whiz kids.

Bob Sievers of WOWO will serve as master of ceremonies and will provide the applause meter to measure the winner as selected by the applause of the audience.

Gladys Shipsides Given Divorce In Court

Gladys Shipsides was granted a divorce in Whitley County circuit court Saturday from Stanley Shipsides.

The court also awarded the plaintiff custody of three minor children born of the marriage and ordered Shipsides to pay $200 for their support until 1960, when the payment will be reduced to $130. The court also ratified a property settlement agreement previously entered into by the parties.

Hartman Plans To Go Airborne This Summer

By CHARLES KROUSE
United Press Staff Correspondent

BURLINGTON Iowa (UP) Art Hartman, 67, Burlington, plans to go airborne this summer with a parachute, a bicycle and 200 small helium balloons.

With a good tail wind he figures he can zip along at 25 to 30 miles per hour at an altitude of about 1500 feet.

Generally a paracnute is the slow way down from an aircraft and a bicycle is strictly ground level. But the spry Iowan has blended them into what he calls the "Hartman Flying Saucer."

Hartman always has had difficulty keeping at least one foot on the ground. He's still an active balloonist and plans to make at least eight ascensions this summer. He's a former trapeze performer and has parachuted for pay about 500 times.

A Neat Trick

The "Flying Saucer' is something that has kicked around in the back of Hartmans mind since 1907.

That year Hartman had a balloon entered in an air show at St. Louis but the fellow who sailed away with the $10,000 first prize was a 15-year-old Ohioan identified as Cromwell Dixon.

"Dixon flew a circle with his balloon, guiding it with flappers connected to bicycle pedals," Hartman said. "It was one of the neatest tricks i've ever seen."

Hartman has used Dixon's principle to construct his bicycle-baloon. He's ready for the maiden flight, needing only a sponsor.

It Costs Money

Under a 28-foot parachute Hartman will place 200 balloons filled with helium. The frame of the bicycle is suspended under the balloons, the pedals operating a propeller in front and a tail fin in back.

"There's no question but what it will fly," Hartman said. "To come down, I'll release the balloons one by one."

Hartman is dickering with officials of the Texas State Fair at Dallas and another group at Amarillo. The Civil Aeronautics Administration has given its approval.

The elderly daredevil estimated it will cost $400 to take the contraption up. "That's why I can't give any demonstrations," he said.

"But when I'm lined up to give a show, I'll take her any place. The going rate is 10 cents a mile—even from here to the coast.'

Doris Day Writes About Her Recent Change In Career

By DORIS DAY
Written for United Press

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Everybody in Hollywood is asking me what I think of my "change of pace" assignment in Alfred Hitchcock's "The Man Who Knew Too Much,' and opposite Jimmy Cagney in "Love Me or Leave Me.'

Well, I like it fine except it isn't quite as drastic a change as everybody seems to think. Oh, I'll admit that an Alfred Hitchcock suspense thriller must appear somewhat unusual for a girl with my background. But that part is not as off-beat as many suppose.

While I don't put myself in the Greta Garbo or Bette Davis league, the dramatic bit is not really new to me. I have had emotional and dramatic scenes in most of my pictures and I've even shed tears in many of them. The difference in the Hitchcock vehicle is that it's a mystery drama as compared with the usual musical I make.

In many ways, however, the picture does represent a significant chapter in my career. It is not a musical — I only sing two songs — and there is greater emphasis on story. From that standpoint it is a decided change of pace for me. It's different from practically everything else I've done and may convince Hollywood that I can do more than sing.

Although the picture does give me greater opportunity to act (you notice I said greater opportunity), I want it understood I have no intention of abandoning my singing career to concentrate on straight drama. I mention this because the rumors have already started. Personally, I think people should stick to whatever they do best and for me that's making with the vocal chords.

I believe the story is the most important ingredient in a movie. I like musicals but few of them have really good stories. Thats why I enjoyed making "Love Me or Leave Me." It had an excellent story. That's what I'm looking for these days and that's the reason you may be seeing me in more films like that.

Battle Of Batter Rages In Kitchens Across Continent

By Gay Pauley
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (UP) — A first rate war is raging in the food industry— this one, the battle of the batters.

The adversaries are the food companies manufacturing cake mixes which are selling like hot cakes. And the ultimate winner is the housewife who stands to gain a better product.

The rivalry is for her cake mix purchases, which last year totalled around $137,000,000, according to industry sources. This year, sales should climb even higher, as the makers sharpen the national sweet tooth with new flavors and new claims of superiority for their products.

One manufacturer says that mixes are the most successful of all the numerous packaged foods. The industry isn't new—the first mix came to market more than 30 years ago—but only recently did the sales boom start.

All Claim Superiority

Each company, in its efforts to win the housewife's favor, claims its product is better than any other.

General Foods, for instance, says its mix is "instant"—the only one requiring just one mixing step and only three minutes of beating. It says other mixes take from four to 10 minutes, depending on the type of cake.

General Mills says most of its mixes take four minutes, or about 600 strokes.

"But" said a company spokesman, "by doing the beating in two steps, you get a better cake."

Pillsbury claims it is the only major manufacturer making the all-in-one mix. No need to add eggs—just water or milk.

Some Add Gadgets

"If a woman's going to use a cake mix, she wants it as complete as possible," said R. C. Painter, the company's eastern sales manager.

Hills Brothers Co.—one of the first in the ready-mix field—claims it is the only company with the "twin pack," or two packages of mix in one box, so that the housewife can make a large cake, or use only half for a small one. The company also brags of its pre-creamed mix process, which "requires 150 less beating strokes than any other mix." The company also packs pan liners with its mixes.

Duff, in addition to its regular mixes, has just introduced low calorie versions of both cake and frosting. You have your choice of chocolate layer or golden layer, and the caloric content is one-third that of an ordinary cake, the company says. The mix uses high protein flours and no shortening.

Flavor Also Competitive

Part of the cake mix war is fought in the flavor department. White and chocolate are the best sellers, the industry says. But the housewife can buy angel or devil's food, chocolate fudge, orange or honey spice. And at least two companies make a frosting mix.

As the competition increases, the mixes probably will get increasingly "instanter," but even the most optimistic source doubts if beating ever will eliminated.

"Unless, that is, we can find a new way of adding moisture to the dry ingredients," said Painter. "Who knows........we may one day sell canned cake batter."

Give your wooden serving wear special care for longer wear. Clean it immediately after use, with as little water as possible. Don't immerse wooden utensils and never soak them. If roughened, they can be smoothed with sandpaper, but never should be polished, waxed or varnished.

Horse Power Replaces Power Of Horses At State Fair Contest

Just as the horse has been replaced on the farm as a source of power by a combustion engine, so has the horse at a pulling contest been replaced by a modern tractor.

The first annual tractor pulling contest at the Indiana State Fair will be held August 31 in front of the grandstand, and from all indications it will be a battle down to the last pull to see which tractor can pull the heaviest load the greatest distance.

The contest is divided into 5 classes which are determined by weight of the tractor.

Five District Contests, are being held prior to the State Fair, at Rochester, Swayzee, Rising Sun, Plainville, and Amo. The best drivers from these districts will be competing for prizes and awards before the grandstand crowd at the State Fair.

The actual pulling will be done on a specially constructed concrete pulling slab just to the west of the stage in front of the grandstand.

Critic Of Original Design For The U. S. Air Force Academy Explains Opposition, Plan

EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the most outspoken critics of the original design for the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., has been the noted architect Frank Lloyd Wright. In the following dispatch written for United Press Wright explains his opposition to the original design and his proposal for finding a suitable plan for the academy.

By FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT
Written for United Press

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (UP) — Concerning the extreme use of glass in design sfor the Air Force Academy, I am reminded of the housewife up before the judge for beating her husband.

She pleaded, "Oh, judge, it wasn't so much wot 'e said as the nawsty way 'e said it."

Not so much the extreme use of glass. No, I feel the entire design has no sense whatever of the beautiful virtue of the site nor granted a thing to the dignified nature of the occasion.

The design was of the sort to be expected of an efficiency expert selecting efficiency-architects to plant in the name of American architecture an efficiency that had nothing to say above what would be said by a wayside market or a business-poster on a city street.

The Skidmore Owings and Merrill design puts on our record the same idea of an already dated cliche: The glassified box propped up on stilts: Imported Swiss via South America. There is no concept visible in the whole design above the level of that import.

Need Inspired Art

May I disrespectfully remark that more of the sort called in to help convert that design to architecture would be like trying to remove a stain by more smear. How inspiring to American youth this expenditure of a hundred million or more of American taxpayers' dollars might be if the poetic principle of actual architecture were to "come through" on that noble site! But the entire approach would have to be changed—be radically different.

Some day American policy will waken to the fact that the practical and the efficient are no longer on speaking terms (if they ever were) and the inspired work of art is vital to the spirit of our society as a democratic nation, if we are to endure.

This imitative design slanders the strength and beauty of the American spirit. In abstract but realistic terms it is the perfect picture of the beauteous mountain-maid betrayed by the city-slicker.

With Congressman Fogarty's criticism, which I have read in the Congressional Record, I agree almost entirely. But Mr. Fogarty does not go far enough. The scheme for the academy as now presented wholly ignores the character of the site and has no feeling whatever for the dignity of the occasion.

Expediency Defeats Itself

I suppose this is to be expected because expedient government would choose expedient architecture as expedient for the purpose. But what may be tolerated as an urban poster for soap is not tolerable as source for inspiration for the youth of America.

Commercialization of architecture has shown severe limitations now clearly manifest in this plan-factory design. To execute it would be to build into the future a confession of failure of the vital spirit of our country. The country has a spirit and it cannot afford to credit this victory of publicity-manager commercialism. Here we have only an already dated cliche to characterize our nation for the next several centuries.

The scheme presented would not only establish a spiritual technical stumbling-block for young America, but the very expediency it exemplifies is bound to defeat itself sooner or later.

We have seen this depression of a great art by commercial expediency coming along for a long time. But, that an already dated version of it should become national, though feared, was hardly to have been expected.

A fresh start is needed. I suggest that only a nominally paid competition—say $100,000 to each—be offered to several architects selected for their past experience in creative achievement and that they be invited to submit schemes in sufficient detail clearly presented to a tribunal composed, not of conditioned experts and specialists, but of fresh minds as yet unspoiled; the minds of American youth, say, now in the high schools of the nation.

The several designs might be submitted to the high school principals by way of a single brochure to enable voting by the students. This Air Force Academy will be theirs, for better or for worse.

Handley Reaps Votes On Indiana County Fair Circuit

By KEITH L. MARTIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Lt. Gov. Harold W. Handley is reaping votes on the county fair circuit, but his friends insist he no longer expects the harvest to be the 1956 Republican nomination for governor.

Indiana's No. 2 executive is cultivating hundreds of acquaintances in his almost daily tours of the hog barns and 4-H halls where Hoosier farmers put their livestock and crops on exhibit.

This is perfect groundwork for next year's political wars. But the Handley followers candidly point out that few of the farm folks will be delegates to the GOP convention.

In a direct primary, Handley would be a shoo-in, they claim. In a convention, however, he would be—by virtue of his office—the principal target of other Republicans being pushed for the nomination by big city politicians.

"When they open the door to stick in the knife, Handley is not going to be there," his friends insist.

In their words: "It'll be a case of nobody wanting Handley except the people."

A Gilt or Quilt?

Handley has visited 16 county fairs so far this summer and has eight more scheduled before State Fair time. In those two dozen appearances, an estimated 250,000 persons will have shaken his hand or listened to his speeches.

A typical week for the LaPorte man: He visited the Princeton fair today, will make a speech Thursday afternoon at the Terre Haute fairgrounds, will fly to Kendallville for a 4-H fair Thursday night, and will be in Connersville for its fair Friday.

Even after such a steady diet, Handley enjoys the county fairs. When he moved up from state senator to lieutenant governor, he hardly knew a gilt from a quilt.

Now he's well versed in farm lore and has a genuine interest in the 4-H and Future Farmers of America.

"They make the fair," he said. "These kids don't get any money for their efforts—just the pride of achievement. It's very good training and it's worth something to every child. I just wish my boy and girl lived on a farm so they could belong to a 4-H club."

Handley regards county fairs as "the showcase of agriculture" and confides: "I get a bigger kick out of being commissioner of agriculture than lieutenant governor.

Shuns GOP Factions

He has been a lieutenant governor pointedly divorced from his chief. Handley doesn't think much of Governor Craig, and vice versa, which he considers an asset because he gets none of the blame from critics of Craig's administration.

Until the 1955 Legislature, Handley was tagged the choice of Sen. William Jenner's GOP faction for the 1956 nomination. Now, Handley disclaims factional interests there, say sJenner is "lukewarm" to him, and professes independence.

Ignoring the factionalism, Handley trods to the fairs and uses his experience as a commercial movie and television film executive to boost Indiana's "debt-free" attraction to new industry.

This Chamber of Commerce-type campaign has resulted in 19 new industries for Hoosierland, he said, and "we've got plenty more irons in the fire."

Handley said he enjoys this public relations work and hopes it will make him the best lieutenant governor Indiana has ever had.

"There's just one thing," he added. "I've been in so many fair parades, crowned so many queens, and kissed so many grand champion steers that I hate to put my teeth in a hamburger for fear I'm eating an old friend."

Summerfield Lists Postal Pointers

The safety, speed and sureness in the delivery of the U.S. mail will be improved if the users of the mails follow ten basic postal pointers outlined today by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

"The users of the mails can help themselves get better mail service by following these ten suggestions," Mr. Summerfield said. "I feel certain the American people will cooperate with the Post Office Department in this mutual effort to provide the best mail service possible."

1. Address mail fully and clearly. Write legibly or print plainly. Where applicable, use zone numbers. Avoid using abbreviations which might confuse mail handlers.

2. Always use a return address in the upper left hand corner of both letters and packages. When you do so, you prevent undelivered mail going to the 'dead letter' office.

3. Do not enclose coins or hard objects of any kind in letters, without marking the envelope for hand stamping. High speed cancelling machines cannot process such letters, often jam and damage letters.

5. Do not mail cash. For safety's sake, use Postal Money Orders or checks.

5. Make certain parcels are well packed and securly wrapped. Enclose a card with your return address and recipients address. This precaution permits delivery of your package if the wrapper is damaged.

6. Double check to make sure your mail has the correct amount of postage. "Postage Due" delays letters and disappoints recipients.

79 .To speed leters through cancelling machines, be sure stamps are in upper right hand corner.

8. Insure parcels. Register letters of real value. Use Certified Mail for letters of no intrinsic value where only proof of delivery is required.

9. Mail early and often. Earlier mailings mean earlier deliveries because your letters or other mail catch earlier trains, planes or other transporters of mail. Large mailers should separate mail into local and out of town bundles.

10. Make sure your correspondents have your correct address. Always use zone numbers, where applicable. Be certain your correspondents are notified of any change of address.

"Every postal employee," Mr. Summerfield emphasized, "is happy to answer questions on postal rules and regulations. Their years of experience in postal service makes them experts in solving postalproblems. I suggest that anyone having problems about postage rates or postal matters see his local postmaster."

Suede gloves can be re-napped by rubbing them with a fine emery board.

Indiana Has Lots Of Rules On How To Drink In Public

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—If you've ever quaffed a beer in an Indiana tavern you know that the Hoosier state has more rules about the way you drink in public than the bartender has shot glasses.

Newcomers, for instance, may think it's pretty silly that you must be seated before a waitress can hand you a beer, and must remain seated in order to drink it.

But the Indiana Alcoholic Beverage Commission has 92 state excise police to tour the taverns in plain clothes and make sure that just such rules are obeyed. The purpose of these visits, as outlined by the State Alcoholic Beverage Act, is "to promote temperance."

"We're not out here to cut everybody's head off," said Maj. Walter Weyland, ABC chairman. Excise police want only to aid tavern-owners in keeping things in order, he said.

Must Be Lighted

Why not stand and drink? Standing could cause congestion, confusion, and disorder. Besides, cost of tavern permits vary with the number of seats. There would be no point in paying for 50 extra seats if 50 customers could stand and drink.

Another rule makes it impossible to mistake your wife for somebody else's. Dim cafes and secluded rendezvous are okay, but when an ABC man comes in with a light meter he must find one foot-candle of light 2½ feet from the floor.

"We have checked every tavern in the state at one time or another" said exciss police chief Charles Miller, to make sure it's "clearly visible."

"One candlepower," he conceded, "is not very much light."

All bars must have stools, and no woman can sit at the bar. The reason: too much competition among eager males who want to strike up an acquaintance.

"It causes fights," said Weyland.

Scares Off Conventions

Many Hoosiers complain about the early tavern closing. It's illegal to serve alcohol after 12:01 a.m. (CST), and by 12:30, you've got to have that last drop out of the off bars and tables by then, too. glass. Bottles and glasses must be

This prevents good nightclubbing, entertainment and even frightens away conventions, the critics say. Weyland leaves the closing decision up to the lawmakers, but cites the old saying that if "a man can't get drunk by midnight" something's wrong.

The ABC issues permits and supervises all places where alcoholic beverages are sold—including drug, grocery, and package liquor stores. Cost of permits vary with a number of factors. An Indianapolis tavern permit might run $1,000 a year.

Excise police also look for bootlegging, moonshining, sanitary conditions, and maintenance of a "high and fine reputation" among taverns.

The latter, said Weyland, "takes in everything else that they didn't think of off hand."

Suggestions Given For Framing And Matting Pictures

A properly selected frame and mat always helps to make the picture itself more interesting, suggests Miss Vanis Deeter, extension home furnishings specialist at Purdue University.

Miss Deeter gives the following suggestions to help you frame your picture to make it the center of interest: Think of the frame in relation to the picture and to the room where it will hang. Should the picture be an oil painting with strong colors, you man want a flat, plain frame that hangs close to the wall, allowing the beauty of the oils to attract the eye. For a small picture with soft coloring, the frame may be wide to make the picture outstanding. A narrow frame can be the answer to the picture with delicate lines, colors and small figures.

There are a variety of frames on the market from which to make your selection. Plain wooden ones-ready to finish in your own taste-are available at art stores and lumber yards. Other popular types of frames include plastic, mirror, metal, and dull gilt frames for oil paintings. Don't forget the possibility of usable old frames in the attic, garage, barn or second hand store.

Mattings and mountings to outline prints and water color pictures play an important part in relation to the picture and the frame. Color and width of the mat is determined by the picture. The mat's widest margin is always at the bottom. Therefore, for a picture with vertical lines, the mat should have a deep bottom margin, medium top margin and narrow sides. The horizontal picture should have the wide bottom margin, medium sides and narrow top. If pictures are to be used on patterned walls, a wide mat is a necessity.

Frankfurters Are Good Picnic Food

A beach party or picnic can have a longer guest list with less fuss and more fun than almost any other type of get-together. And isn't it true any meal cooked out of doors generates a ravenous appetite in the process.

Needless to say skinless frankfurters are simple to prepare and are always most popular; in fact, young people usually prefer hot dogs to anything else in the line of picnic fare. Green twigs whittled down to points at one end make good toasting forks for the franks and, later, for the marshmallows.

These same green twigs can serve as skewers, if you don't have the fancier store-bought variety, for sausage-ka-bobs. These are made with cuts of franks or cubes of balogna or salami alternated with mushrooms, pickle slices, or wedges of green pepper or tomatoes. Bacon strips may be cut in squares or left long and threaded zig-zag fashion throughout the length of the ka-bob. Rub each skewer with oil before using to insure easy removal after cooking.

Frankfurter quails are another tasty way to serve franks. Cut lengthwise slits in each frunkfurter being sure not to cut completely through. Spread the inside surfaces with mustard or chili sauce, add thin slices of tangy cheese, canned fruit (pineapple is especially good), or pickle relish. Wrap the franks in spiral fashion with a strip of bacon and secure with a pick. Grill turning on all sides to make certain the bacon gets crisp and the franks are hot.

And here's a simple, recipe for barbecue sauce you'll want to use on your franks for a real picnic treat:

¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup catsup
½ cup water
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons vinegar
3 teaspoons Worchestershire Sauce
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
½ cup diced celery

Brown the onions in the hot fat. Add remainign ingredients and cook together several minutes. Split the franks and put into sauce. Simmer sauce gently for at least one hour before adding the franks.

Hoosier Bees Busy Working Selves To Death

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Hoosier bees are literally working themselves to death this summer.

They are producing a record honey crop valued at nearly two million dollars.

"The honey crops the last three years were very short," said Gilbert Perigo, state inspector of apairies. The honey crop in 1952 in Indiana was 6½ million pounds and in 1953 it dropped to 6 million.

Last year production collapsed to a low of 5½ million pounds. The drought and extremely hot weather which burned clover, a favorite flora of Hoosier bees, mostly was to blame.

But this year the crop is so good Perigo estimated it will total up to 10 million pounds. To produce this a working bee toils his complete lifetime, three to five weeks.

The market is ripe, too. Purchasers began this season with almost no carryover from the short years. Consequently, baker and grocer stocks are low.

Most Hoosier honey comes from the northern half of the state. Soil, clover and weather conditions have made the area rich dinner table for bees.

"There are approximately 180,000 colonies of bees in Indiana," Parigo says. A strong colony might have up to 60,000 working bees. Some apairists have up to 4,000 colonies, or hives." About 10 colonies per beekeeper is average.

An estimated three-fourths of Hoosier apairists keep bees as a hobby or advocation, Perigo said.

In Indiana, most honey is produced by bees who prefer clover. Production begins in May in the south and around the first of June in the north. Heartsease honey is produced in the August and September wet seasons by bees which feast in the lowland soybean and corn fields.

As the flora crop thrives, so thrives honey production.

Among the byproducts of honey —which include beeswax and fishing bait—pollination is the most important, Perigo said. For every dollar's worth of honey produced the farmer benefits by $15. Some beekeepers even "farm out" their best for pollination.

Last year Hoosier apairists marketed 120,000 pounds of beeswax, which is made from the comb left when honey is extracted. Two of the largest uses are for cosmetics and church candles.

Perigo said the wax worm is a popular fishing bait. This bait comes from the larva of the wax moth in combs of neglected hives.

"The midwest honey crop is the best in the nation this year," Perigo said. And Indiana ranks in the top 10 of the 48 honey-producing states.

Hoosier bees are buzzing overtime to keep it there.

Indiana Car Owners Fashioned Own License Plates In 1912; State Issued The Number

If motorists now think that they state license plates on their cars, have problems when they mount they should have owned an automobile in 1912. In that year, the Secretay of State merely issued the owner a number and he had to fashion as well as mount his plate on the car.

This fact was revealed recentiy when Keith Marks, State Road 9 north, received a complete collection of all Indiana State license plates under the will of his uncle, Otto L. Rossman, LaGrange, who died July 10. The plates, dated from 1911 to 1954, include every type and style for 44 years.

Included in the collection is a black and white number made on imitation leather material, which was stencilled with a paint brush then hemmed on a sewing machine. That year, 1912, the state issued the car owner a number and he had to make his own plate.

The first year vehicles were licensed, 1911, the plate was more official, even if it was smaller. The license consisted of a round brass plate two inches wide with three nail holes so that it could be tacked onto the wooden body of the "horseless carriage."

The frugality of the first two licenses issued was nothing compared to the extravagance of the state in 1913. Car owners in that year were furnished with a steel plate covered with porcelain just like a modern bathtub. The plate also was the first issued in color coming in a combination of blue and gold.

Sheet metal plates have been issued from 1914 through the present day. Each year, all have been painted one color with lettering a different color. Recently, owners of vehicles have been required to keep their large plates for two or three years while the state issued only a small tab to renew the license each year.

According to Charles White manager of the Auto License Branch, the colors of the 1913 plate will be brought back in 1956 when the state license will have a gold background with blue lettering. Only one plate, for the rear of the car, will also be a feature of next year's license.

Marks, the owner of the valuable set of plates, lives in what was formerly the Bill Gipe residence. He has mounted the entire collection, including a 1955 tab of his own to bring the total to 45 years, on a plywood board. He plans to display the collection at auto shows in the area. A sign on the board explains that all of the plates were collected by Rossman from automobiles which he owned.

Marks credits his wife, Dorothy, with preparing the display. The plates had grown quite dusty after hanging on the ceiling of Rossman's workshop through the years and were given a thorough cleaning by Mrs. Marks.

Marks, who is a conductor on the Fort Wayne to Chicago run for the Pennsylvania Railroad, said that he believes the license plates represent probably the only complete collection by one automobile owner in Indiana.

UP Writer Harman Nichols Tells What's New In Washington

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — What's new in Washington:

The help at Vice President Richard M. Nixon's office isn't taking much of a breather while the boss and his bride and kids are visiting the folks in La Habra, Calif. The lovely Dorothy Cox, who ought to be in California making pictures, and the equally lovely Miss Nelson, are up to their pretty ears answering correspondence that should have been answered shortly after the last election. The work has piled that high.

A few unscrupulous people in town apparently are taking advantage of the congestion caused by the transit strike. Thumbers complain that a few drivers in private cars accept hitch-hikers and then try to charge them cab rates when they deliver them to the door. A few, according to the police, have been turned in to the hack inspector.

The Pentagon tells of a complaint from some Army GIs in the 34th Infantry Regiment of the 7th Division in Korea. The boys were barely seated to see a movie when they were informed the show would not go on. It was announced that some clown had stolen the film. The movie which never was shown was called "The Looters."

Sir Roger Makins, the British ambassador, went to Chicago to make a speech at the Governors' Conference. He told this one: He said he made a point to travel the United States and had been in most of the states. He said he would like folks to know that not all diplomats tried as hard to learn the territory. One British diplomatic official, he said, served in the United States without setting foot on the mainland. "He had an office on Manhattan Island, lived on Staten Island, and spent his holidays on Long Island," Sir Roger said.

The National Geographic Society wants us to know that airplanes are becoming noisier. New jet engines with powerful afterburners generate 150 decibels, a "fury of sound equivalent to 1½ billion people all talking at once." A horrible thought, all by itself.

The Department of Agriculture thinks that home canners ought to stick to the old methods when it comes to canning tomatoes. Tomato juice is fine in the freeze department, the department says. But take a whole tomato and put it in the freezer and it is apt to become "soft and leaky and likely will fall apart when it is thawed." The department quotes recent tests at a Michigan experimental station, which knows its tomatoes.

To remove rust stain from fabrics, soak the stain in lemon juice, or moisten with lemon juice and salt and place over a steaming tea kettle. Or, dampen the spot, rub with cream of tartar and let stand 1 hour before washing. Repeat if necessary.

"Femmes Fatales" Provided Booming Market In Egypt

Editor's Note: Aline Mosby is on vacation. Guest Columnist Anne Baxter writes about her makeup problems in playing a Queen of Egypt.

By ANNE BAXTER
Written for United Press

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Ever since Eve's pearly white teeth bit into that apple there's been a booming market in femmes fatales (or reasonable facsimiles.)

Partly because I'm an actress, but chiefly because I'm a woman, I've been doing research in the field of feminine allure since I was about 10. Now my knowledge of beauty secrets has been greatly enlarged by playing the role of Nefretiri, the queen of Egypt, in Cecil B. DeMille's "Ten Commandments."

Nefretiri ruled the glamor arena some 3,200 years ago, and it's surprising how much the ladies of that day knew about the art of stalking a man.

The eye, someone said, is the window of the soul and the Egyptian beauties seemed to know that it was an extremely lethal weapon. They were experts at dramatizing the eyes.

The big difference between eyes then and now was in the amount of pain applied. We don't like obvious make-up in 1955. They had terrible mirrors of burnished copper and I wondered if the Egyptian glamour girls overdid things a trifle because they just plain couldn't see enough to be subtle.

Wide, soft lines of kohl (soot or charcoal in oil) outlined the eyes in ravens wing curves. Powdered malachite in salve, a blue-green, glistened over and just under the eye. Cheeks were tinted with an ointmnt of red clay.

Their lipstick was pure carmine. Sounds a bit thick, doesn't it? But their eyes were larger and brighter, their mouths softer and more challenging.

Nefretiri and her royal henchwomen also thought feet were glamorous. They made their toes, heels and soles rosy with carmine, and hennaed the nails and adorned them with anglets and toe rings.

Might be an idea for the beach this summer but gently though, someone might think you'd stepped on an old pop bottle.

Perfume didn't exist. But the gals aroused their swains with oils, ointments and unguents. This was achieved by soaking flower petals in oils.

One trick was to set a gorgeously perfumed candle on the noggin, light it and wait. Must have smelled divine — but can you imagine scraping melted wax out of last night's wig or eyebrows?

Summer Surge Of Indiana Traffic Fatalities Noted

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governor Craig's hopes for another notable reduction in Indiana traffic fatalities during 1955 are being shattered by a summer surge of accidents in sharp contrast to last year.

The situation isn't well defined in the weekly provisional totals of the Indiana State Police, which show the number of deaths this year running just about neck and neck with that of comparable dates in 1954.

Up to Aug. 7, there were 601 deaths this year compared with 605 last year.

However, the story is told in the monthly breakdown figures.

For the first four months of 1955, the toll was down—not much, but definitely in a downward trend. January, February and April deaths were lower than the comparable months in 1954. Only March showed an increase, a single death from 85 to 86.

Then came May, and the trend shifted. There were 89 deaths that month, heaviest monthly total up to that time in 1955 and a gain of nine over the 1954 May total of 80.

June was even worse. The 87 deaths compared with 73 for June of 1954, a leap of 14 deaths or 19 per cent.

The six-months totals, just now available, show 497 deaths compared with 487 last year.

What has happened since July 1 is not too clear. Up to Aug.7, the provisional figures showed 601 deaths this year compared with 605 last year. That would mean a reduction in July and the first week in August.

But two of the worst accidents of the year have occurred since Aug. 7, one killing five at Seymour and one killing four near Markle within the past week.

Safety officials aren't giving up hope that 1955 will record fewer deaths than 1954. But the chance of duplicating 1954, when 200 fewer lives were lost than the year before, appears dim.

A significant fact is that in 1954, the two months with the lowest death totals among the first six months of the year were May and June. Those same months recorded the heaviest toll of fatalities among the first six months of 1955.

Antonio Claims To Be The Fastest Shaver In World

By ALDO FORTE
United Press Staff Correspondent

POZZUOLI, Italy (UP) — An Italian barber named Antonio Buono has achieved the 20-second shave. He claims to be the fastest shaver in the world.

So far there have been no casualties. Not a drop of blood has been shed among Antonio's customers.

And the customers say the shaves are perfect ones — good enough, say, for a date with Gina Lollobrigida.

Buono has been a speed shaver for only a year. It was a year ago he read in the papers that a German barber in Berlin, Erik Albert, was claiming the title with an official speed of 25 seconds.

Antonio Buono resolved at once to earn such an honor for Italy, where everyone knows they have the best barbers in the world.

Antonio offered free shaves to any of his friends who would let him practice on them. He had no trouble, for the men of Pozzuoli trusted him.

Starting from a one - minute shave, Antonio worked within a month to 30-second ones. Then he slowly lopped off a second at a time until he perfected the 20-second shave.

The time had come to show the world. A prominent Naples journalist was invited to witness the event. The reporter brought two friends, each equipped with precision watches.

Antonio selected one of his customers, lathered the face, and with razor poised awaited for the timekeepers' "Via!" (Go).

With extraordinary jet strokes he swept over both cheeks and chin. He whipped off a little nest of peachy hair on the Adam's apple and raised his arms above his head in victory.

The timekeepers clicked their watches—16 seconds!

It seemed impossible, but there it was on both watches. The Naples journalist rushed off with his story. Next day, the Naples Federation of Provincial Artisans officialy took on tet efohe envt with a glowing letter, which now hangs in Antonio's shop in a frame.

The letter says: "The brilliant supremacy in shaving achieved for Italy by your admirable art as a master barber makes this federation very proud. We tender our happiest congratulations."

Government Plans Better Conditions For Trailer Parks

WASHINGTON (UP) — The government is going to make living conditions for trailer-dwellers more pleasant and healthy.

Under the housing law passed recently by Congress, the Federal Housing Administration is drafting regulations to provide loan insurance for building trailer parks.

But the government will do more than guarantee the loans for such projects. It will also insist on better living standards in such parks.

FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason said his agency "will set standards to bring about improved living conditions for people residing in trailer parks." He said inadequate finances have prevented trailer parks "from keeping pace" with conventional housing operating under FHA standards.

The administration objected to a provision in the housing law covering trailers. But when the President signed the bill last week, it was still in the measure.

Since World War II, from 1½-to-2 million persons have made their permanent homes in trailers. Industry officials estimate that every year. There are now 750,000 in use.

Trailers are bought according to one industry official, by many persons who must be ready to move quickly due to the nature of their jobs.

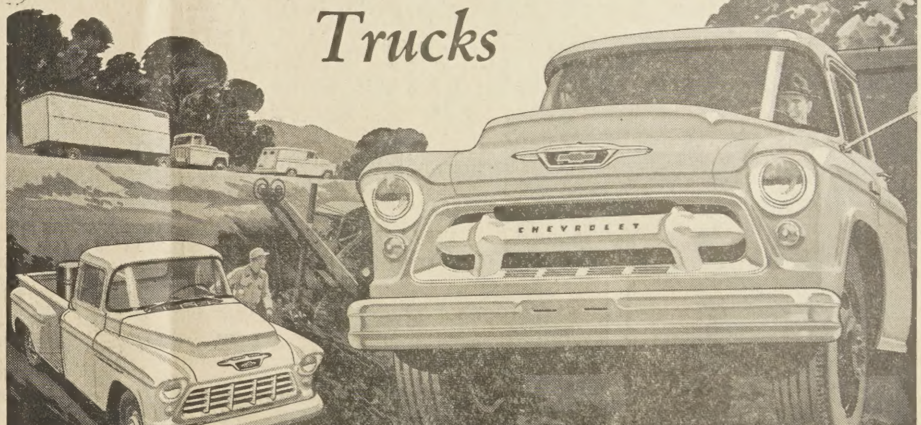
New Chevrolet Task-Force Trucks



Seven new "high-voltage" high-compression valve-in-head engines!

Here's hour-saving, dollar-saving power for your job . . . the biggest choice of engines in Chevrolet truck history! And they're the most modern engines in the industry!

You've got it good under the hood with a new Chevrolet Task-Force truck! With two new V8's and five new sixes to choose from, you can pick the power that's tailor-made to do your kind of hauling.

Shortest stroke V8's in any leading truck! Both of Chevrolet's new truck V8's have an ultra-short stroke—shortest of any V8 in any leading truck. They're of modern oversquare design, which means that the piston stroke is smaller than the bore. The result is less piston travel per mile . . . longer engine life. Also, Chevrolet's compact truck V8's deliver exceptionally high horsepower per pound of engine weight. More power is actually available for hauling your loads!

Modern 12-volt electrical system! You get this great development in all new Chevrolet truck engines—both V8's and sixes. The 12-volt electrical system delivers twice the punch for quicker cold-weather starting (up to 30% faster cranking speed). It also provides a hotter, fatter spark for better ignition.

Come in and command the most modern truck power for your job!

V8 or 6
you get the right power for your job!

Sitting In Jail Proves To Be A Prosperous Job

DETROIT (UP) — Sitting in jail has proved too prosperous for a 25-year-old woman waiting to be called as a witness in a series of pandering cases, Recorder's Judge Joseph A. Gillis said today.

The young woman was making $90 a day while awaiting her calls to the witness stand. She was detained in default of $3,000 in 18 different cases involving bellhops in small downtown hotels.

To obtain her freedom she would have to post a total of $54,000. But held in jail at the regular witness fee of $5 per day for each case, she was getting a daily check for $90.

"This is outlandish," Gillis said. He ordered her held on only one detaining order at a time.

CHICAGO, Ill.—The tremendous advance of medical science has increased the life expectancy of the average male born after 1950 more than 17 years, rising from 48.2 years at the turn of the century to the present 65.5 years, according to statistics released today by William G. Caples, vice president of the Inland Steel Company and Chairman of the Health and Benefits Committee of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"The most notable change revealed in the review of the half-century made by the Monthly Labor Review was that the average male in 1950 could expect to spend almost ten years more on the job than the average male in 1900," Caples pointed out.

"The increase in the length of working life has been from 32.1 years in 1900 to 41.9 in 1950. This increase in life expectancy also will enable the average male to spend an additional four years in the educational preparatory period before entering the labor force – an increase from 13 years in 1900 to 17 years today. The increasing prosperity of the nation makes it possible for families to keep children at school to a much later age."

Caples said, that although the average man now spends one-third more time than in 1900 as a member of the nation's labor force, the actual hours spent on the job during his entire lifetime is substantially less than in 1900. In that year the standard work week was 60 hours, and vacations were exceptional, as against the present day 40 hour week with vacations becoming the general rule.

Richard Morsches Attending Air Force ROTC Summer Training

Richard Morsches, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Morsches of 313 North Main Street, is attending the Air Force ROTC summer training unit at Keesler Air Force Base, Mississippi.

Cadet Morsches, who completed his junior year in advanced AFROTC, is attending a 4-week summer training period as part of his reserve officer training at college. While at summer training, Cadet Morsches observes the Air Force in action and participates in many Air Force operations.

Following graduation at Michigan State College, he will be eligible for appointment as a second lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve.

New Electric Substation To Be Near Tri-Lakes

Officials of Indiana & Michigan Electric Company announced today that construction will begin in the near future on a new substation along Road 102 near its intersection with State Road 9 in Whitley County.

The new substation, to be known as Tri-Lakes Station, will have a 1,500-kilowatt capacity and will provide a new 12,000-volt delivery point for the Whitley County Rural Electric Membership Corporation.

To supply the new station, five miles of 33,000-volt line will be built northwest to the station from a point on I&M's Churubusco-Whitley 33,000-volt line along State Road 109.

The station and new line are tentatively scheduled for completion in November.

Peabody Free Library Lists New Books

At Peabody Free Library a new collection of fifty books has been received from the Indiana State Library to be circulated here for a period of twelve weeks. Included are books for all ages and tastes.

Thirty-five new books have been placed in circulation for teen-agers.

Added to our memorial collection recently: The Complete Book of Annuals, by Rockwell and Grayson and The Flower Show Guide, by Anne B. Wertsner. These a fitting memorial to John Q. Adams, given by Mr. and Mrs. Amos Brannon, of Lowell. Clifton Fadiman's Party of One was recently added to the Chris Beznre memorial collection by Mrs. Bezner.

Many books, pamphlets, and clippings have been given to the library from the collection of Mrs. Gladys Brenneman, longtime library trustee, by her daughter, Mrs. Helen Burke.

Two beautiful new garden books, Foley's Garden Flowers in Color and Carl Starker's Album of Arrangements are the gift of Mrs. John Q. Adams.

A new set of the Harvard Classics, given by Mrs. Fred Yontz, will be useful as replacements for some much-worn volumes.

The library has been a busy place during the summer months as children have participated in the summer reading program. The boys and girls have become better acquainted with early American history through books provided on the theme, Exploring Old Trails, though they are at liberty to read whatever individual tastes choose.

Two hundred and sixty children registered for the program; 88 have finished the required fifteen books, and it is estimated that a total of 140 will complete their reading before the deadline, September 3.

Mary Raber School has again been in the lead all summer, and is a favorite to retain the Peabody Cup, which she won for the best reading record last summer. West Ward School has maintained second place, and could still give Mary Raber a good race if some of her lagging readers would quicken their pace. Of other schools in the race, Coesse and Columbia Consolidated closely follow McLallen.

Movie Makeup Man Tells Toughest Jobs Of 20-Year Career

By GORDON LAU
Written for United Press

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Of all the pictures on which I've worked during the last 20 years as a makeup man, none posed as many problems as "Helen of Troy" and "Land of the Pharoahs," both of which were shot away from my home studio in Burbank, Calif.

I guess I'm the only makeup man ever to brandish a powder puff and make up brush in Rome and Cairo while sitting at a desk on the Warner Bros. lot.

It was like trying to direct traffic in New York while sitting in front of a TV screen in Los Angeles. But it had to be done. I was the man responsible for the long-range supervision of make up on both pictures.

After viewing the rushes, I would cable or phone the head makeup man on location with either picture and would dictate changes in color, shade and texture of makeup.

Everytime 3,000 Greek and Trojan warriors in "Helen of Troy," or 10,000 Egyptian slaves in "Land of the Pharoahs" were given an extra smear with the pancake, or a bit more eye shadow, I guess I was the culprit responsible.

It was probably the most difficult makeup assignment I had ever been given. I couldn't be with the companies since I had to supervise pictures shooting on the home lot.

But I would look at each day's rushes. I would have the projectionist cut off the sound so I could concentrate on the makeup alone.

For instance, with "Helen of Troy", I noticed that Rossana Podesta's blond hair was photographing slightly orange in the bright Italian sun.

A quick call to Rome and the next day's rushes showed her hair in true color and perspective.

Joan Collins, British-born actress who stars in "Land of the Pharaoahs," has naturally fair complexion. In the picture, however, I had to darken her skin. When I saw her first day's work, I noticed her skin had a Miami Beach look. I wanted a California look since the sunshine in Egypt has the same density and degree of concentration as in California. I had the makeup crew in Cairo add a bit of white chalk to the applicant and it worked out just fine.

Keeping a dark summer cotton dress free from lint is easier if it's washed alone or with other dark, colorfast items. To prevent starch from streaking cottons, make sure the starch is well mixed, free from lumps and is darkened a little with bluing. It's best to iron dark cotton on the wrong side and use a pressing cloth for touchups on the right side.

United States Sets Out To Arm Its Fighting Men With Mental Weapons

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States set out today to arm its fighting men with the tough mental weapons demanded by its new code of conduct for prsioners of war.

An Armed Forces training program which eventually could reach into schools, the home and church was ordered for all men in uniform by President Eisenhower Wednesday night in laying down the historic six-point code for men in combat and captivity.

But the men who drew the code made it clear the military alone cannot arm young Americans with the mental weapons they will need if they fall captive in future wars.

"Moral character and basic beliefs" must be instilled at home, in church, and in the classroom long before a young man enters military service, the Code of Conduct Committee said.

A Defense Department report said the new code was drawn up because "the Korean story must never be permitted to happen again." The report referred to Red torture and brainwashing faced by prisoners and the wide differences in individual ability to endure it.

Be Ready To Die

The code decrees that members of the Armed Forces must be ready to die for their country, must never surrender of their own free will, must try to escape if captured, and must seek no special favors from the enemy. They also must "give no information or take part in any action which might be harmful to my comrades.'

These high requirements already existed in every armed service.

Durham Warns U. S. Help In Atomic Program Might Enable Other Nations To Make Bombs

GENEVA (UP)—A member of the U.S. Congressional Atomic Energy Committee warned today that further American help in a peaceful atomic energy program might enable other nations to build A-bombs.

Rep. Carl T. Durham (D-NC), veteran member of the committee, said there must be new guarantees of adequate control over the socalled "breeder reactors," which produce more fuel than they burn.

Durham issued his warning after hearing reports of progress on the reactors at the Atoms For Peace conference, which continued its technical meeting today.

Durham is one of 12 members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee who flew here to observe the U.N. conference. They scheduled a press conference today to report on their findings.

"There must be new guarantees," Durham said, "to make sure that we have adequate controls on the use of all the fissionable material (atomic fuel) in overseas reactors we help build, no matter how much the United States provided for them."

Durham and other high American officials pointed out that, because the breeder reactors produce more fuel than they use, the small amount of fuel rationed out by the United States for nuclear research actually could be expanded enough to fire nuclear weapons.

Right now the U.S. international atomic pool program includes a built-in safeguard against military use of fuel.

Enriched uranium, the souped on element of modern reactors, is leased rather than sold by the government. In effect, it is loaned out in amounts large enough to power only a small research reactor.

This amount currently is set at six kilograms of uranium235, one of the A-bomb explsoives. Scientists have estimated three times this amount would be needed for one bomb.

However, U.S., British and Soviet scientists reported this week that it now appears possible to build breeder reactors which produce uranium.

New Store Front, Remodeling At Albion Credit

Work Begins Monday; Completion By Sept. 1

Another new store front is being installed in the Columbia City downtown area at the building leased by the Albion Production Credit and owned by Mrs. Cleon Foust, Sr., of Tuscson, Arizona.

The new front features a doorway to the extreme south and a solid plate glass display window. Prior to the remodeling the store had a recessed door in the middle with four separate window panes.

The base is constructed of brick and will be covered with green structural glass as will about five feet above the plate glass window.

The ceilings will be lowered approximately four feet and will be constructed of acoustic tile. The flooring will be covered with asphalt tile and the interior walls redecorated.

The remodeling project is being undertaken by the Albion Production Credit Association who lease the entire building from Mrs. Foust.

Other firms who sub-lease the building are Western Union, Farmers Mutual Insurance, Federal Land Bank and Dare's Harness Store.

Duey Hiatt, Albion, is general contractor for the remodeling.

Carroll L. Young, local manager of Albion Production Credit, anticipates the completion of the work by September 1. The project began this Monday.

ROK Severs Trade Relations With Japan Today

Plunges Diplomatic Relations Into An Even Deeper Crisis

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—The Republic of Korea severed all trade relations with Japan today, plunging diplomatic relations between the two nations into deeper crisis.

There was no official announcement, but officials of four separate government offices in Seoul said a blanket ban on Japanese trade became effective today.

(In Washington, American officials said the trade ban apparently violates part of the 1954 United States air agreement with the Republic of oprea. That agreement provided that orea would buy supplies "wherever in non-Communist countries goods of required quality can be obtained at the best price. The provision was designed to make Korea buy some of its supplies from nearby Japan.)

The word spread rapidly through Korean and foreign business circles this afternoon, but no government official would say exactly when the order was handed down or how long the ban would last.

The trade ban came only a few hours after government spokesman Hong Kee Karl issued a formal statement declaring that relations between South Korea and Japan were "reaching the breaking point."

Karl announced a ban on all travel by Koreans between the two nations.

He explained the action by saying "The Japanese continue to seek to tie up with Communism and at the same time they refuse to withdraw their illegal claims to 85 per cent of Korean property."

Kiwanis Club Host For 3rd Division Meeting Wednesday

The Columbia City Kiwanis Club was host to the Third Indiana Division meeting Wednesday night. The division Lieutenant-Governor, Robert Hollingsworth of the local club, presided at the session held at the Legion Home.

The meeting was the final one before the Indiana District Kiwanis Convention Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at French Lick.

Gov. Wayne Guthrie of the district, Indianapolis, was a visitor at the meeting. Thirty-five representatives of other clubs in the third division also attended the meeting.

Hollingsworth suggested at the meeting that the division place its support behind Clum Bucher, Bloomington, for Indiana Kiwanis governor for 1956. Loren Badskey, North Manchester, who is associated with the LML Engineering Company in Columbia City, had intended to be a candidate for the governor's position. However, he withdrew when Bucher announced his candidacy.

Hamilton Hunter of the Downtown Fort Wayne Club was nominated at the meeting to succeed Hollingsworth as lieutenant-governor of the third division next year.

The proposed re-divisioning of the large third division was discussed at the meeting with most of the clubs represented opposed to the plan. The plan calls for transferring the Wabash club to division four and North Manchester, Huntington, Bluffton and Warren to division six. Wabash and North Manchester oppose the plan with Bluffton, Warren and Huntington agreeing to the re-divisioning. The plan must be approved at the French Lick convention this weekend.

The division representatives voted to present at the convention a substitute resolution to divide the third division in half making two divisions out of it.

Prior to the meeting, the Kiwanians were shown a traffic safety film by Dick Wyatt, Trooper of the Indiana State Police from Ligonier. The film entitled "A Day In Court," emphasized the need for courtesy among the motorists.

Next week's meeting will be ladies night and a representative of the Fort Wayne Better Business Bureau is scheduled to speak.

Four OSD Ribbons Are Needed To Complete Collection

Mrs. Andrew Vanderford, Thorncreek township, has turned over to the Whitley County relic room four of the Old Settlers Day ribbons needed to help complete the collection of Mrs. Gladys Brenneman sent in by her daughter, Mrs. James Burke. The mounted collection was displayed at the registration booth, last Thursday.

Mrs. Vanderford has brought in the ribbons for 1921, 1933, 1935 and 1941.

Mrs. Hugo Jacobsen, historian for the OSD association, reports that ribbons for only the years 1904, 1908, 1909 and 1916 are needed to have a complete collection. It is possible that ribbons were not given every year.

Groups Plan For Conduct Of Fair Show And Sale

Byron Miller In Charge Of Barns

The livestock barns at the local 4-H Center will be filled with exhibits for the fair, August 25, 26 and 27, reports Byron Miller, superintendent of that department. Arrangements for housing, showing, and selling were made by committee members at an organization meeting in the county agent's office, Monday evening.

Members of 4-H may bring their livestock exhibits after 4:00 Wednesday afternoon, states the superintendent. Representatives of the state veterinarian's office will be present at that time to pass on their health papers. All stock is to be delivered before 9:00 a.m. Thursday morning.

The swine committee will meet at the barns Tuesday, the 23rd, 8:00 a.m. to start preparations for the 4-H pig show. Assistance from interested parents and others will be appreciated. The beef, dairy, poultry, and sheep committees will meet Wednesday morning, at the same hour, to build stanchions and pens for their respective exhibits.

Swine and sheep will be judged Thursday forenoon and fat steers in the afternoon. Livestock judging Friday will start with dairy catle followed by poultry and rabbits. A competent group of judges have been engaged to grade the exhibits into classes of excellent, very good, good, and fair.

The big auction sale is scheduled for 3:30 Friday afternoon. Auctioneers of the county are donating their services. A fine offering of livestock is to be sold.

Betzner Twins Have Attractive New Home

The Misses Opal and Zella Betzner have recently moved into their new home at 210 North Elm street.

They are the twin daughters of the late Lloyd Betzner and their home is built on the corner lot at the north of their father's home. They are employed as machine operators at Columbia Products.

The house has two bedrooms and an adjoining bath at the south. One bedroom has a built in closet-dresser wall. The closets have sliding double doors.

The living room has windows at the north and west and built in corner shelves. The kitchen-dinette has cabinets along the north wall on each side of a double sink.

A utility room for freezer, washer and dryer is next to the kitchen. It has a built-in storage wall of cupboards. An attached garage is located at the east of the kitchen.

The floors and woodwork are in natural finish. The living room is carpeted and bath and kitchen have linoleum floors.

Will Judge Columbia Township Girls' 4-H Exhibits

The Columbia Township girls' 4-H club projects will be judged Wednesday at the Columbia Centrialized school. All clothing, food preparation, handicraft, baking, and food preservation exhibits are to be at the school by 2:00 p.m. ready for judging.

Ag Department Defends Paying Cheese Dealers

Two Million Dollars During Last Year

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Agriculture Department today defended is payment of two million dollars to cheese dealers last year—payments which U.S. Comptroller General Joseph S. Campbell said were improper.

Cambell said he did not question the sincerity of Agriculture Department officials "or infer any intentional wrongdoing.' But he ruled the payments were unauthorized and said they should be recovered.

The challenged transaction occurred in he spring of 1954 when be government support price on cheese dropped from 37 to 34 cents a pound under dairy price prop reductions ordered by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson.

Department of Agriculture officials said they feared dealers would dump cheese on the market before the price drop took effect. So, the officials said, they bought 86,600,000 pounds in April at 37 cents a pound and resold it to the former owners the following month at 34 cents.

Little if any, of the cheese left its storage warehouses, it was said, and the dealers picked up a two-million dollar profit in a "paper transaction."

True D. Morse, acting secretary of agriculture, said Campbell's finding was "directly contrary" to the opinion of the Agriculture Department's counsel. He said Campbell's opinion will be "carefully reviewed."

He said the department acted "solely in the interest of American farmers" and as part of its overall price support moves aimed at bringing stability to the dairy industry.

He said the payment, as carried out, stabilized prices for dairymen during the period of price support adjustment to a lower level and halted a downward trend in the farm price of milk. It also saved the Agriculture Department the expense of unnecessarily moving the cheese to public warehouses and other costs, "thus providing a substantial saving to axpayers," Morse said.

Thomas Beers Hurt Seriously, Horse Steps On His Head

Thomas Beers, prominent farmer who lives at the north edge of Etna, is improving and considered in fair condition at the Parkview Memorial Hospital in Fort Wayne after being seriously injured on his farm Friday noon.

Mr. Beers, who is 75, suffered a severe laceration over his left eye and a fractured left jaw when a horse he was working stepped on his head. The accident happened at noon. Mr. Beers had been raking straw with his team and was at one of the gates near the barn. It was assumed that perhaps the horse was fighting flies and somehow knocked the farmer down and stepped on him.

The Etna-Troy township farmer is in a semi-conscious condition. His two daughters, Miss Glendora Beers and Mrs. Dorothy Boggs both stay with him. He is a patient in room 311.

Reports Bear Seen South Of Huntington

HUNTINGTON, Ind. (UP)—An animal which three persons said was a bear eluded hunters today—if it's still around.

Reports reaching Huntington Wednesday said a truck driver and two farmers saw the animal three or four weeks ago in and near the Salamonie River bottoms south of here.

Nobody has reported seeing it since, and authorities believe it retreated to dense undergrowth or ambled off to parts unknown.

Conservaion officer Don Werenberger reported two farmers told him they saw it. A truck driver told a Huntington policeman he saw a bear cross a road near a bridge at Mt. Etna.

Werternberger and farmer Ora Searles searched for tracks on the District Tractor Driving Contest To Be Held Friday

Four boys will represent Whitley county in the district 4-H tractor driving contest in Bluffton Friday afternoon at 1:30. Earl and Wayne Nierman, first and second place winners, respectively, in the local contest, will compete in the senior division, and Bill Pettigrew and Lynn Waterson will compete in the junior division. Bill won first here, and Lynn won second.

The contest will be held in the Bluffton park.

U.S. Officials To Quiz Recently ReturnedGerman

About American In Russian Prison

WASHINGTON (UP)—U.S. officials will question a German who recently returned from a Russian prison to determine whether the Soviet Union holds an American flier shot down in Burma almost 11 years ago, it was learned today.

If the officials are satisfied the German did see Lt. William G. Baumeister Jr., St. Paul, Minn., in a Soviet camp, the American ambassador in Moscow is expected to demand his release. Similar diplomatic efforts in the last two years have brought release of five Americans who had been held in Russian prison camps.

Interest in the case was renewed Wednesday when a returned German POW said he was almost certain a prisoner he saw in a Soviet prison camp in 1948 and 1949 was Baumeister. He said the American still was wearing his Air Force uniform then.

The flier's father, William G. Baumeister of St. Paul, said he had asked the State Department to find out if the airman still is alive.

The Air Force said Baumeister had been reported missing in action in the Asiatic theater in 1944. He was determned dead in 1946.

The State Department said it received a report several months ago from an Austrian POW who returned from Russia saying he had "heard of" an American officer with a name like Baumeister held in a Soviet camp. The Austrian said the American was said to have been shot down in Burma in the latter part of World War II.

A department spokesman said, "We thoroughly checked this report through every source at our disposal and could find no corroboratin."

Officials said, however, that the case still is considered active and that further checks will be made now.

So far, the United States has not taken the case up with the Soviet Union because it did not have enough facts. In the past, the Russians have brushed off such inquiries unless they were backed up by facts.

Belonging To United States Air Force

Over Demilitarized Zone Separating North And South Korea

MUNSAN, Korea (UP) — The United Nations command today accused "trigger happy" Communists of wilfully shooting down an unarmed U.S. Air Force plane over the demilitarized zone that separates North and South Korea.

A second American plane, searching for the wreckage and possible survivors from the downed plane, was fired upon well inside U.N. territory, presumably "friendly" guns.

The T6 training plane, unarmed and with two Americans aboard, was knocked down Wednesday by Communist guns near the Korean truce lines. The fate of the Americans, a captain and a lieutenant, was not known.

U.S. Maj. Gen. Harlan C. Parks charged in a letter delivered to the Communist side of the military armistice commission that the incident represented a "barbarous" communist attack.

The plane was fired upon, the U.N. protest said, when it inadvertently strayed into the demilitarized zone. It never entered Communist air, the U.N. command said.

The plane was subjected to "continuous, murderous and devastating ground fire" until it

Saddle Club Being Readied For Shrine Show On Saturday

Arabians, fancy gaited, Western, Palomino parade horses and pony classes will be interspersed with Shrine pageantry, music, and drills during the Shrine Horse Show here Saturday.

With the Maumee Valley Horse Show in Fort Wayne on Sunday as an additional attraction to horse exhibitors, the Shriners are hoping for a lavish display of horse flesh for their show at the Hoosier Hoofbeaters Saddle Club north of this city on State road 9.

Guy L. Foltz, director of the 1955 Shrine horse show has appointed Fred S. Rye as show secretary, to be assisted by Miss Cynthia Ann Wilson. Twenty-eight exhibition and performance classes are planned for the day-long show.

The Mizpah Mounted Patrol will sponsor the show, which will be an ISHA Point Show and under the direction of the Indiana Saddle Horse Association. Floyd Ferguson, of this city, is a member of the show general committee.

Re-arrangement of the grounds, which have been used for horse racing, is practically completed, and the original show ring at the saddle club has been re-built.

Rash Of Prison Riots Ends When Guards And State Troopers Quell Strike In New York

By UNITED PRESS

A rash of prison riots across the country ended today when guards and state troopers waged a club and gun battle to end a convict sitdown strike in New York state.

Within 24 hours, other officers used "shoot on sight" orders to end a riot of more than 300 penitentiary convicts in Nebraska, and another rebellion was put down at the Framingram, Mass., women's reformatory.

Seventeen men were injured, some with gunshot wounds, when 248 guards and state troopers moved in to break up a riot at the Great Meadows state prison near Comstock, N.Y., early today.

The wild battle lasted 15 minutes, with about 174 convicts using fists, stones, and makeshift weapons to fight off the troopers. The end came when they were driven back to their cells.

Two troopers and a guard suffered gunshot wounds and 14 convicts received bruises and cuts.

The demonstration started when the convicts staged a sitdown strike in the prison yard. It lasted 10 hours before Thomas J. McHugh, state corrections commissioner, ordered the guards and troopers to attack.

A few hours earlier, women at the Framingham reformatory staged a riot in an apparent attempt to cover the escape of four inmates.

State and Framingham police moved in quickly to end the disturbance and three of the escapees were re-captured. The fourth, Iris Allen, a 26-year-old serving time for assault and battery, was still at large.

The escapees fellow prisoners began kicking up as soon as a woman trusty reported the breakout.

At Lincoln, Neb., convicts were pressed into service to clean up $100,000 worth of damage left by a savage, 13-hour riot.

More than 300 prisoners staged a night of carnage at the Nebraska penitentiary, setting fire to half the prison buildings before surrendering to a show of force.

The riot ended Wednesday when armed troopers marched into the convicts' cell block stronghold with orders to shot any man who resisted. But it will take weeks to clear away the smouldering wreckage in the prison yard and to repair the destruction in the cell block.

LET THE PRINCESS CHOOSE HER OWN MATE

The "chaperoning" world is steppin gup the pace in its attempts to choose a husband for Princess Margaret of England as Sunday, the day when she becomes royally of age, becomes nearer.

The sister of the Queen of England will be 25 on August 21 and royally free to do a lot of things—including pick a husband–without Queen Elizabeth's consent.

However, since the Princess became 18 seven years ago, speculators throughout the world have been wondering and guessing who her husband will be. Every young man with whom she has had a date has been scrutinized publicly as a possible candidate for marriage to Margaret.

Recently, an attempt at scandal has been added to the situation by publicity given the Princess' romance with a British Royal Air Force officer, who is 12 years her senior and divorced. The extent of the romance has been exaggerated by those who have been "selecting" a mate for her.

Most of us would flinch today if it were suggested that our parents should choose our marriage partners as occurred in earlier times, and is still the case in some less modern countries. However, the mass of people of the world think nothing of flaunting this or that person as a candidate to marry the Princess of England or some other well-known public figure.

Because Princess Margaret will be royally free to choose her own husband in another four days, the tempo of the "second-guessers" has increased.

We cannot believe the popular Princess is going to appreciate the world chaperoning her romantic affairs any more when she is 25 than she did when she was 18. So, how about the world laying off and letting the "little lady" choose her own husband free from the interested and nosey public.

Ag Department Buys 13,300 Bins

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department has purchased 13,300 steel bins to store 43 million bushels of government-owned grain in Indiana and three other midwestern states.

The bins, costing about $10,300,000, will be used chiefly to store 1954 corn that will be taken over by the government during this month and September under price support operations.

The department said purchase of the bins a circular variety, did not lessen the need for farmers to provide their own storage facilities for this year's anticipated near-record production.

The storage bins also will be used in Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota.

Dragons

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — Police reassured 5-year-old Michael Storey, awakened by a night mare, that he had nothing to fear when he telephoned adn whined, "Help me...I dreamed dragons were chasing me.'

Police desk officer Robert E. Barrick said, "Call me if they come back and we'll send over St. George and the dragon squad."

Mrs. Andrew Vanderford

Mr. and Mrs. John Richards of Wabash were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Losure from Wednesday through Saturday, and attended Old Settler's Day, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wheeler of Ormas were visitors Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kilgore.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cramer and family were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cramer.

Miss Carol Fry returned home Saturday evening, after spending a week at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hill, Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shelmadine and Mrs. Grace Kaster entertained guests at Sunday dinner in honor of the seventeenth birthday anniversary of Jimmie Shelmadine. A beautifully decorated birthday cake baked by the honor guest's sister, Mrs. Robert Kimmel, graced the table. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Underwood, Daniel Underwood and Arthur Bunce of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kimmell of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Keiser and Mrs. Francis Gibson and children of Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kilgore were visitors Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Huntsman near Burr Oak.

Mrs. Lenora Carnahan was a supper guest Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fry.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cramer visited their brother-in-law, Will Zellers in Fort-Wayne, Wednesday. Mrs. Zellers, with Mrs. Betty Pickett and two other Fort Wayne ladies, are on a two weeks trip through the west. They are expected home Sunday returning by way of Indianapolis where they will visit friends. They visited a sister of Mrs. Pickett at Junction, Texas, and at Fairland and Pawhuska, both in Oklahoma they visited sisters of Mr. Zellers.

Phil Fry, accompanied by David Wigent of Columbia township and Ronnie Yant, arrived home Monda yfrom a five day motor trip through the south which took them to Port ST. Jo and Panama City, Florida. They drove through Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama, stopping to visit Mammoth Cave.

We wish to make a correction of a statement in last week's items. We stated that the Don Conrad family accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fry on a trip to Minnesota, whereas it should have read, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Conrad. At about the same time, Mr. and Mrs. Don Conrad and two children were on a five day trip in a different direction. They motored through Michigan, by way of the straits, into Canada and after visiting Niagra Falls returned home by way of Detroit.

David H. Livingstone, Miss Emma Robinson Wed Saturday Afternoon At Bloomington

Marriage vows were exchanged Saturday afternoon in the Chapel of 'the First Methodist Church of Bloomington by Miss Emma Robinson of Bloomington, and David H. Livingstone of Lafayette. Mr. Livingstone was formerly of this city, where he was a member of the reportorial staff of the Post and Mail.

Miss Robinson is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Greathouse. Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Livingstone, of Danville, Virginia, are the parents of the bridegroom.

The wedding lines were read by Rev. Merrill McFall. Marches from Lohrengrin and Mendelsohn were played by the organist, Herbert White.

Wed In Chapel

Candlebra and white satin bows decorated the chapel, where the bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Clarence W. Rodgers.

A white gown fashioned with a white lace bodice, high neckline, and a lace overskirt over white satin and net, was chosen by Miss Robinson. Her fingertip veil was caught to a coronet of sequins and rhinestones. A single orchid on a white nylon fan, sprinkled with rhinestones, was carried by the bride.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Duey, of Bloomington, wore a gown of sea-foam green crystalette. He clip cap was of mauve velvet and her small veil was sprinkled with rhinestones. She carried a mauve lace fan with green carnations.

The groom was attended by Torcam Chorbajian of Ames, Iowa. The guests were seated by George Tolson and Donald Bell, both of Vincennes.

The sister of the bride, Mrs. Clarence W. Rodgers, wore a gray suit and a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Livingstone, mother of the bridegroom, wore a corsage of pink asters with her orchid and grey dress.

Reception Held

The reception was held in the Christian Service room of the church. The three-tiered white cake was decorated with pink rosebuds and green leaves. Punch was served by Mrs. Paul Adams of Bloomington. Hostesses were Miss Sandra Abel, Brookston, and Miss Jo Spear, Brazil.

Following the reception, the couple left for their wedding trip to Chicago. Upon their return earlier this week, they took up residence at 301 South Ninth, Lafayette.

Miss Robinson, a member of Alpha Gamma Delta, is a senior at Indiana University. Mr. Livingstone was graduated from Indiana University in 1952, and received his master's degree in 1954. He belonged to Sigma Delta Chi at I.U. and is a member of Kiwanis. He is employed at present by the Lafayette Journal and Courier.

Guests Present

Guests present from cities other than Bloomington included: Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Livingstone, Danville, Virginia; Mrs. Ruth Christiansen, Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Rodgers, Columbus; and Mr. and Mrs. Holland Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Eartha Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. David Robinson, and John L. Griffith, all of Indianapolis.

Walter Meyers, Jr., Family Of Venezuela Are Vacationing Here

Walter Francis Meyers, Jr., and his family, of Venezuela, are vacationing here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meyers. He has received a two-month vacation.

Mr. Meyers, formerly of this city, is employed in Venezuela as a Senior Engineer for Creole Petroleum Corporation, the Venezuelan affiliate of Standard Oil of New Jersey. A graduate of Purdue University, he now works in Quiriquire, a large oil camp in eastern Venezuela.

The Meyers have three children, Nellie Grey, 3; and twins, Jeffrey G. and Mary Margaret, 5. Mrs. Myers is the former Nellie Grey Wallace of Custer, South Dakota.

Delegates To AFT Charge That NEA Is Company Union

FORT WAYNE (UP)—The National Education Association has been charged with being a "company union' by the AFL American Federation of Teachers.

Delegates to the AFTs 38th annual convention Wednesday unanimously approved a resolution which said the 60,000-member NEA was dominated by school administrators.

It also charged that the NEA gained members by school-official coercion and interfered with AFT attempts to unionize teachers.

In some communities state NEA affiliates "act as commercial employment agencies," which charge teachers "large fees for placement," it was charged.

The resolution, introduced by the Michigan Federation of Teachers, gained unanimous approval even though about half of the union's 46,500 members also belong to the NEA.

Carl J. Megel, AFT president, said "if the NEA would do its job and leave us alone,we wouldn't bother them."

He said the NEA intervened two years ago during an AFT organizing drive in Utah. Five locals were formed, Megel said, but three were disbanded because their presidents were fired from their teaching positions.

To Use Helicopter To Aid In Search For 2-Gun Bandit

CHICAGO (UP) — The Navy loaned police a helicopter today to search the rooftops for a two-gun bandit believed to have killed one officer and wounded another.

The twin-rotor craft was loaned by Rear Adm. Dan Gallery, commander of naval air reserve training at Glenview Naval Air Station.

Its two-man crew flew from Glenview to Meigs Airport on Chicago's lakefront to pick up a police observer equipped with binoculars.

Diane Causes Millions Of Dollars Damage

Second Great Storm Within Two Weeks

B....W⅞ UP24 Aug. 18 LO550a

RALEIGH, N.C. (UP) — The storm battered coast of the Carolinas today counted millions of dollars in damage from Hurricane Diane, the second great storm to pass over the area within two weeks.

The howler, the second with hurricane force winds to materialize in the Atlantic this season dissipated into heavy rains and weak winds of 20 to 35 miles an hour over Virginia Wednesday night after smashing into the North Carolina coast.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges and a hurricane "task force" of top state officials met today to survey damage caused by Diane and its predecessor Connie.

The once-powerful Diane lost its killing punch by the time it hit heavily populated areas along the coast Wednesday. Only one death was attributed directly to Diane. A second was caused indirectly by the storm. Hurricane Connie took a toll of 42 lives.

Diane's damage toll was expected to rise to a high figure. The storm ripped up highways well inland in North Carolina, smashed beach cottages, amusement centers and piers, and tore through tobacco, corn and cotton acreage.

Another potential hurricane built up in the Atlantic a sdamage from Diane was being assessed.

A hurricane hunter plane was dispatched to investigate the "moderate easterly wave" — a band of showers — located some 1,500 miles east of Puerto Rico.

Authorities said Diane added millions of dollars in damage to the 30 million dollars in destruction wreaked along the south Atlantic seaboard by Hurricane Connie.

ination, achieved its freedom at the end of World War II though it was soon to be divided into a free south and a Communist north.

The Koreans have disliked and feared the Japanese almost as much as they have the Communists and there has been a long series of incidents involving Japanese fishing boats and Korean naval vessels.

But the code puts them in writing.

With the stern new code, based on a tell-the-enemy-nothing philosophy, "Communist methods can be successfully combatted," according to Assistant Defense Secretary Carter L. Burgess who headed the committee which drafted it.

But "real success" will depend on enlightened training and education in American principles, he said.

Mr. Eisenhower promulgated the code at his vacation retreat in Fraser, Colo. His order directed the military services to give their men training to "counter and withstand all enemy efforts."

The Burgess Committee proposed that the services cooperate with educational institutions, churches and other patriotic organizations to "provide better understanding of American ideals."

Sense Of Responsibility

The new code of conduct adopts as "a line of resistance for war prisoners" the Geneva Convention provision that captives are not bound to tell captors anything but name, rank, serial number and age.

It recognizes that prisoners may be forced to tell more by torture but it makes them responsible for all their actions.

Gen. John E. Hull, former Far East commander and vice chairman of the committee, told reporters that a prisoner under duress should not feel "that he has to just live and die on the name, rank and serial number proposition, but he must feel a sense of responsibility when he goes beyond that.'

The retired officer said that the committee recognized that any man can be broken and "if he is broken, he will not stand trial" for what he is forced to do.

The defense group pictured the new code as suitable not alone for fighting men but for all Americans in the atomic age when the "home front is but an extension of the fighting front."

Witness Defies Attempts To Probe His Past

Was Former Top Echelon Radio And TV Executive

NEW YORK (UP) — A former top echelon radio and television executive defied attempts of the House Un-American Activities subcommittee today to probe into his alleged Communist past.

The balky witness, Tony Kraber, 50, was formerly program director of Dumont television network and was director of special events for the Columbia Broadcasting System in 1951, according to his testimony.

The Dumont network said Kraber was employed as manager of program presentations from July 6, 1948 to Sept. 23, 1949. He left as a result of a reduction in staff, the net work said.

CBS said Kraber had first been employed by the network in 1942. He was in the CBS special events department from December 1949 to September 28, 1951, a spokesman said, and had the title of assistant director of the department at the time he left.

He was the 19th show business personality to appear before the investigating group, headed by Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa), during a four-day series of hearings. Walter said he expects to wind up the hearings today.

Kraber invoked the First and Fifth amendments to the Constitution in refusing to answer any questions put to him by Committee Counsel Frank S. Tavenner concerning alleged activities in a Manhattan Communist cell in the 1930s.

The subcommittee received testimony concerning Kraber's cell membership from playwright Clifford Odets and dramatic director Elia Kazan, Tavenner said. He said one of the purposes of the cell was to obtain a foothold in Actors Equity, the theatrical union.

Tavenner said that, according to the testimony of Odets and Kazan, the cell which was made up of members of the group theatre was "unsuccessful" in this mission.

Kraber, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., is a veteran of 30 years in show business, beginning with a film with Ellen Terry in 1926. He was famous as a folk singer and his cowboy records are now collectors items.

County Looking For Engineer To Take Over Work Of Gray

Whitley County officials are looking for a licensed engineer to take over some of the projects which were being handled by Asher Gray, before his death July 28.

Gray had been employed to supervise construction or repair of several bridges in the county as well as a great number of drainage ditches, according to Raymond Eloph, county auditor.

Construction on the new bridge over Blue River near the Columbia township school has already begun. The specifications for the bridge were completed by Gray before his death. However, Russel Buzzard, an engineer from Huntington county, has been employed to inspect the bridge after completion. Buzzard has also agreed to examine plans Gray had drawn for repair of Eel River bridge No. 14 near South Whitley and bridges 1, 2, 3 and 5 over the same river in the county.

The county hopes to employ another engineer, who like Gray, could plan and inspect most of the engineering work here. However, Eloph said, most other licensed engineers are over-loaded with work at this time of the year and do not wish to take over anything additional.

It may become necessary to employ individual engineers for some of the drainage work planned or nearing completion in the county, Eloph said.

finally crashed in Communist North Korean territory.

C47 Hit Once

No parachutes were seen to leave the training plane before the crash.

In Tokyo, the U.S. Far Eastern Air Force said a C47 transport plane, searching for wreckage and possible survivors "was fired upon this morning approximately 50 miles northeast of Seoul."

The brief Tokyo announcement did not say who shot at the cargo plane. But the location given is approximately 13 miles south of the demarcation line separating North and South korea, indicated it was fired upon over U.N. controlled territory and presumably by "friendly" forces.

The Air Force said the second incident is being investigated.

The C47 was struck by one bullet which punctured a wing near the engine nacel, but it returned safely to its base.

Party Honors Miss Welker

A surprise birthday party was arranged by Miss Josephine Allen, Friday evening honoring the seventieth birth anniversary of Miss Dottie Welker, with whom Miss Allen makes her home. Guests brought many gifts and cards for the honor guest, among which was a birthday cake the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gebert. Those attending the party were Mesdames, Leslie Noble, Lizzie Leifer, Allie Young, Ida Weaver, Ruby Wilcox, Joe Cunningham, Lanta Hartman, Amon Beard, Shanton Trachsel, Ralph Johnson, Lane Johnson, Cloyce Menzie, and daughter. The evening was spent in visiting, and the hostess served dainty refreshments.

Don Gingher and his sister, Miss Faye Gingher, of Washington D.C. are spending their vacation with their sister, Miss Fern Gingher.

Mrs. Maude Noble Evans, of Elkhart, spent the weekend as the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Ruby Wilcox. Both Mrs. Wilcox and her cousin attended the Noble reunion which was held at the Community building Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Hayden, has not been feeling well recently, and has been confined to her home.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter Meecham, and children left on Sunday afternoon, following the morning worship service at the Methodist church, for a two week vacation trip.

Mrs. Ruby Wilcox is spending a few days at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lessig, Warsaw.

Turk Soldier Stood Up Well In Korea

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Turkish soldier, a rugged fellow not accustomed to America's "corner drugstore type of life," may have stood up best to Communist prison treatment in the Korean War.

Gen. John E. Hull, former supreme commander in the Far East, told reporters Wednesday that Turkish soldiers enforced strict discipline on themselves in Korean prisons and "stood up well."

"Of course, there are other things you have to consider,' Hull said, "The average Turkish soldier isnt accustomed to the corner drugstore type of life that many of our people are. He was able to take this a little bit better than the average American because of the very nature of his own background."

Hull is vice chairman of the committee which wrote the new code of conduct for U.S. military men. He pointed out that Americans, particularly airmen, were the main targets of Red torture and brainwashing tactics.

Promises of God

Lesson for August 21, 1955

MANY Christians today become confused when they read the prophecies of the Old Testament. They do not seem to be either plain or profitable, because they are written in a strange style and the reader has no way of knowing, without help, just where and why and when and to whom these words were first spoken or written. This column is much to short a space for straightening out the tangles in even one chapter. The thing to bear in mind is that there is enough in Scripture that is plain to any man, enough to give him all he needs to know about God and his will for us. This column this week will consider one general thought: the promises of God, as they are found in the pages of the prophets particularly.

Dr. Foreman

The Prophet

The promises of God are never made directly, as by a loudspeaker in the sky. The same promise may be made to many persons; but not all at once. The message first takes shape under the skull of one man, a holy, sensitive man, with spiritual insight, generally with great courage and persistence: in short, a prophet. We do not know for certain just what the process is by which a divine truth gets into the human mind of the prophet; but when first the divine truth enters the human sphere, it comes as an idea, a thought, in some prophet's mind. Sometimes more than one prophet may say the same thing, as when Isaiah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel were all predicting the return of the Jews to Jerusalem. Sometimes the prophet stands entirely alone. But the prophet is like the lookout in the crow's nest of a ship, sighting the dim landfall before any one on deck can see it.

The Promise

Sometimes the signal the prophet's keen spirit caught from on high spelled disaster; sometimes it was like "news behind news," a commentary on the why of events in past or present. But often, indeed more often than anything else, the message of the prophet is a promise. You can sum up all the promises there are into one sentence: God is good; he desires the good of all his children; and he will bring good to pass. One writer in the New Testament suggests that the prophets did not always understand their own messages; they were like radio receivers crossed by static. Be that as it may, we know from reading the Gospels that the people who read the prophets, even the professional interpreters, did not always understand what they read. The promises were set in obscure language, often in poetry. One feature however is clear. The focus and center of the prophet's hope and dream was the Messiah. It is true, their descriptions were so misread that when Jesus Christ came, most of his fellow-countrymen, measuring him by the literal words of these promises, did not recognize him. But there were those who did. The Christian discovers that all the best good that God desires for his children is summed up in Christ and what he does for men.

The Present

What can a Christian today do with the promises passed on by the prophets? Some of them refer no doubt to events long since past, as when Ezekiel and Jeremiah predict the destruction of Babylon. The Christian can take such promises to support his faith that God does rule in the history of men; that his decrees are certain, his foreknowledge sure. Some of the promises are still unfulfilled, as when a prophet predicts the utter destruction of evil from this earth and the coming of a time of universal peace. A Christian can live by such hope even when (just as in the prophet's own days) the hope seems out of reach entirely. Where the prophet speaks of God's Servant the Coming One, we can use such promises to deepen our understanding of what Christ is to mean to the world. But every once in a while, in reading the prophets, one discovers that spans past, present and future. It was a promise made good long ago; it will come true in centuries to come; it is true this present hour. Such a promise is to be found, for instance, in Isaiah 55:6-7.

Say, How About Taking Time Out To Toast Just A Few Of Baseball's Obscurity Fellows

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

That American League pennant race is just as dizzy as ever today, folks, so how about "time out" to toast a few of baseball's obscurity boys, Ike Delock, Babe Birrer, Jim Bunning, Ramon Monzant, and Elroy Face.

They get their names up in headlines about as often as the nice, quiet fellow who runs the corner grocery but Wednesday was their day to shine and they made the most of it.

Delock, a second-line Red Sox pitcher who hadn't won a game since June 2 and who hadn't gone the route all season, went in and stopped the red-hot Yankees with a five-hit, 7-1 victory that ended a seven-game winning streak. Delock himself had been batted out by the Yankees in the early stages of that winning streak last week and with an attack that had netted 57 runs in the past five games, the odds against him looked formidable. The victory put fourth place Boston again within 3½ games of the leading Yankees.

Rookies Dump Indians

Rookies Bunning and Birrer, two peach-cheeked Detroit youths worked together to perform a similar job on the Indians, the Tigers knocking them out of second place with a 9-5 triumph.

The Tigers staked Birrer to seven runs in the first three innings but when he began to coast and Cleveland cut the margin to 7-5, Birrer took over and pitched scoreless three-single ball the rest of the way to gain his fourth triumph. Idle Chicago took over second place from Cleveland a game behind the Yanks.

In the National League, Monzant pitched the first complete game of his major league career, retarding Brooklyn's pennant-bound Dodgers with a 5-1 giant victory in which he gave up eight hits, also striking out eight.

It was almost the same sort of a night for Elroy Face of the Pirates, who went the distance for the second time this year and gained his third victory, a six-hit 6-4 job over the Phillies in which his mates backed him with 16 hits.

Second place Milwaukee, half-a-continent away from Brooklyn and just about that far behind in the standings, cut the margin to 14 games by beating the Cardinals 11-4 on a grand slam homer by Del Crandall and two-run blasts by Andy Pafko and Ed Mathews. It was No. 32 for Mathews.

Sauver Hits Two Homers

Hank Sauer, for whom life has gone a little sour, came off the bench for the first time in 11 games and cracked a pair of his old specialty home runs to give the Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Redlegs at Cincinnati and Bob Rush his 10th pitching victory. A two-run homer by Smoky Burgess in the first inning deprived Rush of a shutout.

The Baltimore - Washington doubleheader was rained out.

Two other obscurity boys helped Delock to his triumph at Boston. Eddie Joost moved into the lineup at second and contributed a hit. Billy Goodman moved over to first for the injured Norm Zauchin and had two hits. Jack Jensen drove in three runs with a bases loaded double after Grady Hatton and Jimmy Piersall tripled to start a five-run sixth.

Detroit pounded out five runs in three innings off erstwhile Cleveland ace Bob Lemon but Cleveland countered with home runs by Larry Doby, Bobby Avila and Gene Woodling. Frank House hit a Tiger homer.

In the Giant triumph Willie Mays paced the hitters with a triple and two singles. Pittsburgh's hit parade was led by Eddie O'Brien, Jerry Lynch and Preston Ward with three apiece.

Cuban Nino Valdes Loses To Satterfield

CHICAGO (UP)—Bobby Gleason manager of Cuban Nino Valdes, the National Boxing Association's second ranking heavyweight, had an easy explanation today why his battler lost to Bob Satterfield.

"It was a lousy fight," Gleason said. "My guy had a bad night and he had a good one. I want a rematch. If he can't lick Satterfield, I'll retire him."

Satterfield, who gave away 32 pounds in weight at 183 to 215 for Valdes, nearly punched the Cuban into retirement in the television scrap. He won an unanimous decision with scores of 97-88, 98-92 and 97-93 from the two judges, John Bray and James McManus and Referee Frank Sikora.

Valdes, the 8-5 favorite, was slow, puzzled and futile throughout the match. Satterfield, far faster, worked inside and pushed his massive foe around the ring, scoring meanwhile with lefts and rights to the body and occasionally a blow to the head.

The Chicago fighter, who has won 30 fights by knockouts and nine by decision, tallied the only knockdown of the night, a combination punch followed by a left hook to the jaw which bloodied Valdes' nose and mouth and left him sprawled on the deck in the last round. It was the first time Valdes ever was knocked off his feet.

It was Valdes' 10th loss in 45 pro fights and though he has scored 23 knockouts, and Satterfield has been knocked out 13 times, Valdes never came close to stunning his smaller foe.

There were no future plans for either fighter. Valdes had been scheduled to meet Bob Baker, rated number one contender by the NBA, in Pittsburgh, but it was doubtful the fight would remain on the docket.

And for Satterfield, Manager Ike Bernstein said "We'll take any thing that Jim Norris offers us."

Hoosier Youth Leads In Golf Tournament

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UP)— — A seven-under-par 65 gave 16-year-old Sam Carmichael of Martinsville, Ind., only a one-stroke lead today as the International Jaycee Junior golf tournament moved into the second round at the Columbus Country Club course.

Right on the Hoosier's heels were Californians Phil Rodgers of San Diego with a 66 and Dick Foote of Santa Ana with a 67.

Rain Threatens National Doubles Tennis Championships

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UP)—Rain threatened today to throw the schedule of the 75th National doubles tennis championships further out of kilter, perhaps forcing an extra day of play beyond the Sunday deadline.

A downpour Wednesday washed out all but two matches. Club officials plan to "double up' their schedule today, weather permitting.

More rain was forecast for today. If it materializes, it was almost certain that the tournament would have to continue through Monday.

Only one match was finished Wednesday. The second seeded women's domestic team of Louise Brough of Berkeley, Calif. and Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Wilmington, Del., dumped Janet Hopps of Seattle, Wash. and Barbara Green of Wilmington, Del. 64, 60.

Another match was in progress when the rain started. Sam Giammalva and Richard Schuette, a pair of University of Texas students from Houston, second in men's domestic seedings, dropped the first set to John Barret of England and Sid Schwartz of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Giammalva, a dark horse winner in the Eastern Grass Court championships two weeks ago at South Orange, N.J., and his hard-hitting teammate grabbe da 13-12 lead in the second set and will pick up the match at that point when play resumes.

Bigtime Auto Racing Needs Commissioner

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Big time auto racing, cast adrift recently by the American Automobile Assn. after 54 years of supervision, needs a commissioner "just like baseball," Tom Marchese, promoter of the booming auto track here, said today.

"I'm going to suggest that a commissioner be appointed when our temporary committee meets at Indianapolis in September," he said. Marchese, who heads Wisconsin Auto Racing, Inc., was named to a committee to plan a new auto racing group to replace AAA supervision.

Marchese said the withdrawal of the AAA "is the finest thing that could have happened. It's going to take work but before we are through well have a setup better than anything the Three-A's ever had to offer."

"Under the 18member AAA control board it used to take an act of Congress to get anything done," Marchese said. "They did the best they could, but they weren't racing men — just fans — and they lived in all parts of the country and met infrequently."

"We're going to have racing men running the tracks from now on,' he said "and things will get done."

Hartack Has Lead Over Shoemaker

CHICAGO (UP)—Willie Hartack held a lead of 248 to 245 over Willie Shoemaker going into today's program at Washington Park in their battle for national riding honors. Shoemaker has won the title three times and is bidding for an unprecedented fourth title. Hartack had three winners Wednesday to two for Shoemaker.

Moore Wants To Fly

NORTH ADAMS, Mass. (UP)—Archie Moore, who has been challenging International Boxing Club Promoter James D. Norris' right to keep him from flying an airplane while in training, said today that "nobody is gonna keep me out of my airplane." Moore is in training here for a title bout with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in New York, Sept. 20.

Regulations For Hunting Gallinules, Doves, Woodcock

WASHINGTON (UP) — Undersecretary of the Interior Clarence A. Davis Wednesday approved hunting regulations which will be in effect during the 1955-56 season for doves, woodcock, rails, and gallinules.

The regulations contain specific dates of the hunting seasons for the states, together with bag and possession limits. The department specified Sept. 1 to Jan. 10, except on woodcocks, as the outside dates during which the states are permitted to select the season dates most desirable to them.

Shooting hours: Rails and gallinules—generally ½ hour before sunrse to sunset; woodcock—½ hour before sunrise to sunrise; mourning, or turtle, doves—shooting hours in Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, 1½ hour before sunrise to sunset.

No changes were made in regulations for the shooting of band-tailed pigeons.

The department advised hunters to obtain copies of regulations of their own states because some state regulations are more restrictive than federal rules.

The seasons daily bag and possession limits in Midwest flyways:

Mississippi Flyway

There is no open season on doves in Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota.

Youths Beat Car

ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich. (UP)—Two teenaged youths today were charged with disorderly conduct for beating their car with a lead pipe.

Police said the owner of the car, who they at first thought was assaulting the other youth, explained "I was mad 'cause the darned thing wouldn't start."

Sports Briefs

FRANKFURT Germany (UP)—George L. Morgan of Natick, Mass., and Roy Rosenbaum of Union Mills, Ind., have been cited by the Stars and Stripes, armed forces newspaper as the most valuable baseball players among the U.S. armed forces in Europe. Morgan is under contract to the Kansas City Athletics. Rosenbaum is a former Purdue University star.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP)— Minor league presidents from throughout the Southeast opened a two-day discussion Wednesday on possible alignment of clubs in the future. President of the minors George Trautman said the meeting was "strictly an exploratory discussion.'

CHICAGO (UP)—Victory in the rich Tam O'Shanter tournament today put Julius Boros at the top of the list of professional golf's leading money winners.

The Professional Golfers' Assn. listed Boros with earnings of $61,971, of which $50,000 came from his Tam win.

DETROIT (UP)— Veteran outfielder Hoot Evers of the Cleveland Indians will be hospitalized for at least three days with a "fairly severe" eye injury received in Wednesday's game with the Detroit Tigers. However, a doctor said Evers would not lose his eye sight as a result of the blow, received from a foul tip off his own bat.

Good sweet corn has fresh green husks. The kernels should be well-filled and plump. If not, the corn is too ripe or has been pulled too long.

Funeral Services To Be Friday For Mary Jane Brown

Death Occurs Wednesday Afternoon

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Mary Jane Brown, 83, of 312 Collinwood Avenue, have been completed.

Friends may call at the Smith and Sons Funeral Home. The Rev. Dale T. Heinbaugh, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will officiate at the funeral rites, to be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the funeral home. Committal services and burial will follow the funeral rites in the South Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Brown died at 2:10 Wednesday afternoon at the Whitley County Hospital. She had been in failing health for several years, suffering with heart trouble. Her condition became increasingly worse during the past month. Tuesday afternoon she was taken by ambulance to the hospital for treatment.

She was born in Columbia City August 31, 1871, to Robert and Mary Funk Boyd. For more than fifty years she resided on a farm in Columbia township. On December 19, 1936, she was united in marriage to David M. Brown, and their entire married life was spent at their home on Collinwood Avenue.

Mrs. Brown was a member of the First Baptist Church, the Berean Class of the Sunday School, and was an honorary deaconess of the church.

The surviving relatives include one step-son, Herbert Brown of Gary; three step-daughters, Mrs. S .J. Leaman, Indianapolis; Mrs. Guilford Gardner, Etna-Troy township; Mrs. Roy Inks, this city; ten grandchildren; and thirteen great-grandchildren. In addition to her husband, who preceded her in death on March 11, 1951, she had been preceded in death by four brothers and one sister.

Gerald Crouch Gets Suspended Sentence For Vehicle Taking

Gerald Crouch, 32, received a suspended sentence of from 1 to 10 years at Indiana State Prison Wednesday in circuit court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of taking and using a vehicle without the consent of the owner.

The sentence was suspended for a period of five years conditioned upon the good behavior of the defendant and his carrying out the rules and regulations established for him by the court or the probation officer of Whitley county and appearing in court when ordered to do so.

Crouch was arrested August 8, 1952 after Stuart Loe had filed an affidavit in circuit court charging him with taking and using Loe's automobile.

The sentence was made by John W. Whiteleather, judge pro tempore of the court.

President Salutes Boy Scout Jamboree

NIAGARA—ON—THE—LAKE, Ont. (UP)—President Eisenhower today saluted the eighth World Jamboree of Boy Scouts as a bridge of international understanding that could be built by boys, and not by governments alone.

"The moral qualities which make a scout a good citizen in his own nation are the qualities which will enable him and his fellow countrymen to live as good neighbors with people in other parts of the world," he said in a message to the 1,500 members of the American contingent attending the jamboree.

Between 12,000 and 18,000 boys from some 60 countries are expected to be in camp for the jamboree by tonight. Although the jamboree starts today, it opens officially on Saturday, and closes Aug. 28.

Rioting Erupts In And Around Casablanca

Authorities Rush In Fresh Troops

CASABLANCA Morocco (UP)—Vicious rioting erupted in and around Casablanca today and authorities rushed in fresh troops.

At least 8 persons were killed and 14 wounded in clashes which began after dark Wednesday and lasted through the night.

Police today moved into the outskirts of the native section of Derb Baqhko, where some of the bitterest fighting took place. They evacuated all of its several thousands inhabitants and set up a machine gun on a railroad trestle commanding the section.

In Casablanca's New Medina (native quarter) angry rioters dragged a European merchant, Benjamin Zimmerman, from his car, stoned and beat him. Police tossed a grenade into the crowd to clear a path to rescue him.

Four Moroccans were killed and six wounded in the blast. Zimmerman was removed to a hospital.

Police announced they had smashed a major terrorist bomb plot. They broke into a nationalist headquarters and found 10 powerful bombs which the terrorists planned to explode throughout the city Saturday.

Southeast of Casablanca, an angry mob attacked the police station at Derb Bachko and officials announced that at least four persons were killed and seven wounded during the eight hours of rioting which followed the attack.

Authorities feared this was only the beginning of a bloodbath predicted for Aug. 20, second anniversary of the ouster of former Sultan Sidi Mohamed Ben Youssef.

In Paris, Premier Edgar Faure's cabinet gave Sultan Sidi Mohammed Moulay Ben Arafa one more chance to form a representative government to end the reign of terror.

The cabinet also scheduled a round-table conference with Moroccan leaders to try to stop the headlong rush toward full-scale rebellion.

Government Scientists Putting No Blame On Cutter Laboratories

By MICHAEL J. O'NEILL
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Cutter Laboratories will get a favorable verdict in the government's forthcoming report on the outbreak of polio among children who received Cutter vaccine, industry sources said today.

They said the report, expected to be published in a few days, shows that scientists failed to establish the exact cause of the Cutter incident despite nearly four months of exhaustive investigation.

But they added that the document suggests the trouble probably stemmed from shortcomings in the government's original safety standards rather than from negligence or failure on the part of Cutter.

Nearly 70 persons who received Cutter shots were struck down by polio in the early days of the mass inoculation program. The outbreak touched off a national scare and led to sweeping changes in federal safety standards.

Major Investigation Launched

All Cutter vaccine, made in Berkeley, Calif., was immediately withdrawn from distriibution. The Health Service launched a major investigation to find out if the vaccine was to blame and, if so, why.

The report on the results of the inquiry is now in the final stages of preparation. Health Service officials refused to reveal any details, but industry sources said drafts of the document include these points:

1. Highly sensitive tissue culture tests at the Health Service's Hamilton, Mont., laboratory and elsewhere established the presence of infective live virus in some samples of Cutter vaccine. (The virus in the final product is supposed to be dead.)

2. No evidence was found, however, that this live virus slipped through because Cutter failed to comply with federal testing and safety standards. On the contrary, the indication is that Cutter complied with the standards but that they were insufficieintly sensitive to rule out a "Cutter incident."

Reds Agree To Face-To-Face Meeting Request

To Discuss Return Of Air Force Officers

MUNSAN, Korea (UP) — The Communists today agreed to a request of the United Nations Military Command for an "urgent" face-to-face meeting to discuss the return of two American Air Force officers, shot down by the Reds last Wednesday.

The meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday (7 p.m. Saturday CST).

U.S. Air Force Maj. Gen. Harlam C. Parks, senior U.N. member of the commission, had called for a Saturday meeting.

He said the Reds had replied that Sunday was the "earliest time" they could arrange to meet him.

Up to now the Communists—who shot down the plane over the neutral, demilitarized zone of Korea—have given no indication whether or not the two Air Force officers survived the crash of their small training plane.

Group Plans Better Farming, Living Program

Discussion Groups Meet November 22, 29

The Whitley county farm management committee met Wednesday night with B. V. Widney, county agent, and Hugh Reinhold, assistant county agent, at the county extension office. The purpose of the meeting was to plan the Better Farming and Better Living Program for this fall. The discussion groups will meet on November 22 and 29 for all-day sessions. These are tenative dates. Specialists from Purdue will be here to work with the group. This is a family project and the women will have sessions on home management and planning.

The other object of the meeting was to get enrollment for the program. Some families have already signed up, but there is still room for 17 more families to enroll. Information on the program is available at the county agent's office or by contacting one of the committee members in your community. They are: James Baker, Merle Kyler, Robert Pontzius, Herbert Gross, Merlin Hindbaugh, Edwin Pug,h Hugh Henry, and Ford Mishler.

Mr. Reinhold will have a booth at the 4-H fair next week where interested farm families may obtain information about the program and sign up for it as well.

Revolving Platform To Be Used At Fair

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—A revolving platform invented so harness racing officials can follow the progress of a race conveniently will be used at the Indiana State Fair Sept. 3 for the first time.

The platform, known as a "Race-O-Later," was invented by Trueman T. Rembusch, an Indiana movie owner and member of the State Fair Board.

It revolves slowly as the horses dash around the oval track, enabling judges, timers and announcers to have a free view of the race's progress at all times.

Bob Morris, chief judge of the 1954 fair races, said a stationary judge's stand requires the officials to crawl, lean and twist their necks out of joint trying to keep up with the activity without getting in somebody else's way.

Rembusch "thought up" the device and it was built by Bill Long, president of the Central States Aeronautical Board. The first and only one constructed was donated to the fair. It is worth $10,000.

The "Race-O-Later" looks like a tall merry-go-round. It revolves electrically. Platforms in the raised tower are at different levels for convenient viewing—just like Rembusch's theater seats.

U.S. Reveals Secrets Of Building Atomic Furnaces That Produce High-Powered Fuel

GENEVA (UP) — The United States today revealed some of the vital secrets of building atomic furnaces that produce more high-powered fuel than they burn.

These disclosures pertaining to the so-called breeder reactors were another step towards international harnessing of atomic power for peace. They commanded close attention from the delegates to the two-week U.N. Atoms for Peace conference which ends Saturday.

Scientists here regard the breeder reactors as one of the most dramatic and important developments of the atomic age. Reports on progress in this field have led U.S. officials to warn that further American help in a peaceful atomic energy program might lead to construction of A-bombs by other nations.

American researchers released vital information on the new reactors, nevertheless. Floyd L. Culler Jr., of Oak Ridge, Tenn. National Laboratory led the reports with a survey of chemical development work performed by most of the major atomic energy groups in the United States on the problems of radiochemical processing.

Culler described the techniques for removing atomic fuel such as uranium and plutonium from burned-out reactors so it can be re-used.

Another Oak Ridge scientist, Dr. Alan T. Gresky, detailed a previously secret porcess used for extracting fresh fuel from one of the latest types of reactors.

Little Girl Loses Battle To Malignant Brain Tumor

KOKOMO, Ind. (UP) — Little Janet Leicht, who battled a malignant brain tumor most of her three years, died in her home here Thursday.

Last January, Janet, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Leicht, was flown to an Army hospital in Pennsylvania by the Indiana Air National Guard for brain surgery.

There was little hope for her recovery. Her struggle created widespread attention and gifts from well-wishers throughout the country poured in when she celebrated her third birthday anniversary in the hospital.

Mrs. Ruth Leicht, her mother, was at her side when she died. Her father, an Air Force veteran of the Korean War, was killed in a plane crash in Japan two years ago.

County Budget Set At $276,669 For Next Year

Represents Increase Of $59,000 Over 1955 Requires 55c Tax Levy

The 1956 county budget calls for a total of $276,669 as drawn by the County Commissioners at their last meeting and prepared by Raymond Eloph, county auditor.

The amount represents a requested increase over the final budget for 1955 of about $59,000 and would require an increase in the property tax levy from 40 cents to 55 cents for 1956. In addition, the county estimates that it will need $23,820 to cover the bond on Whitley County Hospital, $315,340 for maintenance of the hospital, $120,675 for county welfare, and $22,716 for the cumulative bridge fund.

In addition to requesting an additional 15 cents to cover county expenses from the general fund, an increase of 1½ cents is asked for the welfare fund to raise it to 7 cents; and an increase of ½ cent is requested to raise the hospital maintenance fund levy to 7 cents. The rates for the cumulative bridge fund and the hospital bond fund would each remain at 6 cents and the 4-H Club fund would stay at 2 cents. This would make the over-all county tax rate 83 cents, or an increase of 17 cents over the final rate of 66 cents in 1955.

The assessed evaluation of real and personal property for the entire county for 1956 is $39,153,090, or $1,293,010 more than for 1955. The value of taxable polls is $3,362. The breakdown of property evaluation for tax purposes in each township is as follows: Cleveland $5,868,210; Columbia $10,438,900; Etna-Troy $2,284,780; Jefferson $3,002,840; Richland $2,817,310; Smith $4,869,410; Thorncreek

Traffic Courtesy Campaign Will Be Conducted

Campaign Dates Are August 22-27

The Chicago Motor Club, with the cooperation of this newspaper office, will conduct its annual Courtesy Campaign in this city next week, August 22-27. During the Courtesy Campaign six persons, motorists, pedestrians, and bicycle riders, will be selected for their courtesy and compliance with the traffic rules set out for each group. These six people will be chosen by six local men designated by the Chicago Motor Club as judges. The judges have been instructed to select a Courtsey Campaign winner on the basis of his safe driving, walking, and bike riding practices.

A meeting to organize the local Courtesy Campaign was held Thursday. Marion Kirkpatrick, Chicago Motor Club representative, was host at the meeting and instructed the judges present of the rules for the campaign.

When a judge selects a winner, he is to inform the winner of his selection and what he has won for his safe practices. Each winner will be featured in a news story in this paper, and each winner is to report to this newspaper office to receive his $5.00 cash award and a certificate explaining why he was chosen.

The right attitude behind the wheel of your car can prevent an accident. That attitude is courtesy, say Chicago Motor Club experts. Those drivers who have made courteous driving a habit are increasingly making motoring safer for all.

On the other hand, disregard of common acts of courtesy causes accidents and places motorists and pedestrians alike in jeopardy. Make courtesy your code, and you will be a winner of a campaign award next week.

Busy Weekend!

Three events will occur in Whitley County this weekend, which will keep people of this vicinity busy.

The 17th meeting of the South Whitley and Cleveland township alumni triennial reunion will take place Saturday. The program will begin with the invocation, to be given at 10 o'clock in the morning. This will be followed by the welcome address, and the response to the welcome. An alumni queen will be crowned. Features of the afternoon include a parade, a concert, and two ball games. At the alumni banquet a floor show, featuring local talent, will be given. The event will close with a dance.

Also planned for Saturday is the first annual Shrine horse show, which will be at the horseshow grounds one mile north of this city on State road 9. Shows will be at 10 o'clock in the morning, one o'clock in the afternoon, and seven o'clock in the evening.

The Tri Lakes Garden Club Flower Show will be held Sunday, to 10 o'clock in the morning. the American Legion Home. Exhibits will be received from 8:30 to 10 o'clock in the morning.

Fourth Annual Local Band Camp Will Start On Monday

The fourth annual Columbia City ban dcamp will be held at the school starting Monday, August 22. The junior high group will start at 4:00 p.m. each week day, and the senior high group will start at 6:30 each week day.

The purpose of the camp is to teach the fundamentals of marching and to prepare the bands for the football season. All band members are expected to attend at least five of the eight sessions of the camp. New band members coming into the senior band must attend this camp if they expect to march with the band during the marching season, Bandmaster Robert Sharpe states.

County School Students Enroll September 1

3233 Pre-Register For Fall Term At 8 Schools; Increase Of 64

All students who will attend county schools next year must report to the schools at 1:30 p.m. September 1 to enroll, Harry T. Yoder, county superintendent of schools, has announced. Distribution of textbooks will be made that day unless it has been done before.

Yoder reported that a total of 2,588 elementary students and 645 high school students pre-registered at the county schools last spring for the 1955-56 school year. Both totals may increase with registration of new pupils who have recently moved into the county.

The number of pre-registered grade school students represents an increase of 100 over the 2488 who attended last year. The total for the high schools dropped only 26 from the 671 last year even though 55 who attended Washington Center have been transferred to Columbia City.

The breakdown of pre-registered students at the eight county schools is as follows high school: South Whitley 158; Jefferson 81; Larwill 140; Churubusco 207; Coesse 253; elementary: South Whitley 455; Jefferson 200; Columbia township 209; Etna-Troy 214; Larwill 211; Churubusco 455; Collins 118; Thorncreek 359; Coesse 194; and Washington 173.

Firemen Put Out Fire In Asphalt Roofing Tank Thursday

City firemen were called at about 7 p.m. Thursday to the home of Carl Anderson, 404 South Walnut street, to put out a fire in an asphalt roofing tank.

The tank of asphalt, parked in the street in front of the home, was being heated for use in roofing a car-port which Anderson is building on to the house. The asphalt became over-heated and the pressure forced the lid open on the tank allowing it to flame up several feet in the air.

Roofing men on the scene said that the mixture must be heated to a temperature of 600 degrees before it can be applied to the roof. They estimated that the temperature of the asphalt while burning neared 2000 degrees.

Anderson said that he was attempting to take some of the asphalt out of the wheel-mounted tank when it flared up.

Firemen put the flames out once and had gathered around close to the tank when it flared up again. However, the flames were finally extinguished.

Local Properties Are Bought, Sold

Mrs. S. J. Leland recently sold her home at 349 North Walnut street to Miss Louise Bebb and Mrs. Jesse Dunkin. Mrs. Leland now lives at 202 West Jefferson street, the former home of Franklin Dear.

The Dears now reside at their home at 310 North Walnut street, which they purchased from Mrs. Rose Brand.

Wilson Orders Armed Services To Train Men

Immediately To Live Up To New Military Code Of Conduct

WASHINGTON (UP) — Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson ordered the Army, Navy and Air Force today to start training men immediately to live up to the high standards of the new Military Code of Conduct.

Wilson ordered subordinates to take steps to win "wide public support" for the stern code and to enlist the help of other federal departments, schools, churches, industry, labor and agriculture representatives in training programs.

The code was written as the result of some Americans succumbing to Communist propaganda, torture, and brainwashing in Korean prison camps.

The code, proclaimed by President Eisenhower Wednesday night lays down six principles for servicemen: "They must be prepared to die for their country, never surrender willingly, try to escape if captured, never inform on fellow prisoners, evade enemy questions except to give name, rank, serial number and age, and accept responsibility for all their actions.

Wilson sent memoranda to the service secretaries the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Assistant Defense Secretary Carter L. Burgess who was chairman of the committee that drafted the code.

He told secretaries and joint chiefs that servicemen must be made to understand the international situation — a reference to the war for men's minds — which made necessary the "restatement and reaffirmation" of ideals embodied in the code. He told them to explain the code so that all fighting men will realize that "full and loyal observance" is in their best interest.

Wilson, in a second order, told the service secretaries to see that their men are educated in the basic advantages of democracy and in the "fallacies of Communism."

Students From Area Entering University Will Get Acquainted

New freshman students from seven northeasstern Indiana counties, who will enter Indiana University next month, will attend a "get acquainted" meeting at 7:30 p.m., August 25 at the I.U. extension center at Fort Wayne.

The students and their parents from Allen, Wells, Whitley, Huntington, Steuben, Dekalb and Adams counties, will meet with representatives of I.U.'s Junior (freshman) Division and Alumni Association. Purpose of the meeting is to answer all questions of students and parents concerning the university.

This is one of 20 meetings scheduled throughout the state to help prepare students for college.

Marie Lebamoff of Fort Wayne will be chairman of the meeting. Clum Bucher, associate dean of the Junior Division, and Frank Jones, assistant alumni secretary, will represent I.U.

Franklin Bridge Takes Part In Summer Research Seminar

Franklin Bridge, formerly of this city, has returned to his home in Fayettevile, Arkansas, from Washington, D.C., where he worked for eight weeks this summer.

Mr. Bridge was one of five participants in a summer research seminar on Presidential Nominating Politics at the Brookings Institution. The seminar was jointly sponsored by the Bookings Institution, which is a private research agency, and the Social Science Research Council, which is one of the larger research foundations financed largely by such foundations as the Rockefeller and Carneigie foundations.

Mr. Bridge is now Associate Professor of Government at the University of Arkansas.

New High School Students Here Are Reminded To Register

Principal Max Gandy reminds all students who will be attending Columbia City Joint high school this year for the first time that they must register on or before August 25. Students who attended high school last year and last year's eighth graders have already registered.

Mr. Gandy will be in his office to register the new students beginning Monday, August 22. His office hours will be 9-11:30 and 12:30-4:00.

All high school students must meet at the school September 1 at 1:30 p.m. to enroll for their classes.

Rioters Storm Through Arab Quarter, Kenifra

Pillage And Burn Shops In Protest Against Europeans

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UP)—Demonstrators stormed through the Arab quarter of Kenifra in north central Morocco today, pillaging and burning shops in an outbreak of violence against Europeans.

The outbreak came less than 24 hours before the showdown anniversary Saturday of the exile of the former sultan of Morocco. Riots are expected then throughout this French protectorate.

The new rioting broke the deadly calm after clashes in Casablanca Wednesday and Thursday killed at least 10 persons and wounded 20.

The demonstrations at Kenifra, near the religious center of Meknes, began peacefully shortly after 7 a.m. according to reports reaching here, but then the demonstrators got out of hand.

The demonstrators sacked and burned "numerous' shops run by Europeans in the Moroccan quarter.

The riots followed a minor outbreak in Casablanca during the night. Four carloads of police armed with machineguns and supported by a handful of foreign legionnaires broke up a demonstration in the Derb Ferrara section of Casablanca.

Reports from neighboring Algeria also told of new acts of terrorism against the French. French security forces discovered the bodies of two Algerians, one a local official, with their throats slit. Three local dignitaries were kidnaped in another small town.

Casablanca itself was like a timebomb, waiting to explode. All American personnel at the five U.S. strategic airbases in Morocco were ordered to remain on their bases during the weekend.

From Torrents Of Rain Dumped By Hurricane

Helicopter Used To Rescue Children At Summer Camp

By BARBARA BUNDSCHU
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Torrents of rain dumped from dying hurricane across seven northeastern states Diane spread havoc and death today.

A swollen reservoir threatened to burst its dam over a score of western Massachusetts and Connecticut towns, many of them already inundated by overflowing streams.

The entire northwestern section of Connecticut was declared a disaster area with evacuation proceeding under civil defense and National Guard direction. The Coast Guard reported it was "picking people out of trees" by helicopter in the Torrington, Conn., area.

The Connecticut governor said damage in the Torrington-Farmington-Colebrook area had been estimated at one billion dollars before noon, with flood waters sending buildings, oil tanks and debris floating through the streets.

A second major flood disaster swirled through the adjacent corners of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania where at least 10 deaths were reported. Two passenger trains were marooned. Thirty-three children were being plucked by helicopter from a summer camp turned into an island overnight. Other summer camps were cut off from the world.

Bishop Noll In Critical Condition

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—The Most Rev. Archbishop John F. Noll, Bishop of the Fort Wayne diocese of the Roman Catholic Church was in critical condition today from a heart attack.

Archbishop Noll was stricken late Thursday and rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital here. Physicians said he showed moderate improvement during the night and was resting comfortably.

The 80-year-old archbishop founded the national Catholic weekly paper, Our Sunday Visitor, and was a pioneer in the movement which created the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Captured Gunman, Outwitted By Desperate Father, Confesses To Killing Policeman

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP)—Captured gunman Richard Carpenter, outwitted by the desperate father of a family he held hostage for 24 hours, today confessed killing one policeman and wounding another in one of Chicago's greatest one - man crime waves.

Carpenter, a burly 26-year-old, broke down a few hours after a police barrage of machine gun bullets and tear gas flushed him from a bullet-riddled West Side apartment.

He had been tricked by Leonard Powell, whose home he had turned into a hideout to escape a city-wide manhunt. Powell slipped out of his apartment on a pretext and rushed to a telephone to alert police that the killer was holding him hostage with his wife and two children.

Carpenter Breaks Down

Carpenter fell on his knees "and begged like a baby not to be shot' when he was captured. At first he denied the shooting, but broke down under hours of police grilling.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Wehlan said early today that Carpenter confessed killing Detective William Murphy, 34, on a subway station platform Monday night. He also admitted critically wounding rookie policeman Clarence Kerr, 26, in a gun duel at movie theater Wednesday night.

Carpenter claimed that in both cases he broke away from the arresting officers and they fired first. Murphy was seeking Carpenter for a string of tavern robberies and Kerr later spotted the killer in one of the many theaters where he slept to elude the police.

Police apparently persuaded Carpenter to confess by pointing out the wealth of evidence and eye witness testimony against him. A United Press reporter overheard a policeman ask the wounded gunman "Don't you feel better," and Carpenter replied "Yeah, you had all those eye witnesses."

He also took police to the Powell home and showed where he had hidden his 38-caliber snub - nosed revolver in a stove pipe.

Victor In Gun Duels

Carpenter was a victor in both his gun duels with police, but Kerr winged him in the battle at the Biltmore Theater. Moments later, gun in hand and limping from a leg wound, he forced his way into the Powell home at 2040 Potomac Ave.

"You know who I am," Carpenter said. "I killed that police officer Monday night and I killed another one tonight. I'll kill anyone who tries to get me.'

For the next 24 hours, the wounded gunman sat in the Powell home, holding his revolver most of the Man Recognizes Girl On Ad Card As His Daughter

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—William J. Rainer, 48, glanced idly up at the face of a pretty girl decorating an advertising card on a Municipal Railway bus.

The ad suggested that any girl just like this one could get and hold a fine secretarial job by learning the sponsor's shorthand method.

Rainer was startled. The girl looked familiar — like the wife from whom he separaetd in 1929. The more he thought about it, the more the resemblance grew.

Standing up, Rainer peered closely at the card. Underneath was a familiar name — Del Rainer. When he and his wife separated, Mrs. Rainer took their 20-month-old daughter, Delores, with her.

Rainer ripped the ad from the wall of the bus and went to the secretarial school. There they directed him to a downtown office where Miss Rainer works.

The finding of his daughter ended a search that began two years ago when Rainer, who had become an odd-jobs man around Denver, received a letter from his daughter.

Miss Rainer had traced her father through relatives.

Rainer came to San Francisco about a month ago to look for his daughter. She had moved from the Telegraph Hill address she had given, and no one there had ever heard of her. She was not listed in the telephone book.

He stayed around town, hoping to find her and it was by a stroke of luck that he saw her picture on the bus. She had moved to Sausalito across the bay, where father and daughter had a reunion.

Rainer's ex-wife was in show business and constantly on the move. Del was boarded out with relatives. Finally, her mother married again and the family settled here, where Del grew up.

Muffins will come from the baking tin in one piece, if the pan is placed on a cold, wet rag for a few minutes immediately after being taken from the oven.

Taxpayers appearing shall have a right to be heard thereon. After the tax levies have been determined, and presented to the county auditor not later than two days prior to the second Monday in September, and the levy fixed by the county tax adjustment board, or on their failure so to do, by the county auditor, ten or more taxpayers feeling themselves aggrieved by such levies, may appeal to the state board of tax commissioners for further and final hearing thereon by filing of petition with the county auditor on or before the fourth Monday of September or on or before the tenth day after publication by the county auditor of tax rates charged, whichever date is later, and the state board will fix a date for hearing in this county.

Complete detail of budget estimate may be seen in office of County Auditor.

Fourth Anniversary Celebrated Thursday At Legion Home By American War Mothers

The fourth anniversary of the American War Mothers was celebrated at their regular meeting at the American Legion Home Thursday evening. Twenty-five mothers and one guest answered to roll call by naming the place of their birth.

Mrs. Roy Hawn, president, conducted the business meeting, and Mrs. Wilbur Alexander acted as Chaplain. Obligation ceremonies were conducted for two new members and Mrs. Forrest Adair and Mrs. Ervin Boyer were welcomed into the War Mohters organization.

Highlights of the local chapter's successful and interesting four-year span were given by Mrs. E. O. White, past president. Reports of the hospital chairman and the Old Settlers Day committees were given.

It was announced by Mrs. Howard Aker, hospital chairman, that three mothers assisted in the VA Hospital last Tuesday with bedside patient feeding. They were Mrs. Della Brunner, Mrs. Elizabeth White and Mrs. Ella Cullimore.

A lunch of ice cream, birthday cake, and iced tea was served by Mrs. Roy Hawn, Mrs. Merritt Hursey, and Mrs. Roy Bainbridge. The attendance prize was won by Mrs. Howard Aker.

The American War Mothers in the six chapters in Northeastern Indiana are to hold a picnic luncheon at the Crooked Lake home of Mrs. E. O. White next Wednesday. Mrs. Thomas Foreman of Fort Wayne, who is the new VAVS chairman for the Fort Wayne VA Hospital, will be in charge of the business meeting. Plans for future hospital work will be discussed.

Mrs. Aker, hospital chairman, also announced that there would be a VA Hospital party on Friday evening, August 26. Anyone wishing to attend this party should contact Mrs. Aker.

The September meeting will be the election of new officers.

Friendly Neighbors Meets Wednesday

The Ormas Friendly Neighbors Club met Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Roy Wheeler was the hostess, and she was assisted by Mrs. Harry Abrams.

There are eight on the sick list to be remembered this month with cards and presents.

Ice cream, wafers, and mints were served.

PLAN TO ATTEND MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Glenn, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Setterhoff and daughter of Huntington will attend the 26th annual Chicagoland Music Festival Saturday at Soldier Field.

Barbara Richardson, Darwin Genth Wed In Church Rites

The marriage of Miss Barbara Richardson and Darwin Genth was solemnized recently in the Washington Center United Brethren Church.

Miss Richardson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Richardson of near Fort Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Genth, Washington township, are the parents of the groom.

The Rev. Howard Steele performed the double ring ceremony. A musical program, presented by the vocalist, Miss Patty Genth, sister of the bride, and Miss Judy Somers, pianist, preceded the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of Chantilly lace over satin. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a crown of Chantilly lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Paul Meyer attended her sister as matron of honor. Her gown was fashioned of pink net over taffeta, and she carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

The groomsman was Arnold Genth, brother of the groom. Ushers were Paul Meyer and Robert Emerick, brothers-in-law of the bridal couple.

An informal reception was held in the church hall following the ceremony. Those assisting at the reception were Mrs. Robert Emerick, Mrs. William Richardson, and Mrs. Arnold Genth.

The wedding couple are now residing near Columbia City.

U. S. Impatient Over Failure Of Reds To Release 41 Civilians

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States is growing impatient over Red China's failure to let 41 American civilians come home.

Some thought has been given in official quarters on whether it might be useful to propose a recess in the American-Red Chinese talks at Geneva where the problem is being discussed.

Officials said no decision had been reached. But they said every effort would be made by Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, U.S. negotiator at Geneva, to get the U.S. civilians out of Red China.

The United States would be reluctant to propose a recess of a week or 10 days in the Geneva talks. It would do so only if high policy-makers decided the move might prod the Reds into faster action. A recess would not mean an end to the talks.

Difficulties seem to center on arranging a face-saving device for the Communists on the oft-repeated Red charges that Chinese students are being held in the United States against their will. These charges have been denied repeatedly by the United States.

American officials do not know why the Chinese Communists are stalling. There has been some speculation that the Reds may want to hold up release of the Americans until late this month or early in September. This would put the Communists in a better spot to angle for United Nations seating at the General Assembly meeting Sept. 20. The United States will oppose the Red bid for Nationalist China's U.N. seat.

time. His refuge lasted until Powell, plotting desperately to save his family, outwitted him Thursday night.

Carpenter Trusts Powell

Powell, a 35-year-old truck driver, persuaded Carpenter to let his wife take their children, Bobby, 7, and Diane 3, for a walk. Otherwise he said neighbors might get suspicious.

Then, talking fast and convincingly, Powell said he always visited his grandfather down the street. Carpenter trusted Powell and let him go. Minutes later, Powell was at a telephone with the words "A woman and two children are being held at bay at 2040 Potomac.'

Thirty squads of policemen answered the call within minutes. Carpenter, crouching alone at the Powell's second - story window, heard the approaching sirens and decided to make a getaway.

He leaped through an open window and across a three-foot areaway into the next door apartment of Stanley Sciblo. Gasping "Stay where you are and everything will be all right," he ran to the rear steps and up to the third - floor apartment of Alphonse Krolikowski.

But by now the string had run out for Carpenter. Police swarmed in the street below and a loudspeaker barked a surrender order.

Mob Shouts "Kill Him"

Spotlights picked out Carpenter's frantic form at the third floor windows and police poured in tear gas and machine gun shells.

Police heard the gunman scream "Don't shoot! I'll give up. I'm Carpenter.'

Then he fled back to the Sciblo apartment. Four policemen rushed in and grabbed him as he cowered in a bathroom.

Policemen, who would have welcomed a chance to shoot it out with Carpenter, found themselves forced to protect him from a mob of about 1,000 persons outside the Potomac Avenue apartment houses.

As Carpenter was led from the building there were shouts of "Kill him! Kill him!" A man tried to grab a policeman's gun and was rebuffed with a blow from a gun butt.

Carpenter, asked later why he didn't make a fight of it, replied "They would have killed me." Policeman said they would have done exactly that.

Washington Transit Workers Vote On Offer

WASHINGTON (UP)—AFL transit workers vote tonight on whether to accept an offer from the city commissioners for ending Washington's 50-day-old transit strike.

The union's officials will recommendacceptance. Approval of the offer would provide the first major break in a strike that has deprived Washington of street car and bus service since July 1.

Details of the commissioners' offer were not announced.

U.S .Announces Development Of Tiny X-ray Units

GENEVA (UP) — The United States today announced development of two pocket-sized atomic X-ray machines that need no electric power and run up to 20 years without recharging.

American officials predicted widespread use of the machines in earthquakes, floods, explosions, rail and air accidents, and any other situations where electric power becomes unavailable.

R.G. Daggs of the U.S. Army Medical Research Laboratory at Ft. Knox, Ky., described the portable equipment at the U.N. Atoms for Peace conference.

Daggs said the machines operate on radioactive isotopes produced by atomic furnaces. Radiation from these isotopes takes the place of X-rays now produced by bulky hospital machinery requiring large amounts of atomic power.

One machine, Daggs explained, uses film that requires no darkroom for development. The machine weighs 22 pounds and uses a tiny pellet of radioactive thulium metal which lasts a year.

The second type, Daggs said, beams beta rays from radioactive strontium toward a metal target where they are converted into conventional X-rays.

Work in this field is presently directed toward designing a machine weighing less than 10 pounds and useable for about 20 years without recharging, he said.

Trooper Injured As He Speeds To Suicide Scene

ANDERSON, Ind. (UP)—State Police trooper Gene Garrett was injured Thursday night when he sped to a suicide scene near Anderson.

Garrett was driving his police car with siren a ndred light on when he crashed into a car driven by Michael Jackson, 17, Pendleton, as Jackson attempted a left turn off Ind. 67.

The trooper suffered cuts on the head and face. The youth was not hurt.

The suicide victim was identified as Jesse Sears, 84, Route 4, Anderson.

Gresky told how to remove U233, a powerful fuel, from thorium, a new atomic material far more common in the earth than uranium. Gresky said the fuel extracted from the reactor can be put back in—again and again—to keep the reactor working.

Dr. Harold M. Feder of Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago described another method of extraction along the lines of steel refining. He said the metal is converted back into compounds resembling its original ores. Newly developed metallurgical methods and remote-control manipulation now make it possible to perform the necessary operations, Feder said.

A.F. Voigt, of Ames Laboratory at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, described still a third method of extraction. This one uses molten metals to sluice away the ashes or waste produced in a reactor.

These ashes are the leftover fragments of split atoms. Voigt said they can be used as radiation sources for food sterilization, medical therapy and many other applications.

South Koreans Mass Before U.S. Embassy In Seoul

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—An estimated 4,000 South Koreans massed before the United States Embassy here today in a fist-shaking demonstration against the presence of Communist truce inspectors.

Demonstrations also were staged at the Kunsan air base and at Wolmi Island.

Nearly 100 demonstrators made three pre-dawn attempts to storm the main gate at the U.S. Air Force compound at Kunsan. American troops guarding Czech and Polish members of the inspection team billeted there repelled the assaults with high pressure hoses.

Fifty demonstrators tried what the 8th Army described as a "feeble attempt" to attack later in the day. They were stopped by Korean national police.

of the bloodiest clashes during the weeks - long demonstrations, 300 Koreans massed before the gate to the causeway linking the island to Inchon. American troops were braced for any attempts to rush the gate.

Army Announces It Will Accept Enlistments Now

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army announced today it will accept immediate enlistments from young men who want to serve six months on active duty and then spend 7½ years in the reserves.

Officials said that the enlistees probably will be called for actual training Oct. 1. The six-month plan is a key part of the nations new reserve program.

The announcement disclosed that the Army plans to train or start training 90,000 young men under 18½ years old by next June 30.

After that, the enlistees will be obligated to serve 7½ years in ready reserves units, engaging in 48 two-hour drills and 15 days annual camp training.

Miles Administrator Of Newly-Created Post

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governor Craig today appointed Louis Miles, Greencastle, to the newly-created post of state wage and salary administrator.

The job pays $8,000 a year. Miles will work under State Budget Director Don Clark.

Clar ksaid Miles will evaluate jobs and salary classifications with a view toward making more effective use of available personnel, eventually, he said, the work should lead to establishment of some sort of state personnel department.

Clark said Miles will evalute help officials present "more realistic salary levels" in the budget prepared for the 1957 Legislature.

Miles has been a personnel consultant for private industry and did similar work for the War Production Board.

Once-Proud Cardinals, Now Bogged Down In 7th Place, Face Worst Finish In 36 Years

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

The once-proud St. Louis Cardinals, now hopelessly bogged down deep in seventh place, face their worst finish in 36 years.

Not since 1919 have the Cardinals wound up as low as seventh but they don't promise to wind up any higher this year the way they are performing now.

Thursday night's 5-3 defeat at the hands of Milwaukee was the 18th setback in the last 27 games for the forlorn Cardinals, who have watched every club in the National League, except Pittsburgh, pass them by. Oddly, it was Branch Rickey, current general manager of the Pirates, who managed the last Cardinal team to finish seventh.

Cardinal owner Gussie Busch has indicated there will be a "major turnover" in the club this winter but opposing hitters are getting in their licks against the present St. Louis pitchers while they can.

Rookie Chuck Tanner and Bill Bruton of the Braves each connected for homers against loser Larry Jackson Thursday night, making a total of 147 home runs — highest in the league — that have been hit off Cardinal hurling this year. Southpaw Warren Spahn went the route for the second time in four days to register his 12th victory. He beat the cards, 12-1, in the opening game of the series Monday.

Redlegs Nip Cubs

Cincinnati regained fifth place by nipping Chicago, 2-1, on a smooth six-hit pitching effort by Art Fowler. The Redlegs put together singles by Gus Bell, Chuck Harmon, Rocky Bridges and Roy McMillan for their runs in the sixth off Paul Minner. Dee Fondy singled home the only Cub run in the eighth.

The league-leading Dodgers, who had lost two games in a row to the Giants, jumped on them for an 8-5 victory despite homers by Whitey Lockman and Sid Gordon. Brooklyn knocked out Jim Hearn with a three-run burst in the opening frame, went ahead 5-0 when Don Hoak slammed a two - run homer in the second inning and then added three more runs with the help of Willie Mays' three base error in the fourth. Reliever Don Bessent was credited with his fifth victory as the Dodgers remained 14 games ahead of the second-place Braves.

The Phillies and Pirates were not scheduled.

Rained out of their scheduled game with the Red Sox, the idle Yankees stayed one game in front in the American League race when the second-place White Sox split a doubleheader with the Athletics.

Chicago Splits With A's

The White Sox went back into first place temporarily when they beat Kansas City, 6-2, in the opener, but then dropped back into second place by losing the nightcap, 5-3. Virgil Trucks of the White Sox pitched two-hit ball over the first five innings of the first game but retired in favor of Dixie Howell shortly after being hit on the right knee by a line drive off the bat of Harry Simpson in the sixth. In the second game, Arnie Portocarrero limited the White Sox to six hits for his fourth victory. Vic Power and Sherm Lollar hit homers.

In the only other game scheduled, the Indians defeated the Tigers, 5-3, to snap a three-game losing streak and climb within three percentage points of the White Sox. Southpaw Herb Score, the major league strikeout leader, fanned 13 batters in increasing his season total to 192. Two errors in the eighth inning helped the Indians rally for four runs.

Little League All-Stars Named, Set Three-Game Schedule

Members of the National League and American League All-Star teams who will play in the three play-off games next week have been announced by Roy Kilby, Little League president.

The American League team is composed of: Dick Egolf, Dick Cearbaugh, Tom King, Don Swoverland, of the Tigers; Larry Smith, Joe Pittinger, Bob Koch, Don Clark, of the Red Sox; Tom Beard, Kent Jackson, John Grant, Jim Johnson, of the Indians; Ronnie Eberhard, Jack Phillips, Ray Steele, Gayle Coy, of the Yankees.

The National League team is composed of: Kent Sherman, Dick Schrader, Dick Dornick, Kenny Smith, of the Dodgers; Willie Tuggle, Jimmy Simms, Denny Cornelius, Sam Lundy, of the Giants; Don Wright, Len Workman, Sunny Pflieger, Charles Bowers, of the Cardinals; Mickie Mishler, John Anar, Tom Bowers, Terry Ulshafer, of the Cubs.

Don Simms will manage the National League All-Stars, and Bill Hurtt will be the manager of the American League team. Other coaches may assist.

The first of the three-game series the two teams will play will be at DeVol Field Monday evening at 6:30. On Wednesday, the teams will meet at South Whitley at 6:30, and the final game will be played at DeVol Field Friday at 6:30, prior to the annula presentation of Little League awards at 8:00 p.m.

Brooklyn Dodgers Ask City Help In Obtaining Site

NEW YORK (UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' plea for city help in obtaining a site for a new baseball stadium was scheduled for discussion today at a meeting between Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Dodger officials.

The meeting was called by Wagner after the Dodgers announced on Wednesday they will play seven of their home games next year in Jersey City — and that they "must have a new stadium" by 1958.

"I am interested in keeping the Dodgers in New York City," said Wagner.

Walter F. O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, declared the Dodgers have 6 million dollars "available" for the purchase of land and construction of a new stadium but have been seeking a suitable site in Brooklyn in vain since 1948. O'Malley's statement carried the implication the Dodgers might move out of Brooklyn entirely unless a site is found soon.

It was believed the Dodgers were seeking help from the city in the form of condemnation of certain property needed for the stadium.

Several sites in the Brooklyn and neighboring Queens area on Long Island have been suggested by various civic leaders. The Dodgers were believed most interested in a site deep in downtown Brooklyn which is served by three subway lines and the Long Island Railroad.

Rocky Adds New Punch To Repertoire

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UP)—According to Manager Al Weill, heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano has added a new punch to his repertoire. "Rocky used a 1-2-3 sequence effectively against Don Cockell," Weill says, but now we plan to have him throw four in a row — a left hook to the jaw, a right under the heart, another left hook to the jaw and finally his susie-que to the jaw."

Moore To Step Up Training

NORTH ADAMS MASS. (UP)—Archie Moore, who called off a scheduled workout and a plane trip to Montreal Thursday because of threatening weather, said he plans to step up his training grind during the weekend. He will box Johnny Jenkins, Clint Bacon, Art McAlpine and "Gorilla" Brown, a new sparmate from San Francisco.

Five Challengers May Be Entered Against Winner Swaps

CHICAGO (UP)—Five challengers were expected to be entered today for a battle against Rex Ellsworth's Swaps, unbeaten as a three-year-old, in Saturday's 45th running of the Washington Park $100,000 added American Derby.

On grass for the first time, the race will be run at a mile and three sixteenths, and should all six horses start will gross $146,425, with a purse of $89,600 forthe winner.

A seventh horse, Calumet Farm's Trentonian, had been regarded as a likely starter until he finished second in a prep race Wednesday.

It will be Swaps' first grass race and the horse has been working out steadily on the grass course under trainer Meschach Tenney. He clipped a fifth of a second off the world record for seven furlongs in one drill last week.

Swaps, winner of $328,950 in seven starts this season, probably will be at least the even money favorite in the early line and was expected to be the odds on favorite at post time for the long duel.

The race will be preparatory too for Swaps for his scheduled match race meeting on the dirt track at Washington Park with Nashua for the three year old championship an da $100,000 winner-take all purse Aug. 31.

There has been no indication from either Tenney or Ellsworth that should Swaps be beaten Saturday he would be withdrawn from the match race and Tenney said that "the horse has trained perfectly for the race."

Rated the most likely challengers to Swaps Saturday were Clifford Moore's Traffic Judge, victor in four of 11 starts this year with earnings of $113,289, and W. L. Ranch's Honeys Alibi, winner of four of 19 starts with earnings of $74,362.

Both Traffic Judge, expected to be ridden by Eddie Arcaro because of a sudden illness to previously assigned Jockey Dave Erb and Honeys Alibi, to be ridden by Don Seurlock, were to carry 119 pounds compared to the top weight o f 126 pounds assigned Swaps. Jockey Willie Shoemaker, running neck and neck with Willie Hartack for riding honors of 1955, was to pilot Swaps.

Hartack too will be in the race, aboard Mrs. Harvey Freuhauf's Parador, slated to carry 113 pounds. Other probable entries were Hasty House Farm's Summer Solstice, 133 pounds and jockey Johnny Adams, and Mrs. Harry L. Nathenson's Ambiguous, also booked for 113 pounds and to be ridden by Steve Brooks.

Outfield Jimmy Piersall Amazed At TV Dramatization

NEWTON, Mass. (UP) — Outfielder Jimmy Piersall of the Boston Red Sox said today he was amazed that a television dramatization of his mental illness was something "that will help me lick manufactured troubles."

"I guess I used to be a professional worrier," Piersall said as he moved around the bedroom of his Newtonville home packing a bag for a road trip with the Red Sox.

"Do I still manufacture troubles?" he asked.

"Let's put it this way. Ive been in the majors four years. This June 1 was hitting .185.

"I started worrying, but I went to Mike (Manager Mike Higgins) and he told me to keep playing just as I had.

"Now I'm batting .277. My point is that everything just seems to work out."

Piersall's "manufactured troubles" was the subject of an hour-long CBS television show Thursday night. It was taken from his book "Fear Strikes Out."

"I hope the 'climax' show helped others with their troubles, real or imagined," the 26-year-old centerfielder said.

"I thought he did a wonderful job," Piersall said of movie star Tab Hunter's portrayal. Mona Freeman played the role of Piersall's 27-year-old wife Mary.

Dr. Duliermo BBrown, the physician who aided Jimmy in his recovery was played by John Conte.

"I couldn't have recovered without his help," Piersall said.

During the show, Piersall sat slouched in an arm chair. He fanned himself with a handkerchief.

"You know, I hit a knuckle ball that day," he said during a scene in the 1953 baseball season, the year he suffered a mental collapse.

He was quiet most of the time. It was a contrast to the "zany" antics which won him so much publicity before his collapse.

During the show, Mary shuttled between the bedroom and the kitchen preparing their eldest daughters, Eileen, 4, and Doreen, 1, for bed. Claire 2 and 9-month-old Jimmy Jr. were asleep.

"I didn't want to watch it" Mary said. She just smiled when asked why.

"Gee, it helped me just as much watching it right now," he said. "I hope it helped others," Jimmy said after the show. He brushed off all further inquiries about his illness with:

"To be able to laugh about it now is really something."

To Examine Conley's Shoulder

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Gene Conley's sore pitching shoulder will be examined today but there appears to be very little chance that the Braves hurler will be able to pitch this year. The huge right hander has been out of the lineup for nearly a month except for a brief appearance.

Trucks Suffers Slight Injury

CHICAGO (UP)—Virgil Trucks, Chicago White Sox pitcher, escaped with only a slight bruise when hit by a line drive just below the knee cap Thursday. Trucks was taken to a hospital for X-rays, which proved negative, and should be able to take his next turn.

Quotes From The News

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif) in a letter to the Weather Bureau objecting to the use of women's names in labeling hurricanes:

"On occasions women may be stirred to fury, but their rages seldom last as long as 'Hazel's' in 1954, or wreak such vengeance. They can be moody and unpredictable, though rarely as determined as 'Connie' last week. While now and then excitable, few of them show the wrathfulness of 'Barbara' in 1953 or 'Edna' last summer."

Robert B. Patterson, executive secretary of the Mississippi Association of Citizens Councils, on a Texas town council which took legal acton toward maintaining segregation in schools:

"These Texans are asserting the police power of the sovereign state of Texas in defense of their school children. We are proud to have Texas with us."

President Carlos Castillo Armas of Guatemala in an address at the opennig of the first general meeting of the Organization of Central American States:

"We must fight daily against it (Communism), closing our ranks and pooling our resources, if we want Central America to remain a land of fret men."

John G. Adams, former Army counsel and a central figure in the 1954 Army-McCarthy hearings, on announcing he nad joined a firm of prominent criminal lawyers:

"Here I'm on my own. If something goes wrong, it's my mistake. I've had experiences in the past, you know, where things have gone wrong that have not been my fault. In government, you are always at the mercy of the behavior of your superior."

Mrs. Leonard Powell of Chicago, who was held hostage with her family for 24 hours by Richard Carpenter, a gunman sought for the killing of one policeman and the wounding of another:

"He was very nice and very polite. I feel sorry for him."

Former Sen. Harry P. Cain's reported description of a reprimand he received from Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams for criticizing the administration's securty program:

"He (Adams) gave me unshirted hell. I tried to explain the merits of my criticism of the security program, but he snorted: 'To hell with the merits. You understand this problem better than I do, but this is a team and you're expected to play on it!"

Former big league star Luke Easter, now playing with Charleston, W.Va., in the minors, on being suspended for allegedly tossing baseballs to kids in the stands:

"I'm always going to talk to kids. I think ballplayers should."

Gov. William C. Stratton of Illinois, proposing that the 1956 Republican convention draft President Eisenhower:

"There is not a Republican who shouldn't be proud of what President Eisenhower has done for each of us and who shouldn't believe that Dwight Eisenhower ought to be drafted by acclamation to be our candidate next year.'

Part Of Bumper Grain Crop Being Dumped On Ground

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)— Part of the Northwest's bumper grain harvest was being dumped on the ground because of a severe shortage of boxcars and storage space.

The situation was particularly acute in North Dakota.

Grain officials and congressmen accused the American Association of Railroads of "hoarding" boxcars in the East and leaving the Northwest without a way to ship its bumper crops to market.

Martin Vaaler, chairman of the North Dakota Public Service Commission, said dumping of grain on the ground in his state was widespread.

Minnesota and South Dakota farmers also have left some grain on the ground, but in South Dakota, the boxcar supply was improving. About 85 per cent of the South Dakota grain had been picked up.

Officials agreed that a booming economy has caused a greater demand for boxcars than ever before. Many country elevators were jampacked with Commodity Credit Corp. grain of previous years. Without boxcars, the elevators can't be emptied to make room for the new crops.

In North Dakota alone, there were nearly 400 "blocked" elevators.

North Dakota Sen. Milton Young at his home in La Moure said he had been working six weeks with the Interstate Commerce Commission in an effort to get more boxcars for his state.

The assistant manager of the Farmers Union Grain Terminal Assn. in St. Paul said the American Association of Railroads ships new boxcars to the East and replaces them in the Northwest with "old broken down swaybacks."

Suggestion Box

ATLANTA (UP)—Pfc. Robert Steres of the Georgia Military District dropped a note in a suggestion box that the word "mimeograrh" on a sign over the mimeograph room be corrected.

A letter notifying him that he would be awarded a pass for his suggestion spelled the word "memeograph."

Patients are admitted to U.S. hospitals at the rate of one every two seconds.

Princess, Townsend Reported Burning Up Telephone Wires

LONDON (UP)—Group Capt. Peter Townsend and the British royal family were reported today to be burning up the telephone wires between Brussels and Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

Townsend is in Brussels currently on leave from his position there as British air attache. Princess Margaret is at Balmoral for her 25th birthday celebration Sunday when she becomes free to marry without the consent of her sister, the Queen.

London's tabloid Daily Sketch, in a dispatch from Brussels, said "crucial messages have passed during the last 48 hours between 41-year-old Group Captain Peter Townsend and the royal family. The messages have been concerned with the decision Princess Margaret is expected to make shortly about her marriage to him."

British newspapers were working themselves into an uproar of "will she, won't she" announce her engagement to Townsend.

Five of London's nine national morning dailies already have speculated on what Margaret will do; all of them said whatever she does it will concern Townsend.

The most uninhibited was the tabloid Daily Mirror which demanded in huge front page type: "Come on Margaret! Please make up your mind!"

The Sketch, in reporting the telephone conversations, said Townsend drove Thursday to the office of British Ambassador Sir Charles Warner after receiving a telephone call and applied for local leave.

"He has started to make arrangements to leave Brussels, perhaps permanently."

London's Daily Herald gave the same report Thursday, but the British Air Ministry said "As far as we know he will go back to his normal duties after a meeting of air attaches in London on Sept. 12."

There was general agreement that Townsend would not attend the Princess's birthday party Sunday at Balmoral but will go to the races at Ostend, Belgium, instead.

Prefers Operas

CHICAGO (UP)—Gunman Richard Carpenter, captured after he killed one policeman and wounded another, today objected to newspaper reports that he is a cowboy movie fan."

He said he prefers operas.

Purdue Names County Students Now Registered

LAFAYETTE, — Six students from Whitley county were among those enrolled for the Fall Semester at Purdue University under the advance registration plan for freshmen during the period from July 18 to Aug. 5, according to an announcement from the registrar's office. They are in addition to those previously announced as registering under this plan in the period from June 13 to July 18.

These freshman students are: Marvin R. Hesting, R 2; Charles E. Jumont, North Line Street; Anthony F. Lefkowicz, R 4; Robert J. Lickey, R 2, and John F. Riecke, R 3, all of Columbia City, and Joan Martin, R 1, South Whitley.

A total of 2,310 of the approximate 3,000 admitted as freshmen for the semester were enrolled under this advance registration program which extended from June 13 to Aug. 5. Under this plan, students came to the campus on the day for which appointment had been made, completed the required placement tests, and worked out a schedule of classes with the aid of advisors in the school or curriculum in which they were enrolling. The remainder of the procedure is processed by mail and these students will be fully registered when they report for the orientation program opening Sept. 18.

Freshmen and other new students not registering in advance will be required to report on the campus Sept. 14 to complete registration procedures prior to the start of the orientation program. Orientation will extend from Sept. 18 to 21 and classes for all students will start Sept. 22.

Whitley county students previously announced as registered under this program are Carl Gebert, R 6, Columbia City; Edmund F. Pollock, R 1, Larwill, and Daniel R. Harshman, State Street, South Whitley.

Officials Reject Suggestion Puerifoy Deaths Foul Play

WASHINGTON (UP) — United States and Thai officials today rejected any suggestion that the deaths of Ambassador John E. Puerifoy and 9-year-old son, Danny, were the result of foul play.

Authorities at the State Department and at the Thai embassy here said a newly-received report on Puerifoy's death on a Thailand highway Aug. 12 showed absolutely no evidence of foul play. They said it is clear that Puerifoy and his son were traffic accident victims. The ambassador and his two sons were riding in a new sports car when it hit a truck on a narrow bridge. One son survived.

Thai Ambassador Pote Sarasin and the State Department had expressed concern over recurring reports that Puerifoy was the victim of a plot.

Herbert Brown, 69, Gary, Dies While Visiting In City

Was A Native Of Columbia Township

Herbert Brown, 69, a native of Columbia township, and a retired superintendent of the billet mill of the Gary Steel Works, died at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Whitley County Hospital. Mr. Brown was visiting with relatives here and was planning to attend the funeral services for his stepmother, Mrs. David M. Brown, this afternoon. He became ill and was taken by ambulance to the local hospital Wednesday evening. A severe coronary heart attack proved fatal.

He was born August 10, 1886, in Columbia township, a son of David M. and Ida Louisa Workman Brown. When a young man he left the farm one mile west of this city and went to Gary where he became an employe of the Steel Mills. He retired in the year 1952 after completing more than forty-two years of service. He was a member of the Chapel of the Dunes Congregational Church, and Gary Lodge 667 F and A M.

June 17, 1911, he was united in marriage to the former Ruth Marie Monroe. At the time of Mr. Brown's death, their home was at 1117 Vanderburg street, in Gary.

The surviving relatives, in addition to his wife, are one son, Dr. Bruce Brown, Gary; two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Milburn, Michigan City and Mrs. Frank Hurst, Elmhurst, Ill.; seven grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. S. J. Leaman, Indianapolis; Mrs. Guilford Gardner, Etna-Troy township; and Mrs. Roy Inks, this city.

The body has been removed to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after 7 o'clock Friday evening. Saturday morning, it will be taken to the Williams-Burns Funeral Home in Gary where services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock with the Rev. Harry Stubbs officiating. Interment will be in the Ridgelawn Cemetery at Gary.

AFT To Contest Dismissal Of School Teachers

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—The AFL American Federation of Teachers said today it will contest the dismissal of three Newark, N.J., school teachers who invoked the Fifth Amendment in a congressional investigation of communism but only if they agree to a "clean bill of health."

The AFT appropriated $1,500 Thursday for the case but then attached two strings which convention officials said in private may be rejected by the teachers.

The federation's executive council first appropriated the fund, then took the issue to the convention floor for the delegates' endorsement.

The delegates wrote in the teachers must select an attorney approved by the AFT executive council and that they must submit an affidavit to the attorney listing, with dates, present and past membership in "any organization whose members are subject to totalitarian control."

James Gallagher Found Guilty By Court Martial

Of Charges He Killed Fellow Prisoners

NEW YORK (UP)—Sgt. James C. Gallagher, 23, was found guilty by an eight-member court-martial today of charges that he killed three fellow American prisoners of war in Korea in 1951, informed on other prisoners and collaborated with his captors.

The Brooklyn soldier faces a maximum sentence of life imprisonment but he would be eligible to apply for parole after serving 10 years.

The verdict was returned at 10:15 a.m. CST after the court had weighed for 4 hours and 44 minutes the evidence presented against the strawberry blond sergeant during the 15 days of his trial here at Ft. Jay on Governors Island.

Gallagher's counsel now may apply for leniency and after hearing witnesses from both sides of this point the court will retire again to fix sentence.

Gallagher was accused of the "unpremeditated" murder of Cpls. John William Jones of Detroit and Donald Thomas Baxter of Waukon, Iowa, and of a third man identified only as "Dunn." He allegedly threw them out of their shelter in the prison camp and the men, ill and unable to walk, froze to death in the sub-zero cold. The Army charged he also hung Dunn from a peg on the wall and beat him.

4-Year-Old Girl Dies From Beating By Stepmother

GARY, Ind. (UP)—A 23-year-old woman confessed Thursday night that she brutally beat her 4-year-old stepdaughter for crying. The child died two days later.

Mrs. Barbara Hineline, Hobart, told Lake County sheriff's deputies and Gary police after she was given a lie-detector test here that she beat with a stick and kicked Marla Hineline, her husband's daughter by a previous marriage, Aug. 10. The child died Aug. 12 in Porter Memorial Hospital, Valparaiso.

Mrs. Hineline had told police earlier that the child received the injuries when she fell from a shed roof. The husband was at work when the beating occurred and had no knowledge of it, authorities said.

Non-Striker's Home Hit By Gun Blast

HAGERSTOWN, Ind. (UP)—A non-striker's home was hit with a shotgun blast and more stonings were reported today in a series of scattered incidents in the third week of a walkout against the Perfect Circle Corp.

Shotgun pellets shattered a window in the home of Albert Wisner near Hagerstown before dawn today. Wisner said he saw a car drive away, but it was too dark for identification.

Three other non-strikers at Hagerstown and New Castle were awakened by the noise of rocks thrown against their homes, and another stoning at the firm's New Castle foundry broke two windows.

CIO United Auto Workers went on strike against the piston ring manufacturing company's four plants July 25 over wage and union shop issues. The strike has been marked by numerous outbreaks of violence.

State Police, local authorities and plant guards continued to patrol plant gates as the firm reported production was on the upswing with the return of more workers each day.

shining over the sodden communities.

Northwestern Connecticut, a network of river valleys, appeared hardest hit by what Gov. Abraham Ribicoff termed a very grave disaster.' The cities of Torrington, Winsted and Bristol were completely cut off from the world with bridge, highway and railroad washouts. Four tenement houses were reported to have collapsed into the swirling waters of the mad river at Winsted.

Ribicoff said an unknown number of deaths had been caused by the floods.

A number of the already flooded Connecticut communities in the Farmington River valley were in peril of their very existence should engineers fail to hold Massachusetts' Otis Reservoir Dam against the burgeoning waters.

12 Inches of Rain

More than 12 inches of rain had fallen in the Massachusetts and Connecticut areas in the last 48 hours and it still was coming down at mid-morning.

Ribicoff attempted to reach the stricken towns by police cruiser this morning. He was forced to abandon the car and hitch-hike back by milk truck, highway truck and another police cruiser to Hartord, whose streets also were awash. The governor said he saw "many people on roof tops awaiting evacuation" and heard the ominous "rumble of boulders rolling down the hillsides."

The New Haven Railroad reported all service cut off between Hartford and Springfield, Mass. Major highways were blocked with landslides and washouts.

The Coast Guard sent helicopters, an amphibious plane, ducks and rescue teams into the flood area.

Army helicopters prepared to evacuate some of the 250 persons aboard a marooned Lackawanna Railroad train near Cresco, Pa., and lift in food for those it was unable to take out. Army trucks reached another marooned train near Tobyhanna, Pa., with food and brought out its more than 50 passengers.

PORT JERVIS, N.Y. (UP) — Operations were underway today by Army and Air Force units to rescue 33 children marooned by flood waters at a summer camp near here.

Stewart Air Force Base, at Newburgh, said the Army had sent four helicopters to the flood-stricken area.

The New York National Guard dispatched two amphibious "ducks" to the scene to aid in rescue operations.

A spokesman at Stewart Air Base said the copters had a capacity of 12, and "probably are bringing the youngsters to higher ground." He said the air base had no further reports on the progress of the rescue. The children were at Jubilee Ranch, a small-fry dude ranch.

Two boats attempting to rescue the youngsters capsized in the raging flood waters of the Neversink River. No one was reported hurt.

Two other camps, upstream on the Neversink, were reported threatened by the flood waters which also forced evacuation of several sections of Port Jervis. The town of about 10,000 persons is located at the junction of the Neversink and the Delaware rivers.

Attlee Recovering

GREAT MISSENDEN, England (UP)—Unofficial sources reported today that Clement Attlee, 72, leader of the British Labor Party, is recovering from a cerebral thrombosis—a bloodclot on the brain.

His wife confirmed the leader of the British Socialist movement has been ill. But neither she nor a spokesman at Labor Party headquarters would comment on the report, published by the London Daily Mirror, that he had suffered "a blood clot on the brain."

Liner Rescues Most Of Crew Aboard Collier

Fire-Crippled Ship Wallows In Gale

WICK, Scotland (UP)—The swedish luxury liner Kungsholm, racing 65 miles off course, today rescued most of the 34 crewmen of a fire-crippled British collier wallowing in a gale off Iceland.

The 22,000-ton liner took off all aboard the collier Argobeam with the exception of skipper George Watson and a skeleton crew, radio reports said.

The 7,133-ton collier caught fire and sent out a disitress call before dawn today. The Argobeam's crew flooded the ships engine room to smother the fire.

The Swedish liner swung off course and raced to the fire-scorched ship which was drifting and wallowing helplessly south of Iceland and about 300 miles west of the Outer Hebrides.

The ship's cargo consisted of 9,500 tons of coal it had picked up in Hampton Roads, Va.

Two Neptune bombers from the British coastal command rushed to the area and circled the storm-tossed ship, while two British sea-going tugs sailed from Scotland to aid her.

The Kungsholm arrived about mid-day, one of the Neptune bombers radioed to the Air Ministry in London. The liner immediately took off the bulk of the collier's crew, the reports said.

Watson and his crew were trying to keep the ship afloat until the sea-going tugs arrived. If they abandon the collier it can be claimed for salvage.

However, without power, the skipper was unable to maneuver the ship to the wind to ride out the North Atlantic gale.

The Kungsholm was reported attempting to put a line aboard the collier to help Watson control the vessel.

Ag Department Says Build-Up In Wheat To Slow Down

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Agriculture Department predicted today the build-up in wheat surplus will be "materially slowed down" by the start of the July 1, 1956, marketing year, and may level off a year later.

The department stated its views in the 1956 outlook issue of "The Wheat Situation." Its predictions were based on results of acreage allotments and marketing quotas.

Production was reduced from 970 million bushels in 1954 to an estimated 911 million bushels in 1955. The department said production "might be reduced further" in 1956, possibly to a crop of 860 milliion bushels.

A crop of this size in the 1956-57 marketing year would be smaller than estimated domestic and foreign needs by about 20 million bushels. This would be the first, even small, reduction in this nation's huge surplus of wheat built up through lush production in post-war years.

Wheat supplies for the year beginning July 1, 1955, were estimated at 1,935,000,000 bushels the largest on record. Stocks of old wheat on July 1 were 1020,000,000 bushels and the crop was estimated as of Aug. 1 at 911 million bushels. Imports are expected to be about four million bushels.

Estimated domestic consumption of 68 million bushels and estimated exports of 273 million bushels would leave a carryover as of July 1 1956, of 1,055,000,000 bushels, which would be a new record and 3 per cent above the July 1 1955 carryover.

The department hopes that lower price supports and an acreage allotment of 55 million acres will induce growers to limit the total crop in 1956 to 860 million bushels. The government price props fell from $2.24 a bushel in 1954 to $2.08 in 1955. There was a relative fall in production. The 1956 support rate has been set at $1.81 a bushel or 76 per cent of parity, and may bring another production decline.

Budget

$3,246,370; Union $3,194,020; and Washington $3,431,250.

The need for additional funds in the 1956 budget is reflected in the $15,000 and $5000 ear-marked respectively for new steam heating plant at the Court House and County Jail; at least $10,000 to cover the cost of the increase in salaries and per diem pay for county officials and employes last April; and addition of $4,000 in the amount asked for to cover additional appropriations required in 1955; and an added $9,000 in the amount requested for an operating balance from January 1 to June 30, 1956, before revenue begins to come in.

Other major expenses anticipated by the county include $241,000 for county highway maintenance, which includes $8,000 appropriated for marking of county roads; and $109,954.50 for salaries of county employes.

The budget must be approved by the County Council, the County Tax Adjustment Board, and the State Board of Tax Commissioners before it becomes final.

Military Plane Crashes And Burns

HAWTHORNE, Nev. (UP)—The sheriff's office said today that a "large" military airplane had crashed and burned near the top of a low mountain peak 13 miles northeast of here and that at least four bodies had been found.

Sheriff George Jensen said there were conflicting reports whether the plane, believed to be an Air Force craft, was twin-engined or four-engined.

3. No action to suspend or revoke Cutter's license to make Salk shots is recommended.

4. No evidence was found to support the theory, which had been advanced as a possibility, that the suspect Cutter lots accidentally became contaminated by live virus during the bottling process after they had passed their regular tests.

Bottled In Same Building

These sources said a draft of the report mentions "in passing" that Cutter bottled its vaccine in the same building in which it grew the live polio virus used in the shots.

The industry experts said, however, that it is not believed this could have caused the kind of contamination that would trigger a large-scale polio outbreak.

For one thing, they said, Cutter's virus culture and other processes were conducted in separate, segregated rooms. In addition, the experts figure Cutter employes would have contracted polio if the air had been filled with heavy concentrations of live virus.

However, informed sources said one manufacturer noted that his vaccine failed to pass its final safety tests somewhat more often when it was made in one building than when various operations were performed in separate buildings.

HUGE STATUE OF CHRIST IS PLANNED—Biggest statue in the world, depicting Christ the Redeemer, is being planned at Rocca Di Papa, Italy. Looking over the first test model of the project is sculptor Vincenzo Torre. The hollow bronze statue's interior will contain rooms and galleries with religious works of art. The uplifted arm and hand will hold a church accommodating 600 worshippers. The cross will have observation galleries overlooking Italy and the Mediterranean. An elevator will carry visitors to the various sections. The statue will be 328 feet high and will rest on a 138-foot-high base, as compared to the Statue of Liberty, which is 151 feet high and has a 154-foot-high base.

Open Rebellion Against France Threatens Riot-Torn Protectorate

CASABLACNA, Morocco (UP)—Open rebellion against France threatened this riot-torn protectorate today. Heavily armed French paratroops and Foreign Legionnaires stood by to crush the first sign of insurrection.

Today was the second anniversary of the French ouster of Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef and his fanatical followers have threatened to mark it in blood. Already riots since Wednesday have claimed 23 lives.

Resident General Gilbert Grandval flew back from Paris this morning with a new emergency plan to avert the threatened riots, but the country was trigger tense. It was Frances worst crisis in the protectorate dotted with five U.S. strategic air bases.

The hope for peace rested on an appeal by Premier Edgar Faure to the native leaders of Morocco to meet early next week at Nice and try to write an answer to the perplexing problems of French empire and Arab demands for independence.

The unrest and violence have seethed through Morocco, as big as California, since Aug. 20, 1953 when Ben Youssef was bundled into a DC3 and flown to exile in Madagascar. Hundreds died violently; bombings and murders have been every day occurrences.

County Tractor Contest Entries Win At District

Nierman, Pettigrew Advance To State Fair

Whitley county won two second places in the district 4-H tractor driving contest at the Bluffton 4-H Park in Bluffton Friday afternoon.

The first and second place winners in the county contest here were eligible to compete in the district event, and Wayne Nierman won second in the senior division and Bill Pettigrew won second in the junior division.

Wayne scored 158 points out of a possible 165 to receive second place honors and elgibility to compete at the State Fair. Bill scored 138 points from a possible 165 and finished in the runner up spot in the junior division. He will also compete in the contest at the State Fair, to be held September 3.

Earl Nierman, brother of Wayne who placed first in the county contest, placed 10th in the senior division, and Lynn Waterson, who was second in the Whitley county junior division contest, placed eight at the district.

Harold Buckenmeyer, county 4-H leader, announced this morning that the two county boys who won the right to compete at the State Fair will give a tractor driving demonstration on Saturday morning at the Whitley County 4-H Fair. The driving demonstration will immediately follow the 4-H parade.

Wayne Nierman is the son of Joshua Nierman, Union township, and Bill Pettigrew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettigrew, also of Union township.

AFL-AFT Votes For Removal Of Race Reference

From Constitutions Of Local Unions

FORT WAYNE (UP)—The AFL American Federation of Teachers voted Friday to order the removal of any reference to race from the constitutions of local unions by next June 1.

The AFT ended its 38th annual convention by adopting the report of its committee on democratic human relations. The report suggested removal of racial references such as one at Birmingham, Ala., which limits membership to "white teachers."

Convention delegates also voted to conduct a survey among locals to determine how desegregation is progressing in the schools.

After the convention ended late Friday afternoon, the AFT's executive council adopted a resolution calling for a probationary period of not more than three years for the nation's new teachers.

The council proposed the plan as part of new tenure laws it said the states should enact.

Under the plan, teachers would get a permanent contract after the probationary period and could not

Indiana Highway Department Like A Lot Of Hoosiers Lives From Paycheck To Paycheck

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana Highway Department, like a lot of Hoosier families, lives from paycheck to paycheck.

As a result, Chairman Virgil Smith said today, the department must shape its bridge and road plans on a day-by-day basis and cannot map a program for even a year ahead.

Smith made the statement in response to an inquiry by United Press in behalf of numerous newspapers asking specific information about highway plans for their areas.

The department supposedly will have $60,765,000 in state monies to spend during the current fiscal year and $63,765,000 in the 1956-57 year, but those are merely legislative estimates. The total could increase or decrease depending on gasoline tax revenues and other such fees.

The same holds true for federal highway funds available to Indiana. They could vary extensively depending on dozens of "red tape" factors.

Bypasses Ruled Out

So the highway construction picture could change overnight. Here's how it looks as of now:

1. Smith's department plans to spend 28 million dollars on new highway and bridge construction during the 1955-56 year, 7½ million on right-of-way, 14 million on maintenance, 9 million on equipment and the remainder on administrative costs.

2. There is some sentiment to increase the maintenance allotment somewhat.

3. No work is contemplated on roads in the federal interstate highway system pending congressional action on President Eisenhower's highway proposals.

The latter decision rules out the possibility, for example, of work on a proposed Huntington bypass such interstate road projects would

John L. Lewis Wins Raise For Workers

$2-A-Day For Soft Coal Miners

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—John L. Lewis has won a hefty $2-a-day pay hike for his soft coal miners in a secret agreement with Northern coal producers, informed sources said today.

These sources said the agreement was reached between Lewis and top-level officials of the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn. which bargains for the major segment of the soft coal industry, including the so-called "captive" mines owned by the big steel companies. Officials of both sides, however, refused to comment on the report.

Informed sources said Lewis might be expected in the near future to serve a similar pay increase demand on the Southern Coal Operators Assn., which bargains for most Southern coal producers.

The sources said the new agreement provides for a $1.20-per-day increase on Sept. 1 and another 80 cents on April 1, 1956, boosting the UMW basic wage to $20.25 a day. The agreement, they said, also provides other contract improvements.

The increase would mean a spectacular comeback on the wage front for Lewis and his United Mine Workers. Their last wage increase was in 1952 — $1.90 — but their pay still ranks with wage rates in the auto and steel industries.

The $1.20 increase alone would be the equivalent of the 15-cent hourly pay increase won by the CIO Steelworkers in a pace - setting settlement last July 1.

The agreement also was said to call for improved vacation pay and for overtime pay for Saturday work and double time pay for Sunday work. It was said to run to Aug. 31, 1956.

Same Strategy

The sources said Lewis apparently is using the same strategy he succeeded with in 1951. That year, he also secretly negotiated an agreement with the Northern producers and then used it to get Southern producers to fall in line.

The UMW contract has been subject to re-opening since Aug. 1, 1953. But neither side made any public move to do so. Lewis "sat out" the round of wage increases in 1953 and 1954, apparently because of the coal industry depression.

But soft coal production has picked up this year, particularly in the captive mines which feed the nation's steel mills. In the first 7½ months of this year, total production was 21 per cent above that for the same period last year.

Coal industry officials have maintained, however, that prospective production for the whole of 1955 still will not be high enough to put the industry back into a "sound" financial condition.

Kefauver Attacks Conduct Code Of War Prisoners

Says GOP Criticism Of Korean War Influenced Conduct

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today that Republican criticism of the Korean War "undoubtedly" influenced the conduct of American prisoners who are now called turncoats.

The Tennessee Democrat made his charge in an attack on the new prisoner of war conduct code issued this week by President Eisenhower. Kefauver said the code was fine for "club conditions" but questioned its value to a cold, hungry, suffering man facing enemy interrogators.

Kefauver released a letter to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, saying that he was not satisfied by the long report of the secretary's advisory commission on prisoners of war which set up the conduct code. He urged Wilson to undertake "a more thorough study."

Kefauver said all American servicemen should already have been drilled in the principles of the code.

"But what I would like to know," he wrote, "is whether we as a nation are playing square with some of the boys...from rural communities who had never left home before, who had but a few years of education, who are now labeled 'turncoats,' tried and given very little chance to resume the life of an American citizen.

"These young boys before they left undoubtedly had heard some of the highly publicized and political criticism of the fight in which they were engaged — such phrases as 'useless war' and 'Truman's war,' many of them uttered right here on the floor of the Senate a ndby men who are now in highly important positions in the government from whence the new booklet emanates," Kefauver said.

Former County Boy Has Reserve Champ Steer At Huntington

A former Whitley county boy and an Angus steer raised in Whitley county won reserve grand champion honors at the Huntington Coundy 4-H Fair.

Stevie Beard, 13-year-old son of Mr. and M.rs. Furlow Beard, received 40 cents per pound for his reserve grand champion steer at the fair auction in Huntington Thursday afternoon. The grand champion steer, a Hereford, sold for 70 cents per pound.

Stevie, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Amon Beard of Larwill purchased his prize winning steer from George Fahl, Thorncreek township. The Beards lived near Wilson lake before moving to Huntington county.

Mrs. Barsh Wins Mattress Through A Limerick Contest

A winning limerick has made Mrs. M. Barsh, 305 N. Walnut Street eligible for three grand prize awards in the $400,000 Sealy Posturepedic Contest, Sealy, Inc. of Chicago announced today. The winner, who entered through H. J Schrader Company, receives a Sealy Posturepedic Mattress, and contest officials will now consider the entry for one of the three grand national awards.

Mental Health Fund Campaign Starts Monday

Women's Groups Will Make Solicitation

Mrs. Charles Guse, treasurer of the Indiana Association for Mental Health drive in Whitley county reported today that advance donations of $259 have been received from various organization and business firms.

The county campaign will begin officially on Monday, and during that week workers will conduct a house-to-house solicitation for this worthy project. Women from the Eagles Auxiliary, Ladies of the Moose, members of Philomathian will assist the Delta Theta Tau Sorority in soliciting campaign funds.

Members of the Tri Kappa chapters made individual donations at their meeting and provided the solicitation chairman, Mrs. James Rohrbach with the addresses, so that 80 homes could be eliminated from the calling list.

Mrs. Robert Sharpe, county campaign chairman, said today, "We want the people of this county to know that at the close of the campaign a permanent committee will be organized here. All persons contributing $1.00 or more will be extended an invitation to become a member of the Whitley county organization. In this way we will get a group of people who are fundamentally interested in the Mental health program and assist in extending its activities here. Organizations contributing to the fund will also have the privilege of having a representative in the permanent county chapter."

The women who call at your homes next week for contributions will be happy to answer your questions on the mental health program.

It is the purpose of this drive to not only raise funds but to make the people of Whitley county conscious of the mental health problem.

Ed Durfey Reports Car Taken Some Time Thursday Night

Ed Durfey, R 6, operator of the Shell Service Station at Ellsworth and Main street, reported to city police Friday that his car was taken some time Thursday night from a parking space near the station.

Durfey said that he parked the car in the 100 block of Ellsworth about 6 p.m. Thursday when he started work. He reported the car missing when he found it gone Friday morning.

The owner of the car told city police that he at first thought an acquaintance had borrowed it. The man said that he had not taken the car, however, when Durfey saw him at the station later in the day Friday.

The car is described as a 1937 model Chevrolet, two door style. City police have turned in a missing vehicle report on the car to Indiana State Police.

The Thomas R. Marshall Toastmasters Club will hold its second ladies night meeting beginning at 6:15 p.m. Monday at Moose Lodge.

Members plan a Toastmasters program with four speakers and four "unsympathetic" evaluators.

The toastmaster for the session will be Bob France, topicmaster, Keith Dowell; general evaluator, Milt Schubert; and speakers Woody Jones, Bill Bir, Bill Meyer, Carence Gall, and alternate Karl Toon.

Chicago Police Quiz Cop-Killer On OtherMurders

Trying To Clear Up Three Tavern Slayings

CHICAGO (UP)—Police tried today to pin three more murders on a confessed cop-killer who was captured in Chicago's biggest man hunt since the days of John Dillinger.

They said Richard Carpenter, 26 would be questioned about three unsolved tavern slayings.

Carpenter, who has also admitted wounding a second policeman, was flushed Thursday night by police bullets and tear gas from an apartment where he had held a family of four hostage nearly 24 hours.

The once-cocky gunman, originally sought for a string of tavern robberies, at first denied the police shootings and "begged like a baby" not to be shot by grim officers.

But he broke down under hours of grilling and confessed killing Det. William Murphy, 34, on a subway platform Monday night, and severely wounding rookie officer Clarence Kerr, 26, in a movie theatre gun duel Wednesday night.

Both had recognized the deadly "lone wolf" gunman and tried to arrest him.

Meanwhile, an inquest was scheduled for Monday into Murphy's slaying, and State's Attorney John Gutknecht said the Grand Jury would be given the case when it convenes Aug. 31.

He was ordered held to the Grand Jury on $100,000 bond.

Carpenter denied being involved in any other shootings. When a 15-page statement of his confession of the police shooting was drawn up and handed to him to sign, he refused, saying he wanted the advice of an attorney first.

Later, one of his attorney's, James P. O'Malley, indicated the desperado will base his defense on "police brutality.'

"I am convinced that many of the remarks and admissions that our client made were for the sole purpose of forestalling any more physical mistreatment, "O'Malley said.

At Least 68 Dead In Two States; Damage Is Estimated In Billions

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Swirling waters of Pennsylvania's worst flood barrelled toward Philadelphia, leaving behind a heavy death toll and damage estimated in the millions.

At least 35 persons were known dead and an undetermined number were missing and presumed dead. A state of emergency was declared in eastern Pennsylvania.

The flood crest, spawned by the rejuvenated Hurricane Diane, rolled along the winding Delaware River as residents in the path of the swollen waters braced for the worst. Routed families, carrying what possessions they could, scurried for high ground as the record crest approached.

There was widespread fear that between 29 to 40 persons were swept to their deaths when the Broadhead Creek inundated Camp David at Anoloming, near Stroudsburg.

State Police at Stroudsburg said the only road leading to the camp was impassable. They said they received a report from the Rev. Percy Crawford, who had been holding a Bible conference south of the camp, that all three structures at the site were washed away.

Clean-Up Campaign Starts

Behind the death-dealing surge, the arduous "clean up" began in scores of stricken communities as waters receded. State, local and National Guard units worked around the clock to put things right and continue the search for the missing.

Gov. George M. Leader declared a state of emergency after a tour of the area Friday night and appealed to President Eisienhower for federal assistance. The Small Business Administration in Washington anticipated the situation and lsted eght Pennsylvania countes as disaster areas.

The counties, in which residents may apply for emergency federal loans to repair damaged homes or businesses, were: Schuylkill, Monroe, Wayne, Lackawanna, Luzerne Bucks Lehigh and Northampton.

Suffers Most Damage

East Stroudsburg nestled in the Pocono Mountain resort area, suffered the worst loss in both life and property. Twelve bodies were recovered when rescuers finally reached the stricken town, which was cut off when a main bridge

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—Flood waters fed by a record rainfall of nearly 14 inches swept over much of Connecticut today, taking at least 33 lives. Another 17 persons were reported missing.

Damage was estimated in the billions and thousands were homeless.

Most seriously struck were the areas of Winsted, Waterbury, Torrington and Naugatuck.

The work of rehabilitation and health preservation swung into action before dawn and checks were being made of public water supplies.

Health officials advised everyone in flood-affected areas to "boil everything that can be boiled, destroy all material not worth salvaging."

Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff's emergency headquarters, at the State Armoy, compiled its list of the dead and missing from accounts of nearly 40 helicopter pilots who worked all day Friday rescuing hundreds from housetops trees and floating debris.

Waterbury Hard Hit

One of the hardest hit communities was the city of Waterbury where damage was estimated at 150 million dollars. Several big brass plants stood in 15 feet of water. The center of the city was partly inundated Friday night but the water was running off rapidly.

The business center of Winsted was badly damaged and several large tenements, evacuated in time, fell into the raging river.

Small buildings swept through the streets of Torrington, where an emergency was declared before the floods hit other areas of the state.

Naugatuck, the rubber city, suffered heavy damage and reported 10 deaths.

Most of the stricken cities were cut off by failure of communications.

Fire And Explosion

The city of Putnam reported its business center was badly damaged by a fire and explosions in a magnesium plant. Up to early today explosions continued to rock the town. Mayor John Dempsey said the area was "badly damaged." National Guard engineers moved into the city to throw up temporary bridge over the Quinebaug and French rivers.

Civil Defense workers at Danielson kept an anxious watch for two loaded 2,000-gallon gasoline tanks floating in Quinebaug River.

Only one road was open in Willimantic, and only one bridge was usable.

The lush Farmington River Valley was in shambles. Many homes were wrecked and seven of the deaths were reported in Farmington, four of them caused by a capsized rescue boat.

The Connecticut River, which posed no serious threat, continued to rise with a crest expected late today.

The Red Cross set up disaster headquarters in Hartford, to service Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Huntington Woman Crawls Beneath Train; Is Killed

HUNTINGTON, Ind. (UP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Brooking, 70, was crushed to death beneath the wheels of a freight train Friday as she tried to crawl beneath it.

Authorities said she was returning from a grocery and tried to crawl beneath one of the cars to reach her nearby home while the Wabash Railroad train was stopped. The train started before she reached the other side.

Strauss Will Give Eisenhower First-Hand Report Of The Atoms-For-Peace Conference

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press Staff Correspondent

FRASER, Colo. (UP) — The White House announced today that Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission will fly to Denver Monday to give President Eisenhower an immediate first-hand report on the Atoms-For-Peace conference ending today in Geneva.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Strauss will fly back East with the President Tuesday, which gives the two an opportunity for a five-hour private conference en route.

It also was disclosed that the President will confer with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles about general world affairs as soon as he reaches the White House Monday afternoon.

To Fly To Philadelphia

Mr. Eisenhower will spend Tuesday night at the White House and fly to Philadelphia Wednesday for a lunch speech to the American Bar Assn. He will return to Washington immediately afterward and be joined there by Mrs. Eisenhower for the return flight to Denver late that day.

Hagerty said Winthrop Aldrich, U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, will fly back to Denver with the President to report on his post.

Aldrich will remain in Denver for a day or so.

Hagerty said Strauss will arrive in Denver Monday afternoon but may not see the President until Tuesday morning, when the presidential plane will take off for the flight to Washington. The Chief Executive expects to reach Washington around 5 p.m. EDT, and see Dulles immediatey afterward.

Mr. Eisenhower winds up his five-day fishing sojourn at the Byers Peak Ranch of Aksel Nielsen

Junior Gives Dad A Baseball Lesson

LONG BEACH, Calf, (UP) — Junior gave the old man a lesson in baseball in a game between the small fry members of a little league team and their fathers.

The little leaguers, all 12 years old or under, walloped their dads 32-4. The fathers, who made 18 errors, had to pay off with malted milks.

Behind Every Star Is A Writer Who Helped Him Succeed

By HARRY WINKLER
Written for United Press

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—On July 12, 1954, I was a production planner at an automobile factory in Berkeley, Calif. I had been a political science major at the University of Chicago and the only professional job of writing I had held down was briefly for an encyclopedia company.

On July 13, 1954, I was writing for the George Gobel television show.

I had an office at the glamourous pastel blue NBC building in Hollywood, I could get a table at the Brown Derby, I was part of the fast-moving world of show business.

People often ask how I came to make this abrupt and unusual switch.

In the winter of 1948 I was studying political science for a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago under GI bill following my release from the Army. I had decided to specialize in international relations with a view towards either teaching or entering government service. I had graduated from the university in 1937 and had wandered through various jobs such as a factory helper.

One evening I was lured to Helsings Lounge in Chicago by my brother-in-law, Edward Finkelberg, who somehow had the notion that I could write for the comedian entertaining there. The comedian was George Gobel, and his performance overwhelmed me.

I remember the first story he told was the "hub cap" routine. It impressed me as a gem in the best tradition of American humor. My brother-in-law introduced me to George as a prospective writer, and George, with his usual gentle tolerance, encouraged me to submit my works.

Between my studies, I began to write humorous bits for George.

My knowledge of this kind of writing was less than elementary and my first efforts showed as much. After a few months I finally turned out a story George liked. He encouraged me to travel with him whenever he had club dates in Chicago. After a while I got to learn his routines and, more important, his approach to humor.

I stayed with my college work until 1951 but my dubious enthusiasm for the academic world had diminished. My wife and I migrated to Berkeley where I worked first as an order service supervisor at a cable corporation. I continued to submit material to George. When he appeared on the Saturday Night Review in 1952 on NBC, I was gratified that several of the monologues he did were written by me.

In July of 1954 David O'Malley, George's manager, invited me to move to Los Angeles to work on material for the forthcoming Gobel TV show. I have been here since. Some day, between shows, I may yet write my doctoral thesis for the University of Chicago. Proposed subject: "George Gobel looks at the fiscal structure of Iran."

Butler Expands Athletic Program With Grants In Aid

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Butler the largest of Indiana's smaller colleges and universities, is expanding its athletic program with grants in aid in an effort to regain some "pre-war" prestige.

But don't expect any miracles, atheletic director Paul D. (Tony) Hinkle said today.

The university is making available 36 athletic scholarships as a first step to help "streamline" Hinkle's program and bring the school a winner. However, spread over a period of four years and several sports, the grants can't go far.

"It's something to help us," said Hinkle, "and ought to give us the type of student who stays in. What we need are some junior and senior teams."

28 Football Holdovers

"We need boys in the upper half of the classes," he explained. "Right now we must depend too much on freshmen and sophomores.'

The freshman rule is okay this year but won't work in 1956 when first-year students will not be able to participate in Indiana Collegiate Conference sports.

What about this fall in football?

It's too early to tell, said Hinkle, who expects 28 holdovers among the candidates from last year's team tnat won four games, lost four and tied another.

If they all check in Sept. 1, Hinkle shouldn't be in too bad a shape, but he has a few problems.

"We've got to get a passer and reinforcements in the line," he said. "We weren't very deep last year.'

"In basketball we need some height. Our needs are fundamental."

Hinkle, recognized as one of the nation's outstanding basketball mentors, hopes the new program will divert some good prospects who prefer to stay close to home away from larger "name" schools.

Butler, at one time, more than held its own in big-time basketball and school officials are convinced an attractive all-round program will restore the Fairview campus to prominence in other sports as well.

Soil Moisture Shortage On Half Of State's Farms

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —A soil moisture shortage still exists in half the farming areas of Indiana,

M.M. Justin, agricultural statisa weekly crop report showed today. tician at Purdue University, reported for the week ending Aug. 13 that "half the reports show soil moisture short, 48 per cent ample and two per cent surplus."

The week was spent baling straw and hay and cleaning fence rows, Justin reported, as weather conditions allowed farmers to be outdoors nearly full time.

"Pastures are holding up well," the report said. "Corn is 88 per cent silked with 47 per cent in roasting ear or harder, including 26 per cent in dough stage. Pods are setting on 72 per cent of soybeans. About 25 per cent of peaches have been picked and 46 per cent of tomato fields have been picked once."

Edward Abdicated In 1936; Margaret Was 6, Peter Was 22

By MARGARET SAVILLE
United Press Palace Reporter

LONDON (UP)—On the night in 1936 when Edward VIII abdicated for love and Peter Townsend was a 22-year-old flight lieutenant, a 6-year-old girl was told her daddy was becoming king and that she would live in Buckingham Palace.

"What!" exclaimed the little girl. "Forever?"

So she became the Princess Margaret and on Sunday she turns 25, the age at which she no longer needs the Queen's consent to marry.

The world is waiting to see if she will forsake that golden cage of "forever" and renounce her royal rights by marrying Group Capt. Townsend.

Townsend is a commoner. He is also a divorced man. That prevents Queen Elizabeth II from approving such a marriage because the church she heads disapproves. But after Sunday Margaret commands her own destiny.

It would cost Margaret roughly $42,000 a year income if she chooses to marry Townsend whose salary in the Air Force now approximates $80 a week. But Margaret has private wealth and the newlyweds would not want.

Damage To Monarchy

It would also force her to renounce her rights of succession to the torone (behind Elizabeth's children, Charles and Anne). But she clearly has no wish ever to be sovereign.

If she is pondering marriage to Townsend, she must be reckoning the cost more in terms of the damage it might do the British monarchy and the pain it might bring her sister, the Queen.

But is she in love with Townsend? And he with her?

So far as the public knows they have not even seen one another in the two years since Townsend was hastily whisked off to the post of air attache at Brussels while Margaret was visiting Central Africa.

There is no question that she once was deeply infatuated with the handsome and debonair hero of the Battle of Britain. He became equerry to the late King George VI when Margaret was 14 and by 1953, after he divorced his wife, they were constantly together.

And so the gossip began, breaking first in the American press as had the story of Edward's romance with Wallis Warfield Simpson. This time the royal family moved in quickly. Townsend was "exiled" to Belgium.

The violet - eyed princess has come a long way from the awkward teenager who had difficulty managing her spike-heeled shoes. Her dresses then were far too elaborate and frilly and she applied makeup so freely that her father once told her: "You look as if you had been at the jampot."

Today Margaret is a poised, confident woman. She has a deep, soft laugh, eats very lightly, smokes cigarets in a long ivory holder, wears her hair in the Italian boy cut. Her clothes are simple and smart,

And come Sunday, when she observes her birthday at Balmoral Castle in Scotland, she is her own woman.

30 Traffic Deaths Added To Indiana Records Last Week

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Thirty traffic deaths were added to the 1955 records last week in Indiana to boost the total for the year to 631.

The 631 deaths compare with 620 for the same period in 1954.

Indiana State Police provisional figures showed today that the deaths were increased at the rate of more than four a day during the seven-day period ending Sunday midnight. The toll was hiked by two multiple-fatality wrecks, one at Seymour killing five persons and one near Markle killing four.

The 30 deaths in a week were twice as many as the 15 killed in the corresponding week of 1954.

During the past week, State Police issued figures showing the toll for the first six months of 1955 was 497 compared with 487 for the same period last year.

That means 134 deaths were recorded between July 1 and Aug. 13 ,compared with 133 for the same period last year.

Two Bathrooms In Every Middle Class U. S. Home

By ALFRED LEECH
Unite dPress Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP)—Two bathrooms in every home is becoming the standard for middle class America, a study shows.

The survey was made by Commercial Discount Corp., which has an interest in bathroom data because it provides financing for plumbing supply companies.

Sidney Feuchtwanger, Commercial Discount president, said the two-bathroom concept jibes with the trend toward two cars and two TV sets per family.

"More parents are deciding they want a private bath," he said.

The survey is based on reports from 26 plumbing equipment manufacturers in Massachusetts, New York, Maryland, Ohio and Illinois.

More Frills Now

Their business this year is running about 30 per cent above 1954. when their sales totaled 101 million dollars.

From 1948 to 1953, Feuchtwanger said, new houses had few frills. Most postwar housing went to shelter young married copules who had to scrimp on the non-essentials.

Houses built in those years were smaller and far less plush than those built in pre-World War II years.

For example, in 1940, 20 per cent of all new houses had two or more baths. But in 1950 only 8 per cent had more than one bath.

But in 1954, the plumbing supply people reported, the trend toward two baths resumed in eanrest.

This fact, if it needs proof, can be established from the reports of large, speculative builders, who comprise only 19 per-cent of the trade but who last year put up 78 per cent of the nation's new homes.

More Floor Space

Reports from these mass-volume builders indicate that 22 per cent of the new houses going up have at least 1½ baths, and 12 per cent have 2 baths.

The trend goes hand-in-hand with the rising popularity of the split-level house, which provides more floor space without the prerequisite of a large lot.

The average 1950 house had about 900 square feet of floor space, the figures show. But this year's average will run closer to 1,100 square feet.

The average house is still a ranch type without basement, despite the split-level trend, but is has 3 bedrooms, 1½ to 2 baths, a combination living-dining room and a large kitchen.

If the house is a bit above average ,it may have a den or TV room.

"The study shows," Feuchtwanger said, "that the trend is toward more living space and greater luxury."

Newsmen Get Look At The President's Vacation Retreat

FRASER, Colo. (UP) — The White House today granted newsmen their first close look of the year at President Eisenhower's modernized mountain vacation retreat and a chance to see him in action with his 7-year-old grandson David.

The President had not left the spacious Byers Peak Ranch of Aksel Nielsen, Denver banker and an old friend, since he arrived by automobile from Denver Tuesday and was joined by David.

Newsmen have been barred from the ranch although they have been able to glimpse the President fishing in his favorite trout stream and to watch David at a distance riding horseback and trying his hand at fly-casting in a stocked trout pond.

The reporters were hoping for a chance to see Mr. Eisenhower and his grandson fishing together for the first time since they arrived.

On their first two days, the President fished only with Nielsen. David, aided by Secret Service men and some of the White House staff, pulled two small trout out of the stocked pond on his first try Wednesday. But he was left behind when granddad headed for the sportier creek.

Both the President and his grandson turned in early as usual Thursday night after a busy day in the sunny mountain air.

Besides his painting, fishing and pistol firing, the President spent some time at his desk with work sent up from the summer White House headquarters at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

On Edge

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Raymond R. Lashley, 33, had about 200 spectators on edge Wednesday night. He was "on edge," too, but didn't know it.

The Carrollton, Ohio, truck driver was espied asleep on a narrow window ledge on the fourth floor of the Woodbine Hotel. While he dozed peacefully, police summoned firemen who spread a rescue net below the window.

Then a hotel employe climbed through the transom of Lashley's room and pulled him back.

Lashley said he did not know how he got there.

Phone Rings At One Of The Better Business Bureaus, Another Hoosier Has Been 'Taken'

By SAM NEWLUND

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—When the phone rings at any of Indiana's Better Business Bureaus, it usually means another Hoosier has been "taken" by the fast buck boys.

Some bureaus, like the one in Indianapolis, get so many complaints some victims say they get nothing but the busy signal when they call.

But by that time it's usually too late. Dwight Sherburne, general manager of the Indianapolis, BBB, said most persons don't call until some shady "business" has already made them victims of "misrepresentation."

There are thousands of fast buck schemes which cause the BBB to frown because of questionable advertising and poor ethics. For $20, for example, you could get a "quick cure" for arthritis.

Sherburne said the ads promised "you didn't have to suffer any more." But the "cure" was nothing but a "vegetable and seed concoction" which apparently had 'no medicinal value of any kind."

A Charity Scheme

Then there are "charity" solicitations. Suppose a child calls at your door trying to sell a religious picture for 50 cents. She says 40 cents goes to an "orphanage," and she keeps a dime.

When the BBB investigated that scheme recently it could neither locate the adults who put the youngsters to work nor verify the existence of the "orphanage."

Or maybe a man offers to spray your diseased elm trees for $10. He gives a fake Terre Haute address as his place of business, along with false references. Even if your trees don't turn brown and die, it's a cinch the spray was useless.

Don't be taken in by "no money down" claims when buying a car. This usually means a finance company turns over a check to the dealer for the down payment, and you must repay that loan, with interest, besides monthly payments on the balance.

We had one poor fellow, said Sherburne, who fell for a similar come-on, and naturally got behind in his payments. Still owing $300, the car was repossessed, then sold at auction for $1.

Debt But No Car

For $1, a firm advertised, it would furnish housewives "complete details and instructions" on how to earn $50 a week addressing and mailing "advertising post cards" at home. For their $1, they were told that for $5 more they could get a box of postcards advertising nameplates.

The "sucker" was told she could address and mail the cards and get a $1 commission on any sale. A postal inspector said the average earning would be 45 cents a week.

Or you could join a "suit club" paying $2 a week until you've paid $79, with the promise of delivery in two to three weeks. You get a fitting and are now told it will take six to eight weeks. Seven months later...still no suit.

Sherburne said 70 complainants about that scheme paid about $5,000 without a single delivery.

Atom Age Radio

One outfit advertised pocket radios—essential in case of an A bomb attack. No battery. No electrical fixtures.

Those who "bit" found they had to have about 25 feet of aerial wire.

If the radio worked at all, and it often didn't, the wire had to be hooked up to electricity.

Indiana's business bureaus—in Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Elkhart and South Bend—never "approve" any business. They only "Challenge" the shady ones.

When a complaint is received, Sherburne said, the bureau merely "brings customers and merchants together to resolve differences."

Many TV Favorites Biting Dust, Rush In Replacements

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—You may be able to spot some of the players without a scorecard this fall, but the chances are you'll have a little trouble with the programs.

Many old favorites among TV shows have been torpedoed off the channels. But replacements are rushing in like the U.S. cavalry in the last reel.

Among the definite casualties are: "Meet Millie," "Dear Phoebe," "Mr. Peepers,' "Public and "Pepsi Cola Playhouse."

Biting the video dust too, are the shows of Donald O'Connor and Ray Bolger, "So This Is Hollywood" and probably, "My Little Margie." "T-Men In Action" looks as if it wont be around this autumn either and another possible casualty is "My Favorite Husband.' The latter show is auditioning a new cast right now, but CBS-TV hasn't assigned a definite time slot to it.

Big Coming Attractions

Switching from the dead to the quick, ABC-TV is offering half-a-dozen candidates for the big time this coming season.

One of the big hopes of ABC is something called "Warner Brothers Present," a one hour show slated for Tuesday evenings. The series will feature new dramas laced against the sets that were used in such movies as "Casablanca," "Cheyenne" and "King's Row.'

ABC-TV also feels it has a sleeper in "The Life and Legend of Wyatt Earp,' a filmed series based on the derring-do of the famous Western hero. Then there's "MGM Parade," which will spot shorts from that studio's library; "The Dupont Cavalcade Theatre," a series based on the lives of contemporary notables; and "Men In Black," a dramatic series about clergymen.

The Walt Disney Studios have turned out two seeming money-winners for ABC-TV this fall — an all-new "Disneyland' and "The Mickey Mouse Club," a five-a-week clambake for the kids.

CBS-TV will have a parade of lion - sized shows for viewers. "You'll Never Get Rich," starring Phil Silvers as a fast-talking, angle-playing Army sergeant will bow in on Sept. 20. Also making its debut that night will be "Joe and Mabel," a comedy series centered around a New York taxi driver and his girl friend.

Adult Western Shows

On tap for the same network are "It's Always Jan" with Janis Paige; "Robin Hood' with Richard Greene; and "My Friend Flicka' which will feature a horse.

CBS-TV also is touting a Sunday show, "Alfred Hitchcock Presents' and "Gunsmoke," an adult Western sashaying over from radio.

Another adult Western, "Frontier," will move onto NBC-TV channels this season. That network also will launch a filmed dramatic series, "Screen Director's Playhouse" and a new show starring Jackie Cooper, "The Peoples Choice."

However, the big new hope in NBC-TV's stable is "The Perry Como Show," a one-hour extravaganda' set for Saturday nights. NBC officials have dropped it into the 8:00 to 9:00 slot, frankly admitting they hope to chop away some of Jackie Gleason's CBS audience with it.

Full Treatment For Russian Farmers

WASHINGTON (UP)— Russia's farm delegation will get the full visiting dignitary treatment when it tours the Washington area next Monday and Tuesday.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson will interrupt a vacation to meet privately with Vladimir Matskevich, leader of the group, early Monday. Benson will extend the department's official welcome later in the morning to the full delegation.

The delegation then will meet with department officials on administration, economics and planning, livestock, wheat and corn and farm machinery.

The Russians will be lunch guests at the National Press Club Tuesday. They leave Washington late Tuesday for New York City or Canada.

Miss Rita Mae Parker Exchanges Vows With Jon Richard Hildebrand On Friday Evening

Mrs. Jon Hildebrand

Roses, palms, and candelabra formed a background at the altar, and white bows marked the family pews, for the wedding Friday evening of Miss Rita Mae Parker to Jon Richard Hildebrand.

Miss Parker is the daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Parker, of this city, and the late Robert R. Parker. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hildebrand, also of this city, are the parents of Mr. Hildebrand.

Rev. P. F. Young received the marriage vows, which were exchanged in the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The musical program that preceded the ceremony included "With This Ring I Thee Wed", "Because", "I Love You Truly", "Indian Love Call" and "Oh Promise Me". The program was presented by Kenneth Growcock, organist, and Darlene Smith, soloist. Miss Parker chose "The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin" for her wedding march. "The Lord's Prayer" was sung during the ceremony, and the "Wedding March from Mid Summers Nights Dream" was played as the bridal party left the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Milo G. Wince, of Roanoke. The gown chosen by Miss Parker was of imported Chantilly lace, and featured a fitted satin bodice topped with Chantilly lace, and an open neckline with a beautiful scalloped edge motif. Her long sheer sleeves of lace were fitted and formed points over her hands. Her ballerina skirt of satin was overlaid with a double net skirt and topped with a Chantilly lace skirt, featuring a scalloped edge hemline. For her headpiece she wore a tiara of irridescent sequins to which was caught her veil of silk imported illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid, from which fell a shower of white satin streamers. The bride wore pearl necklace and earrings, gifts of the groom.

Gowns In Pastel Shades

The matron of honor, Mrs. Dick Parker, sister-in-law of the bride, was attired in a waltz length gown of yellow French lawn trimmed in white. It featured a long torso waist and a scoop neck. The matron of honor wore a head piece of white daisies and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

The bridesmaids, Miss Marcia Hildebrand, sister of the groom, and Miss Carole Long, wore gowns of nile green and lavender styled identically to that of the honor attendant. They carried bouquets of lavender and nile green daisies, and wore pearl necklaces and earrings, gifts of the bride.

Mrs. Parker, the bride's mother, wore a beige dress with brown accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Hildebrand, chose a dress of bittersweet, with which she wore black accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of bronze pompons.

Dick Parker, brother of the bride, served as groomsman, and Robert Williams, of Huntington, and Jack Black served as ushers.

Informal Reception

Two hundred guests attended the informal reception, which was held immediately after the ceremony in the church hall. Mrs. Dean Lemmon, Miss Sandra Cable, Miss Barbara Carver, of this city, and Miss Luann Matthews, of Fort Wayne, served at the reception.

Miss Parker chose a navy blue suit and white accessories for their wedding trip to Portland, Oregon. She also wore an orchid corsage. The young couple will reside in Columbia City after their return on the first of September.

The bride graduated this August from the Warner Beauty College in Fort Wayne. The groom is employed by the LML Engineering and Manufacturing Company.

Guests attended the wedding from Columbia City, Fort Wayne, Warsaw, Marion, Garrett, and North Manchester.

"Finian's Rainbow" Last Presentation By Festival Theatre

"Finian's Rainbow," a delightful Irish musical fantasy, closes the Festival Music Theater's 1955 season at the Open Air Theater in Franke Park. In addition to the regular run, scheduled Thursday through Sunday, August 25-28, the Festival management announced this week that an extra, added performance will be given on Monday, August 29, as a special convenience to those whose weekend plans precluded their seeing the production during the regular run.

"Finian's" was a top-rated hit musical during the 1946-47 season on Broadway and starred Ella Logan, Donald Richards, and David Wayne. The Festival's version, produced and directed by Douglas Conway of New York City, will feature Joseph Higgins as Finian, Robert Cocherille as Woody, Mirianne Marshall as Sharon, and John Neff as Og, the dancing leprechaun. Mr. Nell is the Festival's choreographer.

Hit songs from the show include "How Are Things in Gocca Morra," "Old Devil Moon," "Look to the Rainbow," "Necessity" and "If This Isn't Love."

The Festival box office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Room 411, Anthony Wayne Bank Building. On Sunday, August 27, the Franke Park box office will open at 1 p.m.

Flood

was damaged by rampaging waters.

Hundreds of residents in Bucks County alone were evacuated from their water-filled homes Friday night despite a major problem created by curiosity seekers who clogged highways to get a look at the flood conditions.

East Stroudsburg was cut off when two sections of the main bridge leading to the community were damaged. It was not until several hours later that rescue workers were able to arrive by helicopters.

Building Temporary Bridge

Those requiring medical attention were flown out of the area while National Guardsmen and state highway engineers worked to construct a temporary bridge parallel to the damaged span.

Helicopter crews made numerous daring rescues throughout the area. Twenty-six persons were plucked from rooftops in Scranton and flown to safety by the hovering aircraft. Many others were pulled from the water.

Brownings accounted for 29 of the storm's fatalities, including 12 at East Stroudsburg. Canadensis, about 16 miles distant, numbered five drowned.

The other victims of Hurricane Diane's dying but violent gasp included four killed in highway accidents and two accidental electrocutions. All four traffic victims died in the storm's early hours before its violent impact brought vehicular movement to a virtual standstill.

Thousands Made Homeless

Pennsylvania an d Connecticut were hardest hit by the flood waters but heavy damage and death lists also were reported in Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York.

Massachusetts: Much of the state was under flood waters today, with 14 known dead and 10 missing. Five of the dead were claimed by the flood when a huge wave of water from a burst dam swept over the town of Charlton, trapping four victims in a small store and another in his automobile. Railroad movements in and out of Boston were stopped for the first time in Massachusetts history Friday, but limited service was restored today. Ten state communities were told to boil all drinking water and damage was set in the billions of dollars. Disaster officials said it was the worst flood in Massachusetts history.

New Jersey: At least five persons were known dead. Three of the deaths occurred when two boys drowned in the Millstone River near Princeton and a policeman who tried to rescue them also died. Damage was done mostly by the flooding Delaware River which poured flood waters over central and southern sections of the state.

New York: The flooding Delaware and Neversink inundated large sections of southeastern New York state and swollen streams roaring down out of the mountains did more damage. Worst hit were the towns of Port Jervis and Dllenville. Two persons were reported dead.

Two more deaths were reported in Virginia. The victims drowned in the flood-raised Potomac River.

the-bypass at Lafayette. Smith said or the suggested bypass-around-qualify for 60 per cent federal aid under present law, while a proposed new law would boost the federal contribution to 93 per cent.

With whatever money is available, Smith said Indiana will continue work on primary roads—like long-standing plans to improve U.S. 31 southward from South Bend—and "juggle" work on secondary highways.

Some Loud Squeaks

This juggling results somewhat from the relative needs of various roads for repairs and from pressures, often political, sometimes exerted on the department to fix Road "X" first.

"The wheel that squeaks the loudest gets greased," Smith commented.

He said Indiana's highway system is "a lot better than a lot of states have" but, like most anyone, the department could use more money.

"We're getting by pretty good but we could use a two-cent state gasoline tax increase," Smith said. "I'd hate to see it increased, but we could use the money. We've got 1,200 inadequate bridges and many miles of road which aren't what they should be."

The federal aid matter is perplexing to Smith's staff. They have no way of knowing, for example, whether federal participation in a specific project will be approved in two months or two years.

Nor are federal contributions to right-of-way purchases constant, and in some cases, state and federal highway men have disagreed more than a year on the route a road should take.

These obstacles make planning for the future a headache.

Moroccan nationalists warned they would demonstrate today in favor of the former sultan and against his French-appointed successor, Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa. French residents and supporters of the tough of old Pasha of Marrakech threatened counter demonstrations.

Rioting throughout Morocco began on Wednesday and flared spasmodically with new bombings, new shooting and new clashes between mobs and French soldiers flown in for the emergency.

Friday bloody rioting swept through the streets of Kenifra in the Middle Atlas, taking a toll of 13 lives. Incidents broke out in Casablanca and in the shanty towns which have grown up around this city of snow white public buildings.

be dismissed except for cause until retirement age.

Earlier an official of the AFT indicated she would support a Thursday decision to appropriate $1,500 to contest the firing of three Newark, N.J., teachers who invoked the Fifth Amendment in a congressional Communism probe.

Miss Hope Carey, Pawtucket, R.I., member of the federation's executive council, defended the granting of funds to help the teachers at the union's convention here.

"As a member of the executive committee of the American Federation of Teachers,my position committee of the American Federation of Teachers, my position in regards to the granting of defense funds is necessarily guided by the federation's policy," Miss Carey said.

Delegates endorsed action by the committee in granting funds for Drs. Robert Lowentstein, Perry Zimmerman and Mrs. Estalle Laba. Miss Anne Maloney, delegate from Gary, Ind., said the matter was closed now that the council has acted.

George Beacom, St. Paul, Minn., refused comment.

A council statement said the action was taken to protest the teachers' dismissal on a charge of conduct unbecoming a teacher, not because they invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Council members said they were told the Newark School Board fired the teachers in Junein a 5-4 split decision.

Red China Seems Uneasy, Irritated Over Statements

By U. S. Airmen That They Were Tortured In Red Jails

WASHINGTON (UP) — Red China seems uneasy and irritated over statements by 11 U.S. airmen that they were tortured in Communist jails, officials said today.

The Chinese Reds apparently are trying to wriggle out of a bad propaganda position resulting from the airmen's charges by accusing the United States of mistreating Chinese students in the United States, the officials said.

Peiping Radio has charged that the United States is holding the students against their will by imprisonment, fines, "incessant" questioning and threats. One student who finally got back to Red China, the Chinese broadcast said, charged he had been jailed for 116 days in 1951 by the United States.

But State Department officials said that all Chinese students who want to leave the United States are free to do so. Ambassador Alexis Johnson, who is negotiating with the Reds at Geneva to free 41 American civilians, has made this point many times to Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan.

Why the Chinese persist in repeating charges about mistreatment of the students is under close study here by officials seeking a hint as to when the Reds will free the American civilians.

Detroit Police Kill Cop-Killer

DETROIT (UP)—Detroit police flushed a drunken Shelbyville, Ind., cop killer from his estranged wife's apartment with tear gas and shot and killed him early today. The man earlier had fatally wounded patrolman George Krueger, 28, of Detroit.

Police said Ellis Bailey, 30, arrived here Friday and bought a shotgun, vowing to kill his wife, Lnda, 22.

Krueger and three other officers answered a call to investigate a "drunk with a shotgun" shortly after midnight, they said. The officers walked by the door of the Bailey apartment and Krueger, last in the file, was felled by a blast in the chest.

He died less than two hours later in Detroit Receiving Hospital.

Police said they dispatched several more cars to the building and shot Baley when they flushed him, gun in hand, from the apartment with tear gas.

Bailey was the father of four small children. Krueger is survived by his wife and three children, the youngest five months old.

Mrs. Billy Sunday Agrees To Filming Of Husband's Life

WINONA LAKE, Ind. (UP)—Mrs. Billy Sunday, widow of the famed evangelist, has agreed to the filming of her husband's life story after 20 years of refusals.

Mrs. Sunday, 86, announced Friday the release of the rights to the "Billy Sunday Story" and said thRev. LeeThomas,aSouthern...NI the Rev. Lee Thomas, a Southern Baptist evangelist, will form a Bill Sunday Film Memorial to administer the film program.

Sunday, who quit playing basebal with the old Chicago White Stockings to enter the ministry, preached to more than a million persons in a 10-day revival in New York at the height of his career. He died in 1935.

Thomas said filming will start next spring. An actor to play Sunday has not yet been selected. The picture will be produced by Great Commission Films, Hollywood.

Romano Is 102

EASTON, Pa. (UP)—Forty years ago Donato Romano lay critically injured in an Easton hospital. His skull had been fractured when a 14 pound piece of slate rock fell in him while he was working in quarry and doctors thought he was going to die.

Romano celebrated his 102nd birthday Thursday.

He not only recovered from the injuries he received, but he returned to the quarry and worked there for eight more years. Today Romano reads newspapers, goes about his gardening and is an avid television fan.

His recipe for long life is: "Don't eat too much, don't drink too much, get plenty of sleep."

Owner Fred Duncan said the burglars broke through a ventilating window and fled through a loading door.

Sea Captain Stands Fast On Ship's Bridge

While Tugs Seek To Rescue It From Shrieking Gale

WICK, Scotland (UP)—A tough British sea captain stood fast on the bridge of his damaged ship today, hoping to keep it afloat until two salvage tugs can tow it to safety from a shrieking Atlantic gale.

Like Capt. Kurt Carlsen of the Flying Enterprise, 46-year-old Capt George Watson stayed with his ship while waves swept over the waterlogged deck. With him on the bridge of the 7,133-ton freighter Argobeam was Chief Officer Kenneth Seamen of London.

The 32 members of the crew abandoned ship Friday when fire broke out in the engine room and was brought under control when the men opened the seacocks and let the Atlantic extinguish the flames.

As the tugs raced from this Scottish port to the aid of the stricken freighter the weather ship Weather Recorder radioed early today that the Argobeam had a 30 degree list and was wallowing dangerously in the heavy seas.

Carlsen won fame in December, 1951, by staying aboard his ship the Flying Enterprise for five days alone after he had ordered his crew to abandon ship. Watson, a sailor for 25 years, was staying aboard for the same reason Carlsen did — to prevent the Argobeam and its cargo being claimed as salvage.

The 32 members of the Argobeam's crew were picked up Friday by the New York - bound Swedish liner Kungsholm which rushed to its side in answer to SOS signals. It volunteered to stand by until two tugs summoned from Wick could arrive, but then it was decided to take off the crew instead.

Weather forecasters said that if the squalls which set the freighter dangerously atilt do not get worse there is a 50-50 chance it will still be afloat when the tugs arrive. A spokesman for Lloyds of London said "We think everything must be going all right."

Only Thing Dana Wynter Fears Is Gossip-Rumor Mill

Written for United Press
By DANA WYNTER

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — There's only one thing in the United States—which has been very good to me—I'm afraid of. That is the perennial gossip-and-rumor mill.

It's very flattering to find myself suddenly the center of columnists' attentions wherever I go. I'm grateful for it.

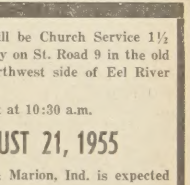
Proof of the value of publicity came to me shortly after I arrived in New York. I'd done "Robert Montgomery" and "Suspense" TV shows when a national magazine ran a layout on me. Director Phillip Dunne saw it and suggested I be tested for a contract at 20th Century-Fox. Others saw it and my shows, and I had offers from practically every studio in Hollywood.

So I do know that publicity is important but the personal rumor type is what bothers me. And, believe me, the New York rumor mill is no different than the Hollywood one. Every time I lunched with an agent, a TV director or producer, although it was strictly business, it was made to sound strictly personal in the columns.

But to be tagged as a playgirl when you're working like mad to learn your craft, to gather experience and credits, is disconcerting. You begin to wonder—when you see yourself tagged a "romantic twosome" with a variety of men—whether a producer thinking of employing you won't classify you as too interested in the social butterfly life to concentrate on a part.

A classic example of the rumor mill came when I went to my first Hollywood premiere at Grauman's Chinese. It was the charity opening of "Daddy Long Legs" and my escorts were Gregory Ratoff, Leon Shamroy and Richard Todd—all very happily married men. I naturally thought there was safety from rumors in numbers. But next thing I knew there was a column item to the effect that Richard Todd and British actress Dana Wynter had ignited.

Richard and his wife and I happen to be old chums. Since he had returned to Hollywood for a single day's added scene with Bette Davis for "The Virgin Queen," Mrs. Todd remained in London. Richard flew home next morning to join her.



Versatile Bandleader Ted Weems will be a featured attraction in a dazzling "Stars Over Indiana" revue at this year's Indiana State Fair which opens Wednesday, August 31, and continues through September 9. "Stars Over Indiana," which also will feature the Crew Cuts and other supporting acts, will be seen in front of the Grandstand nightly, September 3 through the 9th.

GOD WILLING there will be Church Service 1½ miles south of Columbia City on St. Road 9 in the old fertilizer plant building northwest side of Eel River bridge,

Services to start at 10:30 a.m.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 21, 1955

Rev. William Smith from Marion, Ind. is expected to bring the message.

If the Lord tarries, we hope and pray that by His help we can establish a Church and Sunday school.

And that this place can be made into one of God's soul saving stations where people can worship God according to His word and truth.

The public is invited. Your prayer and support is greatly needed.

"I have found a way" to keep sinners from going to hell. But I have never heard of a way for them to escape from hell once they enter.

Jesus says, "I am the way." It is very important for us to consider these statistics which show that about 75% of all conversions take place before children reach the age of 20.

In addition to this it has been learned that about 87% of all adult converts fall away in five years.

While the younger converts that are brought up through the Sunday schools have not more than 40% fall away during the same period of time.

The tragedy of the Churches is that they have too long ignored these statistics. The Churches contribute largely of their time, their talents and their tithes to the evangelization of adults instead of concentrating their efforts upon children.

LET US NOT FORGET TO PRAY. A SOUL WAS NEVER SAVED WITHOUT A PRAYER.

Minor League Baseball Can Make Comeback If Someone Can Lure Fans From TV, Radio

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Minor league baseball can make a comeback, perhaps even a spectacular one, but something will have to be done first to lure people away from their television and radio sets.

Minor league presidents who had cities fold up on them this season blame not only the broadcasting of major league games into their territory but the overall magnetism of that magic living room screen.

"We can't take baseball broadcasts, either radio or TV, away from the people," said Tommy Richardson of Williamsport, Pa., president of the Class A Eastern League. "They feel they have a right to watch or listen when a big league game is on, even though it may make them less interested in going out to our parks. It is up to us then to make our product so attractive the fans will come out and see us no matter what else is going on."

Asks Press, Radio Aid

Emmet Harty, president of the Cotton States League at Greenville Miss., thinks that rebirth of interest could come through greater devotion to baseball at the local level by community press, radio, and television.

"Our papers carry a small column on the Cotton States League and the rest of the sports page baseball is on the majors," he said. "Our announcers devote five minutes or less to our league and the rest to the majors."

Shelby Peace, president of the Kitty League at Hopkinsville, Ky., cited the need for making the local minor league star the hero he used to be.

"I recall that when Gabby Street who went on to big league fame, was the catcher at Hopkinsville, kids stood outside the entrance to the ball park to carry his glove. He was an idol and there were other players in those days who were idolized. In almost every town there were one or two outstanding kid players on the high school team. These kids would sign with pride on the home team and they would draw 200 to 300 extra fans to each game. Now they sign big league contracts and drift away."

Need More-Spirted Game

Jerry Donovan, head of the California League at San Francisco, also declared local pride needs to be restored, but that it will take a more spirted brand of baseball with fewer delays to bring back the customers.

"We should make managers assume more responsibility for keeping the game moving," he said. "Warm up pitches between innings could be cut in half and there should be none of this business of managers and players going to the mound to talk with the pitcher. They don't go out and talk to the center fielder, do they? Even a little thing like throwing the ball directly to the pitcher after an out is made would snap up the game, instead of throwing the ball around the infield."

Chauncey Devault of Bristol, Va. Tenn., head of the Appalachian League, thinks better promotion and more help from sports writers would give the minors a big shot in the arm, while A. O. Hadden, persident of the Georgia State League at Dublin, Ga., cited poor management and poor promotion as the cause of failures in his league. "Both situations that can be remedied," he said.

Major Ca nHelp

Both Richardson and Donovan declared that the majors could help to restore lost prestige of their minor league brothers by financial aid.

"It is time to ask the majors to subsidize us," said Richardson. "And it won't take a lot of money, either. In some cases just putting in a topflight manager and paying his salary, then encouraging him to comb the territory for good ball players would be enough to keep a town going. The major league club can save some scouting expense and they can put money to use that is now going in big chunks to these bonus boys."

Donovan recommended that the major leagues re-establish strong farm systems in different sections of the country and "subsidize them or let the small independent operators sign young players in their section."

"Then let the majors buy the players from baseball operators instead of giving the bonus to the player," he said. "Just think of all the bonus money paid to players in the past number of years. That money is out of baseball, never to return. If the small operators received all that money from selling players, I don't believe we would be facing financial difficulty."

Sands Of Time Seem To Be Running Out For Phil Rizzuto

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Slowly but surely, the sands of time seem to be running out for little Phil Rizzuto, the popular Yankee shortstop who Casey Stengel once called "the best I've seen since Honus Wagner."

Rizzuto reaches 37 next month and quite probably the end of the line as an active player. He realizes the fact, and is making the most of each opportunity he gets to play these days.

Pint-sized Phil outdid himself against the Red Sox Tuesday when he smashed out three hits in a 13-6 Yankee victory, but in his last appearance Wednesday he went hitless and made a costly error that contributed to a 7-1 defeat. Stengel indicated Rizzuto would go back to the bench again.

"It's a very unpleasant job for me but what else can I do?" Stengel declares whenever he is forced by the heat of the pennant race to yank the slowing shortstop he once considered on a par with the greatest of them all.

"Here was a little fella who was the big reason why the Yankees won five times," Casey continues. "He made every play you could name in the field, when he went up to hit he always meant business and he could run the bases like nobody's business. Bunt? There was never another one like him."

Stengel doesn't try to hide his admiration for Rizzuto even now, when the veteran curly-haired infielder is used mostly for utility duty.

Frequently this season when the Yankees have had to cut a player from the active roster to make room for a young and more promising one there were reports that Rizzuto would be made a coach, but Stengel was loathe to end Phil's playing days.

"I know a lotta guys who are playing every day who don't do half as good a job as Rizzuto does for us now even when I play him once in awhile," Stengel snaps.

"When you're looking to help your club, you think what every one of your players can do and when you think what Rizzuto can still do, you know it is quite a bit."

Stengel may be right, for he usually is in such matters, but during the past year or so it has become painfully apparent what Rizzuto no longer can do.

In the field, he no longer covers half the ground he once did, and his arm, which was never especially strong, hampers him occasionally when he has to chase a ball into the hole. At bat, he doesn't get around like he used to and there is little semblance of his old-time speed in getting away from the plate.

He retains his specialty of getting rid of the ball fast once he catches up with it, but opposing players agree he could only help a pennant contender the way he plays now.

Although it is difficult for a man to view his own shortcomings objectively, Rizzuto does so without any request for sympathy.

"No one has to tell me I'm not the ballplayer I was five or six years ago," he says, "but I know I'm no liability out here yet. It's just hard getting used to sitting on the bench after all those years of playing."

Recently, after enjoying a good day, Rizzuto was beseiged by writers after the game. It hadn't happened in a long time and one of the Yankee players commented on it.

"Looks like old times," he said.

"Yeah," Phil grinned, goodaturedly, "it sure brings back memories."

If Cleveland Indians Fail To Wind Up In World Series This Year, Don't BlameNarleski

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

If the Cleveland Indians fail to wind up in the World Series this year, it won't be the fault of rubber-armed Ray Narleski, the best "money pitcher" to come along in the relief ranks since Smokey Joe Page.

Narleski doesn't have the speed Page had but he has the same kind of courage, coolness under fire and faculty for winning the "big ones."

He chalked up his eighth straight victory without a defeat and kept the Indians close on the heels of the pace-setting Yankees with a brilliant job that helped nip Kansas City, 2-1, in 11 innings Friday night. With the score tied at 1-all, Enos Slaughter opened the 10th with a double off Mike Garcia and after Elmer Valo beat out an infield hit, Don Mossi came in to strike out Harry Simpson.

Narleski then was summoned out of the bullpen and he struck out Hector Lopez and made Jim Finigan hit into a double play. Then he pitched hitless ball again in the 11th and the Indians won the game in the bottom of the inning when pinch - hitter Dale Mitchell singled home Jim Hegan.

Just Behind Yanks

The victory kept the Indians a game behind the Yankees and in a virtual tie with the White Sox, who defeated the Tigers, 3-0, on a fine six-hit job by southpaw Billy Pierce. Walt Dropo hit a two-run homer off loser Steve Gromek and Pierce lowered his league leading earned run average to 1.83 while registering his 10th victory.

Whitey Ford yielded only two hits in pitching the Yankees to an 8-0 triumph over the last-place Orioles. Gill McDougald and Mickey Mantle hit homers in the first inning.

Towering Frank Sullivan of the Red Sox lowered the boom on the Senators, beating them, 8-0, for his 15th victory. Bob Porterfield held Boston scoreless until the sixth when Sammy White homered. The Red Sox then rallied for four more runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth as Washington went down to its fifth straight defeat.

Robin Roberts, the perennial ace of the Phillies' staff, became the first 20-game winner of the season by beating league-leading Brooklyn, 3-2. Roberts also became the fifth pitcher since 1900 to win at least 20 games for six consecutive season.

Throws Game Away

Don Newcombe, the Dodgers' 18 game winner, was coasting along with a 2-0 lead until the Phils nicked him for their first run in the eighth and then rallied for two more in the ninth. Newcombe had a chance to choke off Philadelphia's winning rally but he threw a potential double play ball into center field, allowing the tying run to come across. Willie Jones then singled home the deciding run.

Hank Aaron and Del Crandall each smashed two-run homers to lead the Braves to a 7-0 decision over the Cubs. Lew Burdette limited Chicago to six hits.

The Pirates defeated the Giants 8-3, despite Willie Mays' 38th home run plus another four-bagger by Johnny Antonelli, who suffered his 15th setback. Vern Law went the distance for his eighth triumph and was backed by a 13-hit attack.

Home runs by Gus Bell and Wally Post plus a fine relief job by Johnny Klippstein led the Redlegs to a 7-5 victory over the Cardinals.

Yankees May Be Only 'Wheel' Left In Town By 1958

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Yankees may be the only "wheel" left in town by 1958, Brooklyn Dodger President Walter O'Malley declared today.

The Dodgers will move out of New York if they can not obtain a new ballpark by 1958 and the Giants probably would follow them O'Malley told Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York at a special two-hour meeting Friday.

O'Malley made the statement after he was told by the city that a new stadium for the Dodgers of a choice site in downtown Brooklyn was out of the question. The Dodger president didn't try to conceal his extreme disappointment over the rejection but said there still was some hope.

"I don't want to think about the Dodgers getting out of Brooklyn until I'm convinced we can't get a new ball field," O'Malley said.

But without a centrally-located site where the club could build its own park, the Dodger owner added, and without a municipal stadium to lease, the club probably will have to move out of Brooklyn after the 1957 season.

And if the Dodgers move, O'Malley added, the Giants also will have to do likewise, since the largest revenue of each club results from the 22 games played between the m each season. The Giants drew 344,674 fans in their 11 home games against the Dodgers this season, representing more than 40 per cent of their estimated total attendance for the season.

The site for a new stadium that O'Malley had set his heart on getting is at Flatbush and Atlantic Avenues where the Long Island Railroad Terminal now stands. When Robert Moses, construction coordinator for New York City, informed O'Malley that the site could not be had, the partly Brooklyn owner said:

"We have given Brooklyn a pennant contender for 10 years. We are not cheap, but we need a ball park."

Arnold Palmer 'Cinch To Win'

TORONTO (UP)—Arnold Palmer, shooting brilliant 21-under-par golf for 54 holes, was rated a "cinch to win" the 46th annual Canadian Open Golf Championship today over the easy Weston course.

"The only way anyone will catch him is for Arnold to break a leg," said Tommy Bolt, who played in the same threesome with Palmer.

The 25-year-old 1954 amateur champ out of Latrobe, Pa., was five strokes in front with a record 54 hol etotal of 64-67-64—195.

His nearest opponent was handsome Jackie Burke Jr., the Houston, Tex., pro who plays out of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. Burke was shooting well enough to win most tournaments with a 54-hole card of 67-66-67—200, but was still five big strokes behind.

"He's got an amazing touch with his putter," Burke said, shaking his head. "He used to be a little wild off the tee but this course is just built to his style with those wide fairways."

But Palmer wasn't quite as impressed with his putting.

"It hasn't been what I'd call phenomenal, just real good," he said. "I used 28 putts and the longest was a 20-footer on the 14th. I missed a 2½-footer on the 11th hole for a bogey," he recalled afterward.

Back of Palmer and Burke were Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., and Freddie Hawkins, St. Andrews Ill., at 202. Bolt who declared "I'm all tired out," was fourth with 203, followed by Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., 205; Jerry Barber, Los Angeles, 206.

If Yanks Win, Stengel Should Be Manager Of Decade

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — If these ragamuffin Yankees can scramble home in front, then Casey Stengel should not only be the manager of the year but of the decade.

They're one of the strangest collections of players ever to wear the famed pin-striped flannels that once adorned such hallowed muscle men as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and Joe DiMaggio. But don't bet that wily old Stengel, a double talker but a straight thinker, won't bring another pennant to Yankee Stadium, his sixth in seven years.

But just look at his cast of characters — and we do mean characters. He has only two hitters batting over .300, center fielder Mickey Mantle at .310 and part-time first baseman Bill Skowron at .322. The club has a collective batting average of .257. And there are only two men in the starting line-up, Yogi Berra, the indestructible catcher and Mantle, who could make the first team in an American league All-Star aggregation.

But just look at the kind of "power" that Stengel has to send up to the plate, dya after day, in these critical games, elsewhere in his lineup.

Set At First

He is ok at first base offensively as long as Skowron is in, but the big moose from Purdue is no gazelle boy in the field, particularly since he suffered a severely pulled muscle earlier this season. That means in a tight game Stengel may prefer to go with Joe Collins, a superior fielder, but a .228 hitter. Or for a long ball "threat," Eddie Robinson at .199.

Things are a little better at second where Gil McDougald has a respectable .286 average and blasts an occasional long ball. But Marty Marion at Chicago would rather have his little plugger, Nellie Fox, and Cleveland's Al Lopez still insists his Bobby Avila is the best second sacker around.

The star of many other Yankee pennant campaigns, little Phil Rizzuto, still is trying to hold down the first string shortstop Post, but he'll be the first to tell you that things just aren't the same with him any more. He has lost much of his speed and coordination, his arm isn't strong any more and he's batting a puny .247. Jerry Coleman, his side kick who handles that job part time is batting only .218. Contrast that with Harvey Kuenn, Detroit's whiz at .323, Billy Klaus of Boston at .292, or even Al Carrasquel of Chicago at .254.

Three Ahead Of Carey

There are three contending third baseman hitting better than the Yanks' Andy Carey who is nursing a .256 mark. Al Smith, Cleveland's candidate for most valuable player who works both at third and in the outfield, is .306, George Kell of Chicago at .304 and Ray Boone of Detroit .300.

Things aren't any more glamorous in the outfield. Behind Mantle and his .310 mark come right fielder Hank Bauer at .270 and left fielder Irv Noren at .247. Shades of the Babe and DiMag. The part time operatives Elston Howard and Bob Cerv each are batting .298, but they seldom see action except against left-handed pitching. Berra as the catcher at .275 is the best hitter among the hind-snatchers and also the best all-around receiver but he has to work practically all the time.

Is it the pitching then that keeps the Yankees up there? Well, not exactly. In the recent seven-game winning streak, only one man, Don Larsen, was able to go the route. Right now it looks as if the Yankees will wind up without a 20-game winner.

Moreover, Stengel, the master manipulator who is happiest when he can parade 15 or 20 players in and out of a lineup is severely handicapped in that he has two bench-bound bonus babies, Tom Carroll and Frank Leja. Together they have been in 13 games, Carroll in seven and Leja in six. Leja has been to bat once. Carroll hasn't been to the plate yet.

Swaps Meets New Foes On New Footing

CHICAGO (UP) — Rex Ellsworth's standout three-year-old, Swaps meets new foes on a new footing toay in the 45th running of Washington Park's American Derby, but the Western colt was expected to go the post as the 3-5 odds-on favorite to win.

The stake will be held on the turf course for the first time at its longest distance in history, a mile and three sixteenths. It will be the first competition for Swaps, unbeaten in seven three year old starts, on grass.

Likewise it will be the first time he has run against four of the other five horses entered for the race, expected to gross $146,425 and pay the winner $89,600, should all six start.

Facing the Ellsworth Colt, by Khaled out of Iron Reward, for the first time will be Clifford Mooers' Traffic Judge, Hasty House Farm's Summer Solstice, Mrs. Harvey Fruehauf's Parador, and Mrs. Harry L. Nathenson's Ambiguous. The sixth entrant, W. L. Ranch's Honeys Alibi, was beaten by Swaps in both the Santa Anita Derby and the Kentucky Derby.

Swaps, saddled with top weight of 136 pounds compared to 119 for Traffic Judge and Honeys Alibi and 113 for the other three, will break from post position five under Jockey Willie Shoemaker, battling Willie Hartack for 1955 riding honors.

Philadelphia Eagles Come Up Wtih A Rare Rookie Find

By UNITED PRESS

The Philadelphia Eagles came up with one of those rare rookie finds today, a football star with no collegiate experience, in chalking up their second straight exhibition game victory in pre-season National League competition.

The youngster is Ted Wegert, a 23-year-old back from the Bainbridge, Md., Naval Station and he led the Eagles to a 14-8 triumph over the Detroit Lions at Dallas, Tex., Friday night.

Wegert ran 81 yards for a touchdown on a screen pass play in the opening move of the second period and came through again with a seven yard touchdown plunge on a wide pitchout in the third period.

Detroit had taken an early lead with a touchdown in the first period on an 80-yard drive featuring Lew Carpenter's running. The Lions went ahead again briefly in the second period when three of their defenders forced Adrian Burk of the Eagles to ground a pass in the end zone for a safety and make it 8-7. Wegert's second touchdown was the winning margin. Bobby Walston kicked both extra points for Philly.

Three exhibition games are on tap today. The San Francisco Forty Niners, who have won two straight, meet the once-defeated New York Giants at Seattle, Wash. the Chicago Bears play the Chicago Cardinals at Jacksonville, Fla., and the champion Cleveland Browns meet the Green Bay Packers at Akron, Ohio.

Unemployment Claims Drop In Hoosierland

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The volume of claims for unemployment compensation dropped about 2,500 in Indiana last week.

Director William C. Stalnaker of the Indiana Employment Security Division said today 29,146 claims were received, representing a decrease of 5,400 in newly unemployed.

The number of claims from those out of work a week or more increased, largely because of auto worker unemployment in the South Bend area.

Russian Farmers Visiting U. S. End Month-Long Tour

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A group of Russian farm experts was scheduled to wind up a month-long tour of the United States today with a visit to the Roger Jessup Dairy in nearby Glendale.

The 11 Soviet agriculturalists leave here by plane Sunday morning for a two-day stopover in Washington before going home.

They arrived here Friday night after touring southern California's citrus groves, agricultural experimental stations and citrus packing houses.

Vladimir V. Matskevich, Soviet acting minister of agriculture and leader of the delegation, said he was grateful to U.S. farmers who had hosted the visiting group, saying, "The friendly meetings, warm hospitality we have enjoyed, will not be erased from our hearts." He said he was "favorably impressed" by all he had seen in the U.S.

The Soviet farm chiefs indicated they were most impressed with American steaks, milking machinery and Marilyn Monroe, whom they hope to meet.

Matskevich shrugged his shoulders when asked if he was looking forward to meeting Miss Monroe in Washington at a reception. But another delegation member broke in to ask, "Has Miss Monroe accepted the invitation?"

So strenuous has been the tour that one member of the delegation collapsed on a bus in Riverside, Calif., and had to receive a physician's care. The stricken Russian was Aleksandr Vanovich Tulupnikov, 46, member of the board of advisers of the Soviet Ministry of Agriculture.

Heart specialist Dr. Herman H. Stone, who treated Tulupnikov, said the Russian appeared to have been overcome by summer heat and the strain of the trip.

The ill Russian told Dr. Stone he suffered from a heart condition, but the doctor said there was no indication of anything other than heat prostration and exhaustion.

Tulupnikov remained with the delegation.

Feud Between Magsaysay, Recto Reaches Showdown

MANILA, P.I. (UP)—The political feud between President Ramon Magsaysay and Sen. Clari M Recto reaches a showdown here Sunday when the Nationalista Party convention opens.

Magsaysay, fed up with habitual opposition on foreign policy matters by old guard Nacionalista Recto, has rallied almost invincible support in a drive to oust the senator from the party ticket during this off-year election.

During several weeks of preconvention jockeying for position, Magsaysay, in his first real political fight since his landslide electon, firmly took the reins of his party and rejected attempts by friends of Recto to bring about a reconciliation.

Rector's sharp criticism of the administration for recognizing South Viet Nam precipitated the fight. But it was not the main reason for the split. Magsaysay said Recto had consistently opposed administration foreign policy.

On some earlier issues, the President had turned the matter over to the Senate for a vote of confidence and in at least one case, Recto was the only dissenter.

Rocky At Half Way Training Mark

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UP) — Rocky Marciano, who defends his heavyweight title against Archie Moore in New York, Sept. 20, has reached the half-way point in his training. The champ skipped his usual workout Friday to attend a party for his newly-married sister and her husband.

Moore Says Rocky Easy To Punch

NORTH ADAMS, Mass. (UP) — Archie Moore thinks Rocky Marciano is going to be one of the easiest guys to punch he has ever met in the ring. "The champ isn't any harder to hit or doesn't offer any more opposition than that big sand bag I punch every day," the challenger claims. Moore meets Marciano for the heavyweight title in New York, Sept. 20.

McDaniel Signs With St. Louis Cards

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Lyndall McDaniel, a 19-year-old right-handed pitcher from Hollis, Okla., has signed with the St. Louis Cardinals for a bonus of about $50,000. The six-foot-three inch pitcher compiled a 31-3 won-lost record with the Altus Junior American Legion team in 1951-52.

Massachusetts Polio Cases Show Drop

BOSTON (UP) — Polio cases in epidemic - stricken Massachusetts dropped today with 62 new cases being reported.

Massachusetts' total cases this year today stood at 1,606, compared with 193 for the same period last year. But today was the third successive day that new cases being reported dropped over preceding daily reports.

Of the Massachusetts' total, 504 cases were reported from Boston.

The New England figure to date is 2,073.

Dr. Roy F. Feemster, director of the state Division of Communicable Diseases, said hopefully that he was "looking forward" to a sharp drop in new cases "after next week."

Being Discovered Is Second Worst Bane For Actors

By BRODERICK CRAWFORD
Written for United Press

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — I'm not entirely certain, but, next to being undiscovered, one of the great banes of an actor's life is being "discovered." Neither knocking or boasting, I've probably been as "discovered" as anyone.

I'm getting tired of it.

Let's look at it realistically. Charles Bickford, who is wonderful in "Not as a Stranger," in which I also appear, has always been a fine actor. Yet, when he did "Johnny Belinda," every critic in the country discovered him.

Humphrey Bogart, who made more money in movies than Edison ever dreamed possible, did pretty well from "Petrified Forest" through "Sierra Madre," being discovered from picture to picture. Then he did "African Queen" and, if this is possible, he was "super-discovered."

That's the way it goes with actors. We go along from picture to picture, some good, some bad. Most of us try pretty hard all the time. I started on the stage when I was 8 months old. My mother, Helen Broderick, and my father, Lester Crawford, both stars of Broadway, carried me on stage in a play, the name of which I have forgotten. Don't think some unhailed Broadway columnist didn't raise the rafters with a cry of "bright new young star." He was fooling, but that kept me off the stage for 20 years.

Sam Goldwyn, a well known Hollywood figure, saw me in an early show on Broadway, "Punch and Judy," and offered me a contract. He discovered me. I came to Hollywood, did a picture called "Woman Chases Man," and was back on Broadway before the cameraman could stop cranking. Nobody discovered me in that.

But on the way back to New York, I did a little "discovering" on my own. I read a book called "Of Mice and Men." I wanted to do the stage version. I was the biggest, stupidest, dullest, most slow-witted Lennie in history. The play ran a year. I was a smash. Then they made the movie and Lon Chaney Jr. was the biggest, best, stupidest Lennie ever seen.

In "Not as a Stranger," Lon, playing Robert Mitchum's father, will be discovered by audiences and critics. Need I point out that he had been discovered playing the film version of Lennie. And he was good in that, too.

Actors aren't like uranium deposits. They don't lie fallow until some joker with a buzz box discovers them. They're working all the time.

Theatres Sign For Fight Telecast

NEW YORK (UP)—Nathan L. Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, Inc., has announced that a record high of 86 theatres already have signed for the closed-circuit telecast of the Rocky Marciano - Archie Moore heavyweight title bout, Sept. 20.

Resignation Of U. S.-Trained General Told

By Chiang Kai-Shek Who Orders Inquiry Into Spy Ring

By WILLIAM MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—President Chiang Kai-shek announced today the resignation of Gen. Sun Li-jen, one of his top military leaders, and said he had ordered an investigation of Sun's connection with a Chinese Communist spy ring.

A presidential order said Sun tendered his resignation as an admission of negligence and requested a full investigation of the case and his own responsibility.

Sun, 55, the American - trained general who helped rebuild the shattered Nationalist armies after their defeat on the mainland, was not arrested. But he admitted negligence in connection with the activities of a Communist agent, Maj. Kuo Ting - liang, on Sun's staff.

A VMI Graduate

Sun, a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, won his initial fame on the battlefeld when his new 1st Army drove the Japanese from northern Burma. He was made commander of the Nationalist armed forces in 1949 and recently became the personal chief of staff to Chiang.

Reliable sources said "several' high ranking Nationalist officers had been arrested in recent months for their part in a Communist plot rumored aimed at the assassination of Chiang during a visit here of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, then commander of the U.S. 8th Army in Korea. Some 100 sympathizers were reported jailed.

Nationalist information director Wu Nan-ju said the government unearthed the Communist spy ring and that Sun tendered his resignation "as an admission of negligence . . . and has requested a full investigation."

Allowed To "Escape"

The Communist spy ring centered around Kuo, who was captured at Mukden in 1947 in the early stages of the civil war while fighting with Sun's 1st Army in the blizzard - swept northeastern provinces. He was converted to Communism and allowed to "escape" to Formosa.

Wu said Kuo received secret orders from the Communists to proceed to Formosa in 1948 and "make use of his connection with General Sun to engage in infiltration and subversive activites."

He was welcomed back by hs old companion in arms and served under Sun in re-training the shattered armies on Formosa. In 1954, the Nationalists said, Kuo renewed his activities and "conspired in the trainng command and formed organzations for Red activities."

U. S. Government Goes Into Red

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government went into the red $2,617,000,000 during July, the Treasury reported Thursday.

But the deficit for the entire 1956 fiscal year, which began last month, is expected to be considerably below this figure.

The government last January estimated the deficit would be $2,408,000,000 at the end of fiscal 1956. But a new Treasury forecast, to be issued in about a week, is expected to give a lower estimate.

Bomb

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—Badly frightened Post Office employes rushed a smoking package out of the crowded main railway station Friday and dumped it in a vacant lot.

Firemen and bomb experts called to the scene roped off the area and waited for the "bomb" to explode.

When it didn't after several hours wary demolition men opened the package and found a toy automobile whose battery-powered motor had short - circuited, causing the smoke.

This And That About Favorite Television Stars

By WILLIAM EWALD

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—The channel swim . . .

Billy Graham, the evangelist, turned down a special one-shot appearance on the Colgate Hour this fall—said he couldn't find the time. There's talk that George Gobel may revamp the format of his TV show this fall and drop Peggy King. Miss King isn't worried, however—she has had about 15 other radio and TV offers and has just wrapped up a 20-minute screen test at Paramount Pictures.

Nanette Fabray is on the mend at her home in California after undergoing minor surgery in Philadelphia. Ditto Ethel Merman who underwent a minor operation in Denver. Incidentally, NBC-TV has dropped plans to star Miss Merman in a spectacular in November—she wanted too much coin.

New Giveaway Show

Execs at Mutual are mulling over a $250,000 giveaway radio show. Mary Stuart, soap opera queen of CBS-TV's "Search For Tomorrow" series, has named her new baby, Cynthia. Sign at NBC: "If others around you are losing their heads while you remain calm, maybe you don't understand the situation.'

Herb Shriner has signed a contract with Columbia Records. The firm will market an LP of his monologues. Sam Levenson has done so well as a summer replacement for Shriner on "Two For The Money" that Goodson-Todman plan to spot the chubby Brooklynite in an audience particiipation show. Department of belles-letters: Fred Allen is working on his autobiography. So is Harry Belafonte. And Jackie Gleason is said to be working on a novel.

Garry Moore, his wife and two youngsters are spending their vacation sailing to Maine in a yawl (that's a Southern yacht). Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are being wooed by NBC-TV for two 90-minute color films. Jerry Lewis' wife, Patti, expects her baby in February. CBS-TV is lookcng for a new format for Marie Wilson — right now plans are being kicked around to star her in a series based on the romances of a former actress.

A Wacky Routine

One of the funniest bits in the TV business is the warm-up for "The $64,000 uestion," which takes place about a half-hour before the studio audience files in. The crew muddles through a wacky routine in which the same question—or variations of it—is used over and over again: "Who is the manager of the New York Yankees?"

Steve Allen's suggestion to housewives who want to prevent scuffed floors: "Stop wearing scuffs. Gale Storm, star of "My Little Margie, will make her debut on Dot Records this fall. The NBC censors snipped three scenes from "The Constant Husband" which will be premiered on TV Nov. 6 before its release to movie theatres.

Wife Of Airman Schmidt Plans To Fight Divorce Suit

RED BLUFF, Calif. (UP) — The wife of Airman Daniel C. Schmidt indicated today that she would fight a divorce complaint filed by Schmidt charging that she was an "unfit' mother for their 2½-year-old son.

The 23-year-old Schmidt, who returned from a Chinese Communist prison camp to find that his wife, Una, had married another man, filed the divorce complaint in the Tehama County Courthouse Friday.

He charged "extreme cruelty" and said he would seek "permanent control and custody" of Danny Jr., on the ground that his 21-year-old wife was an "unfit mother."

But in Nevada City, Una's attorney, Harold Berliner, said that she would not consent to "giving up her son." He said any further comment would be withheld "until we are formally and regularly served."

Berliner said that Una had again gone into seclusion, but he emphasized that she had not returned to Alford Fine, the 21-year-old logger she married while Schmidt was in prison.

When Schmidt arrived at the Courthouse Friday he was accompanied by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Walter Ferguson, who has publicly turned against her own daughter to support him in the divorce action.

After filing the papers, the two drove to the Ferguson home in Child's Meadows, 52 miles east of her. Schmidt planned to continue to Portland, Ore., to visit his mother, Mrs. Nellie Peters.

At Schmidt's request, the complaint did not contain any specifications nor mention such terms as bigamy, adultery or desertion. The airman said he had no desire to drag Una's name "through the mud."

Strauss

this weekend. He will drive back to Denver late Sunday or possibly Monday.

Complete Progress Report

Strauss, who headed the U.S. delegation to the Geneva atomic conference, is expected to give the President a complete report on progress at the meeting, including reaction to the President's feeling that another conference should be held. Strauss revealed the President's proposal at the outset of the session.

Although his stay here has been largely one of relaxation, with emphasis on trout fishing and companionship with his seven-year-old grandson, David, the President has put in time on his Philadelphia speech and also worked on other matters.

He beamed proudly Friday as he showed off David's prowess at fishing, golf and horseback riding to reporters and photographers.

But he later turned to his desk in the living room of his comfortable guest house and tackled a sizable pile of work.

Coast Guard Cutter Rushes To Aid Of New York Freighter

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — A Coast Guard cutter today raced to render aid to the 13,900-ton New York freighter, John C., reported wallowing without power 100 miles off the coast of Acapulco, Mex.

However, Coast Guard headquarters here said the freighter, which carries 45 officers and men, was in no immediate danger. The John C., which left here Monday for Europe, reported only an engine breakdown.

The freighter is operated by the Dover Steamship Co. of New York. The Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain, which had been on a reserve training cruise in Mexican waters, was dispatched to the scene.

Backstairs At The Summer White House

By WARREN DUFFEE

United Press Staff Correspondent

FRASER, Colo. (UP) — Backstairs at the summer White House:

President Eisenhower's favorite fishing stream, St. Louis Creek high in the Rockies, may be on its way out as an ideal lair for the wily trout the President loves to catch.

The city of Denver, 70 miles below to the southeast, is tapping the source of St. Louis Creek to build up its own water supply. As a result, the ice-cold stream where the President loves to wade with his fly rod may be down almost to a trickle in another year or so.

The fast-moving creek runs through the ranch of Aksel Nielsen, Denver banker and Mr. Eisenhower's host at Fraser. The diversion project to help water-shy Denver will remove most of the stream's normal flow about six miles above Nielsen's ranch.

Fishermen in the Fraser area have complained, but so far the President has made no public comment.

But Mayor Charles Clayton of this town of 450 was a little more optimistic than some.

"I don't think they'll ruin the fishing, he said, "but if they take out as much water as planned, it's going to make it pretty skiimpy along the creek, waterwise."

Clayton was proud of one surprise for the Chief Executive, however. He arranged to give Mr. Eisenhower the first drink of chlorinated water from the little mountain town's newly-finished water purification system.

The President couldn't pick a greater contrast for his summer vacation from low-lying, steaming Washington to Nielsen's Byers Peak Ranch, 8,600 feet high. The tall blue peaks of the Berthoud Pass country loom above the area.

Fraser, sometimes dubbed the "nation's coldest spot," regularly has nighttime temperatures dipped into the 30's and sometimes lower at this time of the year. But it warms up by day.

Nielsens ranch this year sports a new cabin for the President's use when he wants it. He also has remodeled the old ranch house and cabin where the Presidient has previously stayed.

The President's valet, Sgt. Joan Moaney, has the same tastes as his boss. Moaney, who has been with Mr. Eisenhower for 12 years, fishes the same streams as the Chief Executive here in the mountains. He is rated a good fly fisherman.

But back east on the Eisenhower farm at Gettysburg, Pa., Moaney is a farmer, by his own choice. Reporters spotted him recently working the vegetable garden in a bright red cap.

Airman Schmidt Files For Divorce

SACRAMENTO, Calif., (UP) — Airman Daniel Schmidt will personally file his divorce papers at a secret location, it was revealed today.

The divorce suit will charge Una Schmidt with "extreme cruelty' and will demand custody of Schmidt's young son, Daniel Jr.

There will be no mention of adultery or bigamy in the suit. Howard P. Welch, attorney for 23-year-old Schmidt, said earlier "We will not drag Una's name through the mud."

The decision for Schmidt to personally carry his papers to the courthouse added a dramatic touch to the stories of a modern-day "Enoch Arden."

Schmidt's wife claims she married Alfred Fine, 21, a husky logger, in September, 1954, in the belief Schmidt was dead.

The Air Force said it notified her four months earlier that Schmidt was believed a prisoner and alive.

Schmidt will come out of hiding in the Sacramento area to file the papers. He will go then to Portland Ore., to see his mother, Mrs. Nellie Peters.

Speculation persisted that Una might try to contact Schmidt there for a reconciliation. Schmidt has recently flatly opposed reconciliation.

A good cleaner for washable walls and painted woodwork is made by adding one cup of ammonia, ½ cup vinegar and ¼ cup baking soda to one gallon of water.

Weather Bureau, Not Trying To Be Contrary, Still Likes Names Of Girls For Storms

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Weather Bureau said today it does not wish to be adamant, bull-headed or contrary.

But it still affirms, believes, and contends that "Alice," "Brenda,' and "Connie" are better names for hurricanes than "Aggressive," "Belligerent," and "Capricious."

The latter names were suggested to the Bureau by Sen. T. Kuchel (R-Calif.,) who argued that it is an insult to the gentle virtues of womanhood to use girls' names to designate vicious storms.

"Women historically have symbolized tenderness, devotion, sympathy and peacefulness," Kuchel said in a good-humored letter to Weather Bureau Chief Francis W. Reichelderfer.

The Descriptive Adjectives

"On occasions women may be stirred to fury, but their rages seldom last as long as 'Hazel's' in 1954, or wreak such venegeance," Kuchel continued. "They can be moody and unpredictable, though rarely as determined as 'Connie' last week. While now and then excitable, few of them show the wrathfulness of 'Barbara' in 1953 or 'Edna' last summer."

The senator thought it would be better if hurricanes were designated by alphabetical lists of descriptive adjectives. He nominated "Acrimonious," "Bilious," and "Corrosive," as well as "Aggressive," "Belligerent," and "Capricious."

But if the women of America are suffering injured spirits and resentment about the use of girls' names for hurricanes, they are misleading the Weather Bureau.

Favor Present System

Its mail, which has always been heavy on this subject, runs about 10 to 1 in favor of continuing the use of girls' names. Women — and particularly women whose names have been used as hurricane designations—are among the most enthusiastic supporters of the system.

This is one reason why the bureau has no present intentiion of abandoning the use of girls' names.

Another reason is that bureau officials brooded over this whole question at length last spring, and considered about a dozen alternatives, including adjectives, adverbs, Indian tribes, flowers, birds, animals, mythological characters, the phonetic alphabet and men's names.

They concluded that girls' names were better suited than any of the alternatives to meet the need for short, easily pronounced and easily remembered designations in broadcasting hurricane warnings.

"The system we've got is working fine," a Weather Bureau official said. "We think it would be a big mistake to change it."

Weidler Husbands Are Identical Twins; So Are Their Wives

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—Life is one long nightmare of seeing double for the neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Herman Weidler and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Jacob Weidler.

The Weidler husbands are identical twins. The Weidler wives are identical twins.

They live with their five children in the same house, dress alike and share a single bank account in a unique example of community living.

They were married in a double wedding on a November day in 1946. They have shared the same house ever since and, with nine years of harmony as proof of their compatibility they said they intend to live together as one big happy family the rest of their lives.

5-Bedroom Home

Right now the Weidlers are making sure of sticking together. They are building a new home with their own hands.

With five children ages four to eight, two in Paul's family and three in Wilfreds, they need plenty of room. The six rooms—three bedrooms—and one bath they now occupy hardly are sufficient. So their new house will have five bedrooms and 2½ baths.

"The boys left it up to us," Mrs. Wilfred Weidler said about planning the house. The Weidler wives didn't have much trouble agreeing.

In fact, the Weidlers seem to agree to everything. They go visiting together, they go to movies together and they go to church together.

The 33-year-old brothers, who work at the same plant, dress alike and the sisters dress alike.

Mrs. Wilfred Weidler said people sometimes have trouble telling which brother is which, and likewise with the sisters.

Came From Same Area

"People usually make sure who's who before they say anythng," one of the sisters said. She said she and her sister don't have any trouble telling which husband belongs to whom.

Both sets of identical twins were raised in Adams County. The sisters, formerly Ernesta and Ernestime Hofstetter, came from Geneva and the brothers from the Monmouth area. The pairs of twins just happened to meet.
